The fact that the people of this country from one end to the other will join in a national celebration of the occasion will undoubtedly make the observance much more impressive than has been the case under the conditions prevailing up to the present, which saw armistice ceremonies held in some cities on the Sunday before November 11, in others on the Thanksgiving holiday, and in still others on the actual date itself.

THE C.P.R.'S JUBILEE.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will to-morrow celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the cutting of the first sod of the line.

When the present status of this great Canadian transportation system, known the world over for its magnitude and efficiency, is contrasted with some of the dire predictions that were made when the building of the Canadian Pacific was projected over half a century ago, it will be readily recognized why there should be rejoicing on the occasion of the jubilee anniversary.

The pessimists of that era long since have been revealed as false prophets.

The Canadian Pacific has become a world institution that in its development and progress has played a great part in the growth and prosperity of the Dominion it bridges.

They said fifty years ago that the project was doomed to failure.

How bizarre that prediction looks to-day in the retrospect of half a century of continued expansion and success!

The jubilee of this great railway is an outstanding event in Canadian history, and the people of the Dominion, many of whom will listen over the radio to-morrow morning to an inspiring message from the dynamic Canadian who heads the C.P.R., E. W. Beatty, will rejoice with him and his fellow-directors over the completion of fifty years' successful service.

HE WASN'T AN INVESTOR.

A rather thorough-going business man remarked the other day that he had been approached about making an investment in a business which centred in Western Canada. He had made inquiries about it, and his banker had been in touch with several of its branches in the West seeking information. From what he could learn there was a fair chance for success. There was the element of speculation present as there is in everything, but the deciding factor was the man's own prejudice against a western investment.

His view was this: "I lost money in the West some years ago, and I never felt I got a fair run for my investment."

So that was it. A little more conversation brought the information that he had invested in some real estate on the outskirts of either Edmonton or Calgary. The city did not hurry up and grow in the direction of his land, therefore he lost his money and his land, too, because he wasn't going to keep up tax payments.

Fact is, on that occasion he was not investing at all; he was speculating pure and simple. He was expecting some person else to start building houses around his lots and send up their value. He was not going to do a thing to increase their value—not a bit of it; he was merely going to make some money.

That speculator was not helping to build up a western city. He was actually going to stand in the way of progress by asking more for his lots than he paid for them. A good many people from the East tried building up the West in the same way a few years ago. Their object was actually to take something out of the West.

That man may have good enough reasons for refusing to be interested in a western project to-day, but he should not have advanced the reason that he had already lost money in the West by real estate speculation. That was not a reason at all; it was merely scratching at an old wound which his own selfishness had inflicted on him.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

ON THE CONVENTION MAP.

Peterborough was the meeting place yesterday of three conventions—the annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the biennial conference of the clergy of the archdeaconry of Peterborough, and the annual gathering of the Women's Missionary Society of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church.

These gatherings, along with the fact that the Minister of Agriculture addressed a meeting here last week and the Minister of Public Welfare is to visit the city on Monday, are sign-posts that indicate that Peterborough is occupying an increasingly important place in the public gaze.

Conventions, it may be pointed out, are a good thing for a live centre.

Anything that brings a number of people from many different points into touch with what Peterborough has to offer in the way of attractive homes, modern stores, clean streets and worth-while facilities for manufacturing is excellent business for this city.

We should be always glad to maintain our reputation for hospitality by extending a genuinely hearty welcome to convention visitors on every possible occasion.

Incidentally, it is well worth the effort to endeavor to bring more annual gatherings here.

There is a great deal to offer visitors in the shape of interesting things to see, as well as a variety of attractive side trips, that makes this in many respects an ideal convention city.

254 QUESTIONS!

(By Rusticus, in the Stratford Beacon-Herald)

On the Farm.—The other day a long envelope came in the mail. On reading the contents we learn that a census is to be taken this summer. Yes they are going to count every man, woman and child, and they are going to classify us according to occupation and race.

The enumerators are going to call at every house, not only in the cities but out in the country as well. It is some of the questions they are going to ask farmers we are going to write about now. There are 254 of them on the sheet we got in the mail the other day.

On top of the list is where they want to know our name, and all about us. Then they want to know how many men we employ, and how much land we try to farm. They are going to ask about the condition of our land, too, and according to this schedule, they want to know how much our farm is worth.

As a business to make any money it isn't worth very much right now, and if we had to sell it, it would not bring very much either. Farms to-day are valued more as homes than as money-making propositions.

Oh, yes, and they want to know how much mortgage there is on the ranch, and how much money we spent to keep the place from falling to pieces in the year 1930. They want to know how many of a long list of machinery we have on the place.

That about completes one-quarter of the sheet, and then they want to know how many acres we had in crop last season, and what the yield was, and the value. They ask how many tons of hay we grew, and I wonder how many farmers can make even a reasonable guess. Sure we don't measure hay by the ton. We count the loads and we note how full the mow gets, but we are more interested in guessing whether there will be enough to do till next haying than in how many loads there are.

* * * *

On the other side of the sheet they want to know how many cabbages we grew, and also all about the quantity and price of a load of other truck. They want to know, too, the number of fence posts we used, but we notice they forgot to ask how many stones we hit while "planting" the same.

Then they want to know all about our livestock, how many we raised, and how many we bought or sold, and the value of them. They ask how many eggs we produced, and we are to include those we used on the farm. Oh, my gosh, and the women folk forgot to keep tab on the number of eggs we ate for breakfast last year.

Away at the bottom of the list they ask about our co-operative purchases and sales. The farm census certainly is going to be a complete one if the Bureau of Statistics knows anything about it.

The trouble is not one farmer in a thousand can make even a reasonable guess at most of the figures called for. Farmers do not keep accurate books. We would have to hire a trained bookkeeper to be able to correctly answer all these questions.

The purpose of sending out these advance schedules is to give the farmers a chance to sit down some evening and decide what figures he is going to put down. We suppose they will have to look at least a bit probable, even though they can be only very rough estimates.

Some farmers are inclined to think that these figures might be used for taxation purposes. There is one thing we won't need to worry about, and that is that the income tax collectors are going to get after us as a result of the figures we can honestly supply.

Moreover, we are obliged to pay a license, or possess a permit for nearly everything we do now, so there will not be much chance to collect any further taxes that way. Farmers need not fear any taxation as a result of Canada's seventh census, even though new systems of collecting funds will probably still be devised.

We had better get busy, and for our own information fill out the advance schedule sent us, else along about the first of June the census-taker will come along and we may lose a half a day guessing at the answers to the list of questions he will ask us.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Have you had your tomato juice yet?

Bank robbers are not faring particularly well in Montreal. The gunmen better remain out of Canada if they want to remain out of jail.

Chicago's new mayor objects to a crook play by Edgar Wallace. He had better start his censorship on some of the crime pictures the American companies are fond of producing.

Peterborough was on the map yesterday as a convention city. There is always pleasure in welcoming such gatherings.

The House of Commons manages to find time to play a lot of politics, regardless of the fact that most people are getting tired of "the old army game."

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"How?" asked Tanar.

Gura did not answer and he saw the tears come to her eyes. Then she arose hurriedly and entered the cave.

Tanar thought that Scurv would never be done with his sleep. He wanted to talk to him and arrange for a guide to the village of Jude, but it was Sloo who first emerged from the cave.

She eyed him sullenly. "You still here?" she demanded.

"I am waiting for Scurv to send a guide to direct me to the village of Jude," replied the Sarian. "I shall not remain here an instant longer than is necessary."

"That will be too long," growled Sloo, and turning on her heel she reentered the cave.

Presently Balal emerged.

"When will Scurv send me on my way?" demanded Tanar.

"I do not know," replied the youth. "He has just awakened. When he comes out you should speak to him about it. He has just sent me to fetch the skin of the codon you killed."

Presently Gura came from the cave. She appeared frightened and excited. She came close to Tanar and, kneeling, placed her lips close to his ear.

"You must escape at once," she said, in a low whisper. "Scurv is going to kill you. That is why he sent Balal away."

"But why does he want to kill me?"

"He thinks Sloo is in love with you," explained Gura, "for when he awakened she was not in the cave. She was out here upon the ledge with you."

Tanar laughed. "Sloo made it very plain to me that she wanted me to be gone."

"I believe you," said Gura, "but Scurv is anxious to believe anything bad that he can of Sloo, so your only hope is in flight."

"Thank you, Gura," said Tanar. "I shall go at once."

"No, that will not do," said the girl. "Scurv is coming out here immediately, possibly before you could get out of sight, and in a moment he could muster a hundred warriors to pursue you, and furthermore you have no proper weapons with which to start out in search of Jude."

"Perhaps you have a better plan," then?"

"I have," said the girl. "Listen! Do you see where the stream enters the jungle?" and she pointed across the clearing at the foot of the cliff toward the edge of a dark dorest.

"Yes," said Tanar, "I see."

"I shall descend now and hide there in a large tree beside the stream. When Scurv comes out, tell him that you saw a deer there and ask him to loan you weapons, so that you may go and kill it. Meat is always welcome and he will postpone his attack upon you until you have returned with the carcass of your kill, but you will not return. When you enter the forest I will be there to direct you to the village of Jude."

"Why are you doing this, Gura!" demanded Tanar.

"Never mind about that," said the girl. "There is no time to lose," and without further words she commenced the descent of the cliff face.

Tanar watched her. Almost before he could realize it, she was at the bottom of the cliff and moving swiftly toward the forest, the foliage of which had scarcely closed about her when Scurv emerged from the save. Directly behind him was Sloo and Dhung, and Tanar saw that each carried a club.

"I am glad you came out now," said Tanar, losing no time. "I just saw a deer at the edge of the forest. If you will let me take weapons, perhaps I can repay your hospitality by bringing you the carcass."

Scurv hesitated, his stupid mind requiring time to readjust itself and change from one line of thought to another, but Sloo was quick to see the advantage of utilizing the unwelcome guest.

"Get weapons," she said to Dhung, "and let the stranger fetch the deer."

Scurv scratched his head, still in a quandary, and before he had made up his mind one way or the other, Dhung reappeared with a lance and a stone knife, which, instead of handing to Tanar, he threw at him, but the Sarian caught the weapons and, without awaiting further permission, clambered down the ladder to the next ledge and from thence downward to the ground. Presently the Sarian was crossin the open towards the jungle.

Just inside the concealing verdure of the forest, he was accosted by Gura, who was perched upon the limb of a tree above him.

"Your warning came just in time, Gura," said the man. "And now, point the way to Jude's village and I shall be gone. Never, Gura, can I repay you for your kindness. I shall never see you again, Gura, but I shall carry the recollection of your image and your kindness always in my heart."

"I am going with you," said Gura.

"You cannot do that," said Tanar.

"How else may I guide you to the village of Jude then?" she demanded.

"You do not have to guide me; only tell me the direction in which it lies," replied Tanar.

"I am going with you," said the girl, determinedly. "There is only hate and misery in the cave of my father. I would rather be with you."

"But that cannot be, Gura," said Tanar.

"If I went back now to the cave of Scurv he would suspect me of having aided your escape and they would all beat me. Come, we cannot waste time here for if you do not return quickly, Scurv will become suspicious and set out upon your trail." She had dropped to the ground beside him and now she started off into the forest.

"Have it as you wish, then, Gura," said Tanar, "but I am afraid you are going to regret your act."

"At least I shall have a little happiness in life," said the girl, "and if I have that I shall be willing to die."

"Wait," said Tanar. "In which direction does the village of Jude lie?" The girl pointed. "Very well," said Tanar, "instead of going on the ground and leaving our spoor plainly marked for Scurv to follow, we shall take to the trees, for after having watched you descend the cliff I must know that you must be able to travel as rapidly among the branches as you do upon the ground."

"I have never done it," said the girl, "but wherever you go, I shall follow."

Although Tanar had been loath to permit the girl to accompany him, nevertheless he found that her companionship made what would have been otherwise a lonely adventure, far from unpleasant.

The companions of Bohar the Bloody had not waited long for him after he had set out in pursuit of Stellara and had not returned. They hastened the work upon their boat to early completion, and, storing provisions and water, sailed out of the cove on the shores of which they had constructed their craft and bore away for Korsar with no regret for Bohar, whom they all hated.

The very storm that had come near to driving Tanar past the island of Hime, bore the Korsars down upon the opposite end, carried away their rude sail and finally dashed their craf , a total wreck, upon the rocks at the upper end of Hime.

The loss of their boat, their provisions and one of their number, who was smashed against a rock and drowned, left the remaining Korsars in even a more savage mood than was customary among them, and the fact that the part of the island upon which they were wrecked afforded no timber suitable for the construction of a boat made it necessary for them to cross over land to the opposite shore.

They were faced now with the necessity of entering a land filled with enemies in search of food and material for a new craft, and, to cap the climax of their misfortune, they found themselves with wet powder and forced to defend themselves, if necessity arose, with daggers and cutlasses alone.

The majority of them being old sailors, they were well aware of where they were and even knew a great deal concerning the geography of Hime and the manners and customs of its people, for most of them had accompanied raiding parties into the interior on many occasions when the Korsar ships had fallen upon the island to steal furs and hides, in the perfect curing and tanning of which the Himean women were adept with the result that Himean furs and skins brought high prices in Korsar.

A council of the older sailors decided then to set off across country toward a harbor on the far side of the island, where the timber of an adjoining forest would afford them the material for building another craft, with the added possibility of the arrival of a Korsar raider.

As these disgruntled men plodded wearily across the island of Hime, Jude led the reluctant Stellara toward his village, and Gura guided Tanar in the same direction.

Jude had been compelled to make wide detours to avoid unfriendly villagers; nor had Stellara's unwilling feet greatly accelerated his pace, for she constantly hung back,and,though he no longer had to carry her, he had found it necessary to make a leather thong fast about her neck and lead her along in this fashion to prevent the numerous, sudden breaks for liberty that she had made before he had devised this scheme.

Often she pulled back, refusing to go further, saying that she was tired and insisting upon lying down to res , for in her heart she knew that wherever Jude or another took her, Tanar would seek her out. Already in her mind's eyes she could see him upon the trail behind them and she hoped to delay Jude's march sufficiently so that the Sarian would overtake them before they reached thi village.

Gura was happy. Never before in all her life had she been so happy, and she saw in the end of their journey, a possible end to this happiness and so she did not lead Tanar in a direct line to Carn, the village of Jude, but led him hither and thither upon various executes so that she might have him to herself for as long a time as possible.

It was not love that Gura felt for Tanar, but something that might have easily been translated into love had the Sarian's own passion been aroused toward the girl, but his love for Stellara precluded such a possibility and while he found pleasure in the company of Gura he was yet madly impatient to continue directly upon the trail of Jude that he might rescue Stellara and have her for himself again.

The village of Carn is not a cliff village, as is Garb, the village of Scurv. It consists of houses built of stone and clay and, entirely surrounded by a high wall, it stands upon the top of a lofty mesa protected upon all sides by steep cliffs.

Up the steep cliffs toward Carn climbed Jude, dragging Stellara behind him. It was a long and arduous climb and when they reached the summit Jude was glad to stop and rest. He also had some planning to do, since in the village upon the mesa Jude had left a mate, and now he was thinking of some plan whereby he might rid himself of her, but the only plan that Jude could devise was to sneak into the city and murder her. But what was he to do with Stellara in the meantime? And then a happy thought occurred to him.

He knew a cave that lay just below the summit and the cliff and not far distant and toward this he took Stellara, and when they had arrived at it he bound her ankles and her wrists.

"I shall not leave you here long," he said. "Presently I shall return and take you into the village of Carn as my mate. Do not be afraid. There are few wild beasts upon the mesa, and I shall return long before any one can find you."

"Do not hurry," said Stellara. "I shall welcome the wild beast that reaches me before you return."

"You will think differently after you have been the made of Jude for a while," said the man, and then he left her and hurried toward the walled village of Carn.

Struggling to a sitting posture, Stellara could look out across the country that lay at the foot of the cliff and presently, below her, as she saw a man and a woman emerge from the forest. For a moment her heart stood still, for the instant that her eyes alighted upon him, she recognized the man as Tanar. A cry of welcom was upon her lips when a new thought stilled her tongue.

Who was the girl with Tanar? Stellara saw how close she walked to him and she saw her look up into his face and through she was too far away to see the girl's eyes or her expression, there was something in the attitude of the slim body that denoted worship, and Stellara turned her face and buried it against the cold wall of the cave and burst into tears.

Gura pointed upward toward the high mesa. "There," she said, "just beyond the summit of that cliff lies tCarn, the village where Jude lives."

Tanar, who was examining the ground at his feet, seemed not to hear the girl's words. "Someone has passed just ahead of us," he said; "a man and a woman. I can see the imprints of their feet. A man and a woman—and one of them was Stellara and the other Jude."

"Who is Stellara?" asked the girl.

"My mate," replied Tanar.

The habitual expression of sadness that had marked Gura's face since childhood, but which had been supplanted by a radiant happiness since she had left the village of Garb with Tanar, returned as with tear-filled eyes she choked back a sob, which went unnoticed by the Sarian as he early searched the ground ahead of them. And in the cave above them, warm tears bathed the unhappy cheeks of Stellara, but the urge of love soon drew her eyes back to Tanar just at the moment that he turned and called Gura's attention to the well-marked spoor he was following.

What To-day Means To You

"TAURIS"

If April 30th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 3:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., and from 8:30 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. The danger hours are from 9 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. and from 6 p.m. to 7:45 p.m.

April 30th, according to its astrological aspects, denotes a day full of worthwhile effort, in which much will be accomplished that will produce future results. It will also provide some startling changes, both in domestic and business life. A good day for marriage.

Children born on this April 30th will only be successful if allowed to give latitude to their natural originality. In no way will they be imitative, and any effort to force them along certain lines must only end in disaster. They wil be popular, and demonstratively affectionate.

Born on April 30th, you are temperamental, and subject to moods. These please you, but they annoy your friends, and, unless the changing degrees of heat and cold in your "make up" become less frequent, you will be avoided rather than courted. You are not sufficiently considerate of the feelings of others to ever become a "wow." Your temperamentality is in itself based on selfishness.

You need more self-control, more introspection. Envy often makes you sore with your lot. Just try twisting your viewpoint around. Cease thinking of those better circumstanced, and reflect on those not so well circumstanced. This will prove to be a first-rate tonic. You possess determination and force of character, and, but for unjustified fits of the blues, you could achieve much that would be worth while. You, too, are very sensitive, and should cultivate a more pachydermatous hide. It is not what people say or think that should count. The only safe criterion is the satisfaction of your own conscience—and you possess a very acute one. Your ideals are high, and you must not allow these to be destroyed by outside influences. Be patient! If mated with one born in June or October, your marital outlook is a rosy one.

OUTNUMBER SMITH'ES.

LONDON, April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—For every village smithy—or own smithy for that matte —that is to be found in England at the present day, there are probably a hundred gasoline filling stations. All the more interesting, therefore, is the annual horse-shoeing competition which has just taken place in that very much urbanised area of London called Camber well. It is not surprising that the entries were the lowest for several years. Nevertheless the judging was undertaken by a member of the "Worshipful Company of Farriers." This company ranks 55th amongst the Livery Companies of London. It has a membership of 107, and its corporate income is the very modest one of $1,600.

MEMBERS ALL HELPED

The Editor, Peterborough Examiner,

Dear Sir,—In connection with the work done by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, and especially in regard to water levels and the protection of spawning fish during the unusual conditions that existed a few days ago, I would like the general public to know that a large number of our members have been active in this work and are entitled to their share of thanks. Your own editorials about illegal fishing etc., have been a great help in educating the public, and the Association greatly appreciates your co-operation.

Just because I happen to be president there is a decided tendency to direct most of the praise to myself, personally, instead of to the Association and its members who have been helping at the cost of so much time and effort to themselves. It may be true that I arrested, and caused to be convicted, the largest fish bootlegger in this district, but it was individual members of the Association who supplied me with the information upon which to work and who helped in many ways. Three or four other poachers will get the same treatment unless they learned a lesson from yesterday's court proceedings.

Individually we can do but little, but combined as an Association we get the benefit of numbers, and any person in this district who believes in Fish and Game Conservation, and the taking of wild life only in the most approved sporting manner, during the Open Season only, can aid us in our work by enrolling as a member upon paying $1 annually, and agreeing to conform to the By-Laws.

Another of our many activities is the planting of trout in local streams and you will be interested to know that the Government is sending us 120,000 trout fry on May 7th.

Faithfully yours,
Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association,
J. W. Gravestock,
President.

TOWER ILLUMINATED.

LONDON, April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—Big Ben went pink one night recently. Then St. Stephen's Tower also went pink—to the astonishment of passing crowds. It was the first of a series of flood-lighting experiments by experts, as part of the programme for the International Congress, to be held in London next September. Twelve flood-light were placed in the garden of the Speaker's house, and when they were opera ed the tower was illuminated. The effec was magical. The bright light of Big Ben's dial faded out as the clock glowed with a rosy pink color. Then the experts tried several other colors. These experiments lasted for nearly an hour.

NILS A. OLSEN APPOINTED UNITED STATES DELEGATE TO LONDON CONFERENCE

Certain Obvious Factors in Domestic Situation Indicate Attitude of Washington.

POLICY QUESTIONED.

Possibility of International Clearing House is Thought Quite Improbable.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 30.—(By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—The appointment of Nils A. Olsen of the department of agriculture, and a representative of the Federal Farm Board to represent the United States at the International wheat conference at Canada house in London May 18, has raised a number of questions concerning Washington's policy toward wheat.

To what end are these gentlemen going to take part in a conference of the wheat exporting nations? Invited at the last moment to confer with Argentina, Russia, the Danubian countries, Australia, and Canada, the government of the United States grasped the opportunity with both hands, but officials were unprepared to discuss what matters might be upon the Agenda. There are, however, certain obvious factors in the domestic situation which indicate the attitude of Washington. The outlines of this attitude are confirmed in private conversation with officials.

In the first place Washington perceived in the conference in opportunity for assessment of the world wheat situation. This government which has been insisting with notably poor success that farmer' in this country reduce their wheat acreage, feels presentation through the conference of a more exact picture of the world position would bring the necessity of reduction sharply home to the farmers of the United States. Otherwise it can see no harm and possibly considerable profit in a free exchange of ideas and opinions between representatives of the exporting nations. As far as direct and definite action is concerned, officials do not look for it.

Clearing-House.

The possibility of establishment ofan international clearing house for wheat is thought to be remote and quite as improbable as an allotment of quotas. It is pointed out that with the exception of Russia and Australia none of the nations concerned are in the position to control exports, and in consequence. Great difficulties would confront a proposal to divide the world market.

However, anything of the sort should be mooted, the United States with a carry-over of 275,000,000 bushels and a crop of 850,000,000 bushels coming on this year would be almost as much interested as any other nation.

Politically Washington found it essential to send a delegation to London. Whether the stabilization plan of the Federal farm board in artificially supporting prices in the United States may be said to be a failure or a success, the board has announced it will not attempt by the same means to keep up the prices next year and the Republican party needs votes of the wheat growing district in the presidential election of 1932 in the worst way. As Senator McNary, Chairman of the Agricultural committee of the Senate, suggested any action looking toward the improvement of the wheat situation ought not to be disregarded.

Washington Optimistic.

Washington is cautiously optimistic about the London conference. In the matter of acreage reduction, it is pointed out, nations run up against the same circumstances encountered by individuals. For example, if the United States largely decreased its acreage the benefit in wheat price would be felt by other nations. Experts here believe the only way to materially cut down production is through a reversal of the process which results in increased production—increasing prices.

While it is rumored in official circles the increase in Russian production this year will not be early as great as had been expected because of adverse climatic conditions in the Soviet wheat fields, experts are decidedly not optimistic as to the prospects for a large decrease in stocks, and they th nk that if the London conference should result in the presentation to the growers of the United States of a clear cut picture of world conditions, it would greatly assist them in their campaign to make the wheat producers produce less.

INDUSTRY WARNED AGAINST WAGE CUTS

U. S. Commerce Secretary Voices Views of the Administration.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., April 30.—An administration warning against wage cutting as a means of restoring normal business conditions was given the United States Chamber of Commerce convention yesterday by Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce.

Thereafter the 3.000 delegates frankly discussed the 18-month busines slump, its causes, its effects and ways to guard against a repetition of it.

Lamont, in a speech that had been carefully examined by President Hoover, did not attempt to minimize the depression, describing it as the worst since the civil war, and perhaps the worst in all history.

But he told the business men that they must come out of it normally by setting their own house in order. He discounted the value of great building projects as much of a permanent aid. He touched not at all on unemployment insurance and other suggested remedies except to urge business men in the future to set up a reserve for repetition of such recessions.

$5,000,000 Dividends Payable During Month

By A. D. O'Halloran
Special to the Examiner, Copyright, 1931

Toronto, April 30.—Canadian corporations will pay dividends estimated at over $5,000,000 to their stockholders in the month of May according to an estimate compiled from official declarations. The month of May is one of the lightest of the calendar year for dividend distributions and the total on this occasion has been reduced by omissions of payment, reductions, etc., in the past year made necessary by the business depression and consequently lowering of earnings.

The estimated total of $,095.274 for May, 1931, compares with an estimate of $6,109,931 for May 1930 and $4,375,577 for May, 1929. In the preceding corresponding quarter the total was $4,825,571. In the current month two or three companies are missing through having deferred payment and two others have cut the disbursement in two. The increased total for May over February last is due to the fact that the May total includes a few companies making semi-annual distributions that did not appear in the February list while the reduction from a year ago can be taken as a reflection of the revisions downward over a year, rather than three months.

PIVOT STOCKS MUCH FIRMER

Toronto Exchange Shows Reversal of Form From Its Initial Trend.

SOME LIGHT SELLING.

TORONTO, Ont., April 30.—(CP)—Reversing its initial trend, the Toronto Stock Exchange market firmed before midday to-day and majority of pivotal stocks showed small accretions to value as compared with last night.

Selling had not been heavy at the outset and had been confined to a very narrow range of issues, most of them interlisted stocks, but it had sufficed to carry a few stocks to new lows and others to within a point or less of their all time lows. Toronto, of course, followed New York but with much more conservatism to its movements.

Noranda was again a standout. The stock started to climb with the opening, entirely disregarding the tenor of the general market. At 26½ it was up 1⅝ points from last night's close and only some 3 points under the peak price for 1931. While Noranda was soaring, International Nickel slipped off to a low of 14 1-8, which was only ¼ of a point above its record low. Later the stock rallied to 14½. Brazilian was down nearly a point and C.P.R. hit a new low at 33.

NORANDA LEADS MINING TRADE

Golds Are in Better Demand From Opening and Oils Remain Steady.

BASE METALS SOFT.

TORONTO, Ont., April 30.—(CP)—Under the leadership of sustained strength in Noranda, tone of the mining market displayed some improvement in the forenoon to-day. Golds were in better demand from the opening and oils were steady.

Under brisk accumulation in the first few minutes Noranda moved over $26 and retained its advance to mid-day, standing up a point and a quarter at $26.50 when taken. Current strength is attributed to rpeorts of important gold intersections in drilling below the 1,475 level.

Softness in base metals which broke badly in London and were easier in New York was reflected in a drop of 35 to $14.40 in Nickel and a loss of 10 to $4.50 in Hudson Bay. Newbec sold off a fraction to 4½. Lindsleys were quiet.

Kirkland Lake gold, on reports of new ore discoveries at the 2,500 and 3,700 levels, recovered 4 to 72. Lake Shore was up a quarter, McIntyre 45, Hollinger 3, Sylvanites and Wright-Hargreaves 2. Dome failed to respond, price dropping another 20 to $10.40. Eldorado was slightly lower at 53.

Early Chicago Drop Is Checked By P.M.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 30.—(CP)—Grains averaged lower early to-day owing largely to absence of a definite announcement relative to proposed reduction of Germany's wheat import duty. Urgent need of rain in Canada, however, tended to check declines. Opening at 3-8-½ cent decline to 1-8-¼ advance wheat later held near to the initial limits. Corn started 1-8-3-8 off and subsequently rallied.

BANK NOT CLOSED.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 30 (C.P.).—In a cable report from Sydney, N.S.W., April 28 last, it was stated a bomb had been delivered "to the division manager of the Bank of New South Wales, which closed last week. The reference to the bank closing was incorrect. The Bank of New South Wales is a private banking institution, and has no connection with the Government Savings Bank of New South Wales, which was the institution closed.

GRAF TO FLY OCEAN AGAIN.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 30 (C.P.). — The Graf Zeppelin will make a second trans-Atlantic crossing to Brazil late in August, Captain Hans Von Schiller said today. Whether it will be a non-stop journey or with a stop-over in Spain depends on the passenger list, he said.

ROCKEFELLER INTERESTS ARE SUPPORTING STANDARD OILS

AUBURN UP 15.

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 30.—(CP)—The stock market ended its gloomiest month so far this year with a mild recrudescence of cheer to-day.

The tonic effects of strong support for the Standard Oil shares were apparent. Wall Street brokerage circles were convinced that strong supporting orders for these issues had emanated from close to the Rockefeller interests. Bears were sent into a steady retreat all along the line, and advances of 2 to more than 5 points were numerous, while Auburn surged up more than 15, getting once more above 200.

U.S. Steel regained about a third of yesterday's 9-point drop, and miscellaneous issues rising 2 to more than 4 points included General Motors, Radio, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, Sears, Woolworth, North American, American and Foreign Power, Eastman, Westinghouse Electric, Union Carbide, Dupont, Atchison, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Case.

Allied Chemical shot up 6. Standard of N.J., advanced 2 points, a substantial move for this issue, and Standard of California gained as much. There was a little further selling soon after the opening, but it quickly dried up. Curtis Publishing dropped several points on reduction of its dividend.

Increasing strength of Standard of N.J. which pushed up nearly a point yesterday despite acute weakness elsewhere in the list recalled the bid for 10,000 shares which checked the decline in this stock in the 1929 crash. While the petroleum industry remains unsettled, with operations unprofitable for many producers, latest Wall Street gossip has it that both Standards of New Jersey and New York will probably declare their regular dividends, although New Jersey may discontinue the regular extra.

Commercial Alcohols Earnings Are Impoved

Little of late has been heard about Commercial Alcohols, Ltd., the shares of which are listed on the Montreal Curb Market. The security is one of the dormant ones and current quotations are 5-6 against a high of 27 in 1929 and 55½ in 1928.

The fiscal year of the company ended March 31st, last, and the annual statement is not expected to be ready before another month. Up to this year, the financial statement of the company has not been made public. In conversation with an official of Commercial Alcohols, Financial Service was informed that due to the price war that existed in the commercial alcohol field up to the middle of last year, and its consequent effect on the earnings of the various companies concerned, the showing of Commercial Alcohols for the 12 months ended March 31st, last, will only be a fair one.

However, shareholders will be interested to learn that an appreciable improvement in earnings has taken place since January 1st, and the last quarter of the company's year was the best in some time.

In June, 1930, the Canadian alcohol producers reached an agreement as to prices and distribution of business, and the price war existent up to that time was terminated. Due, however, to the fact that the majority of the companies had contracted for a number of months ahead at the cut-throat prices, the benefit of the agreement was not felt until the early part of this year.

There is every reason to expect that the current financial year of Commercial Alcohols, Limited, will be an excellent one from the standpoint of earnings, as the producers are now working together harmoniously, and the prices received are sufficient to allow for a good profit.

In explaining to Financial Service one of the reasons why the Company's showing for the past year was only fair, the official pointed out that the past winter was a comparatively mild one and the demand for anti-freeze fell off, although Commercial Alcohols were able to obtain their share of the business offering. This was particularly the case in Ontario, which is the Company's big field.

Manufacturing magnesia carbonate, a material made from waste products, Commercial Alcohols, Limited, benefits from this added source of revenue. A subsidiary bottling plant also is operated on a profitable basis, and its capacity of 500 cases per day is utilized to keep pace with the increasing shipments of commercial alcohol.

BRAZILIAN TRACTION

The affairs of Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company are being carefully scrutinized these days by people who own a substantial stock interest. A considerable amount of surprise was in evidence when Financial Service pointed out that earnings for the month of March exceeded those of the same period of 1930 is calculated of the basis of the milreis—the national exchange of the country—as agianst a decrease of $431,906 on the basis of the Canadian dollar. All of which has a bearing on dividends.

During the last six months the number of shares outstanding has been increased by 389,180 in the various stock dividend declarations. In order to avoid a further dilution of the common stock as well as to avoid increasing the floating supply, the suggestion is made that a new Class A stock could be created for this purpose. Such shares could be callable at $40 and convertible into common on a share for share basis. If six of these shares were to be given to the holder of 100 shares of Brazilian each year the money would cost the company 6% if redeemed in four years.

Such a plan appears to have merit, especially as it would mean a substantial saving to the company in actual dollars as they would be paying $1.20 a share instead of $1.60 as at pre ent. The other drawbacks as mentioned above, such as the dilution of stock and the increasing in the floating supply would be eliminated.

UNITED STATES BANS RUSSIAN ASBESTOS

OLD DOCUMENT BROUGHT TO LIGHT IN CAMPBELLFORD LAW OFFICE

WRITTEN ON PARCHMENT.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 30 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent) — For many years hidden away among the files in the office of Alex McColl, Campbellford barrister, an old document has come to light which is linked up with the early history of the country, when Ontario was the Province of Upper Canada.

This is a deed of property in the Township of Nelson, is dated October 24, 1808 and bears the signatures of Francis Gore, Lieut-Governor of the Province of Upper Canada. The document itself measures fifteen inches and is parchment, in a well preserved condition. Appended to the bottom of it is the seal of the Province, bearing the old arms of Upper Canada on the face and on the reverse the Royal Coat of Arms. This seal is suspended by cord interlaced through cuts in the parchment and is four and a half inches in diameter and three eights of an inch thick.

The writing is all Old English with the old time f's for the s, and makes very difficult reading. It bears greetings from King George III of England, and deeds to Elizabeth Bennett in the Township of Barton in the County of Lincoln in the district of Niagara, wife of Josiah Bennett and daughter of Charles Depree, a U.E. Loyalist, to the heirs, a parcel of land in the Township of Nelson in the County of York, in the Home District, comprised of two hundred acres, being Lot 1, in the First Concession on the North side of Dundas street in the said Township of Nelson.

This grant continues to describe the state of the land with accurate measurements. It was entered with the auditor on October 24, 1808 under the signature of Wm. Hatton, A.G. and was registered acted upon on uly 6, 1804 being marked by the Inspector General, Wm. Ponsiby. The witness to the seal is William Firth, Attorney General.

Mrs. Soloman Eckhopf, R.R. No. 1, Neustadt, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with eczema for four years, and it was so bad I could not put my hands in water. I found Burdock Blood Bitters the only medicine that would give me any relief, and after taking four bottles the eczema had all left me. I can now do my own washing, and wish to give thanks to B.B.B. for what it has done for me."

FARM WORKMAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Note Claims He Had Love Pact With Girl Slain in Hamden Saturday.

DENIES MURDER.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 30—William Wetmore, a farm hand, related by marriage to Miss Emily Kirk, who was slain in Hamden on Saturday night, a suspect in the case, yesterday killed himself by shooting after he had taken acid. He killed himself in the woods near his home.

He left a note in which he declared he did not kill the young woman. Later, Mrs. Edgar Wetmore, his mother, told the police that her son told her last night that he had had a love pact with Emily with the understanding that if one died the other would committ suicide. Two other notes were turned over to the Hamden police which Wetmore had written but they refused to make these public, until Coroner J. J. Corrigan gave permission.

Coroner Corrigan and State and Hamden officers who went to the Wetmore home in a remote section of the town, would give no opinion as to Wetmore's relation to the crime.

Porter Runs Amok Wounds Four On Train

UTICA, N.Y., April 29 (C.P.).—A porter attacked passengers and trainmen on a New York Central train near here to-day, injuring four persons with a club and axe before being subdued.

The fight began in a sleeping car in the early morning hours, continued through two Pullman coaches, and ended in the private car of C. B. Broadhead, superintendent of the Adirondack Division of the New York Central.

At Thendaga, sixty miles west of here, State troopers boarded the train with tear gas guns. When Smith saw the troopers, he submitted to arrest without further fight.

RUSS SOUND-FILM PLANS FAIL

Failure of the Soviet sound-film plans and experiments, for which much propaganda was made some time ago, has been admitted by the Soviet press, according to word from Germany. All Soviet film organizations are to be submitted to revision and the Supreme Council of National Economy also is to take up the question. Enormous sums are said to have been spent in the attempt to create a Russian sound-film industry.

The fields are white and ready for harvest," said Rev. Principal McElheran, D.D., of Wycliffe College Toronto, in a sermon before the united congregations of the Anglican churches of the city in All Saints' Church last evening.

Dr. McElheran chose as his text 2 Kings 17: 25th and following verses. He explained that the Assyrians had taken the northern provinces of Palestine, and the hostile forces (the "lions") had plundered the land. They introduced new customs, and with these and the growing discontent religion degenerated. The people, therefore, sent a deputation to the government. The King sent a priest, but he was not well received, as idolatry and superstition appalled the Jews more than ever. This, however, was an experiment in colonization.

The Canadian West has shown marvellous development in the last half century or so. At present a carload of wheat leaves Winnipeg every 30 seconds, and last October enough wheat was grown to give every man, woman and child in the world 8 or 9 loaves of bread a week. All this has been accomplished in the one-time vast stretch of waste land.

There is at present a great crisis in the West. With the unstaple condition of the wheat market and subsequent hard times, the Anglican Church is having its share of suffering. The western churches are not able to pay many of their ministers, and many live on next to nothing.

Dr. McElheran then outlined the history of the church in the West. John West was the first man in Orders to preach in this part of Canada, in 1820. Three years later a church was built and people of all denominations attended, and service forms were modified so as to make concessions to the other denominations. In 1844 a Bishop left Montreal in a canoe with 14 men. He came to the head of the lakes, and transferred to smaller boats to go up the Winnipeg River. He stayed at the church for 17 days only, owing to the lateness of the season, but during that time he confirmed 846 people—the first Confirmation service ever to be held in the West. In 1865 Archbishop McCrea came to take charge of the huge western diocese, west of Cochrane in which were only 18 clergymen. Now there are 11 dioceses and over 400 clergy, and this change has come about in 66 years.

"The western crisis comes as a challenge to the Church," declared the speaker. "Are we content to let things go on thus? The Peace River district is now an empire, and there are less missionaries there now than before. If the Church of England turns back from putting its hand to the plow, then she will not be worthy to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

Such a crisis was also described as being a call to prayer, for the fields were white and ready for the harvest of souls. Mention was made of the wonderful zeal of Kagowa in Japan whose motto is "A Million Souls for Christ", whereas there are but 200,000 Christians now. But Kagowa arises from bed at midnight and spends an hour in prayer. Three hundred factory girls who have to be at work at 5 a.m. get up an hour earlier to pray for the accomplishment of Kagowa's noble ambition.

"In this age when people are falling away from the Church", said Dr. McElheran in conclusion, "the answer to the challenge of the West would mean an awakening of zeal, and hence the saving of the whole Church in Canada. Just as Savanrola taught his children to sing "Jesus Christ is King" in their flower procession through Florence, so we can be saved if we try to make Christ King in the West."

CHINA STUDYING MONEY REFORM

SOONG STATEMENT.

NANKING, China, April 30.—(By the Canadian Press)—"The crisis in silver has thrown into clear relief the necessity of currency reform, which is engaging the earnest attention of the government," says Tse-Vung Soong, minister of finance in the National Government of China, in the course of his financial statement for the year 1930, just issued.

"The price of silver," continues the report, "in terms of gold has fallen by more than half in the last two years, seriously affecting all those who are involved in foreign trade, as well as creating difficulties for the Government in consequence of decreasing imports and the growing cost of gold commitments. For the bulk of the population, who have little to do with foreign trade, the consequences of the decline in the attained serious proportions, as the purgold value of silver have fortunately not chasing value of silver for commodities produced within the country has not depreciated much. However, should crops prove bad, and wholesale importations of foodstuffs from gold-standard countries become necessary, the situation migh easily turn critical. At the same time one consequence of this low price of silver is that export will be greatly stimulated once the corner in the economic depression has been turned.

"In spite of the general depression and the low level to which silver has fallen, its production has not been substantially curtailed, as silver is being principally produced as a by-product of other metals. Furthermore, foreign governments have sold in late years a portion of their demonetized silver, and still possess large stocks on hand. The present limited foreign demand for Chinese produce also reduces the absorbing power of China; and although normally an importer of silver, China during part of the year 1930, actually had a net export balance of silver."

The deficit in the annual budget of the National Government presents a serious problem. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, the deficit amounted to $80,000,000, not including $20,000,000 borrowed for the capital of the Central Bank. In the last fiscal year the deficit amounted to $101,000,000. During the six months ending December 31, 1930, as a result of the civil war, the deficit was even greater, and according to preliminary figures fresh indebtedness amounted to $96,000,000. In the first half of 1931 the deficit should be at a lower rate, even though the abolition of likin (provincial transit tax) before the new sources of revenue become fully effective weighs heavily on the treasury. Given the absence of unforeseen events, it is possible that by united exertions budgetary equilibrium may be attained at some time during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932.

Good Orange Season South Africa Hopes

Sweet and Juicy Oranges Supplanting California Fruit in England.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, April 30—(By the Canadian Press)—Writing in the Commercial and Industrial Gazette on the growing trade in Great Britain of the Commercial and Industrial Gazette South African oranges, J. H. Dimond, Trade Commissioner in London for the Union of South Africa, says:

"The 1930 citrus season has worked out every fortunately for South African growers, although some appear not to think so. The waves of Californian competition which surged from 169,820 cases in 1928 to 1,303,367 cases in 1929, receded to 49,900 cases during the present season. This removed the most potent and effective competitor at an extremely opportune time. During a period when commodity prices were falling cataclysmically and in the midst of the most pro ound depression, South African oranges made prices which returned a good payable yield to the grower.

Apart from the absence of competition, the market benefited from the 1928 season, when the consumption of summer oranges widened materially—tnis s a factor which should not be overlooked. The abundance of summer oranges in 1928 at low prices had a propaganda value for this fruit not to be despised.

"An effective and intelligent distribution this season also lent its aid and South African oranges were enabled to dig themselves in pretty thoroughly, both in the United Kingdom and on the Continent. As far as the former is concerned, I have never before seen anything like the wide distribution of this season. They could be found in practically every village in the country. This also applies in a lesser degree to Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State.

Great Interest In Immigrants Shown

MONTREAL, April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—No country takes as great interest, governmentally and otherwise, in its immigrants as does Canada, was a statement made recently at the annual meeting of the Canadian Women's Hostel, by Dr. C. A. Dawson head of the School for Social Workers, McGill University. Behind the scenes was a great network of social agencies aiding in the interesting work of successfully transplanting people of other countries who come here to make their homes. By the time the newcomers now in Canada were assimilated, there would probably be another surge of immigration, Dr. Dawson predicted.

No girls have been deported from Canada because of their inability to find work, such action is taken only when they become public charges and there appears no likelihood of their becoming self-supporting. Miss M. V. Burnham, head of the Women's Branch of the Federal Department of Immigration and Colonization, told the meeting. Many of those deported were anxious to go home, she added.

No financial assistance is being given to girls coming out to Canada this year. Stopping this work was much to be regretted, but there was not the demand for domestic help in Canada that there was a few years ago, Miss Burnham explained.

ST. JOAN REVIVAL PLEASES CRITICS

Sybil Thorndike's Protrayal of Joan of Arc Still a Compelling Performance.

LONDON, April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—"As fresh, as compelling, as on the night the play was first produced," says The Times' theatre critic with regard to Miss Sybil Thorndike's portrayal of the role of Joan of Arc in George Bernard Shaw's play "Saint Joan," recently revived at His Majesty's Theatre here. "Miss Thorndike's performance, whether or not as many-sided as the part requires, is at any rate one which we can see for the fourth time within a few years and yet wish to see it again," he continues.

"It is certainly as many-sided as the actress's own very strong personality permits. This personality emphasizes what is most human, amusing, and touching in the Maid; brings out the tragedy of a peasant girl betrayed by the forces that have made her their instrument; but sometimes seems to get in the way of that conflict between religious inspiration and the authority of tradition which in this play is of greater importance than any of the personalities engaged in it.

"That the part allows a wide latitude of interpretation is evident from the performance of Mme. Ludmilla Pitoeff in the French version of St. Jean. Mme. Pitoeff lays the lightest possible stress on the homely traits of the Maid. She keeps her whole performance low, as the painters say, sacrificing the exciting effects which Miss Thorndike achieves by the way, so that its total impression may be in harmony with M. Pitoeff's very individual rendering of the piece as the story of a saint. But Miss Thorndike's way still seems more satisfying, certainly more Shavian, than Mme. Pitoeff's. Her vigor, her assurance, and the alertness of her intelligence impose themselves. Only once, in the trial scene, when she is replying to her judges, does she seem obviously at variance with Mr. Shaw, for here he has written dialogue that implies a spiritual quality which Miss Thorndike does little to bring out.

"Almost without exception, the newcomers to the cast fit into the old framework admirably. George Curzon's Earl of Warwick is more self-conscious and less self-reliant than Lyall Swete's earlier version, but the character remains one of the most striking in the piece. The fanatical Bishop of Beauvais receives justice at the hands of Lewin Mannering, and Robert Donat is an excellent Dunois."

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY PLAYS BALL.

"Well, there he is, fast asleep," whispered the Bob Cat to the Fox as those two animals, who had been looking for Uncle Wiggily, saw the old rabbit gentleman lying in the woods beside a stone.

"Yes, fast asleep," agreed the Fox. "But what is that on the ground near him."

"It's a bag," the Bob Cat mewed, taking another look.

"Of course, I can see that for myself!" snapped the Fox. "But what is in the bag?"

"How should I know?" snarled the chap with the silly, little tail no larger than your thumb. "How can I tell what's in a bag without looking?"

"Oh, I don't know," the Fox snickered. "But you claim to be so smart that I thought you might guess."

"Well, maybe it's an adventure Uncle Wiggily has in his bag," spoke the Bob Cat. "But what should it matter to us? We came here to get him and now we can catch him because he is fast asleep and we can get right on top of him before he wakes up."

"Sure we can!" agreed the Fox. "Come on! Let's go!"

The Fox and the Bob Cat walked on their tip toes toward Uncle Wiggily who was fast asleep with a bag beside him. The old rangit gentleman had gone to get some oranges so Nurse Jane could make a cake, but on the way home with his bag of fruit he had fallen asleep. Then Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, playing around, had seen the sleeping rabbit and, thinking the organes might be for them they took all but one, which they left in the bag. But in place of oranges, those tricky little doggie boys put round, yellow stones without awakening the bunny gentleman.

"This is the best chance yet we have ever had to catch Uncle Wiggily," whispered the Fox as he and the Bob Cat drew closer.

"Yes, indeed," agreed the other. "And look," he went on as the wind blew open the paper bag beside the sleeping rabbit, "he has a lot of oranges there! How lucky we are to catch a rabbit and some nice juicy, yellow organges at the same time!"

"Very lucky!" spoke the Fox. "But I want my share of the fruit."

"You shall have it!" promised the Bob Cat. "Now you stand on one side of Uncle Wiggily and I'll stand on the other and when I say 'ready!' we'll both grab him toge her and we'll have him and his oranges."

"O. K," whispered the Fox.

So they stood beside sleeping Uncle Wiggily they leaned over him, but just as they were going to ti kle his pinknone and then catch him by the ears, the little old toad lady, who some time before had warned the rabbit about the hungry animals, came skipping along.

"Look out, Uncle Wiggily! Look out!" croaked the little old toad lady. Mr. Longears jumped up and hid behind the rock near which he was sleeping, before the Fox or Bob Cat could catch him. Uncle Wiggily also took the bag of yellow, hard stones, which he thought were oranges, with him.

"Where are you going?" howled the Bob Cat as he saw the bunny behind the rock.

"I am going where you can't catch me!" said Mr. Longears.

"Come right back here and let us get hold of you!" ordered the Fox.

"No, indeed!" shouted Mr. Longears.

"Then we'll come and get you and pull you out from behind that stone!" threatened the Bob Cat.

"Ha! I'd like to see you! I dare you to come!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "If you try to touch me I'll play ball with you! I'll throw oranges at you and bangyou on your noses and on your toses! Ha! Ha!"

"Pooh! As if we were afraid of soft oranges!" cried the Fox.

"Not at all!" mewed the Bob Cat. "Come on!"

"Play ball!" cried Uncle Wiggily and taking from the bag what he thought was a soft orange, but which really was a hard yellow stone, Uncle Wiggily threw it at the Bob Cat. "Catch!" cried the rabbit. The Bob Cat caught the stone on his nose. "Here's one for you, Mr. Fox!" cried the rabbit. "Catch!" and the Fox caught the hard stone on his nose.

Then they had enough of playing ball with Uncle Wiggily and away they ran back to their dens. Mr. Longears was surprised to see how hard his oranges had hit the Fox and Bob Cat, but when he had looked in the bag and had seen the round, yellow stones, he knew what had happened for, over the hill, he saw Jackie and Peetie.

"Those doggie chaps played a good trick on me," laughed Mr. Longears. "But they left one real orange for you, Mrs. Toad." So h gave it to her and she liked it very much. Then Mr. Longears bought more real oranges for his cake and all was peace and happiness.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

INFLAMED EYES OFTEN DUE TO NFECTED TEETH

During the war one of the best aviators began to make poor landings. As he was an unusually able airman, he was ordered to report for a physical examination. The examination disclosed a tonsil that was in a very bad condition. The tonsil was removed but he was not permitted to fly for two months. At the end of this period he began flying again, and made perfect landings.

Why did the infected tonsil affect the eyesight?

Because the poison therefrom entered the blood stream and it had not far to travel to each the eye.

When a noted eye specialist, Dr. W. H. Wilmer, Baltimore, began to find a number of cases of inflamed eyes for which he was unable to discover a cause, hehad these cases examined by their dentist. He asked that X-rays of all the teeth be taken in every case. They showed that infected teeth were present in most of the cases.

Crowned, badly colored, and pulpless teeth should be under suspicion in patients who have a chronic inflammation of the eyes.

It is thought that many eye troubles aside from vision, are due to a general poisoning of the system from infected teeth. The teeth may be bad for months or years before any trouble appears, but just as in rheumatism, the poisons finally overcome the resisting power of certain tissues and trouble begins, so they attack and overcome the resistance of the soft eye tissues.

Often eye inflammation may be due to more than one poison in the system; from the tonsils, sinuses, gall bladder and large intestine.

Some one might ask if he organisms as found in infected teeth have been actually found in the eye. Dr. Wilmer states that this has yet to be shown, nevertheless from hundreds of observations one must believe that infected teeth are the cause of the eye trouble.

Further, hundreds of cases of what is called eye strain where the patients have gone from oculist to oculist because their eyes "bothered" them have been completely cured when bad teeth have been removed.

Now just as the removal of infected teeth often increases the pain in rheumatic joints for a few hours, days or even weeks, so also does inflammation in the eyes become worse after their removal. This in part is really a definite proof that it is the bad teeth that have been causing the trouble.

Don't suffer with sore inflammed eyes. While the diet may occasionally be the cause,—too much sugar, omatoes, raw fruits, or potatoes, and bread—remember Dr. Wilmer's suggestion get an X-ray of your teeth, and have the infected ones treated or removed.

Subsidies paid by Britain to the beet sugar industry last year totaled $30,000,000.

Marjorie Quinn presented her with a beautiful Irish linent tablecloth and the bride-to-be responded very ably, thanking the girls for their kind remembrance.

Tea was served after which two girls carried in a basket, daintily decorated with the Sodality colors, blue and white, and laden with mysteriously wrapped parcels. After the gifts were displayed, the girls joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

CAUCASIA QUAKE TAKES 392 LIVES

Whole Villages Are Wiped Out and Livestock Destroyed.

RELIEF ORGANIZED.

MOSCOW, April 30. (AP)—Three hundred and ninety two persons are known to have perished in the earthquakes which yesterday devastated three districts of the Soviet Republic of Nakichewvan in Transcaucasia.

Two hundred persons were killed and 205 injured in the Gerussy region. In the Sisiana region there were 192 known dead and 600 injured. Eighty per cent of the villages in the Tangezur district were destroyed, and great numbers of cattle perished throughout the quake area.

Tiflis and Erivan were badly shaken but there were no casaulties. The Querissain district of Armenia was believed to have suffered many casualties, the quake being most severe there.

The Government has appropriated 2,000,000 rubles (nominal value $1,000,000) for the relief of the area.

FOOTBALL IN EL SALVADOR

American football recently was inaugurated in El Salvador when a team from that country defeated one from Guatemala by a score of 13 to 6. The crowd was highly enthusiastic over the contest and cheered the favorites with a true American rooters' vigor. Each team was composed of natives with one exception, most of the members having received football training in the United States. Football may become a major sport in Central America.

ARCHDEACON DAVIDSON STRESSES

universes and their component parts law sustains all life. But where does God fit into the picture? The story of the earth, its evolution and gradual development, finds the end of the whole process in God.

Origins greatly concern the church, stated Dr. Blagrave. Evolution helps in many explanations, and at all times the Divine mind is immanent in sustaining the world and transcendent in the spiritual world. The perfect God is still suffering from an imperfect world. Law is therefore an instrument used for the accomplishment of the Divine things in life, remembering that through God all things exist.

Rev. Dr. Boyle

Delivering a paper on the same subject as the foregoing, Dr. Boyle maintained that the present generation had problems to face which the previous ago knew nothing about. The old Copernican system has gone, and there is a new theory of the Universe. Science gives the man of the present age more power. The source of natural law is in God who is still the great genetician of the world.

There are revolutions and changes of every sort going on in the world, and these are all run by the great Universal and Eternal Mind. There is no miracle nor marvel so great to humanity as human thought, which is related back to a greater mind or intelligence. The existence of the Supreme Mind, stated Dr. Boyle, is just as evident to-day as it was yesterday.

"Over and above the cruelty and suffering in the world we must see the work of goodness and bravery. We must notice the goodness and kindness of God in his revelation to us through natural law, for the God of the natural world is the God of the Christian world."

Perfecting of Saints

"Soulcraft" was the title of two expositions given by Rev. T. J. O'Connor Fenton of Norwood, and Rev. J. D. Paterson.

Mr. Fenton expressed some doubt as to soundness of the coined term "soulcraft," at the outset, in truly humorous manner. Originally, he said the word "craft" had had a noble content but that at present it had a much degenerated meaning. However, the speaker touched on the intended force of the term.

The pastor and teacher exist for the perfecting of saints and the building up of Christ's kingdom. The saints are Christ's own people, the light of the world, the salt of the earth. The light must be kept bright and not hid under a bushel, and the salt must retain its savor.

There should be a unity of all souls in the faith and knowledge of God, of Jesus Christ the only true foundation. This can be accomplished by the unwavering guidance of prayer. Then, too, the pastors must visit their flocks for personal contacts which are invaluable in soulcraft.

"The extraordinary and impressive individuality of every soul must be kept," warned the speaker. "We should not press the uniformity of souls, for the foundation of the wall in the Book of the Apocolypse is of various precious stones and the Gospel speaks of a manifold, or variagated, grace of God."

Need For Spiritual Guidance

Rev. J. D. Paterson described a craft as bespeaking knowledge and beauty. "Soulcraft is a study of a lifetime, and even then we are only on the fringe of it. The study of priests, or cures, is the care for the souls of men. The knowledge of the soul as being immortal dates back to ancient times. There is a danger in this materialistic twentieth century that we forget that man has a soul. When we gain a better knowledge of souls then can we bring them to a better understanding of God."

The clergy are also looking up, seeking spiritual food to make their ministry more efficient, said the speaker. He stated that during his 15 years in his parish, the Bishop had paid him only one visit of a spiritual nature. In other words, there was very little association between Bishop and clergy in the archdeaconry. "It is a good thing, however, for the clergy to meet together for the discussion of practical difficulties and spiritual problems, rather than for mere academic purposes."

"We should strive to make souls more beautiful," Mr. Paterson made reference to books of practical aid to devotion: "Imitation of Christ", by Thomas Kempis; the works of Ridley Havergal; the Spiritual Letters of Fenelon.

"Can we measure up to the opportunities which God gives us? We must endeavor to make ourselves more proficient in soulcraft and to heal the wounded and broken-hearted. There is a need for men who are capable of speaking with authority, words that never will be forgotten."

The subjects of the two papers were then open to discussion. Among those attending the Conference were the following: The Lord Bishop of Toronto, Archdeacon Davidson, Rev. P. G. Powell of Uxbridge, secretary; Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saint's Church; Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave and Rev. E. R. James of St. John's Church; Rev. G. J. Bousfield of St. Luke's; Rev. J. L. Hughes of St. George's; Rev. C. A. G. Spence, R.D. of Apsley; Rev. A. F. Weir, R.D., of Omemee; Rev. C. R. Spencer of Bowmanville; Rev. Dr. T. S. Boyle and Rev. A. J. Jackson of Cobourg; Rev. R. R. Roberts of Colborne; Rev. F. H. Mason of Newcastle, Rev. M. R. Kingsford of Perrytown, Rev. Dr. Rigby of Port Hope; Rev. R. J. Shires of Kenmount, Rev. R. M. Withers of Stanhope; Rev. R. C. Howard of Havelock; Rev. N. C. Wallace of Campbellford; Rev. A. G. Battersby of Hastings; Rev. P. B. De Lon, Rev. W. J. Creighton of Lakefield; Rev. J. T. O'Conor Fenton of Norwood; Rev. G. C. Moore of Stoney Lake; Rev. W. G. Dreyer of Bobcaygeon; Rev. Canon Marsh and Rev. A. G. Goldring of Lindsay; Rev. W. Simpson of Millbrook; Rev. W. G. Moore of Coboconk; Rev. G. E. Fierheller of Bethany; Rev. R. B. Patterson of Oshawa and Rev. T. A. Nind of Port Perry.

A United Service was held in All Saints' Church at 8 p.m., and the next session of the Conference was held at 9:45 this morning, proceeded by a celebration of Holy Communion at 9 a.m.

Doings In Commons.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 30 (C.P.).—To-day in Parliament:

In the Commons — Government orders and estimates will be taken up.

Yesterday the Commons devoted practically the entire sitting to a discussion of a motion by A. A. Heaps (Labor, Winnipeg North) calling upon the Government to take into consideration the immediate establishment of a Federal system of unemployment, sickness and invalidity. Debate will be continued on Monday next.

ing, not relief or happiness, to those concerned.

Premier Bennett's statements drew from J. S. Woodsworth (Lab., Winnipeg north-centre) the assertion it would be "four years before any relief was in sight." He described unemployment conditions in Winnipeg as "appalling." Employment prospects for the future were anything but bright, he said, and he wondered what hope of relief could be held out to the unemployed.

Resume Debate Monday

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King was precluded from finishing his speech by the 6 o'clock adjournment hour. He will resume the debate next Monday. A Government was faced with two possible alternatives in dealing with unemployment—relief or insurance. He favored the latter. If any old age pension scheme could be devised why could not an unemployment insurance scheme, asked the former Premier?

In moving the resolution, Mr. Heaps said he did not offer insurance as a cure for unemployment. It was nothing more than a palliative. Hon. Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor, favored the motion.

A conference between the leaders of the three parliamentary groups, together with Mr. Speaker George Black, will decide whether the House of Commons rules will be amended regarding voting. At the present time, the rules stipulate a member must vote if he be in the chamber when the motion is read by the Speaker.

Resulting from the near-naming of 11 members a week ago for refusing to cast their votes, Premier Bennett, Mr. King and Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. leader, will confer on the question.

PLEURISY GRIPS LEGS DIAMOND

Doctors Claim Gangster May Recover if Pneumonia Warded Off.

WOUNDS HEALING.

ALBANY, N.Y., April 30.—A severe attack of pleurisy was a new complication in Jack "Legs" Diamond's battle against gun wounds to-day. Dr. T. M. Holmes, the gangster's physician, said Diamond had a "good case" of pleurisy and that he had spent a very uncomfortable day as a result. Pleurisy set in yesterday.

Dr. Holmes said the pleurisy increased the danger of pneumonia, a complication the doctor has feared from the first. The danger comes from a buckshot slug in the lung, weakened by a gangster's bullet last year.

Reports that Diamond was suffering from tuberculosis were disproved by X-rays taken within the past several days, the physician said.

The four minor wounds the gang chief suffered when two men attempted his life with shotguns early Monday near his Catskill Mountain home, were reported healing nicely.

Mrs. Alice Shiffer Diamond was in Albany to-day to be near her husband. She has not called at the hospital but received information concerning his condition by telephone. Mrs. Diamond, who is staying with friends here, is said to have been estranged from the wounded gangster since last January.

NEARLY 200 WOMEN OF DISTRICT DISCUSS MISSIONARY PROBLEMS

Mrs. W. L. Smyth, of Pembroke, Delivers Presidential Address.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

(Contributed)

There are 175 delegates in attendance at the Bay of Quinte Conference branch meeting being held this week in St. Andrew's church.

Mrs. R. Barbour of Addison conducted the opening service of worship after which the delegates separated into department groups and conferences. The address by the president, Mrs. W. L. Smyth of Pembroke was one of inspiration and spiritual uplift.

"The Woman's Missionary Society" said the speaker "is the hope of the church. Their sole aim and purpose is to make our Lord Jesus Christ known throughout the world. Vision, consecration and devotion are necessary. Without this spirit within us and within our society, our best efforts are in vain. In the work of our various departments, we reach every woman, girl and child, irrespective of social standing, wealth or poverty. We meet on a common level, with a common purpose. The organization is fitted to meet every world need. It's job is the Brotherhood of Man. World peace, social and economic problems—all these it meets. Its work is educational, evangelic and medical.

Through departments we work for the ennobling of all mankind, for the Christianizing of life everywhere. The department of Christian Stewardship and Finance trains for the consecration of our talents, our money, our time to God and keeps before us the high ideal of Christian Stewardship. If we have a spiritual surplus, there will be no deficit materially. We fail to reach our objective because of spiritual powerlessness. We need a deepening of spiritual life—another Pentecost, to inspire us to love Him, to give for Him, to sacrifice for Him.

In our publicity and literature departments we give the story of our work to the world. We are zealous, according to our knowledge of facts. Facts are the fingers of God. Facts are the fue which keeps alive the fire, kindled by the spirit and spread abroad. Through the Press we hold Him up to the world. Our problems arise from lack of love in the individual—the human problem. In the midst of social, military and race turmoil Jesus calmly went His way in His mind just one problem—humanity.

If men would follow in His teachings there would be no need of peace conference or League of Nations or disarmament conferences. Love would solve all problems. There is no greater force in the world than love. Is it not foolish that nationality should keep us apart, and infinitely more foolish that money or social position should hinder friendship and love, the two greatest forces for understanding and good-will. If we each stand in a centre radiating love, peace and joy, suspicion and hate must disappear. Let God enter into our hearts and take possession and make of us what He will. Let Him work through our responsive individual lives consecrated to Him. God is writing His New Testament.

In the afternoon the service of worship was conducted by Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe of Kingston.

Committees Appointed

Courtesy—Mrs. A. L. Nicolls, Oshawa; Miss Hetherington, Cobourg; Mrs. (Rev.) Farnsworth, Belleville. Memorials and resolutions—Mrs. Terrill, Almonte, Mrs. H. Robb, Peterborough, Mrs. Mutton, Cambray. Business — Mrs. Ashton, Campbellford, Mrs. Barbour, Addison.

A cordial greeting to the visitors was presented by Miss F. Dixon, Peterborough to which Mrs. J. Mears, Port Hope gratefully replied.

The report of the "Missionary Monthly" secretary, given by Mrs. George Hardy of Oakwood indicated an increase in subscriptions in four out of the seven Presbyterials of the Bay of Quinte Branch.

The problem of the secretaries is to assure the interest of the women in the magazine. "The Missionary Monthly" is invaluable in bringing to its readers up to date Missionary knowledge. Not all of us are able to hear such splendid speakers as Miss Effie Jamieson, but all may do the next best and read her interesting articles in "The Missionary Monthly." Through it we follow with interest the travels of Mrs. Gillwary, we get letters from our friends in foreign fields and news of our investments in far off places. It is a help in the preparation of programs and keeps us informed of new study books. From it we learn of the activities of the Presbyterials in our own and other branches and it is practically our only point of contact with the Dominion Board.

Such an inspiration it proves that it is believed that if the interest of all our women could be aroused in this publication there would be no further difficulties in raising allocations.

To bring The Missionary Monthly into wider circulation and to further interest in it, the secretary suggested giving subscriptions as gifts, carrying copies to shut-ins, drawing attention to pictures and articles, she urged that every opportunity be grasped to broadcast its benefits.

The children's paper World Friends it was remarked, supplies missionary literature beautifully and attractively to children. It was urged that the children be supplied with copies.

Financial Report.

The financial statement, presented by Mrs. H. J. Thompson, of Whitby, reported that during the year the sum of $93,075.39 was raised by the Conference branch. The statement is as follows:

|---|---|
| Balance February, 1930 | $ 125.00 |
| Branch collections | 54.70 |
| Bank interest | 5.05 |
| Refund expenses to branch | 1.75 |
| Belleville Presbyterial | 22330.00 |
| Cobourg Presbyterial | 11463.68 |
| Kingston Presbyterial | 11423.21 |
| Lindsay Presbyterial | 9325.00 |
| Oshawa Presbyterial | 12160.00 |
| Peterborough Presbyterial | 11050.00 |
| Renfrew Presbyterial | 15257.00 |
| Total | $93200.59 |

Roll call by the recording secretary, Mrs. A. C. Denike, Havelock, showed a large representation from the seven Presbyterials.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. H. B. Feir, of Haliburton.

A very impressive memorial service was conducted by Mrs. C. W. Bishop of Belleville. A basket containing seven red roses was placed on the table in memory of those from the seven Presbyterials who during the past year had entered into higher service.

At the close of the afternoon session Communion service was conducted by Rev. C. V. McLean, B.A., Ph.D., assited by Rev. D. A. I. Brown.

Before supper the visitors enjoyed a delightful drive through the kindness of Peterborough friends, when places of interest in the city were pointed out.

Evening Session.

The Mission Circle of Trinity Church had charge of the opening service of worship in the evening.

The speaker of the evening was Miss Effie Jamieson of Toronto, general secretary of the Dominion Board, who thrilled her large audience with her vivid description of life in West Africa and her wonderful word pictures of the contrast between conditions among the natives in the primitive state and of those who have been touched by the love of Jesus and the teachings of Christianity. It was a story of the most beautiful work in the world, the story of the work among homes, and among women and children.

"Ours is the privilege," she said "to take off the shackles from womanhood, to make straight paths for the little feet of children, to make happy homes and to bring to womanhood healing and strength—surely a worthy task. The life of an African woman without the Gospel is one of misery, salvery, and degradation, with nothing to say about her own life. We see her redeemed by Christianity ,her mind opened abole to read, her spirit free from the shackles which bound it so long. No matter how low she has been the love of Christ raises her up. With the older women the task is difficult, but there is a wonderful girlhood waiting to be led into the fullness of life. They go to school, they learn to read, they attend our mission schools, where they see beautiful clean rooms and healthy surroundings. She is no longer a slave and a chattel. She becomes a helpmeet to the man she chooses to marry, brought to the fullness of life by the great power of the Gospel. Kindergartens are being started for the children. There is a beautiful childhood for whom we are making the straight paths. Mothers are being taught how to take care of their children. And we are creating happy homes where men and women are equal, beautiful homes where the Gospel has been. Such a home becomes a great centre and an influence for good in the community.

"The work of health and healing is a marvellous one. Hospital work reaches out where evangelistic work cannot reach. And this is the opportunity for the Christian doctor or nurse to bring the Gospel to these people, to heal, to teach, to preach. Many get their first glimpse of Christianity through the medical work."

Miss Jamieson's picture of the great jubilee held while she was in Angola was a wonderful revelation. It was a striking example and proof of the power of Jesus and His love.

At an open air service there were 14,000 people. No church large enough to hold them. Here men, women and children worshipped; at first in groups, then all met together for a wonderful service of song and drama. Trained by Mr. Steed they were able to sing the cantata "Queen Esther" with marvellous expression and power, to join in community singing; 14,000 of them, and to render triumphantly the glorious "Hallelujah Chorus." The girls put on a pageant depicting "The New and the Old"—life after Christianity has come contrasted with life before.

"This is the wonderful power of the Gospel," concluded the speaker. "How can we deny it to the womanhood of the world?"

Dominion Board Officers

Two Dominion Board officers were present from Toronto and were warmly welcomed by the Conference Branch. Mrs. A. N. Banks, Secretary of Christian Stewardship and Finance for the Board, urged the women to "Pray and Plan." Great things had been accomplished by this. The objective of $1,000,000 could be raised if each did her best. Many women are sacrificing to keep up their share. Others do not realize their individual relations to the task. It is not "raising" but "giving," that we may further the plan.

Mrs. J. H. Turnbull, editor of The Missionary Monthly, in a few words emphasized the fact that this magazine was as much a part of the work as any other of the activities. It is the official messenger. If you want to know the work you must read it. We should get this over to the auxiliaries. It is part of our work. The quiet fellowship with great souls we get only through literature. Decrease in subscriptions clogs the channel along all the way. We must strive to link our magazine with the other work of the society.

A prayer was offered by Mrs. J. T. Daley of Port Hope.

A pageant, "The Gift Everlasting" wherein a young girl has to choose between a life of pleasure, wealth or fame and a life spent in service for others, was admirably portrayed by the girls of the Mission Circle of St. James' Church.

During the afternoon Miss Daisy Davidson sang very effectively "Come Unto Him," while the evening service was assisted very materially by the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, who, under the direction of Mr. Phillips, rendered a number of selections in splendid voice and with remarkable power and expression.

$50 Conscience Money Received By the C. P. R.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 29—A troubled conscience netted the C.P.R. an unexpected token of $50.50 here to-day when a well-known Vancouver business man contributed this amount in settlement of a 2½-year-old debt of honor. The amount covered a half-fare ticket for his young daughter from Vancouver to Montreal. He explained that when the ticket for his wife's voyage to India was bought in 1928, the age of their young daughter who was accompanying the mother, was given as under five years, entitling free travel, whereas the correct age was five and a half years. Solemnly a clerk in the steamship ticket office accepted the $50.50 and issued a ticket, smiling at the result of conscience.

GRAND MASTER VISITS MASONS

Five Hundred Members of Craft From District Here Last Night.

GRAND SECRETARY PRESENT

"Free Masonry is more than a secret society. It is an institution with length, breadth height and depth consisting of more than 4,000,000 men scattered over the face of the globe who are efficient servants of mankind". Such were the remarks in part of an inspiring address given by the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada for Ontario, R. B. Dargravel of Toronto on his official visit, to some 500 Masons from this district in the Collegiate auditorium last night. He said "that Masonry was powerful and influential and he was glad to know that it was progressive in this district, not only in numbers and form, but in faith and character. Kingdoms come and go but Masonry goes on forever, not excepting politics or creed, is unshaken in spite of modern trends, and cannot be modernized for plan or purpose except correct living. Any flag or nationality has the priviledge to belong There is no quarrel with any, but a feeling of and endeavour to cultivate a state of good will."

Recently a Memorial Benevolent fund has been realized and oversubscribed, and is hoped that it will yet reach the half million mark, whereby members and their connections will directly benefit when the need occurs. The Grand Master, completing his second term of office, has been in no small way responsible for this fund which is gratifying. Rt. Wor. Bro. W. R. Morris extended congratulations and the appreciation of the members of the Craft to the Grand Master for his visit to this city and took occasion to present him with a magnificent painting of "The Citadel of Quebec" by A. Mickle, of Toronto, as a momento from the district. The Grand Master thanked the brethren most heartily.

Accompanying Most Worshipful Dargravel was the Grand Secretary Rt. Worshipful W. M. Logan of Hamilton, who was called upon to speak. The Grand Secretary is not a stranger to Peterborough, having been here many times on previous occasions of this kind. In his own inimitable manner he gave a few humourous remarks of his experiences and striking a serious note, corroborated the splendid message of the Grand Master and added a word about other Grand Lodges throughout the world.

Rt. Wor. Bro. John Comstock who presides over the eleven lodges comprising Peterborough District as District Deputy Grand Master, acted as chairman, and in his opening remarks welcomed the Grand Master and Grand Secretary on their visit. They were previously banqueted in the lodge rooms by the presiding Masters and Past Masters' Association.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the fine musical program given by the Scottish Rite Octette under the direction of Wor. Bro. John Crane; the members of which are Messrs. Dr. S. J. Graham, M. H. Park, W. H. Morphet, T. H. Gillespie, D. G. Carlisle, R. F. Downey, C. S. Browne, and A. Barton Accompaniments were played by Harry Northrop After light refreshments were served many availed themselves of the opportunity to meet the Grand Master.

RUINS UNEARTHED AT FORT NIAGARA

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Apr. 29.—Workmen engaged in the restoration work of old Fort Niagara, 14 miles north of this city, yesterday unearthed masses of old masonry that led historians to believe that the old English and French chapel, burial place of General Prideaux, killed in the seige of the fort in 1759; and Colonel Johnston, one of his commanders, has been found. Location of the old chapel within the old fort area has been sought by historians for many years.

The complexity of the masonry leaves officials of the Old Niagara Association in doubt as to just what part of the chapel has been brought to light but they think it may be part of the chancel. It is near the old burial ground where numerous skeletons were found last year.

Old maps of the fort show that the chapel was located in the parade grounds and the paper of General William Johnston, frontier warrior stated that General Prideaux and Colonel Johnston were buried beneath the chapel.

BAPTISTS RAPPED BY REV. WALKEY

Claims Many Children Taken By Rival Religious Organizations.

TIME FOR ACTION.

LONDON, April 30 (C.P. Cable)—The decline in the Sunday School membership of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland was under consideration at the second day's sessions of the General Assembly being held here. Rev. F. Walkey, of Northampton, said during the last 30 years many Baptists deliberately decided to be childless, while many children were taken by a rival religious organization.

Mr. Walkey declared that if the Anglican Church could keep the young people after they had been confirmed protests would be unnecessary but when they saw, after confirmation, the young people careless in discipline, crowding the streets on Sunday and growing up indifferent, then with perfect courtesy but absolute firmness it should be said, "hands off the children for whose spiritual development we have labored all these years."

District Churches

TRENT RIVER, April 28 (Examiner Correspondence).—The attendance at the United Church Sunday afternoon was small owing to the inclement weather. Rev. W. Archer chose his text from Act 27: 13, "When the south wind blew safely."

Rev. Mr. Archer opened his address by saying the south wind means prosperity; some one says circumstances makes the man. It is true circumstances gives man power, brain and brawn to do great things, the real testing time is the time it takes to prepare. David had become proficient in practising with the sling before he went out to meet Goliath and prayed to God for help; he was able to stand up when testing time came. The greatness of the man Paul on voyage to Rome as a prisoner, he was not selfish, always broadcasting good cheer. Paul could say "Be of good cheer," standing on the storm-tossed ship among two hundred and seventy-six people, that God would save them from drowning. Mr. Archer closed his address by appealing to God to grant all a safe landing when our journey's end is over.

After the close of the service the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was partaken of.

To Exchange Pulpits

Several members of the local Masonic Lodge attended the Masonic gathering in Peterborough on Wednesday evening.

MILLBROOK W.M.S. APPOINTS DELEGATE

Saint Thomas' Church Society Meets at Home of Mrs. George Fowler.

MILLBROOK, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—Mrs. George Fowler was hostess for the April meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Saint Thomas' Anglican Church, the gathering which was exceptionally well attended, being held at her home, King street, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, who has spent the winter at Victoria, B.C., was warmly welcomed as she assumed duties of her office after an extended absence, as was also the secretary, Miss Rose Macnamara, who has been away from the community for the winter months.

Three visitors were cordially greeted, including Mrs. Simpson, wife of the new rector who has recently assumed the pastoral obligations of the parish, who read the scripture lesson; Mrs. Bonneville, another new comer to the community; and Miss E. Grandy, who assisted the hostess with the social duties incident to the occasion.

Following the opening devotional period, reports from the various secretaries were received, Miss A. Armstrong, Dorcas secretary, having an especially interesting announcement concerning the contents and shipment of the annual bale which went this year to Chapleau, in northern Ontario. The Auxiliaries of Trinity Church (the Marsh), and Christ Church, Bailieboro, united with that of Saint Thomas' Church, Millbrook, in furnishing the major portion of an outfit for an Indian boy, which made up the bale, the W.A. of St. John's Church, Ida, not joining with the others of the parish with the supplies this year, but sending its own bale separately to another point.

Delegate Appointed

The president read a letter reporting the Board meeting at Toronto, and after discussion Miss Macnamara was appointed delegate to attend the annual W.A. convention to be held May 8-15, at Toronto.

The Women's Guild, an organization within the Auxiliary membership, has not yet made up its financial allocation and considerable discussion along this line led to the decision to endeavor to secure voluntary subscriptions from the congregation, in place of baking sales, plays, etc., the method used in previous years.

The study book on "Japan," being completed, as a climax to its reading the president took up a letter from Miss Loretta Shaw, a missionary in the Island Empire, giving a general view of the country, quite up-to-date in its outlook, with many items of interest connected therewith. Following this, Miss Macnamara gave an interesting account of the Japanese evangelist, Kagawa, and Mrs. G. Howson read a leaflet describing the 'Kingdom of God Society,' which he has originated, and is magnificently leading.

The May meeting of the W.A., which will close the gatherings for the summer months, will be held at the home of the president, when the report of the annual convention will be received.

Mrs. Fowler, assisted by Miss Grandy, served refreshments during the social hour at the close, when a most enjoyable time was spent, and the hostess was warmly thanked for her hospitality before the guests finally dispersed.

LAKEFIELD A.Y.P.A. HONORS NEWLYWEDS

LAKEFIELD, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—The A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church were hosts to a large company on Monday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Charlton with a miscellaneous shower. From about eight o'clock groups of persons laden with parcels might have been seen entering the parish hall which was brightly lighted for the occasion and had a festive aspect. About eight-thirty Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hampton escorted the bride and groom to the hall and introduced them to the company.

Rev. W. J. Creighton, M.A., rector of the parish and honorary president of the A.Y.P.A. made an appropriate introductory referring to an amusing little sketch put on a year ago by six members of the A.Y.P.A., three girls and three boys, four of these young people have since been married including the three young men. The romance of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton was a real A.Y.P.A. romance.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton came forward and Messrs. Simpson and Hampton carried in a table filled with an assortment of gifts ranging from a cosy comforter to a rug for the floor and from a pair of candlesticks to a nest of mixing bowls. When all were unwrapped Mr. Charlton made a very appropriate speech, thanking his friends for their kind remembrance and assuring all of the hearty appreciation which he and his wift felt. Mrs. Charlton also said a few graceful words of thanks.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was spent, the conversation running largely on the prevalence of showers lately and speculating as to who would be the next.

By a rather curious coincidence Mr. Charlton who was the first bachelor president of the A.Y.P.A., in the twenty years since its inauguration, and his successor in office, Mr. Robertshaw was also married this month. It is a significanst fact that the present incumbent of the office is a bachelor.

TOMATOES ARE FRESH AND RIPE

Canned Tomatoes Finer Flavor and Greater Economy Widely Recognized.

FINEST IN WORLD

"If it's canned it's fresh" is a slogan expressing the commercial canners' claim that canned tomatoes, for instance, are actually more truly "fresh" than are the uncanned tomatoes offered for sale in the stores. In a recent article in the magazine "Physical Culture," which conducts an "Institute of Nutrition," the point is made that a second slogan is justified, namely, "If it's canned, it's ripe."

The increasing favor with which canned tomatoes are being regarded is due, no doubt, to a growing realization of their freshness, their ripeness and the finer natural flavor that goes with that, their recognized healthfulness and their very modest cost. As the "Physical Culture" article points out "the high quality canned supply of tomatoes is good the year round, because the canneries are located in the tomato growing regions. Tomatoes for the cannery, instead of being picked green, are allowed to ripen on the vine as when grown in one's own garden; they are picked, hauled to the cannery and canned the same day. Similarly picked ripe tomatoes could not be shipped raw to market without spoiling."

Canadian grown tomatoes, when allowed to come to full ripeness on the vine, are the finest-flavored tomatoes in the world. Selected sun-ripened Canadian tomatoes, when commercially canned, are definitely superior in flavor and all-round quality to imported raw tomatoes.

In addition, Canadian canned tomatoes are notably economical—because they are all food and drink, with absolutely no waste. The juice is easily separated by straining, leaving tomato solids that are actually better for making many "tomato dishes" because of the partial removal of the juice.

Special strainers are now obtainable which separate baby's pure tomato juice from canned tomatoes, leaving the solids in perfect condition for serving as a vegetable, for stewing or scalloping, or for combining with other inexpensive foods in a wide variety of delicious recipes.

Officers Are Elected Apsley Village Band

APSLEY, April 30.— (Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting to organize the village band was held in the Orange Hall on Tuesday night when the following officers were elected: President, Rev. C. A. G Spence; secretary-treasurer, John Coones; band master, E. L. Blackwell; executive committee, the above officers and G. Kilborn and Charles Smith.

It was decided that the organization be known as the Apsley Brass Band, and Monday and Thursday be practise nights. The committee will meet on Thursday evening to draft a set of rules and regulations. Prospects are bright for a worth while band, judging from the enthusiasm displayed at the meeting.

Tuesday's issue of the Ottawa Citizen contains an interesing account of the presentation at the Little Theatre there on Monday evening of "Baa, Baa, Black Sheep" by the Queen's University Players of Kingston. This comedy was written in collaboration by P. G. Wodehouse and Ian Hay, and is described as being a delightful and mirth-provoking production. The writer of the account was very enthusiastic over the merits of the play and the players. The presentation was under the patronage of Thenr Excellencies, the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough, who, though they were unable to be present in person, were represented by their son and daughter, Lord Duncannon and Lady Moyra Ponsony . The writer described as "excellent" the work of Miss Mary Medd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Medd, a member of the cast taking the part of Mrs. Pottle. The report goes on: "Full of the most ludicrous situations, this delightful comedy was produced for the first time on this side of the herring pond, in Kingston last month by the same talented group of amateur players who last evening gave such a fine performance. The Queen's University Alumni Association, through whose efforts the play was brought to the Little Theatre, is to be congratulated on its enterprise in giving Ottawa the opportunity to enjoy it."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The term "working against time" has its antonym, "working with time."

• • • • • • •

Each plan has its advantages for the busy person. "Working against time" means that a person is running a race with time. A definite limit of time is set in which a job must be completed, or in which a person is seeing if a certain amount of work can be accomplished.

• • • • • • •

Concentrated effort has to go into work of this sort, for time ticks away with unceasing regularity.

• • • • • • •

Pressure is felt in the atmosphere when one is working against time. No objects weighs upon the worker. The pressure is entirely mental, but none the less it exists.

• • • • • • •

"Working against time" often spells success, for unless the task before one can be finished within definite time limits, it may be of no avail.

• • • • • • •

A mother knows what it means to rush with sewing that must get done before a set date, a vacation trip, perhaps. She is working against time.

• • • • • • •

Occasionally when housework has been upset by some unexpected interruption a luncheon has to be prepared "against time," or the school children will not have a chance to eat it before leaving home for another session.

• • • • • • •

"Working with time" is not so hectic. It entails good planning of seasonable tasks rather than a race with time. It takes time with the grain, not against it.

• • • • • • •

The worker looks ahead and sees when special tasks should be accomplished to insure the best possible results, and then sets about doing the jobs. Except in emergency cases, "working with time" prevents the necessity of "working against time."

• • • • • • •

It is important for the worker to be able to accomplish when not under pressure if she is to work with time. There are persons who are so constituted that it is only under the spur of necessity that they do their best work.

• • • • • • •

Those who can plan their own time have the privilege of working with time. Office workers have, at certain time, to work against time. The free lance worker is wise to work with time rather than against it.

DRAPERIES MADE NEW

"When we resumed housekeeping a month ago I found my draperies had become creased from packing. I hung them out on the line, hoping to remove the creases. Then I forgot them. The result was they became badly faded and sun-spotted.

"I was heartsick until the happy thought struck me to dye them. I just dyed them a deeper green, and as I used Diamond Dyes they look gorgeous and new. I have never seen easier dyes to use than Diamond Dyes. They give the most beautiful colors—when used either for tinting or dyeing—and never take the life out of cloth as other dyes do."

ARBOR DAY PLANTS.

Distribution in Ten Rural Schools on Friday.

Hardy perennials are at present being prepared for distribution to 10 of the nearby rural schools for planting to-morrow, Arbor Day. This is due to the co-operative work of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, who have been undertaking the work for the past three years, and the local offices of the Department of Agriculture.

The horticulturists have been asking for contributions of perennials from citizens of the city for the beautification of local country schools. The response has been so generous that some 25 or 30 plants will be given to each of the ten schools. These plants include irises, forget-me-nots, phlox, golden glow, holyhocks, delphiniums, rosebushes, etc., and will form beautiful beds or borders.

STRIKE LOOMING IN HOUSE OF KEYS

Action is Outcome of Governor's Refusal to Introduce Suggested Bill.

ON ISLE OF MAN.

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, April 30 (C.P.)—The House of Keys, the elected chamber of the Manx Legislature, has threatened to go on strike. The House rejected a bill giving a public company a monopoly of the electricity supply and demanded that Sir Charles Hamilton, the Lieutenant-Governor, introduce a bill backing this action.

The Governor declined, pleading the financial condition of the island, whereupon the House of Keys threatened to refuse to pass any financial legislation. A committee was finally apointed to interview the Governor regarding the matter.

The Isle of Man is governed by a separate legislature called the Tynwald, consisting of two branches—the Governor and Council and the House of Keys. The Council consists of the Governor, the Bishop and Sodor and Man, the two deemsters, the attorney-general, two members appointed by the Governor and four members appointed by the House of Keys. The House of Keys consists of 24 elected members and is one of the most ancient Legislative Assemblies in the world.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT

"DRACULA"

There is something new under the sun, no matter what skeptics may say. Witness the peculiar talkie, "Dracula" playing at the Regent Theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week—one of the most dramatic and strange productions that have been seen here in many long moons.

It is outstanding for three reasons: For the outlandish and extraordinary nature of the theme, for the terribly realistic acting of that weird creature, Bela Lugosi, and for the little epilogue which bring one of the main actors out of the picture to address the audience, in a parting speech that is quite unusual and does not detract in any way from the gruesome nature of the production.

The old story of the vampire that lives on human blood, the queer 'undead' creature that sleeps by day in a coffin and walks about at night in semi-human guise, or takes to the form of a bat or wolf, forms the basis of the story. It is the old German legend of the wehr wolf brought into being on the stage, the tale of French Canada which tells its little children of the hideous loup garou, the wolf which howls down the wind on eerie nights, seeking for the blood of a human victim. And nothing has been spared to add to the strange atmosphere. There is a meeting at midnight on a lonely road of a youth who goes to far away Transylvania to discuss the rental of a ruined English abbey with Count Dracula, the Wallachian vampire of the tale. He is driven by a ghastly coachman who vanishes when the castle is reached and here are the cobwebs, the ghastly bats, the strange castle of the night, perched on a black crag that reminds of that black "castled crag of Drachenfels" that Byron wrote about.

One of the most lurid bits of a strange and enthralling picture is that strange little scene in the castle at midnight, when three beautiful women with harpy faces rise from their subterranean coffins to drink the blood of the hapless English youth, and are warned away by the master vampire, Dracula, reserving his victim for himself alone. Their set and grim faces form a terrible picture as they retreat noiselessly.

It is a picture that holds the amazed and incredulous attention of a thrilled and horrified audience. Dracula has many victims, but his watchers probably find them not too many. Horrible thrills are most exciting and this picture abounds in excitement of a weird type. Dracula himself is portrayed in a most fiendish manner by Bela Lugosi, whose manner, voice and demeanor bear out constantly the strange and terrible nature of the tale. David Manners is the young English lawyer, Renfield, whose part comes a close second in vital portrayal to that of the master fiend, and Helen Chandler is the lovely frail Mina who is transformed into a vampire by the Count.

Anyone who likes the strange and the unusual, who cares for a talkie that is terribly out of the ordinary, should see "Dracula."

Confidence In Quebec Is Urged By David

ST. THERESE, Que., April 30.—"We are going through a crisis but we are still trying to smile" Hon. Athanase David, Provincial secretary declared during an address before his constituents last night. He reminded the workmen and farmers not to forget that their difficulties were shared by all classes, wholesale merchants, retailers, professional workers and others. All had to be ready to make sacrifices.

"Surely those who love their province and country and have even a little knowledge of the country and its prospects should not become discouraged" Hon. Mr. David added. Confidence was bound to be re-born when it was reflected that in other years other difficulties had been met and overcome.

Year after year the Quebec Government had shown a surplus, and by means had attracted the confidence of outside investors.

It has splendid points so kind to the mature figure. Note how the applied front that extends to the waistline narrows its breadth. And how the dip in the hip seaming at the front gives the figure a lengthened line. The skirt plaits also help to carry out a vertical line.

Lindsay Candidates Are Initiated Into Degree

A large gathering was present in the Moose Hall last night for the monthly meeting of the Legion of the World Loyal Order of Moose, the second degree of the Order. A sizeable class of candidates from Lindsay was initiated into the Legion degree.

The work being put on by the Peterborough Legion's own officers, the ritual work was carried out to the credit of this unit, which is a part of the Quinte Division No. 187. A number of legionnaires from Port Hope attended the ceremony, and interest was shown on behalf of Moose Haven which is the splendid home for aged members and their wives.

A number of addresses were given by older members on the work of the Order; this for the benefit of the new members, and the meeting was then concluded with light refreshments put on by the entertainment committee.

OBSERVES 86TH BIRTHDAY

WINNIPEG, Man., April 30.—(By Canadian Press).—William Cornwallis King, of Winnipeg, who claims to be the oldest living immigrant in this city from the Old Country and the oldest living pensioner of the Hudson's Bay company, recently celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday. Hale and hearty, Mr. King attended a luncheon given in his honor on the day he reached the eighty-sixth milestone.

Born in Madras, India, in 1845, son of an Indian arm, colonel, he journeyed to London, England, twenty years later and joined the Hudson's Bay company as a clerk. In 1864, shortly after he came to Canada, he was appointed junior chief trader. Nine years later he was made chief trader, retiring in 1903, after service with the company that carried him to all corners of the Canadian west.

SEEK ABOLITION OF COMMISSION

Body Receiving Ministers Since 1925 Subject of Attack By Synod.

LIVELY DISCUSSION.

GODERICH, Ont., April 30. (CP)—Central Presbyterian Church, Brantford, will be host to the 1932 sessions of the London-Hamilton synod. The invitation of the Brantford church was accepted at the closing sessions of the synod yesterday in Knox Church here, when London churches withdrew their invitation in view of their attempt to take care of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada which is to be held the first week in June.

Abolition of the commission which has been receiving ministers into the church since the split in 1925 is to be asked of the General Assembly by this commission. A system of receiving ministers so that all Prerbyteries will have he opportunity of expressing approval or disapproval was advocated by the Chatham Presbytery through Rev. D. J. Lane, of Wallaceburg an overture was presented asking that the Central Commission be abolished.

Objection Raised

Dr. R. Johnston of St. Catharines objected to this action. He said that if a mistake were made it should be corrected by informing the commission. In this he was supported by Rev. C. L. Cowan of Hamilton. It was explained that the commission was formed for an emergency was over and the commission was not needed now. On the other hand it was claimed that some congregations had been slashed because of appointments by this commission. This charge was made by Rev. W. F. McConnel, B.A., of Paris. e claimed that the commission was absolutely unnecessary and declared that men who had been admitted by this body would have been placed on probation as long as 20 years.

Dr. S. Banks Nelson protested that the Commission was being misjudged, but despite his objections, the overture was passed placing the synod or record as asking the General Assembly to take immediate steps toward abolition of the commission.

A clash between Dr. S. Banks Nelson and Rev. C. L. Cowan both of Hamilton somewhat enlivened the report of the committee of standing committees. Rev. Mr. Cowan urging that the services of conveners be limited to two years partially revealed the personal opinions of certain ministers as expressed in committee and Dr. Nelson immediately rose to point of order with the result that the Moderator ruled Rev. Mr. Cowan's speech closed on the grounds that it was becoming too revealing.

"I had pimples and blackheads scattered all over my face. The pimples were large, hard and red, would hurt for a few days and then go away. My face usually was very itchy before a pimple formed. This went on for about one and a half years.

"I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised so sent for a free sample of each. I used them and then purchased a box of the Ointment and a cake of the Soap and in about two or three weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Kathyrna T. Dobka, Otthon, Sask., Sept. 11, 1930.

PAINTING BY EVES CREATES FURORE

Election to Royal Academy Vetoed Over Photograph Painted Over.

CLAIMS IT WAS "MISTAKE."

LONDON, April 30. (AP) The British art world was excited to-day by a controversy raging about the head of Reginald Eves the English artist of note who, when an obscure painter, was discovered by John Singer Sargent and made his protege.

Sir William Lellewelly, president of the Royal Academy, was said in an afternoon paper to have vetoed election of Eves to the academy after discovery that one of the artist's paintings sent to the academy was an enlarged photograph thinly painted over.

An official of the academy, confirming the discovery, said that the artist's name had been withdrawn from consideration and the picture returned. The Evening News later quoted the artist, whose name was not disclosed until later, as admitting he had painted over the photograph. He explained that it was one of three such pictures he had to complete hurriedly for an exhibition last year. He devised the method while suffering from a cramp in his hand, but declared sending it to the academy was a "mistake" and that he had no idea of working contrary to the academy's rules.

Some noted painters to-day expressed sympathy with Eves, accepting his explanation and stating that his action was at worst foolish. They pointed out that he was too great an artist to practise of need to practise deception.

Some critics of the academy facetiously commented that its standards were so photographic that it did not matter greatly whether the pictures there were painted from photographs or on photographs.

CHURCH APPEAL

are instrumental in producing and fostering a great deal of it."

Extemporary prayer just before the Benediction was suggested, as well as the giving of explanatory or introductory statements before the Lessons. Moffatt's translation of the Bible was recommended as an alternative. Hymns, psalms, lessons and sermon should be like the notes in one great chord of music, all combining to give one clear, stimulating impression.

In regard to sermons, the speaker stated that it is the prepared man who gives the best, freshest and most inspiring sermon. New insights give new vigor and vitality to both man and message. Reading was suggested as being one of the most effective ways of preparing the mind for sermon construction. If the preacher gives himself to ponder lovingly, longingly, expectantly over his Bible and spiritual books the flames of inspiration will grow within him.

"There is nothing wrong with the Christian message itself; there is nothing seriously wrong with either of the two channels through which we are expected to deliver that message; but very often there is something seriously wrong with ourselves when we ought to be delivering it and are not."

Social Service

"Social Service in Country Parishes" was the subject of an illuminating exposition delivered by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, R.D., of Apsley. As a Justice of the Peace, Rev. Spence has been brought face to face with the horrors of society due to poverty, crime and ignorance. Social problems are theoretically solved, the speaker said, by legislations such as the Old Age Pension Act, Children of Unmarried Parents Act, Mothers' Allowance, Lord's Day Act, etc., but in practice these are found to be inefficient and inadequate. Mr. Spence then proceeded to describe each of the above acts, to show what good they attempted, and to point out where they failed in many respects.

"Personally, I think the Council for Social Service could go far towards the solution of the problems to which I have referred by appointing a Social worker to co-operate with the clergyman of the parish, and who would be recognized by the people as the authorized official to deal with social matters, thus relieving the clergyman of an oppressive burden and allowing him to do more effective spiritual work. Any efforts made to ameliorate the deplorable conditions of social life will receive the commendation and blessing of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ, who himself left us an example in that he went about doing good, which acts we profess to imitate."

Fingerprinting a President

Besides leaving his footprints on the sands of time, President Ortiz Rubio, of Mexico, will also leave his fingerprints to posterity. Recently a Mexican Government edict went forth that all governmental employees must have their fingerprints on record at the Comptroller's office, and the first volunteer was none other than the Chief Executive himself. The above picture shows President Rubio cheerfully submitting to what we have come to regard as an indignity.

CABLEGRAM RACKET RE-APPEARS IN HUB

Ingenious Swindling Scheme Detected at Last Moment, But Gang Escapes.

BOSTON, Mass., April 30.—The fake cablegram racket responsible for swindling three prominent Boston men of some $3,000 while they were abroad last May reappeared here recently when two false messages were delivered to the secretaries of a well-known Boston lawyer now in Paris and a prominent manufacturer who was enroute home from Havana.

A long distance telephone call from the manufacturer at New York was answered by his secretary as she was about to go to the bank and draw $1150 as requested in the cablegram. During the conversation she learned her employer had sent no such message. The police were immediately notified but the gang involved made a get-away.

The racket is so ingenious that one of the telegraph companies here issued a warning to the public. An official explained the method of operation, as follows:

"The gang gets track of well-to-do business and professional men who are abroad, through the lists of the steamship companies. Then they call up the office of a likely victim and ask for his secretary's name so they can communicate on a business matter in the absence of her principal.

"The gang then fakes a cablegram to the secretary, signed with the name of the victim who is abroad, telling the secretary of a shipment which she is to accept and pay for upon delivery, and keep the transaction confidential until the boss returns to explain it.

"Usually the faked cable is followed by a telephone call from one of the gang, telling the victim's secretary to meet him at a certain place to complete the transaction in accordance with the faked cablegram. When the money is paid over, a bundle or case or whatever is mentioned in the message is delivered to the secretary to have taken to the victim's office. Needless to say, this bundle contains nothing of value."

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

LONDON, April 30 (By Thos. T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—It is 60 years since the Royal Albert Hall was erected to the glory of the art of music, and in memory of the Prince Consort, husband of Queen Victoria. The anniversary was celebrated by a concert, the contributors of which were The London Symphony, The New Symphony, and the British Broadcasting Orchestras, the conductors being Sir Henry Wood, Adrian Boult, and Dr. Malcolm Sargent. Someone suggested, in view of the uses to which the Albert Hall has been put in late years, that a more appropriate celebration would have been to have staged an entertainment comprising a costume ball, a prize fight, a political meeting, and a revival conducted by an American female preacher. All the same, the Albert Hall maintains a great musical tradition, with its Sunday concerts and its performances of "The Messiah" and "Elijah." The hall is ill-suited to music except on the massive scale. The cleverest solo singers despair of conquering the echo, which always haunts the immense space under the great glass roof.

HOW KENYA PROVIDES FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

NAIROBI, Kenya, April 30.— (By the Canadian Press)—Schemes for dealing with unemployment are being considered by the government and one decided upon is to place the unemployed on farms wherever farmers are willing to provide free board and lodging in return for the services of Europeans. The government has already embarked on this scheme, and it supplements the free board and lodging by giving each employee $15 a month. This means that in addition to being assured of food and accommodation a little pocket money is granted. To prevent exploitation a committee investigates the farmer's position in each case.

In some instances repatriation to country of origin is asked for by unemployed Europeans and granted and British people wishing to return to the Old Land are provided with free passages to England. A number of unemployed have taken advantage of this opportunity.

As a result of the critical state of the farming industry many people previously employed as farm managers, overseers, or helpers, are out of work, and many of them have come to Nairobi, where they embarass the authorities. Despite the fact that some months ago the amount required as deposit from immigrantswas raised from $185 to $250, there are still people some of them from South Africa who come to Kenya without prospects. Not a few of them are seeking help from the Government.

FRANK BARNES BAFFLES KEYS TO WIN 11-5

While His Team-mates Collect Fifteen Base Hits Off Opposing Moundsmen.

QUELLICH ALSO GOOD.

Hary Davis, Toronto First Baseman, Features With Four Hits, One a Homer.

READING, Pa., April 30.—Toronto's dashing athletes pounded out 15 base hits here yesterday and took advantage of loose fielding to register an 11 to 5 victory over the Reading Keystones. It was Reading's tenth defeat of the season. Reading has won only one game.

The Leafs, after twice coming from the rear to tie the score in the early innings, hopped on George Bell, Reading right-hander, for three runs in the fifth inning, to sew up the decision. They then made certain of victory by solving the shoots of Gleen Liebhardt, a rookie sent here by Connie Mack, for five runs in the ninth.

While Toronto was pounding two Reading hurlers for 15 hits, Frank Barnes, giant southpaw, was sailing along easily. Though touched for 12 hits, Barnes was not in trouble after a shaky start. He easily was the master of the situation after the third inning, and eased up only in the ninth after his mates had given him a huge advantage.

Davis's Batting Featured

Harry Davis, Toronto first baseman, led the Leafs' attack with four hits, one a homer over the right field wall. Davis hit for the circuit in the fourth with none on base. Barnes aided his own cause by coming through with three hits. George Quellich was Reading's big hitter with a home run, triple and a double.

Ayr Defeats Kilmarnock And Escapes Relegation

GLASGOW, April 30.—Ayr United escaped relegation from the First Division of the Scottish Football League to the Second when they beat Kilmarnock yesterday. Hibernians, who were tied with Ayr after last Saturday's matches in the pen-ultimate position in the First Division championship table, will be the companion of East Fife on their trip to the Minors. Ayr won yesterday's match by the one goal scored.

In Second Division matches played yesterday, Albion Rovers beat Arbroath by 3 to 1, and Brechin City and Forfar tied, 1 all.

Wally Roettger Has Good Day At Plate

TORONTO, April 30.—Wally Roettger, Cincinnati outfielder, slapped three singles in four tries against Chicago pitching to climb into third place in the major league batting marathon. His mark of .447, however, was well below that of the leaders, Virgil Davis of the Phillies, .552, and Dale Alexander of the Tigers, 490.

Alexander maintained his furious clip, hitting two out of four against the White Sox; Davis was idle.

The leaders:

| | G. | AB. | R. | H. | % |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Davis, Phila. | 10 | 20 | 2 | 16 | .552 |
| Alexander, Tigers | 13 | 49 | 5 | 16 | .490 |
| Roettger Reds | 9 | 38 | 3 | 17 | .447 |
| Berry, Red Sox | 8 | 28 | 7 | 12 | .429 |
| Spencer, Sean. | 14 | 53 | 9 | 22 | .415 |

Ruth Should Be In Fit Condition Next Week; Enforced Rest Will Do Him World Of Good

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 30.—(C.P.)—Always the optimist, Babe Ruth is quite sure he will be back in uniform and taking his usual cut at the ball by next Sunday. Those who say the final word about it, his doctor and Artie McGovern, who trains the Babe, are not so sure about it yet, but it doesn't seem likely that they can keep him idle much longer.

"I ought to be back there Sunday, Babe said yesterday as he impatiently nursed his left thigh which was injured in a collision with Charley Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher, last week. 'I can stand on one leg a... hit 'em' he added.

'It's been coming along fine in the last 48 hours. If it keeps on improving the doc say, he'll probably let me go out to the stadium Sunday."

McGovern added that except for the injury Ruth is in fine condition and that the enforced rest may do him good.

He's been going pretty steady for a long time now, winter and summer," Artie explained. "The main thing right now is rest.

"The injury is what they call a blood tumor. Probably a hundred small blood vessels in there burst when the Babe and Berry collided. It will gradually clear up and the Babe ought to be as good as ever."

Yesterday's Stars.

Wesley Ferrell, Indians—Pitched no hit, no run game, struck out eight and hit homer to beat Browns 9 to 0.

Joe Judge, Senators—Made three hits in five times up in 9 to 5 victory over Yankees.

Jess Haines, Cardinals — Held Pittsburgh to four hits as Cards won 7 to 1.

Oshawa Lacrossists Enter Senior Team

Plenty of Capable Material Available—O.A.L. Major Series Strengthened.

OSHAWA, April 30.—It was officially announced here last night that the Oshawa Lacrosse Club has decided to enter teams in the Ontario Association senior and intermediate series. Officers in charge are confident that two strong teams can be assembled and they are enthusiastic over prospects.

Seven players who performed for the team that won the Mann Cup two years ago are available and there is no dearth of material to round out a contender in the senior series.

For a time it was feared that Native Sons of Toronto would get the best players left in the Motor City, but the firm stand against tourists taken by President Bill Blainey of the O.A.L.A. made it possible for the locals to reorganize and continue in senior company.

Harry Davis Connects For 4 Safeties in 5

TORONTO, April 30.—The Maple Leafs had a field day at Reading yesterday, and in downing the Keys, 11 to 5, fifteen hits rang off their bats. Harry Davis, the diminutive first-baseman, seems to have developed his batting eye. He hit safely four times in five trips to the plate, sending his batting average from .238 to .346. Nolen Richardson and Art McHenry both drove out a brace of hits to add to their marks, while Frank Barnes, besides pitching a good game, aided the cause with three hits, batting in two runs. Bill Rogell continues to lead the other regulars by a big margin, but one hit in three attempts brought his percentage down a few notches.

Salaries of teachers in Derry, Ireland, are being reduced.

Many homes are being built in Havana, Cuba.

B. C. COLLEGIANS WIN CAGE TITLE

University of British Columbia Capture Round From St. Catharines Grads.

SERIES COUNT 45-38.

VANCOUVER, April 30.—The Canadian senior cage championship remains in British Columbia. Last night the University of British Columbia quintet wiped out the 1-point lead gained by the St. Catharines Grads, Ontario champions, in the first gme and with a withering attack in the second half rolled up a margin of 8 points on the game, winning the round 45 to 38. The score of last night's game was 38 to 30. The invaders led at half-time.

The game was a thriller, with the issue in doubt until the last few minutes of play.

THURLER'S CASE IS BEING PROBED

Police Claim Man Has Long Record—Served Jail Sentences.

MOTHER ON WAY.

CLEVELAND, O., April 29. — The Reverend Ralph H. Thurber, who sent medical authorities of the country looking up his case when he claimed he expected to die from a malignant Oriental disease, to-day stood revealed by police as an ex-convict with a long police record.

Thurber claimed he had recently returned from 10 years' missionary work in the Straits Settlements and Korea, but police said during part of that time he was serving sentences on bad check charges in Ohio and California penitentiaries.

Officials at Lockport, N. Y., said Mrs. Susan Thurber had a son Ralph who was shell shocked while with the Canadian forces overseas during the Great War and since then had been subject to hallucinations. Mrs. Thurber was believed on her way here.

Physicians at the city hospital, however, said Thurber may be ill from distomiasis, a disease common in the Far East but rare in this country, as he claims. The disease usually is contracted from eating poorly cooked fish and parasites attack the body.

Cricket Opening Is Set For May 2

LONDON, England, April 30.—(By the Canadian Press)—The English Cricket season officially opens on May 2 and promises to be quieter than it has been for some years. While a New Zealand team will tour the country they will play only one test match. England has been deluged with test matches in recent years owing to visits by teams from the West Indies, South Africa and Australia. New Zealand will play England at Lords beginning June 27. Lancashire will defend their title as champion county.

The larger wicket, seven minute instead of ten minute rolling, and the leg-before-wicket rule regarding "the snick" as in use last summer will be continued in county cricket. A new system of scoring for the county championship will be introduced in an effort to induce batsmen to make runs against the clock and thus brighten up the game.

RINK COMPANY SHOWS BALANCE

Season Ends in Lakefield With Nearly $100 to Carry Into Next Year.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.

LAKEFIELD, April 30 (Examiner Correspondence)—The annual meeting of the Lakefield Rink Company was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening with a fair attendance of shareholders present.

Reports showed a fair year with a balance of about $100 carried over. During the past year the rink had been re-painted and a new cement wall put on the east side, these improvements have added to the value of the property and will serve for some time to come.

With the assistance of the Municipal Council a well was put in for fire protection which is another improvement to the property.

The rink was built by private subscription as a play house for the village and it has proved it value in many ways and it deserves a greater degree of local backing than it has been given for the past few seasons.

Since the building of the rink and its opening in 1922 a remarkable development in hockey has taken place and with the juvenile and junior teams coming on there is a good propect for years to come if the people of the community get behind and support the rink and the hockey teams.

Directors were elected for 1931-32 as follows, Messrs. W. J. Charlton, E. W. Bailey, O. H. Charlton, R. J. Jory, J. R. Hull, Rev. A. H. MacKenzie, J. A. Porter, A. G. Lawless and D. H. Webster.

ODD ANGLES OF OLD COUNTRY SPORT

HE BEAT THE TRAIN

By constant plugging Percy Wyer, the little Monarch A.C., Toronto veteran marathoner, has become one of the game's most outstanding figures. At the Boston marathon he proved that although he is 44 years of age he is still going strongly by coming in sixth in a field of the best in North America. There are many interesting tales told about Percy's experiences in the game. One of them is told about how he won the 1930 Detroit marathon despite several hazards. The motorcycle officer who was protecting him while going through traffic about five miles from the finish had to swerve suddenly and ran into him, then he had to beat a train to a crossing after the gates had been let down. Despite these misfortunes he won the race coming in ahead of Whitey Michelson of New York, one of the game's most outstanding men.

C.G.E. SOFTBALL CLUB FOR LADIES' LEAGUE

H. A. Cranfield is President of Girls' Club.

The C.G.E. Ladies' Softball Club came into existence last night at a well attended meeting held in the Employment Building, when several employees who are interested in promoting a team in the newly formed Ladies' City League met and elected a slate of officers to look after the interests of the C.G.E. entry.

The following officers were elected and the organization will apply for recognition from the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club: Hon. Pres., C. A. Salmonsen; president, H. A. Cranfield; vice-president, W. Bennett; secretary-treasurer, Dorothy Seabrooke, and executive committee consisting of Margaret Todd, M. Creighton and Mabel Ferguson. The team will be managed by a committee of three men, Reg. Dyer, Roy Parnell and Harold Darling.

The first practise of the season is called for to-night at six o'clock in the King Edward Park and a full turnout of players is requested.

TRIBE RETAINS LEAGUE LEAD BY BEATING BROWNS

Cleveland Star Has Big-time Day Both on Mound and at Bat.

HAS HOMER AND DOUBLE.

Cardinals and Cubs Remain in Tie for National Loop Lead.

(By Gayle Talbot, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

Possibly the Cleveland sluggers had taken to chiding members of their hurling staff. Something like this:

"Yeah, if it wasn't for us hitters, where would we be? We wouldn't be riding out in front of the American League if we had waited for you guys to get going."

Anyway, young Wes Ferrell took it upon himself yesterday to uphold the honor and dignity of the Tribe's curving corps.

Any future insinuation that the club's batting order is carrying all the load will fall pretty flat.

Wes went the limit to prove his point. He pitched the first no-hit, no-run game seen in the major leagues in nearly two years to lick the St. Louis Browns 9 to 0. The star right-hander, starting his third campaign in the big show, allowed only six men to reach first—three on walks and three on errors by Bill Hunnefield—and not a one of them got as far as second base. He struck out eight and, incidentally, won his fourth victory of the young season.

Ferrell further repudiated the swatsmiths by driving in four runs with a home run and double. Earl Averill also cracked one into the outer stands to help hand the Browns their sixth straight reverse and send them into a tie with the Red Sox at the bottom.

The last previous no-run, no-hit game was pitched by the Giants' southpaw, Carl Hubbell, who victimized the Pittsburgh Pirates on May 8, 1929.

The victory kept the Indians one game and a half in front of the Washington Senators, who took undisputed possession of second place by thumping the crippled Yankees again, 9 to 5. The New Yorkers have dropped four of their last five, with only a 14-inning tie to break the monotony. They gained an early four run lead off Lloyd Brown yesterday, but four pitchers could not hold it.

Chicago's White Sox tied their previous high run for the year by making it two straight over Detroit, 3 to 0. They grouped their five hits off Whitehill, while Thomas kept seven Tiger blows well spaced. Inclement weather stopped the Athletics and Red Sox for the fourth straight day at Boston.

National Lead Tied.

St. Louis and Chicago continued their red-hot argument over the leadership of the National League, and it still is a dead heat. Both won their eighth victory in eleven starts, the Cardinals taking Pittsburgh 7 to 1, and the Cubs downing Cincinnati 3 to 1. There were only two games, rain preventing play at New York and Philadelphia.

Reduce Team Strength To Eight Able Members

WINNIPEG, Man., April 30 (By The Canadian Press)—In an effort to speed up and popularize lacrosse, officials of the Winnipeg Lacrosse association have decided to reduce the number of men on a team to eight, four less than the usual quota.

Officials consider the move will speed up and open the play greatly and more opportunity will be given to show ability and develop team play. They maintain it will lessen the roughness prevalent in the old-style games.

It is understood here that a similar step has been taken in the eastern United States, and that a professional lacrosse league is being organized to include Montreal, Toronto and many American cities.

This league is to be launched in May and it will be termed "Box Lacrosse."

WINGMEN LOSE TO ORIOLES 4-3

Stroner's Homer Ties Count in Ninth—Orioles Outhit But Win in Tenth.

ROYALS ARE WINNERS.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 30.—The Rochester Red Wings were forced to bow in defeat before the Orioles in the opening game of their series yesterday when the Flock came to the fore with a 4 to 3 victory in a tight ten-inning battle.

The Birds tied the count at 3-all in the ninth when Jim Stroner secured his only hit of the game, a home run into the bleachers, and they won the clash in the tenth with no one out. Beryl Richmond held the Wings to nine blows, while Herman Bell stilled the local bats to eight.

BEARS BEAT BISONS

NEWARK, April 30.—The Newark Bears took the opening game of a five-game series with the Buffalo Bisons by 6 to 3 here yesterday. The Bruins got ten hits off Bloomer and Bergeron, clustering them effectively to get one run in the second, two in the fourth and three in the eighth.

Three pitchers were used by Newark, Al Harvin starting, but yielding in the seventh to Byron Speece. Speece lasted little more than an inning, going out in favor of Myles Thomas.

SHEEDY HITS HOMER

JERSEY CITY, Npril 30—The Montreal Royals copped the first of a five-game series with the Jersey City Skeeters here yesterday by a score of 13 to 6 in a free-hitting affair.

Griffin, after a shaky start for the Royals, settled down in the closing innings, and pitched a steady brand of ball, while his teammates kept pecking away at W. Brown, Deshong's successor, to win with plenty to spare.

Gautreau, West and Sheedy connected for home runs.

Montreal Team Holds Eight Point Advantage

MONTREAL, Que., April 30 (C.P.)—With an eight-point advantage Young Men's Hebrew Association of Montreal enter the second and final game here to-night against Windsor, Ont., Arrows for the right to meet McAdam High School of McAdam, N.B., in the finals for the Dominion Juvenile basketball championship by virtue of their 17 to 9 victory here last night.

In all probability the finals will be held here on Saturday and Monday. If Y.M.M.A. win, it is expected that McAdam will come here, and if Windsor emerge victorious, it is thought that they will use a local floor and receive the Maritime champions, though they may travel to McAdam.

CASUAL COMMENT

The lacrosse players who turned out at the Exhibition Grounds the other night had a good practise despite the cold winds that blew across the fields. But lacrosse is a game that soon warms the boys up. They're at it again down there to-night at six bells.

* * * * * * *

Coach Creighton wants to see more young fellows out at this workout. There are quite a few youthful players around town, and these along with the experienced veterans will provide material for a well-balanced outfit.

* * * * * * *

Two teams will be picked for a hard practise game Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, and all players wanting to get into it should be on the field on time.

* * * * * * *

Kingston wants it understood that they have not definitely entered the C.O.B.L. yet. They will make their final decision this week. Meantime, the league drew up the schedule contingent on the entry of the Ponies. The announcement that they had come in was premature, according to Kingston. However, it is a pretty safe bet that they'll be in.

* * * * * * *

The East City Bowl, at the east end of Hunter Street bridge is being all fixed up these days for a softball diamond. Either the men or the girl softballers will be playing on it this summer, and present indications are that the fair ones have the edge.

* * * * * * *

The city is doing the work to help sport along. A new movable wire fence will be put up, and a dressing room will be installed. This spot should be a popular one in the summer, as it is in the winter when a skating rink occupies the place.

* * * * * * *

And present weather conditions favor the boxing show being staged by the Rangers at the Armouries tomorrow night. It will be the last boxing seen here before next winter, and Gord Garwood promises a good one.

* * * * * * *

He gave the boys a tough workout last night, and they look to be just right. Gord Chapman and Max Gilbert staged a three-round go, and they were bringing them up from the floor. Both boxers are "right."

* * * * * * *

Now, it seems another Toronto scrapper will be put in against Reg. Lesurf, instead of "Red" Springer. The latter is not sure he can make the trip, and if not, Ed. Cordell will come down instead. He is a tricky mittiser who uses both hands all the time. They will be paired off in the main bout.

* * * * * * *

Garwood will referee the scraps, and the judges' names will be made known later. A number of out-of-town visitors will be present for the fight show.

* * * * * * *

Getting back to baseball, the seniors worked out last night at the Exhibition Grounds, but they did not have a big showing, as the weather continued unfavorable. They will be at it again on Saturday afternoon.

* * * * * * *

While none of them has signed up yet, at least half a dozen of the best players around town have informed us that they are ready to put their names on the dotted line whenever asked. And then the others will fall in line. They should all be signed now, as there is no need of hanging back any longer.

QUINTE LEAGUE IS DISBANDED

Belleville Sponsors Find it Impossible to Operate Intermediate "B" Loops.

FOUR TEAMS IN T.V.L.

Finalities were not reached before adjournment at the Intermediae 'B' baseball meeting held in Belleville last night. The operation of two leagues in this class as originally proposed, was rendered impossible through the withdrawal of Point Anne and Corbyville. Local circumstances have been against the latter team entering, but in the case of Point Anne, their withdrawal was due to the emphatic protest of the other teams represented at the meeting agains Point Anne using players like Gibson, Buck, the Green brothers and other players considered too good for this class.

Wellington has gone back to junior ball, and Picton has decided to take its place. Four teams are definitely entered in the Trent Valley League, namely: Belleville Victorias, Sulphide, Picton and Deloro.

Through a protracted business session, the re-organized league passed a motion to the effect that no player who played senior or intermediate "A" ball last year will be allowed to play in this league.

The election of officers took up considerable time, with the following results: President, A. Meagher; vice-president, G. MacLean; secretary-treasurer, G. Delaney.

The matter of drawing up the schedule, along with further business questions, were left over until the next meeting which will be held in Belleville on Wednesday, May 6th. The meeting was adjourned then till this date.

TWELVE BOUTS FRIDAY'S CARD

Ed Cordell and Reg Lesurf Will Provide Main Battle of the Evening.

LINDSAY FIGHTERS.

Twelve snappy boxing bouts will entertain the spectators at the fight show staged by the Rangers and promoted by Gord Garwood, in the Armouries tomorrow night. Most of the scrappers have been named and paired off, but this list is subject to change any time, as all of the out-of-town fighters' names have not been ascertained yet. Toronto and Lindsay will be represented here, with Belleville being doubtful.

If "Red" Springer, Toronto lightweight, cannot make the trip, another Queen City pug, Ed. Cordell, will be matched against Reg. Lesurf in the main bout. Two other Toronto boys will enter the ring just before the last bout, Joe Solsberg and Maurice Hillier, two battling bantams who will renew a feud of several months' standing.

Several Lindsay fighters have promised to take part, but they have not stated which ones will come down. Percy Houzer will not participate for one, but most of the others are free to make the trip.

Efforts have been made to get a couple of boxers from Belleville to go on against Hank Noakes and Art Hamilton. However, the Quinte City boys have not committeed themselves yet, so they may and may not be on the card.

Some of the local boys who will be seen in action are Len Post, Noakes, Hamilton, Murphy, "Bat" Vinette, George Cassie, Max Gilbert, Fred Thompson, George Mintz, Gord Chapman, Art. Hunter, Bud Aggas, Jack Chamberlain, Ward Wright, Doug. Mowry and the Clark brothers Allan and Grant.

The judges' names will be announced from the ring and Gord Garwood will be the referee. Plenty of seats will be installed for the affair, and a huge crowd is expected to see this final boxing bill of the year.

K.T. Dawes Elected C.R.A. President

TORONTO, Ont., April 30 (C.P.)—Kenneth T. Dawes, prominent Montreal turf enthusiast, will guide the destiny of the Canadian Racing Association during 1931.

At the annual meeting of the C.R.A. Mr. Dawes was chosen chairman, succeeding George M. Hendrie, Hamilton, who desired to retire from the position following ten years' service.

A. E. Dyment, Toronto, was elected vice-chairman, and C. Casserley was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting of the C.R.A. will be held here on May 11, two days prior to the opening of the Canadian racing season on May 13 at Thorncliffe Park, where the Leaside Breeders' Association will conduct their annual spring meeting of seven days.

Sixteen 2-year-olds ran, the race being over the five furlong distance.

Pro Boxers Lack Verve.

How dear to my heart are the amateur scrappers,
Who wallop each other with vehement slugs.
They differ so much from the stallers and slappers,
Who split their fat purses with gunmen and thugs.
I'm weary of massive professional fakers,
Of monstrous palookas whose feet weigh a ton.
I'm strong for the bakers and candlestick makers,
And plumbers and truckmen who battle for fun.
The amateur scrappers,
The ironbound scrappers,
The innocent scrappers,
Who battle for fun.

PERKINS-HOWELL IN SEMI-FINALS

Form First Bracket in Play for Old Dominion Golf Championship.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 30.—(C.P.)—A veteran of the British Links, T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion and Billy Howell, of Richmond, who won the Virginia amateur title two years ago at the age of 17, were matched to-day in semi-finals of the old Dominion golf championship.

Winfield Donham, of Montclair, N. J., and E. H. Bobbitt, of Hot Springs, were competitors in the other bracket. Both Perkins and Howell advanced yesterday by three and two wins over Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, and M. H. Wheler, of Augusta, Maine, respectively. Donham reversed pre-tournament predictions by eliminating W. Timpson, of the Rockaway Hunt Club, New York, and Bobbitt qualified on the default of C. G. Little, of Chicago.

ANOTHER PARTY BEING RUMORED

Political Gossips Claim Sir Winston Churchill Will Head New Group.

TO BE 1900 CLUB GUEST.

LONDON, April 29 (C.P.)—Political gossips are talking about another new political party, even newer than Sir Oswald Mosley's, and they are naming Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill in their rumors.

The stories increased to-day with the announcement that the 1900 Club will entertain Mr. Churchill at luncheon on May 15 in recognition of his services to the Conservative Party. Members of other political parties also have been invited.

While Mr. Churchill is at odds with the Liberals, the Laborites and the orthodox Conservatives, particularly with the latter over policy in India, it is not thought likely that he is ready to embark on any new party adventures.

His tactics have been to move among the regular Conservatives, voicing his own politics whenever and wherever possible. He welcomes every opportunity to speak in public, always dwelling upon his favorite argument that Britain's doom is sealed if she loses India.

FUNERALS CALL FOR BIG PARADES

This was set on a gadget that looked was placed on an ordinary plank ed like a wooden-barred cage and carried on the heads of negroes. The parade wound slowly up a short hill overlooking the river; the dead man's feet pointing skyward.

I stood at the bottom of the hill unwilling to go too close because, as I have written before, the Arab hates the intrusion of such as you and I. The silhouette against the noonday sun was one of those truly different pictures a chap knows he will remember years afterwards.

Two Wives Mourn.

The body was placed in a shallow grave and stones placed at the head and at the feet. The grave was so shallow that the earth scarcely covered the shroud. That seemed to be all there was to the thing except that the departed man's two wives did not go away again with the milling herd, but sat at the feet and head of their departed lord as still as the stones they had placed.

Every Friday from now on those women will be back at that grave and around them will be hundreds of others. It's their idea of mourning.

They are supposed to go there on Holy days and pray that their exhusbands are having a right merry time. The husbands should indeed be celebrating if for no better reason than the relief of getting away from such shapeless, toothless women. Perhaps you wonder how I know they are shapeless and toothless when they are wrapt up in their bales of sheets and bath towels in all public appearance. Well infidels like you and I don't count. They can uncover in the presence of you and I provided no young Arab is peeking around our shoulders.

Wedding Fizzles Out.

Other parades are always coming and going in the native streets of Morocco and weddings are the ones which promise most and give least. Here the band fairly howls and screams as the bride, shielded behind purple and golden canopies of silk, is carried through the streets. But that's all there is. There isn't any more. You expect all the time that the eunuchs are going to set her ladyship down somewhere, that she will step blushingly forth to meet her betrothed and the show will start. But no. They walk and walk for miles and miles. Up one street and down another. Over the same route time and again as if to lose such casual followers as don't belong. Then they all go into some sort of shack—not the mosque—and you see or hear no more.

A Real Show.

"Christenings" are the real honest to gosh main tent show. I use quotation marks because they aren't christenings at all but perhaps "Mohammedanizings". Anyway it's the ceremony of a boy becoming a recognized member of the church. Girls never come in for this. They aren't important enough. Even the mothers of the selected boys can only follow along as far as the doorway to the church and then stay on the outside looking in.

The band in this case is bigger and noisier than ever. Sometimes a dervish or too joins the gang whirling and screaming himself into a fury as he clutches a huge cactus to his breast and makes the blood run down his chest and abdomen in scarlet rivulets.

Sometimes a snake charmer comes along with his cobras and adders. Truly a barbaric picture. Six or seven men, mounted on fiery horses with saddles in brilliant blues and gold and reds lead the way. The band is in the middle, the women in the rear. Each of the men has a boy up aloft with him. The boy is all dressed up like the royal box at an opera. They go noisily through the streets while people cheer. As they reach the first mosque, the men dismount and go inside. One boy comes out of this as a real honest to gosh moslem. The women must under no consideration go inside. Then they all remount again and proceed to the next mosque. This goes on until all the boys have their initiation or spoken their piece or passed their examination or whatever it is they do. If there are more boys than mosques they start all over at the first one again and double up. It would be nice to report that all Arabs had beautiful prancing horses with brilliant colored saddles such were used on this occasion but sad to admit they rent the whole works.

ASKS PROTECTION FOR NAVIGATORS

Veteran Skipper Conducts Campaign for Lighthouse and Lifesaving Equipment.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—"It is owing to the light of the moon that I am here to warn others, and I shall continue to do so until a light is put there and the shoals properly charted, if I live." This is the promise of Captain Japheth Winsor, veteran of many years on Newfoundland's coastal waters and fishing banks, whose present concern is a campaign to have a lighthouse and lifesaving apparatus placed on the Funks, a small shoal-encircled island some fifty miles east of Fogo on the northeast coast of Newfoundland, and about the same distance north of Bonavista.

From the experience of many years fishing in these waters Captain Winsor writes in the light of the recent Viking tragedy. In this connection he remarks that "we can only imagine what might have happened" if foresight had not placed a wireless station on Horse Island, and that "the most outstanding spot around the coast which is calling for the attention of those responsible is Funk Island, where such a disaster as that of the Viking would leave no trace . . . the tragedies caused by its shoals will go unrevealed until it is made a life-saving station . . . my twenty years experience fishing around the Funks taught me the great danger of the uncharted shoals that lie in the path of navigation. My great surprise came when I first saw the chart and realized the inadequate survey of the Funk ground.

"I have told before about vessels I have seen passing in the daytime, which would never have been left afloat had they passed in the night with a sea on.

"When I was a boy, three schooners came as far as Cape Freels, going north. The wind veering westerly, they drove to sea and never returned. After I had fished at the Funks it was no surprise to me. Since I stopped fishing there, I know of many vessels that were going in that direction and never turned up. During the past few years we know of many that have providentially just escaped.

"In the early days, the steamer Newfoundland drove over one of the uncharted shoals and tore away thirty feet of her keel.

"Four years ago I was speaking to a man on board a Norwegian steamer. He told me they ran over a shoal with two fathoms of water on it and the kelp showing. The captain was going by his chart on which the shoal was not marked. The steamer would have struck only her bulge went over the shoal, her keel being in deep water."

Big Icebergs Fail To Appear This Year

HALIFAX, N.S., April 30.—With the patrol boat General Greene, which left East Boston last month to study conditions in northern waters, reporting a total absence of icebergs off the coast of New foundland, indications are that the International Ice Patrol this year will start operating on a later date than ever.

Two coast guard cutters, the Mojave and Pontchartrain are at the Boston navy yard awaiting word from the General Greene as to the seasonable drift of ice floes and bergs into the North Atlantic steamship lanes. The Mojave and Pontchartrain will make their base at Halifax, the usual custom since establishment of the patrol following the Titanic disaster.

April, May and June normally constitute the season of danger from icebergs, and coast guard officials are unable to account for the non-appearance of the drifting bergs. Last year the patrol was well under way at this time of month.

Women's boat races are popular in England this season.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 52 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The days dragged their weary lengths along for Korak, when he began to recover. During his illness, the apes had hunted close by, that they might protect him. The great-hearted Akut brought juicy fruits which helped to slake Korak's thirsts and allay his fever. Little by little his powerful constitution overcame the effects of the spear thrusts, the wounds healed, his strength returned and one day he made his way unaided to the ground.

Always in his delirium had he called for Meriem. Now his first rational thoughts were of her. For her he must live! What had the blacks done to her? All the hideous possibilities of the girl's fate suggested themselves to him, out of his knowledge of the customs of Kovudoos tribe. Often he thought the day would never come when his strength would return sufficiently for him to make the journey to Kovudoo's distant village.

Many days' march had Kovudoo gone with his fair captive before he reached home and there placed Meriem in a dirty hut under strong guard. Food she had plenty, and a certain amount of liberty, for the wily chieftain knew a healthy maiden would bring the largest ransom. On the day that Korak began his quest for Meriem, Kovudoo dispatched a fleet runner to the distant habitation of the Shiek to barter with him for his daughter's ransom.

The messenger never reached his destination! Two mean-faced white men again had come into the deep jungle, this time to trap baboons for a zoo in Germany. They were Jenssen and Malbihn, little altered in vicious nature since that day years before, when they and their "safari" had been so badly frightened by Korak and Akut. They had made camp beside a river along which lay the path Kovudoo's messenger must take on his mission.

This is not the case, as Radio Sales and Service are the dealers and will continue to be such and Mr. Hallowell is the factory representative for Central Ontario and his position does not bring him into touch with the public but with the dealer.

WEATHER PROMISES BRIGHTER CHANGE

May is Due With Need of Clean-up Program.

Judging by the law of averages, the weather is due for another change. Nine days ago we had summer heat, followed by a sudden drop to bitter, almost wintry weather which has lasted for eight days. The bright sunshine of this morning, which quickly routed the white coat of snow that lay on the ground at sunrise, promises the end of the cold dip, and makes it appear that Mayor Denne has selected the ideal date, in the first week of May, for the annual clean-up week in Peterborough.

We have a willing community, so, with favorable weather and plenty of available unemployed help, the citizens should be able to transform the general appearance of the city and put it in readiness for the thousands of tourist visitors due to arrive very soon. It's a lot nicer to be proud of our home town than to feel ashamed of it.

Peterborough is a gem, set in the heart of Canada's finest scenic districts. A much admired city by all travellers, who come this way. The first week in May is the time to give it its spring dusting and polishing, every resident taking care of his own small part of it.

SON OF DICKENS.

LONDON, England, April 30 (By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent) — The "smash and grab" store raiders who have increased to a disturbing extent in London recently, received a stern warning at the Old Bailey to-day from Sir Henry Dickens, son of the novelist, who sent one to penal servitude for five years and two others for three years.

"This crime has reached the state when nobody is safe," Sir Henry said, in passing sentence. "I shall treat it with great severity."

Sir Henry, now 82 years of age, is the only curviving child of Charles Dickens. He holds the office of Common Serjeant of the City, with the duties of a High Court Judge so far as criminal matters are concerned.

ALDERMEN QUESTION WARREN PROMISES

POWER FROM BEAUHARNOIS IS NECESSARY

ADDRESSES KIWANIANS.

Development of St. Lawrence is Absolutely Necessary Says Speaker.

Tracing the phenomenal development of Hydro power distribution in Ontario, T. J. Hannigan, of Guelph, secretary of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, in addressing the local Kiwanis Club at noon today stated that purchases of power from Beauharnois by the Ontario Hydro Commission were necessary to keep pace with the demand.

Mr. Hannigan has been closely associated with the Hydro for twenty years and was one of the close associates of Sir Adam Beck, stated Kiwanian J. A. Stewart, in introducing him to the club.

The manner in which the idea of the distribtuion of power germinated was related by Mr. Hannigan. E. W. B. Snyder, of the County of Waterloo, introduced the resolution of power distribution by the municipalities to the Waterloo Board of Trade and gained one supporter in D. Detwieler. A campaign was started and the counties of Waterloo and Wellington were induced to bring power from Niagara Falls as a municipal undertaking.

Seven municipalities paid for the preliminary investigation. At that time, stated Mr. Hannigan, it was neither intended or expected that it would cover all parts of the province, as it has since done.

Municipal Project

"You must remember that it is not a government or political scheme but a municipal project", stated the speaker, in declaring that that view was sometimes lost sight of.

Municipal distribution of power proved such a success that others eagerly came, and to-day the original seven municipalities have grown to number more than 600. From the first distribution of 750 horsepower, more than 1½ millions are now distributed.

It was at the instance of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association that the Provincial Government was induced to bonus rural transmission lines in order that the agricultural population would be able to enjoy the benefits of cheap light and power, stated Mr. Hannigan. The Drury Government in 1921 established a bonus of 50 percent of cost of construction of primary lines but refused to aid secondary lines and growth under that system was very small. But the Ferguson Government bonused the establishment of secondary lines. As a result rural construction lines jumped to 1,000 miles a year, or three miles per working day. It exceeded that last year, stated Mr. Hannigan, and now serves more than 40,000 rural customers.

Arrangements have been made to construct this year more than 1,850 miles of rural lines.

In reference to the purchase of power from Quebec by the Hydro Commission, Mr. Hannigan said that 260,000 horse-power were now secured from the Gatineau and further contracts have been made for power from the Beauharnois and McLaren interests for additional supplies of power as soon as available. These supplies are required to enable the Commission to keep pace with the demand until such time as the St. Lawrence is developed.

"It is absolutely necessary that almost immediate steps be taken to start construction of the St. Lawrence as the development will take five to eight years, and without it we will be faced with a power shortage,' declared Mr. Hannigan. "It must be remembered that each additional three horse-power means another man employed. From Gatineau 575,000 horse-power are still to come and this power will be absorbed as soon as ready."

Mr. Hannigan emphasized that the municipalities had urged upon the Hydro Commission the need of purchasing power from Quebec. "It was Sir Adam Beck's principle to develop all the power in Ontario available and to purchase cheaply all the power that could be purchased."

GRANT EXTENDED FOR ONE MONTH

Unemployment Relief Work Will Be Continued Until End of June.

ON SAME PERCENTAGE.

Another month's extension of assistance from the Ontario Government for unemployment relief work has been granted Peterborough. This was the glad tidings broken to the City Council last night by Mayor Denne.

Previously the Government extended the assistance to this city to the end of May, which was a month longer than first set forth. This week City Clerk Armstrong again wrote J. A. Ellis, secretary of the Provincial Relief Committee, asking a further extension.

The word was received back yesterday afternoon that Peterborough could continue the unemployment relief work until the end of June and count on the same percentage of share in the cost from the Government. But, stated Mr. Ellis in his letter, "This is understood to be final."

Final or not, the aldermen shook hands on it, and a short cheer went up.

PUMPER REPAIR BILL TO BE PAID

"No Use Talking About It," Said Ald. Stocker in Committee.

ACCOUNT IS $1,538.15.

Decision to pay the bill of $1,539.15 submitted by the LaFrance Fire Engine for repairs made to the local Fire Department's pumper, caused in a collision with the Lindsay bus, was reached last night by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The Councillors were unanimous in that the bill must be paid, but they still expressed the opinion that the bill was high.

City Solicitor J. R. Corkery was instructed to issue a writ or counterclaim against the bus company to collect damages for the repairs to the fire pumper and loss of use. The bus company has already entered suit against the city for damages and a passenger in the bus at the time of the collision is also suing the city.

"I hope I live long enough to see those guys come to this Council to sell us another one," declared Alderman Stocked when Chairman Cotton laid the LaFrance Company's bill before the committee. Alderman Cotton showed an itemized bill and a letter from the company in which it was stated that "the bill is correct in every detail—consistent, and proper—and impossible to have the work done cheaper anywhere else."

Alderman Stocked ended any criticism of the bill when he exclaimed, "Say, why talk about it anyway, we have got to pay it out."

Alderman Stocked moved, seconded by Alderman Macdonald, that the bill be paid.

The fact that the citys' interest should be looked after in the two pending suits for damages as a result of the collision, was voiced by Alder-Turner, who moved that the city enter a claim against the bus company for damages, including the cost of repairs to the pumper and loss of use.

Purchase Fire Hose

Five hundred feet of fire hose will be purchased from the Dunlop Rubber and Tire Company for the Fire Department. Tenders were received from five companies, but for the best grade hose all prices were the same. Choice was between the Bi-Lateral hose said to be approved by Chief Gimblett, and the Dunlop product, the Dunlop winning on a four to three vote by the committee's members.

MAY DAY PASSES RATHER QUIETLY ACROSS EUROPE

Reds Wound Officers in Berlin —One Killed in Barcelona, 15 Civilians Shot.

MOST OF DISORDERS VERBAL

Greatest Demonstration Occurs in Moscow—Stalen Reviews Troops.

LONDON, May 1.—(A.P.) — The Red flag waved in parts of Europe to-day in celebration of May Day, but order generally prevailed under the watchful eye of police and most of the disorder was verbal.

The principal exceptions was in Berlin and Barcelona. In Berlin a group of young Communists shot and seriously wounded a policeman on duty. In Barcelona a policeman was killed and 15 civilians shot in a May Day clash.

Moscow Takes Lead.

By far the greatest demonstration took place in Moscow where all work was stopped and thousands marched while Joseph Stalin reviewed Red troops in front of the Kremlin.

In Paris police arested dozens for speeches which they believed might incite physical violence. London was quiet as usual. A little threadbare army of men, women and even children—some in baby carriages—bore Red banners as they marched along the embankment, but scores of bobbies walked on either side of the parade and there was no disturbance beyond a few weak shouts against capitalists.

Brussels police guarded embassies where it was held likely that anti-Fascists and Communists might make trouble, but nothing happened. Some Communists were reported planning a raid on a Socialist meeting tonight, but all preparations were made to prevent a serious disturbance.

Small groups attempted demonstrations in Sofia and several were arrested. There were no known outbreaks in the provinces of Bulgaria. All was quiet in Greece and the same report was received from Turkey.

Norway, Sweden and Denmark took the holiday calmly and it was just like any other Spring day in Italy. In Bombay, striking millworkers used the occasion to demonstrate near the factories, shouting slogans hostile to capitalism.

Hotel is Raided

At Johannesburg the police had some difficulty with a mob which stormed the exclusive Carlton Hotel and the Rand Club, but no one was hurt.

In Spain thousands picnicked in the wooded grounds of the Casa Del Campo, formerly a royal estate, which was thrown open to the public.

Portuguese workmen did not heed an order for a general strike, but the taxi-drivers walked out. Parades and open-air mass meetings had been forbidden but the police put a strong guard around the great public square in Lisbon. There was no disorder.

MONSTER PLANE REACHES AFRICA

DO-X Completes First Step on Second Start to Cross Atlantic.

LANDS AT RIO DE ORO.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, May 1 (C.P.).—The German seaplane Do-X, which left here this morning, landed this afternoon at Rio de Oro in the Spanish province of Rio de Oro on the west coast of Africa.

She is resuming the trans-Atlantic flight to South America, which was interrupted last November when fire destroyed one of her wings at Lisbon. She has been here since January and yesterday made her first trial flight since last winter.

Largest In World.

The Do-X is the biggest heavier than air flying boat in the world. When she first took the air at Alterhein, Switzerland, on a projected flight to South America by easy stages her appearances of tremendous power seemed ample ground for the claims of her builder than she would make the trip on schedule.

The first stages of the ambitious journey were accompanied without serious trouble, but at Lisbon fire broke out while she was riding in the harbor. One wing was destroyed and the handsome plane was towed in for repairs, which only recently were completed.

She was built in Switzerland because the Versailles Treaty forbids construction of such big machines in Germany. Primarily she was designed to carry a hundred passengers on comparatively short flights. The long trip across the Atlantic was planned to establish her dependability.

Twelve engines, each of 500 horsepower, form her power plant. Her cruising speed is about 120 miles an hour and her maximum about 150 miles.

THE FISHING IS FINE

May the first always brings joy to every lover of the rod and reel. It is the first day of the fishing season when tired business men leave the cares of the office behind and forget themselves in the pursuit of the elusive members of the finny tribe. Trout and pickerel can be legitimately caught today and from all appearances they will be much in demand.

FORTY-FIVE BODIES RECOVERED FROM RUINS OF NAVAL ARSENAL

Brazilian Houses Three Miles Distant Shaken By Blast.

38 ARE IDENTIFIED.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 1 (A.P.)—Forty-five bodies were recovered today from the ruins of the naval arsenal at Nictheroy destroyed by an explosion in the torpedo-loading plant yesterday.

Thirty-eight were identified and firemen were searching through the debris for others. The plant records were destroyed and it could not be determined immediately how many of the 400 employees were in the building at the time of the blast.

Seventy are known to have been injured. They are still in hospitals here and at Nictheroy.

So powerful was the explosion that windows were broken in a radius of three miles. A man in a motor launch not far from the arsenal was thrown out of his boat. It was feared that bathers on a beach nearby may have been drowned.

MARTIN FAILS IN HIS APPEAL

Sentence of Magistrate Floyd Is Upheld by Appellate Court.

TWO YEARS' SENTENCE.

TORONTO Ont. May 1 (C.P.) — Roy Martin sentenced by Magistrate W. H. Floyd at Campbellford to two years' imprisonment on a charge of "unlawfully having in his possession six hens and one rooster" the property of Miss Mary Johnson failed in his appeal to the Second Appellate Division of the Ontario Supreme Court against his conviction and sentence.

"The Court is unanimously of opinion that it has no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal and, therefore the appeal fails," said Chief Justice Latchford, in announcing the court's judgment at Osgood Hall this morning.

Martin appealed on the grounds that the Police Magistrate erred in assuming the value of the fowl to be more than $20, and in treating the offence charged as an indictable one.

The prisoner appealed also on the ground that the sentence imposed upon him was excessive.

The judgment of the Appellate Court, written by Chief Justice Latchford, says that the Magistrate erroneously treated the charge alleging an indictable offence triable only upon the consent of the accused. "While that is so," the Chief Justice adds, "Martin was called upon to elect and consented to be tried by the magistrate."

SENATOR G. G. FOSTER DEAD.

MONTREAL, Que., May 1 (C.P.). —Senator George Green Foster, K.C., formerly of Alma in the Eastern Quebec Townships, died this morning at his residence here. He had been in ill-health for several years. Two weeks ago he took a turn for the worse, and this morning he died in his sleep from heart disease.

Lads Steal 1 Cent; Get 7-Year Terms

MONTREAL, Que., May 1.— Seven-year penitentiary terms were imposed yesterday by Chief Judge Perrault upon each of four youth convicted of armed robbery.

The prisoners were Ernest Daigneault, Raymond Maurice, Marcel Aveline and Ernest Duchesneau, all of Montreal. The robbery, it was stated in court, netted them only one cent, the quartette having held up a man named Aubrey at St. Sauveur, 40 miles from Montreal, found but a single coin in his pockets.

HUTTERITES SEEK TO ENTER CANADA

CAME FROM GERMANY 1890.

CALGARY, Alta., May 1.— Barred from Canada by immigration agents at the United States' Alberta boundary, 200 Hutterites of South Dakota to-day sent representatives to Calgary and placed before Provincial Government authorities their claims to occupy 6,000 acres in the Province on which they have spent half a million dollars in improvements.

The Hutterite colony, which trekked from Manitoba to South Dakota early in the twentieth century, was invited t ocome back to Canada by immigration representatives at Fargo, North Dakota, a few years ago, and prepared last year to make the journey into Alberta and settle on land around Magrath and Sterling, said J. S. Pocock, local grain merchant, in representing claims to Hon. Vernon Smith, Minister of Railways and Telephone, on an official visit to Calgary. The Hutterites came from Germany and settled in Manitoba about 1890.

It was not fair, Mr Pocock declared, that these people should now be barred from the Dominion.

Mr. Smith promised to place the question before the Alberta Cabinet.

Comb Arsenal Ruins For Victims Of Blast

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 1.—(C.P.).—Ruins of the naval laboratory and arsenal in fashionable Nictheroy suburbs were searched to-day for bodies of victims of a terrific explosion which destroyed the building yesterday.

At least 40 persons were killed and 70 injured in the blast, which is believed to have occurred in the torpedo loading room. Rio de Janeiro newspapers estimated the number of dead at from 150 to 200.

The cause of the blast was not determined.

CONTRACT FOR SUPPLY OF CEMENT AWARDED TO ST. MARY'S COMPANY OVER BID OF LAKEFIELD PLANT

Recommendation of Board of Works—New Dalhousie St. Bridge Mooted.

LOCAL LABOR DISPUTE

Aldermen Complain to Warren Bituminous Company's Agent.

Those arch enemies of bituminous paving in the City Council, Aldermen Stocker, McNabb and Tuggey, crossed swords in verbal battle last night with G. M. Gordon, representative of the Warren Bituminous Paving Company.

The paving company's representative came into range of the aldermen's barrage when he calmly entered the committee meeting of the Board of Works to lay out a proposition relative to the completion of paving in East City. The opposition trio seized the opportunity to train their guns on him. They were not slow to tell him emphatically their dissatisfaction with the manner in which the Warren Company had conducted paving operations here last year, and in what poor regard they held any promises made by his company to employ 95 per cent. local labor on any paving job here this year.

The wordy duel did not take up the whole meeting. The committee decided to accept the tender of the Peterborough Hardware Company for the city's supply of cement this year. Tenders were received from Thomas Rehill, agent of the Canada Cement Company and from that company's Lakefield plant, but the hardware company's tender to supply Roger's cement from St. Mary's was accepted, as being lower.

The erection of a new Dalhousie street bridge was also discussed, but it was finally decided that the committee must inspect the site for themselves before the matter could be properly dealt with.

At Last Year's Price.

In laying out his proposition for the completion of the paving in East City before the committee, Mr. Gordon stated that the Warren Bituminous Paving Company was prepared to do the work at the same price as last year and do all grading by hand with Peterborough labor and teams. We would carry on as much as possible under the same system now being used in your unemployment relief work," he said.

Alderman Stocker: "What guarantee have we that you will use local labor?"

Mr. Gordon: "We can have a system of cards and certificates identifying them as Peterborough men."

Mr. Stocker: "I fathered a motion through this Council last year requiring such a system and yet 85 per cent. of the men on the job were from outside. The work was done in a hurry and you were making money faster than Rockefeller.'

Mr. Gordon: "You're wrong; there was no 85 per cent. outside labor."

Mayor Denne, to Mr. Gordon: "Would you be satisfied if Engineer Parsons and Relief Officer Metheral looked after the issuing the cards?"

Mr. Gordon: "Yes, sir, we would willingly go as far as to put in a clerical staff to look after the cards."

Alderman Stocker: "How many men would you bring in here. You don't need any more than eight men."

Mr. Gordon thought that would be about enough.

Alderman Tuggey: "You assured us last year that there would be local men

MOSLEY RAPPED BY MACDONALD ON INTERVENTION

Hints New Party's Action Responsible for Tory Victory at Election.

MAY DAY SPEECH.

States Upper House Must Be Subjected to Will of People.

WORKSOP, England, May 1 (C.P. Cable).—May Day is the day of international peace and goodwill and solidarity and if the British Labor Government had done nothing more than promote peace and goodwill in the world their time in office would not have been spent in vain, declared Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, in a May Day speech here.

The Prime Minister assailed Sir Oswald Mosley and his New Party for intervention in yesterdays' by-election in Ashton-under-Lyne, when the Conservatives recaptured the seat from Labor, declared the Conservatives could have no more chance of solving the unemployment problem than Labor has, and again bitterly attacked the House of Lords. The question of the Upper House must be subjected to the will of the people, he declared.

Glad of Recognition

Prime Minister MacDonald continued that he had been informed the Conservative party would not assail the proposal of the Labor Government to tax land values. He was glad of this recognition of a Labor victory, he said.

"When the Tory talks and expands himself he claims all the virtues" Mr. MacDonald went on. "He alone loves the empire. The Tories are putting up their 'cures' and talking about tariffs and so on.

"These 'cures' are being introduced in Germany and America and in every industrial country more or less, at the present moment, and they are proving to be an absolute failure. There are many thousands of people unemployed in Germany and the United States and Mr. Baldwin would have no better chance of helping our unemployed than we have had if he had the job."

Referring to the Ashton by-election the Prime Minister said: "The Conservatives say they won that seat. But that is a question. There are powers of creation and powers of destruction in our party and we must choose between them if we are to lay a foundation for our children's children's children."

The Prime Minister returned to his old arguments against the House of Lords with the declaration that "like every anachronistic institution" the Upper Chamber must be subjected to the people's will. The House of Lords closed its eyes when the Conservatives were in power, and only interfered when labor or the Liberals were in the saddle, he asserted.

Customs Car Crash Being Investigated

DETROIT, Mich., May 1 (C.P.) — Authorities to-day were investigating an authomobile accident of last Tuesday involving a Customs border patrol car and taxicab and resulting in injury to Ernest B. Snelgrove, Toronto, passenger in the cab. The driver of the Customs car was George V. Trimble, Customs border patrol inspector, identified after police traced the license number. Trimble had refused to give the police his name or badge number on the grounds that a Federal officer did not have to reveal his identity.

Col. Heinriche Picket, Collector of Customs, upheld the officer.

Police said failure to give the name and other details by persons in traffic accidents was punishable by a $500 fine or ninety days' jail sentence.

Births in England and Wales in a recent week outnumbered the deaths by two, the figures being 6,772 and 6,770.

No Mean Catch

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 1 (C.P.). — Warm weather greeted the disciples of Izaak Walton for the opening of the speckled trout season here to-day and quite a few were out with rod and line. The first catch reported was made by Wesley Caufield, who took a three-pound trout, 17 inches long, from the tail race of the power canal.

LINDSAY ON WAY TO VISIT OTTAWA

British Ambassador to U. S. Scheduled to Detrain at Capital This Evening.

WILL STAY FOUR DAYS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1 (C.P.).—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador at Washington, arrives in the Capital to-night for his first visit in 25 years. He is scheduled to detrain at 7 p.m., for a four-day visit as the guest of Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner, and Lady Clark.

It was in 1906 that Sir Ronald last visited Canada. During his term as an attache of the British Embassy at Washington in the early part of this century he frequently came to Ottawa as the guest at Rideau Hall of the then Governor General, Earl Grey.

A rather strenuous program has been mapped out for Sir Ronald before he leaves Ottawa next Tuesday night for Toronto. His major engagement are an address on "The Machinery of Diplomacy" before a Canadian Club luncheon Saturday, and a luncheon and reception in his honor to be given next Tuesday by Premier R. B. Bennett on behalf of the Canadian Government. Other engagements are largely of a social character.

ARABS OWN 16-CYLINDER CARS IN BUSY CITY OF CASABLANCA

Sinclair Finds Morocco Much Like Canada Except for Cities.

VEILS BY THE YARD

By GORDON A. SINCLAIR

CASABLANCA, Morocco, May 1.—(Copyright, 1931)—The fastest growing city in all the world right now is this one—the gateway to North Africa. The boom is on. The same boom that was making millionaires and paupers in Florida a few years ago is pouring gold in on the Arabs faster than they can spend it even by buying new cars for each of their dozen or so wives every year.

Casablanca has doubled its population six times since 1910. What was a small town of camel caravans and bandit Arabs before the coming of the French protectorate is now the busiest city of 250,000 in the world. It is cosmopolitan, alive, just a trifle dangerous for strangers travelling alone.

Boom A Mystery.

Just what started the boom nobody knows. The word seemed to spread around France that here was a town of prospects. Merchants came over. Shops were rented. New shops were built. They all prospered. The boom came in earnest.

Then came the war and stagnation. Not serious stagnation through, because France thought it would be a swell idea to bring a flock of German prisoners here and impress the native with the fact that France was winning the war. Over they

Notorious Gangster Still Critically Ill

ALBANY, N.Y., May 1 (C.P.).—Jack Diamonds fifth day in the hospital from gun wounds found him suffering less pain to-day than at any time since he was admitted in the early hours of Monday. His physician said that was the "only improvement' he could see and that the gang chief still was "critically ill."

The operation to remove the shotgun slug in Diamond's lung, which is causing all the trouble, has been delayed in the hope that he will pick up more strength. The wound has been complicated by pleurisy.

The Weather

The merry month of May is here, with its promise of better weather, budding trees, singing birds and more comfortable outside activities. While the first three weeks of April were much warmer than usual, the latter part was quite cold. The rainfall was 1.90; the highest temperature was 77 degrees; its lowest 20 degrees. As usual, last night was quite frosty; the temperature was down to 25 degrees. Here's hoping for a change to "fair and warmer."—W.P.

Simla City Welcomes New Indian Viceroy

SIMLA, India, May 1.—(C. P. Cable via Reuters.)—A great welcome awaited the Earl of Willingdon, Viceroy of India, and Lady Willingdon and their staff when they made public entry into Simla at mid-day.

Two battalions of the Bombay Grenadiers formed the guard of honor at the railway station. Earl and Lady Willingdon drove to the Vice Regal Lodge in an open carriage with outriders and bodyguard, along a route lined by cheering crowds.

MOSLEY JEERED BY ANGRY CROWD AS LABOR LOSES

Conservatives Win Ashton-Under-Lyne By-election From Government.

LIBERALS STOOD BY.

Mosley Candidate Split Vote Against the Labor Nominee.

(Canadian Press Cable)

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE, England, May 1.—Facing a hooting and jeering mob, Sir Oswald Mosley, brilliant young Socialist leader, last night out-braved the bravest of them and figuratively snapped his fingers in the faces of more than 1,000 disgruntled electors of Ashton-under-Lyne. The demonstration came shortly after the result of the by-election in this constituency was announced. Lieut.-Col. J. Broadbent, Conservative, won the seat from J. Gordon, Labor, and A. Young, Mosley's New Party candidate—but had it not been for the Mosley candidate, it appears, Labor would not have lost the seat.

Broadbent polled 12,420 votes; Gordon, 11,005; and Young, 4,472. Given even two-thirds of Young's vote, which could be normally expected, Gordon would have won the seat by a slight majority. As it was, the split in the Labor vote was too great a handicap for Gordon.

Angry Crowd Gathers

The constituency has ever been a stormy rock in the political sea. Tonight, Sir Oswald, with Gordon and Broadbent, were in the Town Hall waiting for the result. With Mosley were several women. When the result became known, an angry crowd gathered outside. Young was taken out of the building by a side door under a strong police guard. Mosley, however, went to the front door. He paused as the top of the stairs and gazed defiantly at the raging crowd, who hooted and jeered him.

With hands in his pockets, and a slight smile on his face, Mosley walked slowly down the steps to the street. The crowd rushed around him, but he continued walking slowly. Police closed around him and escorted him to his hotel headquarters. Despite the turmoil and the threatening appearance of the mob, Mosley refused to move any faster than his nonchalant walk.

For seven years Ashton has been a Labor stronghold. Before that time it was traditionally Conservative, and its return to the fold is highly welcomed by the latter since the gain means another peg from the Labor representation in the House of Commons. In 1928, Albert Bellamy won the seat for Labor with 13,170 votes. Lieut.-Col. Broadbent was runner up at that time with 9,673, and W. G. Greenwood, Liberal, third, with 6,693. This year, there was no Liberal entry in the race, but instead Young was nominated by the Mosleyites following their defection from the Labor party and the formation of the "new party."

MONTREAL PROBE DRAWS TO CLOSE

170 Cases Heard in Obtaining of Naturalization Papers By Fraud.

ODD EVIDENCE.

MONTREAL, Que., May 1. (CP)—The investigation conducted by Judge James Gammell Wallace of Woodstock, Ont., into alleged fraudulent obtaining of naturalization papers, concluded here yesterday with examination of Joseph Miller, naturalization agent and self-styled "Bachelor of Law" graduate of a Chicago correspondence school.

The commission heard a total of 170 cases, involving lengthy testimony from a long list of witnesses as to the means by which they obtained their naturalization papers. A long line of "parents" denied that applicants were any offspring of theirs. Alleged signers of recommendations swore that they had never signed the letters and did not know the applicants. There was lengthy evidence, falsification of information as to the birthplace, age, and length of Canadian residence of applicants, and evidence of an easy way of obtaining full naturalization papers at short notice by payment of various sums averaging around $50. Miller was examined closely as he had been mentioned prominently in the testimony of other witnesses. He said he was a graduate of a correspondence law school, and had conducted his naturalization practice for many years.

Commissioner Wallace warned him sharply to be more careful in his method of obtaining information about his clients and to be sure that the right information be forwarded to Ottawa.

Men Fight For Gun Woman Fatally Shot

KENTVILLE, N.S., May 1.—Mrs. James Swinimer, 24, died in hospital here this morning after being operated on for injuries received when a shotgun was discharged to-night as her husband and a neighbor struggled for its possession. Ed Williams, the neighbor, was arrested by Nova Scotia police and placed in jail, and will be charged to-day.

Williams, it was said, left his house to "dare" any member of a crowd gathered before it to step out and acknowledge to having thrown stones through his windows. James Swinimer attempted to take the shotgun away from Williams, and the gun was discharged, wounding Mrs. Swinimer in the leg.

Fire-Bugs Are Being Blamed by Police For Blazes Raging Over Northland

WINNIPEG, Man., May 1.—(CP)—Forest fires, sweeping across lands dry as tinder, have been racing in many isolated north country areas during the past three days, it became known late last night.

Most of the fires, forestry officials declare, are of incendiary origin. The fires they say have been deliberately set by men with the object of receiving pay for fighting them.

Drastic action is being taken to put a stop to the operations of the forest fire bugs, and Provincial and Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been detailed to the scene of many of the outbreaks.

The situation has not yet reached dangerous proportions, and the majority of fires are far away from towns and settlements.

NILS OLSEN GIVEN OPEN AUTHORITY

Will Treat With Other Nations at Wheat Parley as He Sees Best for U.S.

MISSION ADVISORY ONE.

(By Frank I. Weller, C.P. Farm Editor).

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 1. — Nils Olsen, United States delegate, will go to the International Wheat Conference in London May 18 with an open mind and authority to treat with other nations on the world marketing of the 1931 crop from whatever position he then finds best suited to the interest of his country. As a member of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Olsen will be in position to interpret in terms of United States domestic re-action any proposal for international control of the export trade to which the United States has contributed an average of about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour annually in recent years.

This being the United States Government's first participation in the matter, Olsen holds the view that its representative should not be committed to preconceived theories, particularly since the export of United States wheat largely is in private hands and possibly could not be brought under control anyway. He says he understands his mission to be purely an advisory one, to explain how far this country likely could cooperate and then suggest to President Hoover economic advice for producers in the light of world conditions as he finds them.

Preliminary plans for the conference include discussion of export quotas for each country, assignment of periods during which each country might have the export market to itself and creation of an international committee to control the sale of wheat after it had left the country of origin. All are radical departures from customary practices.

SWEDISH AVIATOR FLIES INTO NORTH

Will Seek Missing Scientist Courtauld in Desolate Greenland.

HEADS FOR FAROE ISLANDS.

BERGEN, Norway, May 1. (AP)—Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish civilian pilot, took off from here in a heavily loaded amphibian plane at 6 a.m. for Thorshavn, Faroe Islands, on the first lap of a flight to Greenland where he will look for the missing British scientist, Augustine Courtauld.

From the Faroe Islands, Captain Ahrenberg will fly to Reykjavik, probably to-day. It is about 390 miles from Bergen to the Faroe Islands and about 528 miles from the Faroes to Reykjavik.

Captain Ahrenberg flew from Malmoe to Bergen Wednesday but was prevented from taking off yesterday by bad weather. Reports from Iceland said zero temperatures prevailed there and there was danger of ice forming on the wings.

Captain Ahrenberg's plane is equipped with pontoons and replaceable skiis by which it may alight on the snow in the desolate Greenland regions where Courtauld is lost.

Courtauld, a member of the British Arctic air route expedition, volunteered to remain on the ice cap all winter to obtain meteorological data. Since then relief expeditions which were sent to pick him up could not locate his camp.

CHILD MARRIAGE BANE OF INDIA

Margaret Mayo's New Book Says Recent Law a Sham.

LITTLE GIRLS MARRIED

NEW YORK, May 1 (U.P.)— Katherine Mayo, whose book, "Mother India," aroused a storm of international recriminations four years ago, returned to the battle "for Indian child life" to-day with a new volume, repeating her old charges relating to child-marriages, and declaring they are as widespread as ever in India, despite a new law intended to control them.

When a Hindu girl of 7 or 8—or it might even be 2—is married to a man of 30 or 40, Miss Mayo says, no law exists that can cancel or invalidate the marriage.

"That law rushed through the Legislature by Indian politicians," the third and fourth generations, a toothless dummy, a political sop to England and America. It neither invalidates nor checks the marriage even of a baby 2 days old. It gives the courts power to impose a small fine on a man under 21 who marries a child under 14. But if he hasn't the money to pay the fine he goes scot free, and no power on earth can take his child-bride away from him."

Miss Mayo's book, in great part, is devoted to analysis of the report of a committee which has studied the problem for several years throughout the various provinces making up the Indian Empire.

She finds that the Hindu husband "is hampered by no bonds of monogamy," and that "the wife rejected, regardless of the cause of her dismissal, retains no place in the world .... Public opinion looks at her askance, and girls cannot remarry even if divorced."

The Brahminic law of marriage, as generally accepted by Hindu orthodoxy, Miss Mayo declares, is that, "if a child is married before her sixth year, her parents go to a first-class heaven; that is, attain the highest re-birth possible." Thereafter, as the child grows older before marriage, the degrees of "re-birth" descend.

"Extravagant Hindu customs, Miss Mayo points out, "in weddings and dowries, still impoverish families to the third and fourth generations, wasting in a day more than a lifetime of industry can earn.

STEWART IS BUSY FENDING ATTACKS OVER ESTIMATES

$2,239,150 IS VOTED.

Bennett Promises to Probe Accuracy of Report on Ferguson Speech.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1 (C.P.) — Parliament spent May Day discussing estimates of the Department of Public Works. A year ago, Hon. Charles Dunning, then Minister of Finance, presented what came to be known as the "May Day Budget." It is not expected Hon. R. B. Bennett's budget will be brought down before at least another two or possibly three weeks.

Estimates of the Department of Public Works were before the House all day yesterday. Hon. Hugh A. Stewart, the Minister, was busy parrying Opposition attacks, answering innumerable questions and offering detailed information on each item. As the Minister in charge of the estimates, the onerous burden was his of explaining why certain buildings were to be constructed and offering reasons why others were not.

No Time for False Economy

Because of unemployment conditions in Canada, what the Government proposed to spend on public buildings was not large enough, succeeding Opposition members charged. This was not the time for a "false economy," declared A. A. Heaps Lab., Winnipeg North). The Government's policy of retrenchment in this direction was "penny wise and pound foolish," is the opinion of William Duff (Lib., Antigonish-Guysboro).

Slightly over $5,000,000 of the money voted by the late Liberal administration for public buildings had not been expended by the Bennett Government when it took over the Treasury benches, it was charged by different Liberal members. This money, instead of remaining idle in the Treasury should have been expended to provide work for Canadian labor.

Discrimination again certain parts of the country was charged by Opposition members. Practically the entire 1930 votes for Ontario and Alberta had been expended by the present Government after assuming office. Only varying portions of the 1930 votes for Nova Scotia, Quebec and some of the Western Provinces had been expended. Why were some Provinces treated differently from others, asked the Opposition members?

Since assuming office, the Government had found taxation decreasing, money was not being collected in as great a volume as had been expected. Passing of estimates did not oblige the Minister to proceed at once with the construction program. Frequently circumstances arose which made it inadvisable to proceed with work for which financial provision had been made. No Government in the past had expended the full total of its estimates, Mr. Stewart asserted.

When the day was over, Parliament had provided the Government with $2,239,150 which will be spent in the present fiscal year for public works in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Guarded Answer

A guarded answer from Premier Bennett featured an incident relative to Old Age Pensions introduced by Hon. Peter Heenan (Lib., Kenora-Rainy River). The former Minister of Labor wanted to know when new legislation would be introduced by the Government, evidently referring to the Federal Government assuming a larger share of the costo f the exist-

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 1.—Police Commissioner Mulrooney mobilized special details yesterday in preparation for the May Day celebration today.

He ordered a police guard for every church and public building and for homes of prominent citizens and asked every precinct commander, especially those near Union Square, the centre of the Communist speech-making, to keep reserve squads ready.

The spotlight will fall mainly on the Communists, Socialists and veterans of foreign wars, all of whom have arranged to meet in Union Square at hours prescribed by the police department, so as to avoid possible conflict.

MURDER, SUICIDE AND BLACKMAIL SCOURGE OF GOLDEN GATE CITY

Newspapers of San Francisco Crowded With Lurid Racketeering Stories.

SITUATION ALARMING

By FRANK CHAMBERLAIN
(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1931)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 1—Ugly murders, suicides, racketeering killings and blackmail crashed the front pages of the local newspapers here as I arrived in a section of the country that has more life—and more death—than any place I've been in for a long time.

Just listen to this and then whisper to your folks how lucky you are to live in Canada.

Slipping into the darkened basement of his corset store, William C. Pomin, proprietor of a chain of stores, committed suicide by hanging himself early to-day. He left a note to his wife: "My mind has gone, and I am better off dead than living. Responsibility to my darling wife, the best and dearest woman that ever breathed. She tried hard to brace me up, but I got worse daily. "Goodbye."

Seventeen year old Louise Teuber, whose practically nude body was found swinging from a tree a few miles away from here, is thought to have been murdered by a man whose dead body was found here yesterday. He had strangled himself.

Mistaking insect poison for wine, Leslie Tobleman, 25, drank the contents of a bottle here to-day and died a few minutes later.

Just outside San Francisco authorities and hundreds of citizens are on one of the greatest man hunts known in this part of the woods, to find a Mexican youth, suspected of attacking 11 year old Merle Springer and stabbing her to death.

Rupert Whitehead, wealthy retired broker, committed suicide just outside San Francisco yesterday, and today his counsel and relatives were sued for $25,000 in connection with the alleged purchase of a promissory note.

Thats not nearly all!

Stabbed through the neck by an unkown assailant, Vido Lutich, chef in restaurant in the heart of Oakland just across the bay, died few minutes later.

Just a little south of here, Paul Crank, 22 year old hi-jacker and bootlegger suspect, died in the emergency hospital, victim of a gangland bullett.

When Lt.-Col. Charles F. Armstrong got out of his car yesterday and went over to talk with a man whose automobile had crashed into his, he met the barrel of a gun, the holder of which threatened to shoot unless he cleared out.

Nice people!

And oh, yes! Here's another! Believed to hve been dead about a week, the pyjama-clad body of Mrs. W. B. Bibbens, wealthy and said to be 37 years old, was discovered in her home. Her throat had been slashed and a towel—saturated with blood — was knotted tightly about her neck. The room showed signs of terrific struggle.

investments in this country came from the United States and less than one-quarter from Great Britain. "You can imagine the influence of a connection of that kind," the former Ontario Premier was quoted as saying.

Synod Confronted With Grave Problem

Members Decide Parish Must be Saved When Clergyman in Charge Passes Period of Usefulness.

MONTREAL, May 1 (By The Canadian Press).—How shall a rector be removed from a parish when he has outlived his period of usefulness in that parish? This was the problem that came before the Montreal Synod recen ly, a problem wh ch has been the bane of bishops in the Church of England not only in this land but wherever its dioceses extend for years.

"I am as powerless as a baby when the question of the removal of a rector comes up. The problem is one of the most heart-breaking things I have had to deal with," Bishop Farthing stated in putting the matter before the Synod and in asking the members to appoint a committee to act with him in attempting to find some means of removing a rector whose usefulness is gone.

The delicacy of the question was immediately seen when a number of protests were raised from the floor of Synod. There was a great danger in injuring some incumbent, one delegate pointed out. Another claimed that it would seem rather presumptuous for the Synod here to attempt to solve a problem for which a solution had not been found by the bishops in England. Still another stated that machinery to remove a rector was "a very, very dangerous thing."

The Very Rev. Dean Arthur Carlisle, who was the mover of the resolution asking that a committee be formed to deal with the problem in the diocese, explained that no attempt was to be made as yet to set up any machinery or power for the removal of a rector. The resolution simply asked that a committee be formed to study the matter.

Bishop Farthing stated that often the members of a parish had come to him asking that he do something in regard to the removal of a rector. "Why does not the Bishop do something?" was the question in the minds of the flock. Bishop Farthing explained that he was powerless to act though it was "a hard thing to see a parish wrecked when it could be saved."

"We should be able to handle this question," he continued, pointing out that the only way at present to remove a "self-willed and irresponsible chaplain" was to starve him out, as Bishop Farthing had been told at the beginning of his career as a cleric, he said. This was a most repu'sive means to take, in the estimation of the Bishop.

When the urgency of the matter was explained, members of the Synod agreed unanimously that something should be done. They decided that a committee should be formed to act with the Bishop iin this question. Delegates were further informed that there were only two counts on which a rector could now be removed, when he had committed some immoral act or was preaching heresy.

ing scheme. Information of this nature would be available when the Governor-General gave the usual approval, was the Prime Minister's reply.

J. S. Woodsworth (Lab, Winnipeg North-Centre) referred to press despatches stating that office employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway had consented to "lay off" for three days each month, equivalent to a ten per cent. wage reduction. As the railway was a "semi-public" body, would the Government make any statement, he asked? There was no answer from the Government benches, and the House shifted to another order of business.

"The Government will do what it considers best in the public interest," declared Premier Bennett when asked by S. W. Jacobs, (Lib., Cartier-Montreal) if the administration would consider "cramping the style of the Canadian High Commissioner." Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Canada's representative in Great Britain, was quoted by the Liberal member as saying more than three-quarters of the foreign

Ford Refuses To Permit Wage Cut In Own Factory And 5,000 Others

DETROIT, May 1.—Henry Ford refuses to consider or permit wage reductions in his own plants, or in the more than 5,000 other factories that supply them with material and parts.

A spokesman for the Ford Motor Company explained today that Mr. Ford had announced that there will be no deflation of labor in his plants as an aftermath to the depression nor are there likely to be wage cuts by the manufacturing concerns which are constantly employed on Ford work.

Mr. Ford believes, it was said, that if the general level of wages were reduced it would take labor twenty years to get back. The concerns which sell their product to him are understood to hold similar views. To prevent wage cuts by these concerns the Ford Motor Company makes periodical inspection of their mill's, taking the position that the degree of quality required on its work cannot be produced by second or third rate labor. Few such concerns have been found to have reduced wages.

"The Ford company contributed to unemployment relief during the most distressing Winter months," said the spokesman, "by operating at a higher rate than was necessary at the time, building up a reserve of motors and parts. This reserve is now about completed. Total employment of the Ford company in the Detroit district is now nearly 100,000.

"Ford already has spent $1,000,000 on his experimental farm devoted to discovering new uses for agricultural products, which will provide work for many employees during slack Summer months. This development is just getting under way and is expected to take $5,000,000 before it is fully completed."

GOVT. AT LISBON CLAIMS VICTORY OVER INSURGENTS

Landing Made on Madeira Island Under Heavy Bombardment.

REPORTS VARY WIDELY.

Rebels Report Enemy Driven Back in Disorder—Prisoners Taken.

LISBON, Portugal, May 1 (A.P.)—The Government claimed to-day that its expeditionary force sent to Madeira to bring that island back under the Lisbon authority had landed troops near Funchal and forced the rebels back upon the city at several points.

The landing was made under cover of a heavy bombardment of the island city, and a number of shells from the warships Vasco Da Gama and Vouga fell in populous sections of Funchal, which was believed here to have been deserted by civilians.

In some quarters here it was commented that the victories reported by the Government did not mean that the reebls had lost their fight against the expeditionary force, since Funchal is fortified both by man and nature and easy to defend against a large attacking force.

Captured Third of Island

The Government claimed that one-third of the Island of Madeira was already in its hands and that three columns of troops which had been landed and were marching on Funchal had occupied Sao Vincente, Camaro Do Lobis and Machico.

It added that the fall of Funchal was considered certain and that the revels had abandoned positions on the heights which were the nucleus of the city's defense, Government troops having already reached its outskirts.

During the bombardment seaplanes flew over Funchal and dropped a number of bombs on the rebel positions. In some places the rebels threw down their arms and joined with the Lisbon troops.

Rebels Claim Victory

FUNCHAL, Madeira, May 1 (A.P.)—The revolutionary Junta which has controlled Madeira for a month, today claimed a victory in severe fighting which took place near here yesterday between defending insurgent troops and a landing force of the Lisbon expeditionary force.

The insurgent Junta issued a communique which said:

"Two enemy detachments of approximately 300 men and machine guns attempted to land at Santa Cruz Beach under cover of two warships which bombarded our positions for forty minutes.

"After an engagement lasting an hour the enemy retired in disorder, leaving war material and a number of prisoners in our hands."

BELIEVE FUTURE WEATHER SAGES MAY FORECAST 25 YEARS AHEAD

Will Make Deduction By Study of Heat From Oceans, and Sun Spots.

WILL PREDICT DROUGHTS.

By F. B. COLTON

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 1 (A.P. Science Writer)—An opinion that future weather prophets may be able to forecast droughts and wet spells as much as 25 years ahead was expressed yesterday before the American Geophysical Union.

A. F. Gorton of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of California, said upward and downward trends in rainfall might be detected that number of years in advance by closer study of sunspots and the output of heat from the surface of the oceans.

There is evidence that rainfall increases and decreases in regular cycles over certain regions, he told the union, which opened its annual meeting here yesterday.

If the length of these cycles can be established it will be of enormous economic value to industry and agriculture, Gorton said.

Ocean Plays Part

Rainfall cycles may be related to changes in the amount of radiation from the sun, Gorton said. He advanced the theory that major seasonal weather changes of the continents may be caused by variations in the heat given off by the surface of oceans.

There is increasing evidence that sunspots and weather are related in some way, it was pointed out. Violent storms occur in the Eastern United States when sunspots are numerous.

Rainfall records kept for many years at Boston, Charleston, South Carolina, and Rome indicate there may be long rainfall cycles of from 70 to 90 years, Gorton said.

California records seem to reveal long cycles of 80 years, and shorter ones of two and three, five to six and 22 to 26 years.

The gradual drying up of such deserts as those in the Sahara, Peru, Mongolia, Tibet, Mexico, and New Mexico probably represents the downward side of long rainfall cycles lasting several hundred years, he explained.

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1931

A POPULAR APPOINTMENT.

The announcement of the appointment to the bench of Frank K. Field, K.C., of Cobourg, has been received with satisfaction throughout this district.

Mr. Field, who is to be junior judge of the county of York where he is to be associated with a former Peterboroughian, His Honor Judge Dan O'Connell, is well and favorably known not only in his home town of Cobourg but generally in this part of Ontario.

In particular he has a host of friends in Peterborough who have been delighted to learn of the honor that has been accorded him.

His record as a lawyer and his standing as a citizen are guarantees that as a county court judge he will give general satisfaction.

There may be some doubt as to the necessity at the present time of appointing more judges, but there is none so far as the wisdom of choosing such an outstanding citizen as Frank M. Field is concerned.

If the other appointments have been as carefully made the verdict of this district will be that the Federal Government has been particularly fortunate in the selections it has announced at this time.

A CONVERSION SCHEME.

While details will be withheld for the present, the announcement by Premier Bennett yesterday that the Dominion Government is preparing plans for a new long-term conversion issue will clear the air.

Through this plan holders of the Dominion bonds which fall due in 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934 will be given the chance to convert these bonds into a long-term issue for which it is expected the Government will pay 4½ per cent.

The Premier makes it clear that no new money will be asked for. "The operation will be entirely one of conversion," Mr. Bennett declares.

When a full opportunity has been given for holders of the existing bonds to apply for conversion the balance of the bonds are to be financed later "in such forms," the Premier explains, "as the Government may determine to be in the public interest."

In this connection there are many financiers who believe that the Federal Government should seek the money required to take care of the balance of the bonds shortly falling due outside of Canada, believing that such a plan would be preferable to tieing up more Canadian money in this way.

Mr. Bennett is silent on that point, however, and the whole situation will remain more or less obscure until the details of the conversion of the present bonds have been made public and that operation practically complete.

One billion and eighty-three million dollars worth of bonds will come due in the next four years.

NOT MUCH CONTROL HERE.

It looks as if the Liquor Control Board of Ontario should be able to find material for a rigid investigation in that story of the Toronto man with three liquor permits and a record of $1,100 worth of liquor purchases since last November.

The system of control operated by the board should make that kind of thing impossible if the employees of the Government stores are doing their work honestly and efficiently.

It is not impossible, of course, for a man to get more than one permit and to escape detection for some time, but there is something materially wrong in the fact that this individual was allowed to purchase such large quantities of liquor.

The vendors with whom he dealt knew his circumstances or they did not; in either case they had no right to permit him to buy over a thousand dollars' worth of liquor in a few months.

There has been carelessness in regard to this man's purchases that is flagrant enough for the Liquor Control Board to go gunning for the officials who allowed such abuses of the control system to develop.

The Liquor Control Act was designed to control sales, and is used for that purpose by conscientious vendors; in this particular case, however, there is not the slightest evidence of control, and the offenders should be called upon to explain to Sir Henry Drayton why the system slipped a cog.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE.

Premier Bennett has unequivocally committed his Government to the introduction of a scheme of contributory unemployment insurance before its term of office expires.

His announcement to this effect in the House on Wednesday was somewhat in the nature of a surprise.

The Premier's flat refusal to consider the proposal made to him some weeks ago that a non-contributory plan of insurance should be put into effect created the impression that he was not enthusiastic about any form of unemployment insurance.

His definite pledge to bring down legislation based on the information gained in the coming session was, therefore, not expected, particularly by the Opposition.

What the reaction of the Canadian people to the proposed plan will remain to be seen.

Rural Canada will naturally not be enthusiastic, and there may be opposition in other quarters.

The vast majority of people, of course, will agree that if unemployment insurance is to come at all it must come on a contributory basis; they will agree, too, with Mr. Bennett that "the legislation to be placed on the statute books shall be legislative action based upon knowledge and not upon mere guess work."

The Premier is well advised to wait until complete information is available and until the scheme can be launched on a sound acturial foundation.

A wrong start would be to embog Canada in financial committments that would wreck the country.

BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING.

It is generally admitted by those of wide experience that skillful advertising largely increases business. It is not so generally recognized, however, that it not only increases sales but indirectly benefits the community concerned in many ways. It is an utterly incorrect view to assume that only the advertiser benefits. The fact that advertising, as a whole, is strictly honest has made it a trustworthy guide for purchasers in many directions. In emphasizing this aspect of advertising the bulletin of the Newspaper Enterprise Association editorially says:

"You have a mill in the area in which you live, let us say. It employs 1,000 in normal times. Now only 700 are working. Why? Because there is not the demand for its products. That demand can be increased by advertising, and men will go back to work. The entire community, as well as the employer, will benefit. Producers will become buyers, and the welfare of the whole people, from millionaire to laborer, will be affected. In 1929, $60,000,000 was spent to sell 5,358,000 cars, a cost for advertising of $11 a car. Without advertising it is reasonable to assume many fewer cars would have been sold. Thousands, perhaps millions, employed in the automobile industry would not have had a job. Steel workers, tire manufacturers, paint producers — all would have been affected. The analogy can be applied to department stores, other types of stores—to industry as a whole."

There is no doubt, whatever, that skillful, truthful and attractive advertising mutually benefits the seller, the buyer and the general public. Every considerable addition to the volume of sales made is a substantial benefit to the community concerned. In fact, it extends beyond the community for its ramifications into various industries are far and wide. The example given in the foregoing quotation is convincing proof of the benefit of publicity.—Brantford Expositor.

GRADED SALARIES.

Mr. Bennett has deprived his Ministers of their state-owned and operated motor cars, and compensated them for their grief by a $2,000 a year increase in their salaries. Mr. Bennett has thus made the best of both worlds, saving money for the country and perhaps making some for his Ministers. For an outlay of $2,000 a man may ride in a taxi to almost any city destination at least six times a day, Sunday included, and as even Cabinet Ministers must occasionally walk, the probabilities are that they will end the year a few hundred dollars to the good. Most of us, certainly, would be glad to take $2,000 a year in lieu of a car.

Not that the Journal begrudges increases in the salaries of Ministers. On the contrary, this newspaper has consistently taken the position that if a man has enough ability to be a Cabinet Minister he ought to be worth more to the country than a salary of $10,000 a year. In some Government departments, indeed, it is almost impossible to get the right sort of man for $10,000 a year.

What the Journal would like to see would be a grading of the salaries of Ministers. It is absurd, for example, that a Minister of Finance, calling for extraordinary capacity, should get the same salary as, say, a Minister of Marine, demanding far less capacity. Or, to carry the argument farther, that a Minister of Justice should get the same salary as, say, the Secretary of State.

Salaries of British Ministers are graded.

The total of annual salaries paid the British Ministers, under-secretaries and parliamentary secretaries, is $676,000.

It's a large sum. In Britain, it must be remembered, has no provincial legislatures, escapes Canada's nine provincial Premiers and their nine Cabinets, with a multiplicity of Ministers. If, indeed, the salaries of all our provincial Ministers were added to the salaries of our federal Ministers, it would be found that Canada's ten million people pay almost as much for ruling statesmen as Britain's forty million people.

Perhaps a good thing for Canada—especially in these days of necessary economy—would be fewer Cabinet Ministers, with salaries on an adequate scale. There are the departments of railways and canals, public works and marine. They are all public works. Little reason exists why these three departments could not be administered by a single Minister; all the more so inasmuch as the real work of administration is carried on by departmental heads. Then there are the departments of immigration and of the interior. With the most of the administrative work of the interior department gone, and with the immigration department concerned chiefly with keeping out immigrants, it is absurd to have a Minister of the Interior and a Minister of Immigration. The two departments could be merged into one; and the country would gain.

Economy, after all, shouldn't be lopsided. It should be sincere, intelligent and efficient. It should mean something. Perhaps it is unfair to expect that Mr. Bennett should do everything within a few months. It may well be, indeed, that now that he has made a beginning in less extravagant administration, he will march on to other necessary and efficient reforms. A smaller, more compact, more able and better paid Cabinet would be a progressive step.—;Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Have you had your tomato juice yet?

Reports of the St. Catharines convention indicate that when women get into politics a certain liveliness can be looked for.

Mr. Bennett has evidently succeeded in selling his trade policy to Mr. Baldwin. It remains to be seen, however, whether the British voters will be as willing to accept the doctrine of protection.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

The eyes of the Sarian noted the despair in the face of his companion and the tears in her eyes.

"Gura!" he cried. "What is the matter? Why do you cry?" and impulsively he stepped close to her and put a friendly arm about her shoulders, and Gura, unnerved by kindness, buried her face upon his breast and wept. And this was what Stellara saw—this scene was what love and jealousy put their own interpretation upon—and the eyes of the Amiocapian maiden flashed with hurt pride and anger.

"Why do you cry, Gura?" demanded Tanar.

"Do not ask me," begged the girl. "It is nothing. Perhaps I am tired; perhaps I am afraid. But now we may not think of either fatigue or fear, for if Jude is taking your mate toward the village of Carn we must hasten to rescue her."

"You are right," exclaimed Tanar "We must not delay," and, followed by Gura, he ran swiftly toward the base of the cliff, tracing the spoor of Jude and Stellara, where it led to the precarious ascent of the cliffside. And as they hastened on, brutal eyes watched them from the edge og the jungle from which they had themselves so recently emerged.

Where the steep ascent topped the summit of the cliff, bare rock gave back no clew to the direction that Jude had taken, but twenty yards further on, where the soft ground commenced again, Tanar picked up the tracks of the man, to which he called Gura's attention.

"Jude's footprints are here alone," he said.

"Perhaps the woman refused to go farther and he was forced to carry her," suggested Gura.

"That is doubtless the fact," said Tanar, and he hastened onward along the plain trail left by the Himean.

The way led now along a well-marked trail, which ran through a considerable area of bushes that grew considerably higher than a man's head. But Tanar did not slacken his speed, his sole aim being to overhaul the Himean before he reached his village.

As Tanar and Gura had capped the summit of the Cliff and disappeared from view, eighteen hairy men came into view from the forest and followed their trail toward the foot of the cliff. They were bushy-whiskered fellows with gay sashes around their waists and equally brilliant cloths about their heads. Iuge pistols and knives bristledo from their waist cloths, and cutlasses dangled from their hips—fate had brought these survivors of The Cid's ship to the foot of the cliffs below the village of Carn at almost the same moment that Tanar had arrived.

With sensations of surprise, not unmingled with awe, they had recognized the Sarian who had been a prisoner upon the ship and whom they thought they had seen killed by their musket fire at the edge of the natural well upon the island of Amiocap. The Korsars, prompted by the pernicious stubbornnes of ignorance, were moved by a common impulse to recapture Tanar. And with this end in view they waited until Gura and the Sarian had disappeared beyond the summit of the cliff, when they started in pursuit.

One may not say how long Jude was in the village of Carn, but as Tanar and Gura reached the edge of the bushes and looked across the clearing toward the walls of Carn, they saw Jude sneaking from the city. Could they have seen his face, they might have noticed a malicious leer of triumph, and could they have known the purpose that had taken him thus stealthily to his native village, they might have reconstructed the scenes of the bloody episode which had just been enacted within the house of the Himean. But Tanar only saw that Jude, whom he sought, was coming toward him, and that Stellara was not with him.

The Sarian drew Gura back into the concealment of the bushes that lined the trail which Jude was approaching. On came the Himean and while Tanar awaited his coming, the Korsars were making their clumsy ascent of the cliff, while Stellara, sick from jealousy and unhappiness, leaned disconsolately against the cold stone of her prison cave.

Jude, unconscious of danger, hastened back toward the spot where he had left Stellara and as he came opposite Tanar, the Sarian leaped upon him.

The Himean reached for his knife, but he was helpless in the grasp of Tanar, whose steel fingers closed about his wrists with such strength that Jude dropped his weapon with a cry of pain.

"What do you want?" he ried.

"Where is Stellara?" demanded Tanar.

"I do not know," replied Jude.

"You lie," said Tanar. "I have followed her tracks and yours to the summit of the cliff. Where is she?" He drew his knife. "Tell me, or die."

"I left her at the edge of the cliff while I went to Carn to arrange to have her received in a friendly manner. I did it all for her protection, Tanar. She wanted to go back to Korsar and I was but helping her,"

"Again you lie," said the Sarian: "but lead me to her and we shall hear her version of the story."

Sullenly the Himean guided them back along the path toward the cave where he had left Stellara while at the other edge of the bushes eighteen Korsars, warned by the noise of their approach, halted, listening, and presently melted silently from view in the surrounding shrubbery.

They saw Jude and Gura and Tanar emerge from the bushes, but they did not attack them; they waited to see for what purpose they had returned. They saw them disappear over the edge of the cliff at a short distance from the summit of the trail that led down into the valley. And then they emerged from their hiding places and followed cautiously after them.

Jude led Tanar and Gura to the cave where Stellara lay and when Tanar saw her, her dear wrists and ankles bound with thongs and her cheeks still wet with tears, he sprang forward and gathered her into his arms.

"Stellara!" he cried. "My darling!" But the girl turned her face away from him.

"Do not touch me," she cried. "I hate you."

"Stellara!" he exclaimed in amazement. "What has happened?"

But before she could reply, they were startled by a hoarse command from behind them, and, turning, found themselves looking into the muzzles of the pistols of eighteen Korsars.

Gazing into the muzzles of about thirty-sih huge pistols, which equally menaced the lives of Stellara and Gura, Tanar saw no immedia e alternative but surrender.

"What do you intend to do with us if we do surrender? Do you expect to return to Korsar?" asked Tanar.

"What is that to you, Sarian?" demanded the Korsar.

"It has a considerable bearing upon whether or not we surrender," replied Tanar. "You have tried to kill me before and you have found that I am hard to will. I know something about your keapons and your powder and I know that even at such close quarters I may be able to kill some of you before you can kill me. But if you answer my question fairly and honestly and if your answer is satisfactory, I shall surrender."

At Tanar's mention of his knowledge of thei powder, the Korsars immediately assumed that he knew that it was wet, whereas he was only alluding to its uniformly poor quality and so the spokesman decided that it would be better to temporize for the time being a least.

"A soon as we can build a boat we shall return to Korsar," he said, "unless in the meantime a Korsar ship anchors in the bay of Carn."

"Good," commented the Sarian. "If you will promise to return the daughter of The Cid safe and unharmed to her people in Korsar I will surrender. And you must also promise that no harm shall befall this other girl and that she shall be permitted to go with you in safety to Korsar or to remain here among her own people as she desires."

"How about the other man?" demanded the Korsar.

"You may kill him when you kill me," replied Tanar.

Stellara's eyes widened in fearful apprehension as she heard the words of the Sarian and she found that jealousy was no match for true love.

"Very well," aid the Korsar. "We accept the condition. The women shall return to Korsar with us, and you two men shall die."

"Oh, no," begged Jude. "I do not wish to die. I am a Himean. Carn is my home. You Korsars come there often to trade. Spare me and I shall see that you are furnished with more hides than you can pack in your boat, after you have built it."

The leader of the band laughed in his face. "Eighteen of us can take what we choose from the village of Carn," he said. "We are not such fools as to spare you that you may go and warn your people."

"Then take me along as a prisoner," wailed Jude.

"And have to feed you and watch you all the time? No."

As Jude spoke he had edged over into the mouth of the save, where he stood half behind Stellara as though taking shelter at the expense of the girl. Suddenly, he turned, before anyone could prevent him, and disappeared into the cave behind him. Instantly Korsar's leaped in pursuit. But when they emerged they were empty handed.

"He escaped us," said one. "This cave is the mouth of a dark, long tunnel with many branches. We could see nothing and fearful that we should become lost, we returned to the opening. We had better kill this one immediately before he has an opportunity to escape too," and the fellow raised his pistol and aimed it at Tanar, possibly hoping that his powder had dried.

"Stop!" cried Stellara, jumping in front of the man. "As you all know, I am the daughter of The Cid. If you return me to him in safety you will be well rewarded. I will see to that. You all knew that The Cid was taking this man to Korsar, but possibly you did not know why."

"No," said one of the Korsars.

"He knows how to make firearms and powder far superior to ours and The Cid was taking him back to Korsar that he might teach the Korsars the secrets of powder making and the manufacture of weapons, that we do not know. If you kill him The Cid will be furious with you, and you all know what it means to anger The Cid. But if you return him to Korsar your reward will be much larger."

"How do we know that The Cid is alive?" demanded one of the Korsars; and" if he is not who is there who will pay reward for your return, or for the return of this man?"

"The Cid is a better sailor than Bohar the Bloody—that you all know. And if Bohar the Bloody brought his boat safely through to Amiocap there is little doubt but that The Cid took his safely to Korsar. But even if he did not, even if The Cid perished, still will you receive your reward if you return me to Korsar."

"Who will pay it?" demanded one of the sailors.

"Bulf," replied Stellara.

"Why should Bulf pay a reward for your return?" asked the Korsar.

"Because I am to be his mate. It was The Cid's wish and his."

By no change of expression did the Sarian reveal that these words inflicted like a knife thrust through his heart. He surely stood with his arms folded, looking straight ahead.

For a time the Korsars discussed Stellara's proposition in low whisper and then the spokesman addressed her.

"But if The Cid is dead there will be no one to reward us for returning the Sarian; therefore, we might as well kill him, for there will be enough mouths to feed during the long journey."

"You do not know that The Cid is dead," insisted Stellara; "but if he is, who is there better fitted to be chief of the Korsars than Bulf? And if he is chief he will reward you for returning this man when I explain to him the purpose for which he was brought back to Korsar."

"Well," said the Korsar, "perhaps you are right. If he will promise to help us work the boat, we shall take him with us. But how about the girl here?"

Stellara turned to Gurna "What do you wish to do?" Her voice was cold and haughty.

Stellara's eyes narrowed and for an instant they flashed fire, but immediately they resumed their natural, kindly expression, though tinged with sadness.

"Very well, then," she said, turning sadly away, "the girl must return with us to Korsar."

The sailors discussed this question at some length and most of them were opposed to it, but when Stellara insisted and assured them of still greater reward, they finally consented.

The Korsars marched boldly across the mesa, past the walls of Carn, their harquebuses ready in their hands, knowing full well the fear of them that past raids had implanted in the breasts of the Himeans.

As they reached the opposite side of the mesa, where they could look out across the bay of Carn, a hoarse shout of pleasure arose from the throats of the Korsars, for there, at anchor in the bay, lay a Korsar ship. The Korsars fairly tumbled down the precitous trail to the beach.

Rushing to the edge of the water, they tried to discharge their harquebuses to attract attention from the vessel. A few of the charges had dried and the resulting explosion awakened signs of life upon the anchored ship. The sailors on the shore tore off sashes and handkerchiefs, which they waved frantically as signals of distress, and presently they were rewarded by the sight of the lowering of a boat from the vessel.

Within speaking distance of the shore, the boat came to a stop and an officer hailed the men on shore.

"Who are you?" he demanded.

"We are part of the crew of the ship of The Cid," replied the sailor's spokesman. "Our ship was wrecked in mid-ocean and we made our way to Amiocap and then to Hime, but here we lost the boat that we built upon Amiocap."

Assured that the men were Korsars the officer commanded that the boat move in closer to the shore and finally it was beached. The brief greetings and explanations over, the officer took them all aboard and, shortly afterward, Tanar of Pellucidar found himself again upon a Korsar ship of war.

The commander of the ship new Stellara and after questioning them carefully, he approved her plan and agreed to take Tanar and Gura back to Korsar with them.

"Stellara!" he said. "what change has come over you?"

She turned and looked at him coldly. "In Amiocap you were well enough," she said, "but in Korsar you would be only a naked barbarian," and, turning, she walked away from him without another word.

Song of Optimists

We are genial optimists,
Our hearts are light and free;
In times of storm or sunshine
We work on cheerfully.

We are hopeful optimists.
No time for gloom or doubt;
If old depression calls on us,
We swiftly turn him out.

We are smiling optimists,
Our course is straight and clear;
We think and act constructively,
For us good times are here.

What To-day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a.m. to 11 a.m., from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:50 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The planetary aspects of May 1st seem to affect the psychic and mental, rather than the material. Expansion and enlightenment are promised, and it will prove to be an exceptionally auspicous time for all those engaged in literary or artistic work. Not favorable for travel.

A child born on this May 1st, will be blithe and happy-go-lucky, and any trouble that may come to it will be suppressed and never displayed. It will despise all ostentation, abhor hypocrisy, and love only frankness, truthfulness and naturalness. A useful career is its destiny.

Born on May 1st, you possess native genius, which only needs cultivation in order to produce good results. You evince a keen interest in all matters touching on public welfare, and if you desire, it should be easy for you to secure prominence in any such field of endeavor. You are a person of strong convictions, and, so long as you believe you are right, the gibes and criticism of opponents do not disturb your equanimity.

You are inventive and original, and have little use for hide-bound convention and not much respect for tradition. In a small community, your talents could only be exploited with great difficulty. You need a big area in which to work to the best advantage. Without being reserved, you are quiet, but persistent. A great deal of thought prompts your words, and careful consideration prefaces your actions.

Your character is a masterful one, and when you go "bald-headed" after a certain object, you invariably get it. In the home circle, you are affectionate, and your love nature needs expansion and an opportunity to express itself. You never wait for opportunities to come to you. You create them for yourself. Your horoscope denotes a successful and a fairly eventful life.

THE GIRLS' CAMP

Mr. Editor:

The girl guides are telling with glee that they are going to the boys' camp for their outing. Can it be, Mr. Editor, that the Rotarians are taking girls at their camp? If this is true, why was it not done before the citizens of Peterborough contributed towards a camp for the girls of Peterborough. Surely there is no need of overlapping!

FAIR PLAY

REALITY

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir—I hope most of the readers of your valuable paper have read with earnest the address given by Miss Constance Young of the Women's Missionary Society of Canada in St. Andrew's Church. Here let me quote the ethics: He that saves his life shall lose it and he who loses his life saves it.

(1) Reasoning out the first part of the phrase, "Pure Reason." If a man saves his life he cannot be dead. Therefore why say he is lost, or loses "his life" in the flesh.

(2) He that loses his life shall save it. Now if a man dies or is killed "pure reason" says the man is dead, he has lost his life. How shall he save it. Under realities no amount of reasoning will save that man's life. "Only reasoning in morals". Without taking or quoting "The Death of our Lord" and how He lives to-day, let me lead you to an incident which we all comprehend, which let us call reasoning in morals.

Two men who fought in the Great War: I, meaning me being one of them; the other my comrade, "The Unknown Soldier". I am alive, my life is saved, who will say I am dead. I belong to socley, to the nation, to living creatures; and yet how few know me. Ask some person who never knew me. What will they say? He may be dead for all I know. Therefore the greatest number of the people living in the world to-day are dead: to one another. That is why Christ said to His disciples 'Let the dead bury their dead..

Let us take the Unknown Soldier. I saw one die. To me, to you who are alive to-day the Unknown Soldier who is buried in London, England, is an unknown dead man, but morally I ask you is he dead? No. He is very much alive. That Unknown Soldier is the "Glory" being held up to the "moral blind". What for? To keep their living eyes shut. He died for a great "cause"—let us say "the life of civilization". He represents all who were killed on the "victor's" side, and they are all in heaven. The losers are all dead in "Hades." Who, dear readers, will believe it, the truth of these sayings we know to be true.

That, dear readers, is Reality.

John Begga.

Canada Cement Plant Closes For Two Weeks

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 1 (C.P.)—For the first time in eight years the Port Colborne plant of the Canada Cement Company has ceased operations. The shut-down, however, is expected to last only about two weeks. The necessity of removing about 40,000 barrels of clinker from the site of the new plant is the reason given for closing of the works. However, in spite of this, it will not mean that all the men will be laid off, as some sixty men will be retained on operating while another fifty will be put on construction work on the new plant which begins on Monday.

TORONTO LIST HOLDS STEADY

Noranda Advances to Within One-half Point of Its High for the Year.

NICKEL IS FIRMER.

TORONTO, Ont., May 1 (C.P.).—Yesterday's late rally failed to carry over in early trading on Toronto stock exchange today. The list was firm but the average of prices was not graded higher.

The market presented very much the appearance of a one stock market. Noranda went through another hectic period of trading with the price working higher steadily until it had once again pushed through 29 and to within about ½ a point of its record high for the year. But apart from Noranda the list was narrow and quiet.

International Nickel was firmer above 15, but also rather lightly traded. Brazilian and Ford of Canda at mid-day were both off from last night's close. Brazilian at 18½ and Ford at 20. Bell Telephone sold down a point to 142. Steels were firmer. Page-Hersey climbing above 80 again. C. P. R. sold at 34½ or better most of the time and Walker's, Massey-Harris were unchanged.

GOLDS FOLLOW NORANDA LEAD

OILS IN DEMAND.

TORONTO, Ont., May 1 (C.P.).—Under brisk accumulation, bulk of which is believed to originate in New York, Noranda moved steadily higher on today's mining market, carrying higher-priced golds with it and helping the balance of the list to retain the improved tone in evidence yesterday.

Opening strong, Noranda sold up to a high of $29, a point and a quarter above last night, but appeared to be softening a little at mid-day. Nickel was 40 higher at $15.40 when taken but also showed a slightly easier tendency at that level.

Dome featured the dividend-paying golds, establishing a gain of 65 at $11.25 in the forenoon. Gains of from 2 to 10 cents appeared in Vipond, Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes. Eldorado firmed a couple but small recessions appeared in Central Manitoba, Granada, Sylvanite, Moffatt-Hall, Ventures and Nipissing.

Oils were somewhat better demand, East Crest moving up5, Home Oil a couple, Homestead 3 and Nordon a point.

TORONTO LIST IS UNSETTLED BY THE BREAK

Several Pivotal Issues Register Fraction to Point Losses as Result.

TRADING DECREASES.

Noranda Break Comes as Surprise, Issue in Demand During Early Session.

TORONTO, Ont, May 1. —(CP)—Toronto stock exchange market weakened perceptibly in the final hour of trading today selling off in sympathy with New York and setting up a number of net losses of from fractions to more than one point among pivotal stocks.

A wide open break in Noranda which carried the price down some 4 points from the high of the day and approximately 2½ points below last night's close featured the market and had an unsettling effect upon the entire list. The sudden reverse was all the more conspicuous in view of the fact that in the early afternoon Noranda had been actively purchased and the price raised above 29 and to within a small fraction of the year's record price.

Trading increased on the reaction but during the greater part of the day it had been extremely slow. The rally of late yesterday failed to carry through and most stocks just held their own during the morning.

Nickel closed down more than a ½ point, Brazilian, C. P. R., among the leaders, were down nearly 1 point. Ford of Canada reacted to 19 where it was off 1¼ points from last night. Service Stations preferred sold at 71, down 1 point. Oils were irregular with Imperial and International Petroleum weakening towards the close and B. A. Oil holding rather well.

Sales totalled more than 32,000 shares.

New York Also Tumbles

NEW YORK, May 1. —(AP)— The stock market went into a tailspin late today.

Auburn auto tumbled about $40 from the day's best price, after surging up $14 in the early trading. U. S. Steel dropped more than $6 to a nwe low since 1927 at $113.50 and $114.25.

U.S. STEEL TURNS IRREGULAR TO-DAY

Auburn Surges Up 14 Points But Later Loses Much of That Advance.

(By Claude A. Jagger.)
(Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—The securities markets manifested a generally improved tone to-day, in consequence of the better feeling in Wall Street generated by yesterday's climatic rebound.

The stock market lost its vitality after a morning and midday advance. The bond market gave further evidence of the lifting of selling pressure. While the change of trend represented no fundamental change in economic conditions, it at least represented a growing conviction that troublesome situations had been smoothed out.

The stock market turned hesitant again in the afternoon, when Pullman dropped 3 points in response to its quarterly statement showing net of only 15 cents a share. Bethlehem was firm in the morning rising 3 points. U.S. Steel fluctuated uncertainly. In the morning upturn, Auburn surged up 14, but later lost much of that advance. Allied Chemical yielded most of a 4-point upturn. Miscellaneous issues selling up 2 points or so were Atchison, Union Pacific, Nash, Gulg States Steel, Johns Manville and Eastman, and gains of a point or so embraced a wide assortment of shares.

Dividends news was in the main reassuring, although earnings statements appearing were still of a character to cause doubts over maintenance of rates later in the year. The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey declared both the regular extra dividends of 25 cents a share, although Wall Street would not have been surprised had the extra been discontinued. Standards of New York also declared its regular payment.

ROSE FROM THE RANKS TO HEAD GREAT CANADIAN OIL INDUSTRY

C. O. Stillman Once Fired Furnaces and Worked With Machines.

A NOTED SPORTSMAN

(By J. H. Turnpenny.)

Charles Orrin Stillman has been referred to on occasions, as industry's Big Ben. Office employees scurrying to work in the morning see the powerful frame of Mr. Stillman as he turns in at the entrance and breathe a sigh of relief, for they know they will have time — but no more — to hang their hats and coats, and if they are girls, make a hurried dab at their noses with the powder puff, and be at their desk at the regulation hour. Punctuality and Mr. Stillman have ever been boon companions and that punctuality is not confined merely to the clock but extends throughout all his activities in all his work; it is a part and parcel of himself. It offers one explanation why, as president of Imperial Oil Co., Ltd., he is able to attend to the affairs of this largest of Canadian oil companies, whose field really is universal rather than Canadian, with minimum nervous expenditure on his part.

Mr. Stillman cannot be described as an "easy" executive to meet. He welcomes one with a marvellously soft and rich deep voice, yet his appearance is stern and he shows a slight sign of impatience at being disturbed in his work. He expects absolute precision from others as he demands it of himself and one must be prepared to state the object of one's visit explicitly and precisely. His answers are pointed, they ask while they yet answer, and they come so quickly as almost to turn an advance into a retreat. To gain Mr. Stillman's confidence, however, is to discover a charm of personality behind this mask of abruptness and impatience, a charm which is in harmony with that intriguing voice.

His smile, when it comes, is engaging; it is more, it is confidential. It explains the many flowers to be found in his office during the summer months, flowers which he has brought from home and whose companions he has distributed with evident pleasure to many other offices. His home is as unpretentious as is Mr. Stillman himself, but it is a bower of beauty, a rest for eyes wearied of the drab of pavements and cobblestones and marble-faced buildings.

An Athlete in Youth.

Mr. Stillman's splendid physique denotes the athlete, and the clearness of his eye attests to a body that is fit. As a youth he was an enthusiastic rower and covered long stretches of the Detroit river in a rowboat. He never lost that first love for the water, but as his personal wealth increased the rowboat was replaced by a yacht. The present-day "Thalassa," the product of Canadian designers and workmen at Orillia, is one of the finest crafts which has sailed the inland waters and yearly Mr. Stillman makes a trip to southern waters where he is an ardent sea-fisherman. For many years he has been associated with the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, of which he is now commodore. He is particularly interested in the junior members and lends every encouragement to the young sailors. It will be remembered that Mr. Stillman was the man who suggested that the Gertrude L. Thebaud, American ship, and Bluenose, from Nova Scotia, determine the supremacy of the fishing craft by battling it out over the long 375-mile seaway from Gloucester to Halifax. His natural leaning towards sport and the thrill of competition is not confined merely to sailing. He has investigated the possibilities of an annual classic for Canadian airmen. At one time he rode daily and had an excellent stable of his own. He enjoys an afternoon at the turf and when south frequently attends the whippet races. Of late years golf has taken its place with fishing as his chief recreation. He hits a powerful ball on the fairways.

Long Association With Oil Industry.

Mr. Stillman was born in Cleveland. His people were of English stock and in later years removed to Ontario, where the son was then located. Mr. Stillman Sr. was an official with the Standard Oil Co. and the son began his long association with the industry while not yet through school, working for the company during the holidays between terms. He fired furnaces, did almost every job about the plant and acquired a thorough knowledge of the many operations. After leaving school he was placed in different departments to complete his education as an oil man. Then he was transferred to Buffalo as superintendent of the plant and in 1897 was transferred to Sarnia, and has since been connected with Canadian enterprise, rising steadily as an executive with Imperial Oil Co., Ltd., to his present position as president of this large concern.

Imperial Oil Founded 1880.

Oil was first refined in Canada for illuminating purposes in 1862. The industry got its real boost in the early seventies when a European export business was developed. The refining gave life to crude production and as the output of crude from the oil springs and petroleum fields increased the refineries in turn were compelled to experiment and create a new demand to take care of the finished product. As was to be expected, there were periods when supply and demand were glaringly out of balance and overproduction with its consequent price reductions were a part of the cyclical development. Chiefly as a protection in the struggle for survival, the Imperial Oil Co. was formed in 1880.

Advent of the internal combustion engine stimulated demand and at the same time called for more intensive refining processes. The several companies forming the Imperial Oil were putting up a valiant struggle when Mr. Stillman came to Canada to take charge. Mr. Stillman found the plants primitive and most of them wrongly located for efficient and economical operation. He undertook to centralize operations under the one management, offering owners of the existing refineries stock in the new company and lived to become wealthy from their investment. Mr. Stillman directed construction of the new plant and in 1899 was appointed superintendent of the company and elected a director.

Mr. Stillman advanced steadily as an executive. The wider were his powers, the greater did he show the scope of his talents. He soon became noted as a keen judge of men, one who quickly uncovered the ablest leaders and gave them full play to develop. He had, indeed, been instrumental in associating with Imperial Oil, W. J. Hanna, the man whom he succeeded as president in 1919.

In keeping with the traditions of Imperial Oil, Mr. Stillman formed no outside connections but devoted himself to the affairs of the company. But the growth of the company and the prominence of its chief executives eventually forced them to break this tradition and accept positions on outside boards. Mr. Stillman has for some time now been a member of the board of directors of the Dominion Bank, and the London and Western Trusts Co. Ltd., as well as serving with companies allied in the oil industry.

Montreal Trading Favors Firm Trend

MONTREAL, Que., May 1.—(CP)—Montreal stock exchange listings opened the new month of May with a steady front, and for the first time in weeks the majority of price changes favored a more constructive trend. The losses in the main body of stock were few and small while most of the stocks which moved turned in advances before midday the sales volume was at a moderate level.

Canadian Car common sold up to 15 by midday where it held a net advance of 1½ over last night's close.

B.C. Power, Canada Cement, Cockshutt, International Nickel, Gurd, McColl-Frontenac, Canadian Car preferred, Canadian Pacific, Royal Bank and one or two others all held small fractional advances.

Montreal Power, Brazilian Traction and Smelters were off slightly from the previous closings.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(Cp)—Prime mercantile paper 2¼-2½ per cent.

Foreign exchange quiet, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain 4.86¼; France, 3.90 7-8; Italy, 5.23¼; Germany, 23.90½.

Chicago Wheat Gains Despite Adverse News

CHICAGO, Ill., May 1.—(CP)—Wheat prices tended strongly upward early to-day despite announcement that deliveries on May contracts at Minneapolis were immense, more than 23,000,000 bushels. May wheat deliveries in Chicago were about 4,000,000 bushels, and both at Minneapolis and here implied that all the wheat available was transferred to farm board allies.

Definite announcement that Germany's wheat import duty had been slashed 58 3-8 cents a bushel acted as the chief stimulus to grain price advances. Wheat started unchanged to ½ cent higher and afterward showed all around gains. Corn opened unchanged to 1 1-8 up and subsequently continued to average higher.

Standard Of N.J. Declares Dividend

NEW YORK, May 1.—(CP)—Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey directors today declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents.

Declaration of this regular extra was good news to Wall Street, where there had been some apprehension lest the extra payment be discontinued in view of the unsettled conditions in the oil industry.

DRAG CANAL FOR MISSING MAN.

WELLAND, Ont., May 1.—Dragging operations are continuing to-day for the body of Joseph Roos, 52 year old resident of Aqueduct street, whose hat and coat were found on the bank of the Welland canal near his home last night.

Roos's family returned home last night to find a note saying "goodbye" and that he could not "continue in poor health any longer." He had been crippled with rheumatism for some time.

Bridge operators on the Welland canal have been ordered to keep a lookout for the body.

TORONTO, Ont., May 1.—Toronto creameries lowered their prices to country shippers 3 cents per pound fat, yesterday, the new rates to go into effect for Friday's (to-day's) shipping. They quoted 24 cents for specials, 23 cents for No. 1 and 20 cents for No. 2, f.o.b. country points. ## KINGSTON INMATES TO WRITE EXAMS.

Twenty-six Candidates Will Write on Variety of Subjects.

KINGSTON, May 1 (Special to The Examiner).—Twenty-six convicts in the Kingston Penitentiary are to write at the coming Departmental Examinations, twenty-three taking the middle school work and three the upper shool work.

The candidates will write on a variety of subjects some of them even tackling Spanish There are none however, taking Latin or Greek. The examinations will be held during the latter part of June. The pupils who have been given instruction by the principal, Mr. Patterson, B.A., range in age from eighteen to forty-six. This class is the largest that has ever been trained at the prison. The Ontario Department of Education has remitted the fees of the candidates. Another class is in course of preparation to try the examinations for entrance into high school. It is also interesting to note that a number of the inmates have during recent years, passed all their examinations and are qualified to enter university courses. A gentleman suggests that the Big Brotherhood of Ontario might take the matter up with some of the Ontario universities so that these candidates might go on with the university work extra-murally.

PRETTY GARNISH.

Lamb chops are very pretty served with halves of apricots, whose center has been filled with green cherries.

Tips On Taking Snapshots

By LEWIS R. PARKS
(Sylva-Tone Snapshots, 122 Park St.)

Many types of cameras are on the market today. One of the most popular is the folding camera with a single or meniscus lens and a shutter featuring one, two or three instantaneous speeds together with time and bulb. The diaphragm opening is usually numbered 1-2-3-4. Under ordinary lighting conditions, that is subjects in bright sunshine, the shutter should be set at "1" or on the 1-25th of a second while the diaphragm should be set at 2. If the light is not so bright, a sort of hazy light, set the diaphragm at 1. Of course if the new Verichrone film is used good pictures can be obtained by using the 25th and setting at 2 even if it is dull light.

The type of camera mentioned above is usually fixed focus and there is little chance of failure. It is interesting to note that the percentage of good pictures taken with this type of camera is exceptionally high. If you have never used a camera before you can get good pictures under ordinary conditions with the single lens type, and little or no knowledge of photography is required.

A great many films that are "shot" in this city and district pass through our hands, and this experience suggests a few recommendations especially for the benefit of those who are buying their first camera.

In the first place, before putting a roll of film into your camera make sure that the shutter is working properly and that the lens is clean. If you are not sure of some detail of its operation take it to your druggist or photographer for a check-up. They will be pleased to give you every advice you need.

We are going to write from the standpoint of one who sees thousands of snapshots that are taken around Peterborough and the district. Many negatives are spoiled on account of errors that can be easily avoided.

Time Exposures.

A common error is that of taking a picture with the camera set at time. If your camera is of the folding type you will note at the top, over the lens, the letters "T", "I" and "B". It may be obvious that "T" stands for time, and is used only for making time exposures. For pictures of this nature the camera must always be set upon a tripod or some similar support, so that it cannot move during the exposure. Time exposures can be taken out of doors, but the exposure is usually very short. The time feature is more adapted for taking flashlights and interior pictures. Always make sure after you have been using the time setting on your shutter to set it back for instantaneous exposures, that is on the "I."

The other day a young man brought in a box camera to have us take the roll out for finishing. We noted that the camera was set for time, and asked him if he had been taking some time exposures. He expressed ignorance of that point, and said he had been taking only ordinary snaps. We told him the roll would be no good and explained the use of the shutter and its attachment. He learned his lesson, but it cost him a 'quarter.' When the film was developed, the negatives were all black, as the shutter had been open on them for some time, and they were over-exposed to the light.

Keep Camera Steady.

Another error is to set the camera at "B" or bulb. This results in the pictures being blurred and fuzzy as it is impossible to hold a camera still in the hand longer than one-tenth of a second. It is rather easy to get good pictures, and to that end it should be remembered to guard against moving the camera even to the slightest extent when you are pressing the shutter to make an exposure. This will spoil the picture by a more or less blurred effect.

Sometimes a beginner with a box camera will snap the shutter twice on the same picture; that is, click it once down and once up. On the box type of camera, click the shutter one way for one picture, and be sure to turn to the next film immediately after taking that picture. If you leave this little operation until later you usually forget. Be careful also, not to hold the hand or perhaps a finger or two over the lens while taking the snap. We have seen many snaps spoiled by the blurred outline of a finger or two across one corner.

Some failures are caused by attempts to take pictures when the light is poor resulting in under-exposure. With a meniscus lens camera you cannot help this under adverse light conditions, but if you have a camera with a better lens it is necessary to open the diaphragm or "window" so that more light can enter. It is possible to get good pictures, even snapshots, in very dull weather, but for the best results you need an anastigmat lens with a large diaphragm.

New Verichrome Film.

The Kodak Company has recently put on the market a new film known as Verichrome. This film is much faster, and it is possible to get a real good snaps with it on a dull day if you have only a box brownie. This film is a boom to the amateur photographers and can be purchased from all Kodak dealers. It costs a few cents more but it is well worth it. When using the Verichrome film be careful to avoid over-exposure which is possible from the fact that this is a faster film.

Make Your Own Movies

By FRED L. ROY
(The Roy Studio)

With the introduction of the 16MM standard amateur size moving picture film some years ago, tremendous impetus was given "home movies." It brought personal movies family. 100 feet of 16MM film is family. 100 feet of 16MM film is the equivalent of 250 feet of 35MM standard professional size. This reduces the cost in the same proportion. By process known to photography as "reversal" the same film which is taken in the camera, is projected on the screen. In other words the negative film is reversed and turned into a positive. This process further cuts down the cost as it eliminates the necessity of making a new positive film from the negative.

These modern little motion picture machines are simplicity itself to use. Literally it is no more difficult to make successful motion pictures with a Cine Kodak than it is to make snapshots with a Brownie Camera. The shutter speed is set and requires no regulation. The focus is universal on some models. There is no cranking the machine while taking the picture. The Cine Kodak is operated by a spring motor. All that is necessary is to press a small lever or button and the machine immediately goes into operation. The quality of the pictures when properly taken are quite the equal of the best professional news reels. During the Confederation celebration in Peterborough some years ago, we produced for the Capitol Theatre about 800 feet of film depicting the principal events of that day. The films were sent to the Eastman Kodak Co. in Rochester, who enlarged them to the standard 35MM size with no loss in quality as compared with the other news reel pictures. This was the first time a local event had been photographed in movies and projected in a local theatre.

Color Pictures Now.

There is something absolutely fascinating about making and showing your own movies—portraits of the old folks, pictures of the children at play, scenes from your travels, all have added interest when shown on the silver screen—they have life, action and colour. Recently the Eastman Co. have introduced a most remarkable photographic achievement known as Kodacolor, or home movies in full natural colour and they are just as easy to make and show as black and white. From an educational and advertising standpoint the 16MM film is serving a valuable purpose. No greater joy can be given the children than an evening at home with the movies and you can censor your own films. Kodascope Libraries provide a rental service in Canada of over 500 films from which you can make your selection. There are Charlie Chaplin comedies, Shakesperian tragedies, such masterpieces as Kismet, The Covered Wagon, etc. and the old time favorites such as Felix and Rin Tin Tin. All the pictures made for the Trent Waterway film, which was exhibited in New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Detroit, etc. were made with a Cine Kodak. "The Story of Stocks Bread" is another very fine educational film produced recently for Stocks Bakery.

Reports At W.M.S. Convention

The report on Temperance was presented by Mrs. W. H. Ashton of Campbellford.

This subject, she said, was inexhaustible as it dealt with one of Canada's greatest problems.

In three years the number of liquor permits has increased from 220,000 to over 400,000 and consumption of liquor is steadily on the increase. This means that every other family in the province of Ontario is holding a permit and it would average $17 spent on liquor for every man, woman and child. The sixty millions spent on liquor by Ontario alone would go far towards relieving the distress, owing to present industrial depression. It is said that those favoring liquor in the United States together with the breweries have untold millions to fight prohibition; but again we have a contrast when Dr. W. M. Mayo writes, "The great middle classes are no longer drinking, and Admiral Kerr says, "Millions of young men are growing up in the States who have never tasted alcohol." The most effective way to change conditions in Canada is by education, for no Government can exact legislation in advance of the people and hope to make the law a success. If this education is sane and Christian it will be expressed ultimately in legislation that will bear the imprint of Christ. The time is ripe to launch a peraistent, well-planned campaign in the Sunday school and public school. And mothers should be very watchful of the boys and girls in their homes. In closing, the speaker paid loving tribute to the memory of Mrs. Plunkett and explained deep sorrow in her tragic passing. As Temperance Secretary for this Presbyterial, she was one of the most enthusiastic and capable, and deep sympathy goes out to her friends."

Strangers' Secretary

Mrs. S. T. Chown of Renfrew expressed deep sorrow in the passing of our beloved Board Secretary, Mrs. J. M. West. During the year just ended we have missed her wise and kindly guidance and the inspiration of her letters. In this department we have two distinct problems: the cities and rural districts, and we have many varieties of strangers. The new Canadians coming to our land to seek employment and the removal of our own boys and girls from rural districts to the cities, where they go for higher education, etc. The Strangers' Secretary should visit every possible stranger in her vicinity and do what she can to be helpful. She quoted many examples of the wonderful Christian service being extended to all varieties of strangers and how these folk appreciate our 'overtures of kindness. Are the secretaries letting opportunities slip by? "We cannot begin to measure the value of these removal slips when filled out properly, etc. Still we have auxiliaries who as yet have not caught the vision. This department has inexhaustible opportunities for expressing the spirit of Christianity. Through the careful study of the strangers coming to our lands, and the homes from which they came, we have naturally moved on to the study of these countries and the international problem. So truly we have became a department of World Friendship. We have 294 secretaries working in the Bay of Quinte Branch.

Supply Secretary

Mrs. James Glazier of Brockville said the Supply Department brings joy and comfort into many homes; to babies, boys and girls, women and men. Many of these things are knitted by the busy hands of our women and girls. During 1930 bales were sent to five Indian Missions in Alberta, and to needy places in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and in the local Bay of Quinte Branch. The total value of bales sent was $8,090.63. The women are very enthusiastic about this department as well as the teen age girls and the bands.

We have been enabled through the splendid co-operation of our Presbyterial secretaries to respond to the calls promptly, generously and fittingly. May we continue in this department to be ready to relieve suffering and distress, always giving thanks to our Heavenly Father who has made it possible.

Following are the statistics for the different Presbyterials:—

|---|---|
| Belleville | $2,187.96 |
| Cobourg | 1,040.46 |
| Kingston | 1,068.11 |
| Lindsay | 1,552.10 |
| Oshawa | 283.00 |
| Peterborough | 775.00 |
| Renfrew | 1184.00 |

Corresponding Secretary

Mrs. J. G. Sills of Foxboro the corresponding Secretary sounded a note of optimism in opening her report by calling attention to the fact that in spite of the prevalent unfavorable economic conditions the love for God has been made manifest in the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch by the earnest devotion of the members to the carrying on of His work. Most of the reports indicate that progress is being made and express enthusiasm in the great cause and an optimistic outlook. The executive of the Dominion Board extends to the Bay of Quinte Branch their deep appreciation of the faithful work of the officers and members.

There are in the branch 294 Auxiliaries which with six Associate Societies have a total membership of 10916. Thirty Young Women's Auxiliaries have a membership of 940 and 54 Mission Circles 1,093 members. There are 167 Mission Bands with a membership of 4,425 and 49 Baby Bands with 879 on roll. Seventy-seven C.G.I.T. groups have 1,036 members. Altogether there are 677 organizations with a total membership of 19,289.

Ten Auxiliaries disbanded during the year, but to offset this 31 new organizations, 10 Baby Bands, 13 Mission Bands, 3 Circles, 4 Y.W.A.'s and 1 new Auxiliary were organized, in addition to several C.G.I.T. groups.

Mrs. Sills stressed the importance of reporting all new organizations on the special report form provided for the purpose, and supplied free of charge on application to the Literature Department. Instructions for the filling out of the form are printed on the back. A copy should be sent to the Department Secretary and one to the Presbyterial Corresponding Secretary and one to the Branch Corresponding Secretary

Resolutions were adopted at the last Dominion Board meeting covering evangelism and increase in membership. Each member is asked to do all in her power to help carry these out. Leaflets, cards and "An Allocation Window" are being sent out to give visibility to the aim. To further help it was suggested that meetings be held at homes of non-members to awaken interest; that a "Bring One" campaign be adopted; that a contest to secure Missionary Monthly subscriptions be held. The group and envelop systems are being generally used. The study book finds favor in many Auxiliaries. To help along the problem of supplies, quiltings and sewing meetings are sometimes held with dinner and the regular meeting following.

Attention was called to the summer schools as providing a training in leadership, and sources of knowledge and inspiration. Some Presbyterials sent representatives to the Whitby Summer School last summer.

PLANE COMES DOWN IN SEVERE STORM

LOST DETROIT FLIER CRASHES NEAR OWEN SOUND

Plane belonging to Lyman Volpel of Detroit, after it had crashed upside down near Desboro, just south of Owen Sound, Ont., when the pilot became lost in a severe snow storm while en route from Detroit to Buffalo. Volpel escaped with only slight injuries. Note the twisted propeller blade and crumple tail. The machine went into a nose dive.

Attempted Murder Brings 27-Year Term

MONTREAL, Que., May 1—Leo Cote, alias Ouellette was yesterday sent to the penitentiary to serve 27 years for attempted murder. He pleaded guilty before Judge Lacroix to shooting Leon Pettigrew, a taxi driver, last Christmas Eve. Pettigrew is still in hospital in a dangerous condition, the doctors being unable to remove the two bullets that daily threaten Pettigrew's life.

Pettigrew was held up, robbed of his money and his taxi, shot and left lying in the street. Cote also awaits trial on another charge arising out of a gun battle with Constable Lacombe, who tried to arrest him for auto theft later in the winter. Cote was wounded by the police bullets, and is still suffering from his wounds.

ORANGE-RED.

2 Contest starts May 1, closes August 31, 1931. (Also see No. 14.)

3 An entrant may submit as many pictures as he pleases and at as many different times as he pleases; provided that the pictures have been made on or after May 1, 1931, that they are mailed under postmark dated not later than August 31, 1931, and that they reach the Prize Contest Office not later than September 7, 1931.

4 Any Kodak, Brownie, Hawk-Eye or other camera and any brand of film, chemicals and paper may be used in making pictures for this contest. A contestant need not own the camera. The finishing, of course, may be done by his dealer. Pictures may be made from roll film, cut film or film pack negatives. But pictures made from plate negatives are not eligible.

5 Regular-sized contact prints and also enlargements are eligible. No picture is to measure more than 8 inches the long way. Prints shall be made from unretouched negatives only. No colouring or artwork of any kind shall have been done on either negative or print. Prints shall be neither mounted nor framed. Do not write even your name on either front or back of pictures submitted.

6 Enclose an entry blank with each lot of pictures. Mail entries to Prize Contest Office, Canadian Kodak Co., Limited, Toronto 9, Ontario. Use the entry blank in last column, obtain others from your dealer, copy the form, or write to the Prize Contest Office for a supply.

7 No entries can be returned. All mailings are at owner's risk. Do not send negatives with entries, but be sure they are in your possession and hold them ready to send on request.

8 All pictures will be judged solely on general appeal—the interest they arouse. Photographic excellence or technique will not be the deciding factor in determining the prize winners.

9 The decision of the judges shall be final. In the event of a tie, the advertised award shall be paid to each of the tying contestants.

10 Each prize-winning picture, together with the negative, and the first and sole rights to the use thereof for advertising, publication, or exhibition in any manner, becomes the property of the Kodak Company.

12 Although no entrant may win prizes on more than one picture, he may win several prizes with the one picture. Naturally, the more pictures sent in, the greater the chance that one of them will win a prize—or prizes.

Conditions 13 and 14 which follow, apply to the offer of special provincial prizes for the best child pictures made and entered in May and June, 1931. (See prizes above.)

14 Special Child Picture Contest closes on June 30, 1931. Entries must be mailed under postmark not later than that day and must reach Prize Contest Office not later than July 7, 1931.

All entries in Child Picture Contest, including winners, and all child pictures made and entered in May, June, July and August are eligible for prizes in Class A at the end of the general contest.

Important! The entrant need not specify the classes into which his pictures should go. The Prize Contest Office will place each picture in the class in which it is most likely to win. No explanatory letter is necessary.

Winners will be notified as soon as possible after the judging takes place. In order that judges shall not know the name of the maker of any picture, entries will be filed numerically.

Each entry will be acknowledged by a postal card bearing the number given thereto. However, please do not interpret this as an invitation to write about entries as the Prize Contest Office cannot undertake correspondence.

The Kodak Company may offer to purchase pictures that do not win prizes.

IMPORTANCE OF ATTENDANCE AT PRESBYTERIAL GATHERINGS STRESSED BY REV. A. J. WILSON

Fourth Meeting of Belleville Presbytery Held in Bloomfield United Church.

PASTORAL CHANGES

Marmora Church to Take Care of Interests of Cordova Mines Corporation.

QUEENSBORO, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence).—The fourth meeting of the Belleville Presbytery for this conference year was held on Tuesday in the United Church at Bloomfield. Rev. C. S. Reddick, B.A., chairman presided. Psalm 90 was read by the secretary Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, of Odess. Prayer was offered by Rev. F. M. Wooten, of Picton. The minutes of last Presbytery meeting as printed and distributed were adopted. Rev. A. E. Jones of Trenton gave the report of the committee which had been appointed at the February meeting of Presbytery to consider the matter of reducing the number of meetings to be held each year and stated that the committee recommended non-concurrence.

Rev. A. J. Wilson, of Napanee, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference addressed the court relative to the above recommendation setting forth the importance of presbytery meetings and urging each member to attend regularly and take an active interest in all the matters of business. Mr. Wilson pointed out the value and necessity of the presbytery exercising an oversight of the pastoral charges. Congregations cannot live to themselves alone, he said, and should recognize their relation to the work of the whole church. Presbytery, stated Mr. Wilson, is the heart of the church; close to the people and the members of presbytery should endeavor by their work to link charges up more closely with the work of presbytery.

It is the business of presbytery to review circuit records and this is essential to the best work, stated the speaker. It was also a part of the basis of union.

Every matter of business touching the basis of union, should be dealt with by the congregations and this was legislation from the bottom upwards, a thing in which the United Church itself rather than in legislation imposed from the top down. The church members should avail themselves of their privilege, said Mr. Wilson.

Each committee of presbytery should strive to give its most efficient service in dealing with matters presented to it. Ministers should be careful to see that their congregations had the opportunity of expressing themselves on all questions which should properly come before them.

Mr. Wilson emphasized the importance of induction services, when ministers began serving on new fields. "The induction service," said Mr. Wilson, "gives the minister a better opportunity from the commencement of appealing to his people and also impresses the people with the significance of the work of the church and the minister." He also drew attention of his hearers to the value of promoting more emotion, warmth and love in church life.

Mr. Wilson closed his address, which was kindly, brotherly and practical with an admonition to both ministers and laymen urging the practice of Christian etiquette and so lift the church in its life and influence to the high place it should occupy.

The members of the Women's Presbyterial having suggested that the presbytery might be divided to advantage, the matter was delegated to a committee which brought in its report through Rev. A. E. Jones, of Trenton, who stated that it did not seem feasable to effect any division.

A communication from the Official Board at Marmora expressed the willingness of that congregation and minister to take care of the interests of the congregation at Cordova Mines.

The Official Board of Plainfield charge was granted permission to use any balance from the sale of the West Plainfield church after all expenses were paid for the renovation of the parsonage.

Summer School

Rev. D. M. Smith, of Northport, reporting for the Religious Educational committee stated that the Oak Lake summer school would be held from July 20th, to July 27th, and that the cost of board would be six dollars instead of seven as was formerly the case. The registration fee would remain at two dollars as before.

On motion it was decided to reopen the church at Carrying Place and the congregation was placed under the superintendency of Rev. E. M. Cooke of Consecon.

The presbytery confirmed the transfer of Frankford congregation, now a associated with Stockdale and Zion to the presbytery of Cobourg.

A call from the congregation of Centre Street, Oshawa, to Rev. G. C. R. McQuade of Odessa was sustained and passed on to the settlement committee, with approval, as also was a call from Odessa congregation to Rev. W. P. Fletcher, of Centre Street United Church, Oshawa. The changes will take effect on July first.

Rev. George E. Ross, of Rednersville was granted superannuation for one year.

Rev. George Mackenzie, of Yarker; Rev. Isaac Snell, of Foxboro; Rev. D. J. Campbell, of Bancroft and Rev. M. S. Lehigh, of Coe Hill requested a change of pastoral relations.

The M. and M. Fund committee report was given by Rev. J. E. Beckel, of Bay circuit, Napanee, who stated that the givings to that fund by the members of Belleville presbytery were almost $1,000 greater in 1930 than the year previous and the givings of the whole church were such that no further deficit would be incurred this year.

The whole church is making an effort to increase the number of persons using the duplex envelope. More attention is being given to the work among Young People and to their responsibility in helping to raise the church budget. Self-denial boxes have been prepared and an effort will be made to place one in as many homes as possible.

Eleven Sub-divisions

The presbytery, which comprises 62 pastoral charges has been divided into eleven sub-sections for the purpose of intensifying the interest and of reaching congregations with a campaign of education and fellowship in the work of the church. A convenor was appointed for each group.

The Official Board of Plainfield charge and the Trustee Board of the Plainfield West Church were granted permission to sell the lot upon which the West church formerly stood.

The Trustee Board of Potter's United Church on the Bridgewater Mission together with the one remaining trustee of the Bogart congregation were appointed to have responsibility for disposing of the lot upon which the former Methodist church at Bogart was situated.

An induction committee composed of the following ministers was appointed, Rev. C. S. Reddick, Bloomfield; Rev. G. W. Rivers, Madoc; Rev. Harry Pamson, Napanee; Rev. C. B. Brethen, Trenton and Rev. Dewey Stenson, Enterprise.

Rev. W. D. Harrison, of Deseronto, in his report on Home Missions stated that very real sacrifices were being made and self-denial practiced by the church's secretaries in Toronto and also by hospital nurses as well as office girls in Wesley Buildings in order that in these difficult times the work of the church might go on to success.

On motion of Rev. R. H. Bell, of Belleville and Rev. A. E. McCutcheon, of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville it was decided not to have a July meeting of presbytery for the purpose of organization.

Rev. G. W. W. Rivers, of Madoc, and Mr. G. W. Woodley, of Halloway Street congregation, Belleville were appointed to the settlement committee, for 1931-32, with Rec. A. E. McCutcheon, of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, and Mr. W. S. Gordon of Tweed alternates.

Rev. Robert Hall, of John Street, Belleville moved a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Bloomfield congregation for the very splendid dinner provided for the 110 representatives who were present. The benediction was said by Dr. R. B. Bell, of Bridge Street, Belleville.

Ruins Of Sodom Show City Razed By Fire

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 1. — Excavations by Jesuit archeologists have revealed evidence confirming the Biblical story of the destruction of Sodom, Dr. John Oliver Lagorce, vice-president of the National Geographic Society of Washington said to-day.

Dr. Lagorce returned on the Leviathan after visiting the Rev. Father Nallon, head of the Pontifical Archeological Expedition now working in Trans-Jordinia.

Dr. Lagorce said that the expedition sponsored by the Vatican, had unearthed the site of Sodom. It is actually the site of three distinct cities—one built on top of another, he said.

Father Nallon told Dr. Lagorce there is every indication that the city was erased by a conflagration of great intensity.

Special Promotions Are Made During Gathering of the Marmora Troop.

MARMORA, May 1 (Examiner Correspondence) — A special feature of Monday evening's meeting was the announcement of promotions. These were as oflows: To Lieutenant, Jean Gladney and Edith Phillips. To Patrol Leaders, Marjorie Loveless, replacing Edith Phillips as leader of the Honesty Patrol, and Mary Lumsden, replacing Jean Gladney as leader of the Pimpernel Patrol. To Seconds, Marion Thompson replacing Marjorie Loveless in the Honesty Patrol.

After patrol corners, a game called Trains was played, the winners being the Pimpernel and Snowdrop Patrols. The girls then took notes on First-aid part of their second-class test, under the direction of Lieutenant Rice. A story called "Her Friend Tibbles" was begun by Lieutenant Gladney, followed by discussion, songs, and company dismissed.

Madoc

Mr. Graham of Belleville is spending a few days with Messrs. Malcolm and Ed. Bristol in Madoc.

Mr. Donald Whytock of Queen's University, Kingston, is home for the summer vacation.

Rev. G. W. Rivers and Mr. Wm. McMechan attended the meeting of Belleville Presbytery in the Bloomfield United Church last Tuesday.

The Women's Missionary Society are planning to have a recital given by Rev. Crossley Hunter of the "Passion Play" in the United Church about May 22nd. This recital will occupy about two hours, with an hour's lecture and concluding with a great many pictures of the Play and the country. Rev. Mr. Crossley Hunter has already given this recital about sixty times, since he attended the presentation of the Play in the Old Land. This is an opportunity that Madoc people are not likely to have offered to them again.

Rev. J. F. Everson has completed the work required by the Standard Leadership Curriculum, and has received his diploma as a leader in the Standard Teacher's Training School. He has been engaged in this work for several years and has conducted two classes this winter.

Cooper and Remington Women's Institute held a grandmothers' meeting this month, the program being given by the grandmothers. A very spirited debate, "Resolved that the modern women have done more for Canada than the pioneer women" met with the defeat of the affirmative. Plants were presented to the oldest and the youngest grandmother. A very attractive feature of the meeting was a demonstration of hooked and knitted rugs by expert workers.

The play presented on Monday evening by the Burnbrae Young People's Society, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, on Monday evening, in the Empire Theatre was well attended. The play, "Marrying Ann" was well presented, and very interesting.

Mrs. E. Bedford rendered a very fine solo, during the evening, and the Hawthorne brothers captivated the hearts of the audience by their songs and dance.

ANGLICAN LAYMEN'S RESOLUTION APPROVED BY DISTRICT CLERGY AT CONFERENCE FINAL SESSION

Recommendation to be Forwarded to Diocesan Synod in June.

PARISH ENDOWMENT.

Campaign For $25,000 Fund for Poorer Parishes is Advocated.

Clergy and laymen will ask for the appointment of a Suffragan Bishop, resident in the Archdeaconry of Peterborough, at the June meeting of the Synod of the Diocese in Toronto. This comes as a result of a motion presented by Dr. G. S. Cameron from the Laymen's Association of the Archdeaconry to the convening clergy of the district at the Round Table Conference held in All Saints' Parish yesterday afternoon. After a stormy session and the final clearing up of misconceptions, the clergy decided to back up the laymen's resolution and to present it as a memorial to the synod. As such it will demand consideration at the forthcoming gathering.

In addition to this, three other resolutions were presented by the laymen: the formation of a men's association in the diocese of Toronto; the establishment of a department of publicity for the whole Canadian church; the Diocesan parish endowment fund. These were settled in various manners, following the lengthy discussion of the main topic, the appointing of a Suffragan Bishop.

R. N. Stewart, president of the Laymen's Association, in a few words introduced the lay delegates to the conference, and called upon various members, each to introduce a resolution.

Dr. Cameron, in presenting the first resolution, stated that he was at the conference for constructive rather than destructive ends. He appreciated the large size of the diocese and the hard and conscientious work of the Bishop, but offered a solution to the administrative difficulties.

Need For New Diocese.

"Toronto now has a population of 650,000. The figures of ten years ago show that there were 275,000 Anglicans in the present diocese and 175,000 in the city of Toronto alone. Either the city or the rest of the diocese would form a unit larger than that of Ontario with its 41,000 or that of Ottawa with its 50,000 Anglicans. Where there is a large metropolitan area and a large rural district within the diocese, there will be two distinct problems, and these are to be faced by a single man."

Dr. Cameron then gave four alternatives to this difficulty existing in the diocese of Toronto. An assistant Bishop might be appointed and paid by the synod. An entirely new diocese might be formed outside of the city of Toronto. This would be the ideal solution if the time were ripe. The population in future, declared the speaker, would demand it, and the history of the church in the province was one of the cutting up of dioceses. However, the greatest objection to this alternative was the matter of finances, as $250,000 would be required as an endowment fund for the new diocese. A third suggestion was that some east portion be taken away and given to the diocese of Toronto, but this had been proved to be wholly unpopular.

"The least disrupting would be the appointment of a Suffragan Bishop," said Dr. Cameron, "to reside outside of the city of Toronto, because of the dissimilarity between the metropolitan and the rural — for example, in the matter of social service work. The church officials must live closer to the people. We must have someone to visit our parishes from time to time."

Resolution.

Dr. Cameron then concluded by reading the resolution as follows:

"Whereas the present diocese of Toronto is too large, and whereas there has been a movement in Peterborough for nearly seventy-five years to have a diocese of Peterborough,

"And whereas the proposed diocese of Peterborough would be the twelfth largest diocese in Canada numerically and finaucially.

"And whereas the proposed diocese would therefore be stronger than half the present dioceses in Canada,

"And whereas we are entirely opposed to the proposed suggestion in the press and elsewhere to join Peterborough to the diocese of Toronto,

"And whereas we look to the clergy for courageous leadership in these matters:

"We, therefore, ask the secretary to ask the clergy of the Archdeaconry in April to memorialize the synod in June, with a view to asking the synod to take measures to appoint a Suffragan Bishop of Peterborough, to reside and work within the Archdeaconry of Peterboro."

The resolution was then handed to the clergy for discussion. Rev. G. J. Bousfield of St. Luke's Church complained that he had heard nothing of about this matter being brought up at the present meeting. He therefore suggested the formation of a committee of clergy and lay to investigate. Rev. N. C. Wallace, of Campbellford, replied that the clergy were frightfully amiss if they did not know about the doings of their laity. Rev. R. B. Patterson of Oshawa, said that his city would yet have to be canvassed to acquaint them of the plans.

When the time for adjournment was near, and the matter yet undecided, Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' made a motion that the clergy remain until they could decide whether they would memorialize the synod or not.

Rev. F. H. Mason, of Newcastle, gave his view as follows: "The executive committee of the diocese are practically all in Toronto, and hence they know very little of the conditions here. It is the same with the bishop. Our suggestion is offered in desperation as a remedy. The clergy are being overworked, their salaries are being cut an, country congregations are falling away all because the executive know nothing of what is going on here."

Rev. N. C. Wallace, of Campbellford, also arose to support this contention and added that it was not the fault of the Bishop but of the size of the diocese. Canon Marsh, of Lindsay, stated that up till a few years ago there were no delegates to general synod from any district outside of the city of Toronto, and now there is one, Rev. D. R. Blagrave.

At this point the following motion was introduced by Rev. F. H. Mason and seconded by Rev. N. C. Wallace: "Whereas we have received a memorial from laymen of the archdeaconry, this meeting will co-ordinate with the laymen and forward the motion for consideration at synod." The vote was taken, and there was only "nay." Rev. J. D. Paterson then proposed a committee consisting of Rev. Dr. Blagrave, Rev. T. C. O'Connor Fenton and R. N. Stewart should arrange the procedure for the presentation of the resolution to synod in June.

Men's Association.

The formation of a Men's Association within the diocese of Toronto was read by R. N. Stewart as follows:

"Whereas there is no men's association in the church in Canada, such as exists in England and Australia, and other branches of the church. And whereas there already exist Dominion associations for women and young people and children. And whereas there is at present no co-relation of the men's work in the Canadian church" we, therefore, ask the secretary of this association to communicate with the clergy of the archdeaconry, asking them to memorialize the synod in June to ask for the formation of a diocese of Toronto men's association; to ask the synod to memorialize the general synod in September for a Dominion men's association." This resolution was ordered by the clergy to be forwarded to the Laymen's Association in Toronto.

Department of Publicity.

J. E. Patte presented the following resolution on behalf of the Peterborough Laymen's Association:

"Realizing the mighty power of publicity and the present failure on the part of the church to use this power to advantage, we submit that the clergy of the archdeaconry memorialize the synod in June, to memorialize the general synod in September, asking for the establishment of a department of publicity for the whole Canadian church under the G.B.R.E." This motion received only by the archdeaconry for a further consideration.

Parish Endowment Fund.

The diocesan parish endowment fund resolution was read by J. J. Turner:

"Whereas the financial problem in many of the parishes in the diocese of Toronto is acute, especially in the country parishes, and whereas in the past many parishes have been forced out of existence mainly for financial reasons — we hereby request . . that the executive committee of the diocese be authorized to inaugurate a campaign to secure a capital fund to be known as 'Diocesan Parish Endowment Fund.' We suggest $25,000 as a first objective. Any parish subscribing endowment in denominations of $100 or more would have the amount doubled out of the interest from the endowment fund. No parish would be entitled to use the interest on its local endowment until the amount of the endowment was at least $1,000. . . . We further submit that the synod empower the executive committee to take steps to try to secure the necessary endowment fund without delay." This resolution was received and will be sent to next year's executive meeting so as not to conflict with the other more important memorials being sent in.

With a few closing prayers delivered by Venerable Archdeacon Davidson, the conference was adjourned until 1933.

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN CONDEMN LIQUOR CONTROL

Resolution By W. M. S. Says Degradation Results From the L. C. A.

MORE INTEMPERANCE.

Teaching of Temperance in Public Schools is Recommended.

The following resolution disapproving the present policy of liquor control in Ontario was adopted yesterday by the W.M.S. of the United Church in conference here:

"We, the members of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society of United Church of Canada, now in session in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, beg leave to submit the following resolution:

That, whereas, intemperance is increasing among our citizens, including our young men and women, causing us to look with horror on the result of Government Control, both in its effects on moral character and the thriftless spending of money, with the degradation resulting therefrom.

Be it resolved, that, through our Dominion Board we petition the Ontario Provincial government, that a vote be taken on the Temperance issue, as soon as possible, entirely disassociated from party politics.

Resolved further that we strongly endorse the action taken by the Trustees' section of the Ontario Educational Association at their recent convention in Toronto, requesting the Department of Education to take steps to have temperance taught in the Primary classes of our public schools, it being already taught in the senior classes, and that this education in temperance be continued for two years in high schools and collegiates.

That a copy of this resolution be sent through the Dominion Board to the Department of Education.

And further, be it resolved, that we, through our Dominion Board, protest to the Dominion government against the repeal of the law prohibiting the granting of clearance papers to vessels loaded with liquor for importation to the United States, contrary to the laws of that country.

Cobourg Resolution

The following resolution was submitted by the Cobourg Presbyterial:

Whereas the total number of Missionaries supported by the Womans' Missionary Society is not stated in figures in the annual report. Be it resolved that this Cobourg Presbyterial, through the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch memorialize the Dominion Board to have inserted in figures, for the convenience of speakers, the total number of Home and Foreign Missionaries at the head of the list given in the annual report.

RUNAWAY CAR HITS VERANDAH

Brakes Fail to Hold Car and it Starts Down Hill.

CRASHES DOOR.

The residents of John Butcher's house on 301 Burnham Street were paid a flying visit at 11 o'clock this morning when a car ran onto the verandah at a high speed, crashed through the porch and attempted an entry to the house. The car, however, did all of this of its own volition as the driver was not in it at the time.

The heavy sedan, owned by the Choate Hardware Company and driven by J. A. Henry at the time, was delivering some goods to a house at the top of the incline on Sophia Street, above Burnham street. While the driver was in the house, the brakes, which were admitted to have been faulty, gave way and the car commenced its mad rush down the hill.

Dale Avenue runs in the same direction as Sophia, only it is about 30 feet further south. Thus at the foot of Sophia Street and on the corner is a well kept lawn with beautiful borders of flowers on either side of the long walk which leads to the house. The car continued down across Burnham and the lawn and half way across the lawn the front wheels caught in an ornamental shrub which swerved the car to its right, hence preventing it from crashing into a sturdy tree to the left. The runaway car then dived onto the verandah and smashed through the southeast corner of the porch, carrying the large post with it and sending splinters of wood and glass in every direction. The frame of the door into the house was pushed in and the plaster was knocked off in large quantities in the drawing room, making a melee of glass, wood, etc. in the room.

From all appearances the car seemlittle the worse for its experience. The driver who as soon as he noticed his car gone ran down the hill, was able to drive the car off the lawn. However, the steering gear was damaged. The front fender and mudguards were bent.

CONTRACT FOR SUPPLY OF CEMENT

employed. We gave that job just to help relieve unemployment. There was an expressed understanding to that effect and yet not 15 per cent. of the men were local."

Would Fire" Outsiders.

Mr. Gordon: "Some city official checked them. I checked them and a reporter checked. I was ready to fire anyone who could be proved was an outsider."

Mayor Denne: "It is best to have it incorporated right in the contract."

Mr. Gordon: "Yes, that's what we'd like."

Alderman Tuggey: "Oh, you'd find a loop hole. You gave your word of honor last year and broke it."

Alderman Phelan: "Some say that there was a high percentage of outside men last year, but Alderman Huffman, chairman of this committee then, said there wasn't and other said the same."

Alderman Turner asked City Engineer Parsons about the number of outside men employed, Mr. Parsons replied: 'About two-thirds of them were supposed to be local men."

Alderman Tuggey: "Supposed to be! You were supposed to give a certificate to every man stating he was a resident of Peterborough. Did you do it?"

Mr. Parsons: "No, I don't think I did."

Alderman McNabb: "The resolution was worded that the City Engineer must issue certificates and we checked up on it twice."

Mayor Denne: "I think Mr. Parsons was as much to blame for the unsatisfactory conditions as the Warren Paving Company."

Warren Company Men.

Alderman McNabb: "I checked the ist of names on the city assessor's rolls and found only seven of the whole gang there. The big p rcentage of the men boarded at the American and Johnston's Hotel. These men since turned out as followers of the Warren Company. (To Mr. Gordon). Did you send them in?"

Mr. Gordon: "No."

Alderman McNabb: "Then you tipped them off that you had a job in Peterborough."

Mayor Denne: "Many of those men came in w th the T. A. Brown Company on the C.G.E. and Ovaltine jobs."

Alderman Cotton: "Mr. Gordon has given us the plan and to my way of thinking the responsibil ty of seeing that the men are looking should be borne by the Council."

Alderman Stocker: "Who's going to see that they are Peterborough men?"

Mr. Gordon: 'The City Engineer, Metherall or whomever you want to appoint. We will tie up to a contract to use 95 per cent. local men."

The discussion eased off at this juncture and Chairman Hamilton promised Mr. Gordon that the Council would inform him if it was decided to do any paving.

Alderman Tuggey: "I think Mr. Parsons gave us to understand at the last meeting that it would be inadvisable to do any paving now because the storm drains hadn't settled."

The City Engineer reiterated this view and discussion of paving terminated immediately.

Dalhousie St. Bridge.

Reporting on the proposed new Dalhousie street bridge, the City Engineer said that the bridge should be raised at least two fee higher.

In reply to Alderman Holland, Mr. Parsons said he thought he was safe in saying that if the bridge were raised it would remove any responsibility from the city of future floods.

Alderman Turner: "As long as the flow under the bridge is clear they can't blame the city."

It was decided that the Council inspect the bridge at 7 o'clock to-night to see what must be done.

The following tenders were received on the cement supply; Peterborough Hardware—$1.98 per sack plus 80 cents for sacks (refunded on returned sacks) F. O. B. Peterborough; at the warehouse two cents extra.

Thomas Rehill—$2.00 per sack plus 80 cents for sacks (refunded on returned sacks) F. O. B. Peterborough, and three cents extra at city warehouse.

Canada Cement Company, Lakefield, $2.00 plus 80 cents per sack (refunded when sacks returned freight paid to Lakefield) F. O. B. Peterborough and ten cents off per barrel on payment within thirty days.

"I'd like to buy cement from Lakefield," said Chairman Hamilton, having read a letter from the Canada Cement Company which it was stated that the city hadn't bought Canada cement in some years. The letter said that Peterborough merchants benefitted directly from the Canada Cement plant being in Lakefield.

Mayor Denne: "You're paying more for it."

Chairman Hamilton: "So does Rehill."

Mayor Opposes Motion

Alderman Turner and Holland moved that the Canada Cement Company's tender be accepted. Mayor Denne moved an amendment, seconded by Alderman Stocker, that the Hardware's Company's tender be taken.

Replying to a question by Alderman Tuggey, the City Engineer stated that last year the city used 2,000 barrels of cement.

Mayor Denne: "You must remember we have to pay the freight costs of returning the sacks to Lakefield."

Alderman Turner and Holland withdrew their motion. In staging his reason for seconding the motion Alderman Holland stated he thought the order would assist the district in keeping plants busy. "It means giving work at our door," he said.

The Peterborough Hardware's tender was unanimously accepted.

It was decided, that, subject to the approval of the Railway Board, a lot of George Lundy's be purchased for $250 so that a 40-foot street may be opened between Chamberlain street and Douglas Avenue. Property for the street is being ceded the city by R. C. Braund. No terraces or frame houses will be permitted on the new street.

Prices on road oil were received from the Crescent Company (Penzoil Oil) at 8.6 cents per gallon and Imperial Oil Company of 10.5 cents per gallon. On motion of Alderman Stocker and Macdonald the tender was held up until the Chairman makes an attempt to get better prices.

RENO'S DIVORCE MACHINE READY

Three Hundred Cases Set for Saturday Under New Law.

JUDGES SEE RUSH

RENO, Nev., May 1—Nevada's new six-week-residence divorce law becomes effective Saturday and a canvass of seventy-five Reno law firms to-day disclosed that at least 300 cases would be filed on that day.

Practically every lawyer here will file at least one case, while some will file as high as fourteen.

While the law is supposed to be effective May 1, its final clause says that it shall be effective "from and after May 1," and practically all attorneys, in order to be safe, are filing their cases on May 2. The clerk's office closes at noon on Saturday, but County Clerk Beemer said he will continue to file cases throughout the day until all are accommodated.

Judges Prepare for Rush

Judges Curler and Moran have agreed upon a plan to meet emergency which they believe will clean up the calendar within one week and send at least 200 persons on their way out of Reno. The clerk will set the cases for trial as they are filed, one by one, to each of the two departments of the court.

If attorneys and clients are not present Monday at the time set, the cases will go over to the next calendar day, which is Friday. It is planned to set the cases ten minutes apart, and it is estimated that in this manner each court can hear about forty or more uncontested cases day until all of them are disposed of.

The rush will not be entirely disposed of next week, for there will be fifty to 100 cases filed from Monday on. They will go on the calendar for the following week.

The first rush will be of those who came to Reno less than three months ago, but prepared for three months' stay. In the meantime the six-week residence law was passed.

Many There Only Six Weeks

The second rush will be of those who came here between March 1 and 15, on the probability that the six-week law would pass. They will have served their time in another week, and be ready to file their cases. If these cases are uncontested and appearances from the other spouse have been arranged, the plaintiffs may be able to have their cases tried almost immediately, or within a day or two after filing.

While ten minutes are to be allowed for each uncontested case, in many instances, where the charges require little detail, they can be disposed of in less time. Many cases have been disposed of in four minutes.

Among those likely to have their cases tried next week are Mrs. Audrey Ione Burrell, Mrs. Helen Outebridge Appleby, wife of the former amateur billiard champion; Dorothy Draper of New York, Mrs. Henry M. Littlefield, Charles H. Sabin, Jr., of New York, Mrs. Richard F. Hoyt and Mrs. Fanie V. Preston.

The case of Jack Dempsey will not come up for another month, provided it comes up in Reno, for he did not arrive in Reno to make his residence until April 11, and has been here only little more than two weeks.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DOCTOR AND PATIENT.

One of the hopeful signs of the times is the way a physician now handles a patient who has been ailing for some time has gone to three or four doctors and is not satisfied with the results obtained.

not satisfied with the results obtained.

In former days the physician made the examination, and gave medicine or other treatment, the patient was not told what was wrong with him or why the particular treatment was used.

What do we find now?

That the doctor explains in simple language what he thinks is wrong. He explains the proper structure and the working of the particular part at fault, and what he thinks about that structure and working in the patient. He explains what is happening and what will be the effect if treatment is not followed. He explains the treatment he is giving and why he wants the patient to follow it.

What is the result?

The patient knows what is wrong, and why he must follow the doctor's advice, and by giving his active co-operation in the treatment best results are obtained. Compare this with the old method. The patient had no knowledge of what was wrong with him. It might be serious and he would not consider it very serious and so not follow the treatment. On the other hand it might not be serious, and yet, not knowing what was wrong, he would worry himself needlessly; not eating, not sleeping, and unable to do his work properly. In despe ation he might naturally consult another doctor, or some healer, and get no farther.

Perhaps as a last resort he would begin taking some patent medicine. Now patent medicines are carefully watched by the government and their claims kept truthful, but the paten medicine the patient would use might be utterly useless or actually harmful in his case.

And so as Dr. Thomas D. Wood says "It is encouraging that medicine is losing its air of mystery, is casting aside obscure names, which to minds which are fearful and ill, are fraught with unknown dread.

"Every competent physician who doesn't explain why he recommends a treatment thus taking his patient into his confidence is no "up to date." These are the words of Dr. Chas. Mayo, America's outstanding surgeon, head of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

"UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICK TELEPHONE."

Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman, came out of a toy store one day laughing so hard that he shook all over as if he were a bowl of jelly with whipped cream on top. Uncle Wiggily saw his big pig friend and noticed what seemed to be tears coming out of his eyes.

"Why are you laughing and crying at the same time, Mr. Twistytail?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"I am not crying," answered the father of Curly and Floppy the two jolly, fat piggie boys. "I am laughing at something funny."

"It must be funny if you laugh so hard that tears come into your eyes," went on Uncle Wiggily. "Tell me so I can also laugh."

"I'll tell you," the pig promised, "but really the water in my eyes isn't laughing tears. It's from Oh, Ho! Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Ha!" and he laughed again so that he looked like two bowls of jelly.

"You really must let me in on the joke," Uncle Wiggily said, and he had to laugh a little himself so Mr. Twistytail wouldn't feel lonesome. "Where did you see something funny?"

"In this toy store," answered the pig gentleman. "I went in to get a jumping jack for Squeakie Squealer, our little baby pig, and while I was in there—Oh, dear me! Ha! Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho! Ho! Excuse me but I must really laugh again," and he did, right heartily.

I am laughing at something funny.

"I must share in this joke!" Uncle Wiggily said.

"You shall!" promised the fat pig. "Come on in the toy store!"

He led the way. Uncle Wiggily followed. In the store were many toys and another jumping jack like the one Mr. Twistytail had bought for Squeakie Squealer.

On the toy counter was a new, shiny telephone near many other toys and Mr. Twistytail, pointing to this telephone, said to Uncle Wiggily:

"Perhaps you would like to buy a toy for one of your little rabbits or Baby Bunty, the orphan."

"Yes," said Uncle Wiggily, looking around the store, "I suppose I might do that."

"What are you looking for?" asked the jolly old Sea Dog who kept the toy store.

"I was looking for the joke that made Mr. Twistytail laugh."

"You'll see it pretty soon!" chuckled the fat pig. "But what about buying a toy for Baby Bunty?"

"I should like to do that," Mr. Longears said, "but she has so many toys I really don't know what new one to get her."

"Then here is your chance!" grunted the fat pig, pointing one paw at the telephone on the counter. "Call up your bungalow on this telephone and ask your wife or Nurse Jane what kind of a toy to get Baby Bunty."

"A jolly good idea!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "May I use your telephone?" he politely asked the jolly old Sea Dog.

Mr. Longears lifted the receiver off the telephone hook and leaned over to speak into the mouthpiece, or talking end, when, all of a sudden, a stream of water quirted in his face.

"Why! Why! What! Er-ugh! Wuff! I'm all wet!" cried Uncle Wiggily, dropping he telephone and jumping back as he pulled out his handerkchief. "Where did the rain come from?"

"Out of the telephone!" grunted Mr. Twistytail. "Ha! Ha! Ha! What a joke! It's a toy, trick elephone, you see, Wiggy!" he went on, and he laughed so hard that as much tear water came into his eyes as there was telephone water in Uncle Wiggily's eyes. "This jolly old Sea Dog played the we: trick telephone joke on me, Wiggy," went on Mr. Twistytail, "so I thought I'd play it on you. I hope you aren't angry!"

"Oh, no," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Ha Ha! It was a good trick. I thought it was a real telephone. But where did the water come from?"

The Sea Dog showed Uncle Wiggily where, in the bottom of the telephone, there was a rubber ball that could be filled with water. And when any one who didn't know the trick took the receiver off the hook and started to telephone, they would have water squirted in their eyes as they pressed the rubber ball, not knowing it was there.

"Ha! Ha! What a jolly tricky elephone!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "Let me try it again!" Which he did and more water squirted in his eyes. But he only laughed and said: "I'll buy one of those telephones to play a joke on my wife or Nurse Jane. It's better than buying a toy for Baby Bunty."

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Have you ever heard the much-quoted phrase, "When love is young, all the world seems gay," taken, I believe, from one of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan operas?

• • • • • • •

It is almost invariably repeated in connection with young persons.

• • • • • • •

But I don't think this should be the case because love is an ageless element, emanating from a sympathetic beauty of spirit and character.

• • • • • • •

It manifests itself in the appreciation of the best in others and in the doing of kindly and gracious acts.

• • • • • • •

However old a married couple may be, so long as they express sweetness towards one another, love is just as young with them as in the days of their courtship!

• • • • • • •

It is more beautiful than ever for them and for those who see it in them. It shows that they have weathered the storms of life together and have drawn closer to another by the struggling together.

• • • • • • •

Each has learned to depend upon the other of its strength in the other.

• • • • • • •

They have labored in the common cause of making a home, and of adapting their lives to its various vicissitudes secure in the love of one heart for the other.

• • • • • • •

But we find that in these modern days the divorce courts loom prominently before the eyes of married people whenever differences of opinion arise.

• • • • • • •

There is danger of losing sight of this beautiful love that never grows old. It may be dimmed at times by clouds of misunderstanding, but there has never been a storm that was not followed by sunshine.

• • • • • • •

It may require an effort to dispel the home clouds, but love will do it. As soon as love shines through, all the world seems gay again.

Education Of Women In Czechoslovakia

Organization Does Work Similar to That of Good Housekeeping Institute in America.

MONTREAL, May 1.—(By the Canadian Press)—As a result of the census of 1921 in Czechoslovakia which disclosed that housewives controlled a turnover of money that far surpassed the national budget, societies and institutions devoted to furthering the economic and technical education of women have sprung up on a large scale, it was stated in a recent interview by Madame R. Kransky, wife of the secretary of the Czechoslovak Consulate in this city.

The census of 1921 found 7,033,669 women and 3,148,980 households in Czechoslovakia with a turnover of money greatly surpassing the whole state budget of Czechoslovakia. Taking for granted that the family budget averages at least ten thousand crowns a year this represents a total of approximately 31 milliard crowns. The women setting this sum into circulation represent an important factor in the national economy, although, in many cases, they do not realize with what power they have been entrusted and what is the measure of responsibility thus assumed by them. The recognition of this responsibility led to the foundation of several societies and institutions working and caring for greater economic as well as technological education of women, said Madame Kransky.

The Central Organization of Czechoslovak Housewives is one of these organizations, numbering more than 30,000 members and concentrating in one body several women's and housewives' societies. The purpose of this organization is to combine the housewives and all who have interest in housekeeping, for work toward the healthier development of family and public life; to work for better understanding of the task of the housewife; to represent them before authorities, to form public opinion at home and abroad; to facilitate their co-operation in common economic, social and cultural interests; to co-operate with professional scientific institutions and to turn their activities to the advantage of housewives and to the greater success of their work.

How Essex Appeared As Romantic County

Not "Dreary" Essex to Tired English Traveller Isolated in Arabian Desert.

MANCHESTER, Eng., April 30 (By The Canadian Press).—"An eminent traveller has declared Essex to be a dreary county, devoid of charm or history," says a correspondent of The Manchester Guardian, "yet a map of Essex once saved a man from possible insanity." The correspondent thereupon relates the following story:

"Home-sickness reaches a terrible intensity in desert places. The man was isolated in the Arabian Desert, 90 miles of hot sand from the nearest oasis, exhausted, with a dwindling water supply, and dependent upon the fortune of a single Arab dispatched to the oasis for relief. There were no sounds, only an eerie, aching silence. There was but one color, a vivid febrile yellow that ate into the mind. The man was 3,000 miles from England.

"But among his maps was a half-inch-to-the-mile sheet of Essex. Somehow, while packing for the expedition many months previously at home, it had been slipped in among the desert charts. It was a green map, with estuaries and sheets of water printed in blue, with large forest areas picked out in conventional trees. It was cool and quiet and comely. It was England. On it the man read such names as these: Magdalen Laver, Woodridden, Molehill Green, Abbess Roding, Good Easter . . . They acted as a lulling sedative upon nerves that were tautened to fracture-point. The peace of England, the soft sounds of moving leaves and splashing water and bird song were suddenly present. When the Arab returned with water, help, and two fresh camels, he found the man sleeping, refreshed, and normal."

Tomato Tests Prove Daily Diet Economy

On the basis that tomato juice and orange juice are equal in Vitamin value leading doctors and food specialists are recommending both for infant feeding and fo table use.

In the belief that tomato juice must be more economical, however, the head of a family made some recent tests. He bought oranges of different grades and extracted and measured the juice obtained therefrom. He then purchased canned tomatoes and strained off the juice and measured this. Carefully calculating the relative costs of these two popular essential foods for babies, this investigator found that the price of the orange juice was almost exactly two-and-a-half times that of the same quantity of tomato uice. He found, in other words, that $1 spent on canned tomatoes was equivalent to $2.46 expended for oranges.

PROPOSAL EVERY OTHER DAY

To receive a proposal every other day is the experience of Miss Betty Mason, "dark, vivid and charming," who was chosen as "Miss England" in the international beauty contest in Paris. She is said to be haunted by proposals. The most elaborate was apparently that of a Frenchman whose solid slab of declaration occupied five minutes in delivery. Another suitor was a native of Italy. He sent up his card daily with just, "Will you marry me?" on it. An Englishman got cross when "No!" was the answer to his bluff island love story. Miss Mason, who was awarded third place among the 16 beauties in Paris, is to represent England again this summer in a beauty contest in Chile. Perhaps she will learn what a Chilean proposal is like. Does she like these excursions into the amorous? "It is too terible," she declares—but with a laugh.

Ask for Kotex
if you want real comfort in sanitary protection

Don't think other sanitary pads can give you the lasting softness Kotex provides.

THERE are just no two ways about it. If you want perfect comfort and a real feeling of security, you must specify "Kotex" when you buy sanitary pads.

Kotex, the original sanitary pad, has made the progress you would expect of the first of all such manufactured comforts for women.

It is actually five times more absorbent than surgical cotton, by test. The wonderful material of which it is made (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is laid in many air-cooled layers, each individual layer a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

These unique features

Kotex is treated to deodorize—a fact of supreme importance to women who consider daintiness essential to charm.

SPECIFY KOTEX BECAUSE
1. Disposable, instantly, completely.
2. Adjustable to suit individual needs.
3. Can be worn on either side with equal efficiency.
4. Shaped to fit. It gives inconspicuous protection.

It is scientifically designed, you know. Rounded and tapered to fit perfectly and inconspicuously under the filmiest of frocks. And it is as easy to dispose of as tissue.

Nothing else is like Kotex. Be safe. Specify "Kotex" when you order sanitary pads. Kotex Company of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Summary of Final Sessions of Missionary Conference.

COBOURG NEXT YEAR.

The following officers were elected by the Women's Missionary Society of the Bay of Quinte Conference, of the United Church at their concluding session Thursday.

Past President, Mrs. J. T. Daley, Port Hope; President, Mrs. W. L. Smythe, B.A., Pembroke; 2st Vice-President, R. O. Jolliffe, Kingston; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A., Norwood; 3rd Vice President, Mrs. W. J. Garland; Recording Sec'y., Mrs. A. C. Denike, Havelock; Corresponding Sec'y., Mrs. J. G. Sills, Foxboro; Treasurer, Miss Lazelle Brown, Belleville; Secretary and Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. H. T. Thompson, Whitby; Sec'y Young Women's Work, Miss V. B. Spargo, Bowmanville; C.G.I.T. ,Miss Robina Templeton, Belleville; Mission Bands and Baby Bands, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, Stirling; Associate Helpers, Mrs. T. H. P. Anderson, Newburg; Supply, Mrs. Jas. Glazier, Brockville; Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. S. T. Chown, Renfrew; Literature, Miss A. Henwood, Port Hope; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. Geo. Hardy, Oakwood; Temperance, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, B.A.; Librarian and Custodian of Records, Mrs. J. T. Daley, Port Hope; Press, Mrs. S. E. Revelle, M.A., Kingston; Delegates to Dominion Board, Mrs. A. I. Brown, Mrs. A. C. Denike; Alternates, Mrs. H. H. Hillis, Mrs. S. E. Revelle; Nominating Committee, Mrs. E. W. Rowlands, Miss Robina Templeton, Mrs. S. T. Chown; Finance, Mrs. H. T. Thompson, Miss E. Lazelle Brown, Miss Hetherington, Mrs. M. G. Johnston, Mrs. N. S. Robertson; Advisory Committee, Mrs. W. L. Smyth, Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, Miss V. B. Spargo.

Thursday Morning.

Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, of Norwood, conducted the opening service of worship.

Reports from the seven Presbyterial showed 505 Study Books and 534 Annual Reports were purchased during the year. 26 Reading Clubs were reported.

The Associate Helpers report by Mrs. E. B. Cooke, of Tweed, gave an encouraging outlook on the work of this department. There has been a gradual ncrease and the report of each secretary has been full of hope. It is ground being broken and needs cultivation and continued explanation of its program and the benefits which may be derived from it. It is the duty of the Associate Helpers Secretary to strive to interest this group. There are not enough secretaries. Out of 294 Auxiliaries only 103 have an Associate Helpers department. This is not as it should be. This department should be in every auxiliary, large or small. It would ighten the financial burden and add new members to the auxi iary. Through visitation and distribution of literature, this work may be accomplished.

Mrs. J. T. Daley, Port Hope, presented the report of the Circulating Library. This was originally a Memorial Library to the first woman missionary to Angola, a mission field of the Congregational Church. After Union, Mrs. Daley, then President of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, conceived the idea of forming of this a Circulating Library. This is the only Branch possessing such a library. Donations of books are gratefully acknowledged, and always acceptable. The gift of $15 from the Branch enabled the librar an to add 10 new books to the Library.

Christian Stewardship, and Finance was presented in an interesting report by the secretary, Mrs. H. T. Thompson, of Whitby. The aim of the W.M.S. is to enlist the entire womanhood of the church for service. It is our task to direct the full working force of our society, to emphasize the importance of proper use of prayer, personality and possessions, that an army of consecrated women will be mustered to carry His work to the very ends of the earth.

Mrs. A. C. Denike, of Havelock, gave a summary of the various executive meetings held during the year.

Press Secretary.

Mrs. S. E. Revelle, Press Secretary, emphasized the fact that no factor was more potent in bringing a knowledge of the great work of the W.M.S. before the public as the printed matter appearing in the public Press. No meeting should go unreported, no event of missionary importance should remain unnoticed. Newspaper men and publishers would be eager to co-operate if we showed enthusiasm, and zeal in our work.

Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, Candidate Secretary, told of several prospects of volunteers for the mission field and urged that she be advised ,if throughout the Branch there may be the chance of some young person's thinking seriously of offering herself as a candidate.

The quiet half-hour at the close of the morning session, was conducted by Mrs. C. Hanbridge, Fairmount.

Thursday Afternoon.

The afternoon session opened by a service of worship conducted by Mrs. S. H. Moyer, of Springville.

The Presbyterial Presidents each told a most interesting and encouraging story of the work in their various sections. Belleville Presbyterial was told by Mrs. S. C. Gay, Foxvoro; Cobourg by Mrs. J. Mears, Port Hope; Kingston, by Mrs. J. A. Jackson (now of Toronto), Lindsay, by Miss E. Dunoon; Oshawa, by Mrs. G. Jackson, Port Perry; Peterborough, by Mrs. A. I. Brown, Peterborough and Renfrew, by Mrs. H. H. Hills, Pakenham.

The dedicatory prayer was offered by Mrs. E. J. Corkill, Napanee.

Mrs. J. U. Robins, Bowmanville, installed the officers by the beautiful and impressive ceremony provided by the Dominion Board. Mrs. J. J. David, Baltimore, conducted the quiet half-hour.

The opening service of worship in the evening, was in charge of the Emma Smith Mission Band, of Mark Street Church, after which a very delightful exercise and song was put on by 35 small children, the Willing Workers Mission Band, of St. Andrew's Church, which was much enjoyed.

Rev. Dr. Arnup.

The special speaker for the evening was Rev. J. H. Arnup, B.A., D.D., Secretary for the Foreign Mission Board. Dr. Arnup has recently made a tour of the Orient and his vivid description of conditions there, held the interest and sympathy of his large audience from the beginning.

A welcome given to Mrs. MacGillivray and Dr. Arnup drew, the attention of the street crowd who pushed their way into the church, non-Christian and Christian crowded together, so great is the curiosity of the Chinese. And the difference between the shining faces of those women whom the Gospel had reached and the bleak unhappy faces of the non-Christian women was a most striking contrast. If the W.M.S. can work this change its every act is worth while.

In Eastern heathen lands, the burden rests heavily on the women. Conditions in cotton and in silk mills are appalling. In rooms without ventilation, without cooling devices, without any egress for the lint so harmful to the lungs, with no thought of recreation, thousands of women and little children, many under 12 years of age, work for 12 hours at a stretch for the sum of a few cents a day. Little babies lie on the floor under the machines while their mothers work. Loss of health, or position means beggary. Here is a wonderful opening for plans for ameliorating the suffering of women and girls.

An organization has been formed for the care of old women. In this the rich old women, whose lives have been empty and aimless now have a share in caring for the old women worn out by hard labours.

In Japan a group of young men conceived the idea of a Kindergarten, and enlisted the help of the W.M.S. promising to erect a building and pay expenses if the women would provide the teachers and do the training. This plan is being carried out, the teachers being Christian and religious exercises used each day. Children go home with this Christian teaching and the influence is soon felt in the home.

Mrs. P. L. Jull, Brooklin, offered the dedicatory prayer.

During the afternoon, Mrs. R. L. Cowan sang very effectively "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings" and St. Andrew's Church Choir in the evening assisted in the program by an excellent anthem "Rock of Ages" and by a solo, "Hark, hark, my soul."

At the luncheon hour greetings from the sister churches were brought to the conference by Mrs. Morrow of the Anglican Church, Mrs. Mason of the Presbyterian and Mrs. White of the Baptist.

Sympathy was extended from the Branch to Mrs. W. M. Campbell, Kingston, whose mother is very ill and to Mrs. Rutherford, President of Dominion Board, whose only daughter has passed away.

The Courtesy Committee brought in thanks and gratitude to the officials of St. Andrew's Church, to the organist, pianist and choir, to the young people, to Mayor Denne, to the ladies of Peterborough and ladies of St. Andrews, who provided so bountifully, to the Entertainment Committee, to the Dominion Board officers and Dr. Arnup and to the Press.

The next annual meeting will be held in Cobourg.

Mystery In Death

Poison, mystery, and the Woolworth millions were all tangled up in the death of James Paul Donahue (top), officially reported as due to "mercurial poisoning-suicidal." Donahue married the former Jessie Woolworth (bottom), heiress to the "5 and 10 millions," more than 20 years ago.

REV. KINGSFORD FINAL SPEAKER

Gore's Landing Church Pastor Delivers Address on "Church Publicity."

ANGLICAN CONFERENCE.

The final paper of the Archdeaconry Conference held in All Saints' Church, entitled "Church Publicity," was given by Rev. M. R. Kingsford, M.A., of Gore's Landing at the 2 p.m. session yesterday. In his address the speaker briefly outlined the plan, purposes, and results of the Northumberland and Durham Church Messenger, of which he has been editor, and proposed that the paper should be enlarged to include the whole of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough.

The paper at present is run on advertising. It is upheld by 27 congregations and has a circulation of 2,200 copies a month. The Message on the front page is always one from some prominent church worker, and has a certain amount of "pep" in it. The values of the paper were outlined as being many. To the church it means service, money, and members. It lets people know what is to be done; only 20 per cent. of the people attend church, and hence pay, but the magazine appeals to 100 per cent.; it means the giving of education, inspiration, and action to the church members.

Mr. Kingsford quoted several examples to show how the Messenger had helped inbringing in allotments, and thus making the church "buck up." He also gave numbers of Easter communicants and the amount of offerings in various parishes, and all showed a startling increase over any year as far back, in many cases, as 1910.

The speaker then made brief mention of other diocesan magazines in Canada which were run on subscriptions instead of advertising. The result was that these magazines only reach at the most one family in every six. "We should be pioneers in the matter of free distribution of our proposed Archdeaconry magazine which will therefore reach every home in the parish. Let us cast our net on the other side of the ship, and we will find multitudes of fish there," said Mr. Kingsford.

The necessary authority to form a committee responsible for the advancement of the work on the magazine was obtained from the meeting, and the following were elected: Rev. Dr. T. S. Boyle, Rev. A. G. Emmet, Rev. M. R. Kingsford, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave of Peterborough, Rev. R. J. Shires of Haliburton, Rev. A. J. Goldring, Victoria, J. J. Turner of Peterborough, and E. J. Wormington of Port Hope.

St. George's Guild Holds Stocking Party

A successful "stocking party" under the auspices of St. George's Ladies Guild was held in the church basement last evening. Mrs. H. Wood, president, acted as general convenor. Rev. J. L. Hughes undertook the duties of chairman for the program of games contests, and community singing. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. C. H. Phillips and Miss Beatrice Curtis and piano selections by Marjorie Sims.

Prizes for the contests were won by Mrs. J. L. Hughes and Mrs. Phillips. Dainty refreshments were served by a committee of ladies with Mrs. R. King as convenor.

Fidelis Mission Band Holds Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Fidelis Mission Band of George Street United Church was held in the Sunday School auditorium witha large attendance.

The president, Ruth Parnell, presided and the meeting opened with "The Call to Worship," led by the superintendent, Mrs. Wellwood. The secretary, Jean Kerr gave a fine report of the last two meetings and called the roll. This was followed by a very satisfactory statement of the finances by the treasurer Loreen Wellwood.

Jack Kenmuire rendered a pleasing piano solo.

Loreen Wellwood repeated from memory the first 10 verses of Psalm 103. This is the psalm which the members have for memorization this year.

Bobby Parnell continued the story of the life of Mary Slessor, the African missionary.

Mrs. J. B. Nelson took up a chapter of the study book, "Young Japan." This was followed by the hymn, "Jesus feels so Sorry," sung lustily by these enthusiastic young missionary workers.

The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

"Astounding Number of Suffering Men and Women in Peterboro and Vicinity" --Says NU-ERB Man at Bond's Drug Store

Is Amazed With Number of Local Persons Suffering From Various Health Disorders

Stomach Trouble, Constipation, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Nervousness Most Common Ailments He Finds

"It is almost unbelievable the number of local persons who have called at Bond's Drug Store, phone 327, to talk with me about Dr. French's NU-ERB. Many hundreds, yes, thousands, have told me how they have suffered for years from stomach, kidney and liver ailments, rheumatism, nervousness and constipation. These persons had tried every heard-of medicine without getting relief and are already reporting splendid results from Dr. French's NU-ERB.

Please do not misunderstand me, however. I do not claim Dr. French's NU-ERB to be a "cure-all" or "miracle-healer." Neither does it "dose" the organs or simply deaden pain. Dr. French's NU-ERB does far more than that. It is a newly discovered combination of juices from twelve medicinal herbs, roots, barks and leaves which gently and naturally help your digestive organs to throw off the wastes that poison the whole system and sweetens sour stomachs, tames torpid livers and straightens out those unruly kidneys in a jiffy. Then headaches, backaches, dizziness, nervousness, sleeplessness, general weakness and that tired, worn-out feeling soon disappears and new energy, strength, appetite and happiness make your days joyful and your life worth living once again.

If you have noticed in your own condition lately any of those "forerunners" to real health disorders, such as indigestion, gas, headaches, bilious attacks, dizzy spells, etc., which nature sends as a warning that help is needed—come to see me at Bond's Drug Store to-day. Let me tell you why it is that thousands of men and women throughout the Dominion of Canada support our claim that Dr. French's NU-ERB is one of the most powerful invigorants and reconstructants known in medicine and learn how you can use it yourself to get rid of those ailments which are making you sick and miserable. Remember, the name of the medicine is Dr. French's NU-ERB and the place where the NU-ERB Man is located is Bond's Drug Store.

FINGERPRINT EXPERT OFFERS FORGERY CURE

VISUALIZE a great cabinet-lined room, the nerve centre of a department ranking equal with any in the Dominion's capital—a department of international as well as national importance, in fact a link of a chain that extends to every civilized land.

H. F. Goodmurphy

Open one of the cabinets and take out the first file. It is the fingerprints of a much-convicted forger. Examine the contents of a second, they are those of a cabinet minister. The third yields those of a noted divine, and the fourth the inky imprints of a woman shoplifter.

This is the picture conjured up by H. F. Goodmurphy, head of the identification department of the Vancouver police department, who is recognized as one of the leading authorities on the continent on fingerprinting and its uses. But as a seer Goodmurphy is not forecasting an era when crime has reached such proportions that everyone will have a police record. Indeed this wholesale classification has nothing to do with law enforcement. It will, he maintains, serve instead as a valuable asset in the world of business and domestic affairs.

Goodmurphy has long conducted a single-handed crusade to clear the skirts of the fingerprint from the stigma of criminal association. Its intelligent use will gain its recognition in the highest circles of commerce, he contends.

"To-day when one buys a traveller's cheque," continues this disciple of the ink block, "he is given a password which is to be his identification when he desires to cash it. There is nothing to prevent him babbling this word in an unguarded moment and if the cheque falls into the possession of others knowing this countersign it can easily be passed. A print, say of his right thumb, on the corner of the cheque eliminates this possibility. If he then wants to cash it in Paris or Timbuctoo, the buyer merely gives the same thumb impression in the presence of officials and his identification is complete.

He cites: A youth was killed in a train accident in the western foothills of the Rockies, and a Vancouver woman, whose son was missing identified the body as that of her boy. Numerous friends of the lad and one of his former employers visited the morgue. With a single exception they confirmed the mother's view.

Moved by the one negative, the woman came to Goodmurphy, knowing that the boy had been in trouble at one time and that his fingerprints were on file. The expert compared the prints of the dead youth's hands with those on his record and reported back to the woman that the dead boy was not her son. She protested that he was mistaken as many more friends of the youth had definitely declared the body to be his. Goodmurphy stood pat, for his personal records were reinforced by others from other institutions were the boy had served time. The woman, however, confident that she was right, made arrangements for the funeral. Several months later the youth was located serving a sentence in a prairie jail.

"There is an unjustified feeling of revulsion about being fingerprinted," Goodmurphy asseverates. "The idea is current that one must be a criminal if such records are on file. Far from it. In my cabinets I have the prints of leading men throughout the Dominion—premiers, lawyers, doctors and prominent men of all professions. A few have been convinced already that identification records are valuable."

Shooting at Deer Is Hard on Humans!

REINCARNATION is not at present one of the beliefs of Chief Justice Aulay MacAulay Morrison of the supreme court of British Columbia. If, however, he should ever be persuaded that he could return to this world after death, he would choose to come back as a deer.

The chief justice himself made this statement in the course of a very brief charge to an assize court jury in Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, as it was about to retire to consider the verdict in the case of a man who had admittedly slain his companion on a deer-hunting expedition.

"If reincarnated as a deer, I should feel perfectly safe at the hands of hunters," said the judge, cynically. "It is the sportsmen who are always in danger."

As is customary in trials arising out of hunting fatalities, the accused was acquitted.

Mr. Justice Morrison was himself a famous athlete in his youth. At Dalhousie University, which he entered in 1884, he was a consistent winner in track and field events, won a gold medal for gymnastic work, and won a place on the football team half-line in his freshman year. Not long afterwards he was elected captain, and built up a team whose record equalled that of the best in the country at the time, and probably since.

After having been called to the bar of Nova Scotia in 1888, and practised in Halifax for a brief period, Aulay Morrison moved west and opened an office in New Westminster, where in 1896 he was elected to the House of Commons, and re-elected in 1900.

In 1904 he was named puisne judge of the supreme court of British Columbia, and in 1906 he became deputy judge in admiralty.

At the Dalhousie University reunion two years ago nine distinguished graduates were honored with the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and Aulay MacAulay Morrison was one of these.

Siamese Consul in B.C. Scion of Noted Family

A STORY of warships and international friendships lies behind the appointment of an Englishman as Siam's consul-general in Canada.

Captain the Hon. W. J. M. Watson-Armstrong, son and heir of Lord Armstrong, first Baron of Bamburgh and Cragside, Northumberland, England, can look back to the time when, as a little boy of five, his home was astir to welcome the then king of Siam, father of King Prajadhipok, who is now in America.

Capt. Watson-Armstrong

The firm of Armstrong-Whitworth, of which Captain Watson-Armstrong's father is the head, made warships in the old days for Siam. Through this business connection a warm friendship grew up between the English family of Watson-Armstrong and the Siamese royal family.

Small boys of five are not expected to be seen when royalty comes a-visiting, so Captain Watson-Armstrong recalls the occasion only by hearsay. He can, however, recall his majesty King Prajadhipok's visits to the old country, for the present king of Siam was a student both at Eton and at the Royal Military College, Woolwich.

It was in 1924 that Captain Watson-Armstrong was appointed Siamese consul with headquarters in Vancouver. Five years later, while in England on sick leave, he was notified of his promotion to the post of consul-general. Since that time he has been on a world tour which included a visit to the court of his majesty King Prajadhipok in Siam. Scarcely a month before their majesties were due to arrive in Canada, Captain Watson-Armstrong reached Vancouver to assume the duties of his new office, which at the beginning has included a great deal of work in connection with the royal visit.

Sir Andrew Macphail, O.B.E.

Sir Andrew Macphail's Mind Touches Life at Many Angles

WHEN a professional man diverges into the realm of literature it is usually at the sacrifice of distinction in his first chosen field.

Canada claims one of the few men who have made a success of a dual career. Sir Andrew Macphail, O.B.E., has brilliantly combined medicine and letters; and an impressive array of degrees and honors tells of distinction won as pathologist, lecturer on the history of medicine and author. He carries the title of "Major" as souvenir of a wartime adventure which took him to France with the 6th Field Ambulance.

In his booklined library, just beyond the shadow of old McGill, Sir Andrew is at present deeply immersed in "The Bible in Scotland," a critical work which will be published in London this autumn. The title, though intriguing, gives little idea of the scope of the treatise which, far from being confined to Scotland, touches the entire world.

While it is as critic and commentator that Sir Andrew takes highest literary rank, he has an enviable record as historian and translator as well. His contribution to the official history of Canada's part in the war—a volume on the medical services, gained him the Quebec government literature award in 1928.

The essayist and critic is seldom familiar to that class of reader which fares on "best sellers," but Sir Andrew scored even here with his translation of Louis Hemon's "Maria Chapdelaine" which had such a wide vogue not many years ago.

These two achievements give an indication of Sir Andrew's versatility as a writer which is strengthened by a survey of the titles of his works. "The Vine of Sibmah," "Essays in Politics" and "The Life of John McCrae" are taken at random from the list, the last-named being a graceful tribute to a friend and fellow in letters and medicine—the author of "In Flanders Fields."

Andrew Mcphail was born in Prince Edward Island and sent to McGill to be made into a doctor. He admits now that, in spite of his determination to concentrate on medicine, he frequently yielded to the lure of letters during his student days. However, he did not allow the writing habit to gain the upper hold on him until he had achieved a firm position in his destined profession. Graduating from McGill in 1888, he went to England to collect further medical degrees and on his return was appointed professor of pathology at Bishops College, Lennoxville.

In 1907 he was named for the chair of history of medicine at McGill in which capacity he lectures "medics" to this day. The war found the physician yielding place to the writer in Andrew Macphail, but it was in the former capacity that he went to France and rendered services as a hospital administrator which brought the O.B.E. as reward.

"I Barnstorm for God!" Says Friend of Negro

BORN in Upper Alsace, Albert Schweitzer became one of the greatest organists in the world. He displayed his genius at the age of sixteen, and managed, with the help of a teacher, to get to Paris, where he became the pupil of the great Charles Marie Widor. In his early twenties he was organist to the Bach Society in the French capital, and to the Orfeo Catala in Barcelona, Spain. Europe regarded him as one of its greatest musicians.

But Albert Schweitzer did not choose to follow comfortable paths. One day he saw the statue of a negro, and the sadness of the stone face moved him so much that he decided to devote his life to the betterment of the blacks of Africa. So he decided to study medicine, and took the full course. Then he and his wife, who was a trained nurse, went out to Africa.

They landed in the dark continent without much in their hands. Their chief possession was a piano, which had been presented to them by the Bach Society of Paris. But they went to work among the natives, healing the sick, and playing divine music for them on the piano. It was a labor of love, and it was continued until the war. One day Mr. Schweitzer was arrested by the French authorities as an enemy alien. He was put into a prison camp in the Pyrenees.

Schweitzer was released after peace was declared. He wanted to go back to Africa, but had no money for his work there. So he hit upon the idea of going up and down Europe lecturing about the dark continent, and giving recitals. Crowds came to hear him. Some, knowing about his incarceration during the war, were suspicious, until they heard him speak and play. "I'm barnstorming for God!" he told them.

When he got back to Lambarene, where he had been stationed before the war, he found that the jungle had swallowed up his little clearing, and the white ants had eaten up his little hospital. But Schweitzer was not discouraged. He got a bit of land from the French government and went to work again rebuilding his hospital with the help of natives and white friends.

Last year he went back to Europe for a holiday. He was honored everywhere for his great work. The Universities of Prague and St. Andrews conferred honorary degrees upon him, and the city of Frankfort presented him with their Goethe Prize, which is awarded for distinguished service to humanity. He played the organ at Westminster, and was received by Premier Ramsay MacDonald. Friends tried to keep him in Europe, but he is back in Africa again.

She Sticks to Hubby In Spite of His Title

GREAT BRITAIN now boasts two titled women who should feel at home in a democratic Canada which has officially pronounced against invidious caste distinctions. One of these is the wife of the famous author and lecturer, Bertrand Russell, who recently inherited the title of Earl Russell on the death of his father. The other is the wife of Lord Passfield.

Both these ladies insist on being addressed plainly as "Mrs." The good reasons why their husbands should be distinguished above their fellows do not extend to them, they point out, and their objection to titles has not lessened because there are now knee breeches in the family wardrobe.

Mrs. Russell's disavowal of any intention of wearing a title has been coldly precise, but Mrs. Webb's was flavored with a dash of wit. In a lecture given before the Fabian Society on "Can We Make the British Parliamentary Government Equal to Its Task?" she pointed out that the problem was not entirely unconnected with "the gentleman who goes under the amusingly fantastic name of Lord Passfield, having been so christened for political reasons by a bauble-minded Labor government."

"When I took him for better or for worse, I had no idea it would ever come to that," she went on. "I'll stick to him, however, for he continues to be responsible for my debts, though not for my opinions."

MEN & WOMEN in the public eye

COMMONS NOW BOASTS A REAL PIPE-MAJOR

FOR the first time since anybody around Ottawa can recollect—and perhaps that means since Confederation—the House of Commons boasts the possession of a real piper, not an ordinary piper, but a pipe-major, no less. He is Thomas Reid, M.P. for New Westminster, B.C., a Scot who was born at Cambuslang, near Glasgow.

Thos. Reid, M.P.

He learned to play the bagpipes when a schoolboy and he was in the pipe band of the Boys' Brigade. Later he was a member of the Cambuslang Pipe Band and the Volunteers' Pipe Band. He was the first pipe major of the Clan Macrae Pipe Band of Vancouver, and he is the judge every year at the Caledonian games at Vancouver.

He still plays, and in his desk in his room in the House of Commons he has his practise chanter. Twice a day the wail of the pibroch sounds through the corridors with the regular wind-up of "The Campbells Are Coming' for his branch of the Reid Clan is a sept of the greatest all Highland clans, that of Argyll.

Although this piping characteristic will have a special appeal to Scots folk, it is by no means the thing that has made him a member of the Canadian parliament at the age of 44. It was loyalty that did it. Note his story. It tells how a man running as a Liberal won a seat with 2,800 majority, which was held by a Conservative who in 1926 was elected by 2,240 and in 1917 by 4,498.

Thomas Reid was born with no silver spoon in his mouth. He had to go to work early. He learned the trade of a steel moulder in Glasgow and emigrated to Canada in 1909 at the age of 22 with not much more in his pocket than his union card. He landed in Vancouver, worked there for a while and then went to Seattle to enter the employ of the Seattle Car and Foundry Company. In a few years he rose from moulder to the position of superintendent of the company.

He seemed destined for a great career in that business when one day there was a strike in the works. He was "between the devil and the deep sea," but he never hesitated a moment. He was a union man on principle, and he sided with his men. He kept his union card in his pocket.

Of course he lost his job. But that did not worry him very long. His soul ached to be back under the British flag again and he crossed the border to British Columbia. He saw the future for ranching there and he took up a farm at Newton in the Fraser River valley. That was in 1919. During these twelve years he has been successful, but more than that he has won the confidence of the people of New Westminster to an extraordinary degree. For two years he was a councillor of his municipality, and for seven years its reeve. Last summer he was elected member of parliament, to the utter astonishment of the shrewdest of politicians. That union card and his loyalty brought him the greatest gift the electors could bestow.

Siam's Youthful Ruler Is Benevolent Despot

SIAM has been described as the place where east meets west, and King Prajadhipok presents a study in eastern and western influences. Absolute ruler of ten million subjects, not even the highest of whom may dare to question his slightest whim, head of the Buddhist church in his own country, he was educated at Eton and Woolwich, is an enthusiastic amateur photographer, plays a good game of golf, is fond of yachting, and has shown himself to be a practical politician to the extent of placing the finances of his kingdom on a sound basis to be envied by some of the smaller European powers.

King Prajadhipok

The Siamese king is a living embodiment of the phrase "benevolent despot." The gentle Buddha smile that forever plays on his lips betrays a fun-loving nature that leads him into pranks which would be regarded as undignified in a European monarch. He created a privy council after first warning the members of it that he intended to delegate to them none of his royal authority. Once he sought to steal into the council chamber unobserved in the hope of listening in on the deliberations from an adjoining room. But unfortunately the conductor of the royal band unintentionally put the councillors on their guard by playing the Siamese national anthem as he caught sight of the royal automobile and his majesty slinking in by a back entrance.

Although by peculiar royal prerogative owner of every baby white elephant born in Siam, the present king is responsible for the continued absence of the white elephant from the national flag which it adorned for ages. Siamese flags are all manufactured in Japan, and patriotic Siamese everywhere were distressed at the rarity of the appearance of a well-shaped elephant in thae Japanese-made standards. Sometimes the elephant's tail was too long; at other times it was too short; or the animal's body was too broad, or the trunk wrongly hung. The king took advantage of popular dissatisfaction to abolish the elephant from the flag, replacing it by stripes.

There is one striking difference between the king and his predecessors. He is the first to have only one wife—who accompanies him in his trip to North America.

Bessborough's Name Well-Known in B.C.

THE name of Canada's new governor-general may have been strange to millions of Canadians when the news came that he had been honored by being selected to represent his majesty King George in this dominion, but to sailors and fishermen on the far west coast "Bessborough" had a familiar sound.

The Earl of Bessborough

For nearly seventy years there has been a Bessborough bay in Sunderland channel, off Johnstone strait, a body of water which forms part of the "inside passage" between Vancouver Island and the mainland of British Columbia. This bay was named after the ancient British house of which the governor-general is a distinguished scion.

Bessborough Bay was named in honor of John Brabazon Ponsonby, fifth earl of Bessborough, and Baron Duncannon, who held the title in 1865 and was the fifth earl of that name. His nephew, Edward Ponsonby, R.N., was then a midshipman serving on the British Columbia coast, and it is generally supposed that he suggested the name.

In spite of the passage of time, the correct pronunciation of "Bessborough" has persisted among B. C. shipping men, though few knew of its origin. Indeed, it was because of this similarity of pronunciation with that of the name of the viceroy that a search into the archives was instituted which brought this old bit of history to light.

"Bessborough," if some still don't know, is pronounced "Bezzzborough." Some fishermen even sound four z's, but three are considered sufficient among the elite.

'Uncle Arthur' Learned to be Suave

Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson

WHEN the history of Great Britain under the Socialist government of Premier Ramsay Macdonald comes to be written, the name of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, secretary of state for foreign affairs, will occupy a foremost place. For "Uncle Arthur," as he is popularly called, has been one of the successes, if not the outstanding success, of the Socialist regime. Until he was appointed to his present office two years ago he had probably never even dreamed of foreign policy, but he is the kind of man whose imperturbable nature and unruffled composure fit him admirably for delicate negotiations and calm decisions. It is on account of these qualities that Ramsay Macdonald chose him as foreign secretary and he has amply justified that choice.

The secret of Arthur Henderson's success probably lies in the fact that he is no extreme Socialist. He is more of an extreme Liberal, and the advanced views of some of his supporters have never been shared by him. His native city is Glasgow where he was born in 1863, but at an early age his parents removed to Newcastle-on-Tyne, and it is in that neighborhood that his initial training in politics was obtained. In those days boys were put to work at an early age, and young Arthur was apprenticed as a moulder in some Newcastle ironworks, where he obtained his first insight into the trade union movement. The fact that he appeared to have an unusual grasp of the meaning and use of words and could discuss matters on terms of equality with men much older than himself, led to his being given every opportunity to study trade unionism, and it was not long before he became an official of his society. The next step was a seat on the Newcastle city council, and later he was elected to the town council of Darlington, of which place he was mayor in 1903.

At forty years of age Arthur Henderson had said goodby to manual labor as a means of livelihood, intending to devote all his time and energy to the furtherance of the trade union movement. His name had been put forward as a parliamentary candidate for Newcastle in 1895, but nothing came of it, and it was not until 1903 that he succeeded in securing a seat at a by-election at Barnard Castle. After five years in the House of Commons he became chairman of the parliamentary Labor party and in 1914 chief. Then he probably thought he had reached the summit of his career.

Owing to the moderation of his views and his all-round level-headedness, Arthur Henderson was invited to join the Coalition ministry in May, 1915, taking the post of president of the board of education, and in 1916 he joined Lloyd George's ministry as the representative of Labor, becoming minister without portfolio. In 1917 he visited Russia and on his return differences of opinion arose with Lloyd George, mainly over the question of his attendance at the international Socialist conference at Stockholm.

These difficulties became insurmountable and led to Henderson's resignation in August. Throughout the period of his association with Lloyd George's Coalition government, Arthur Henderson had retained his post as secretary of the parliamentary Labor party, and the clash between the two positions was really the cause of the trouble.

Although Arthur Henderson has held various cabinet offices in Premier Ramsay Macdonald's two administrations, his greatest efforts have been put forward during the last two years in an endeavor to bring about a condition of affairs under which war would be impossible. At Geneva last January he proclaimed a new alliance of the leading nations of the world when he called upon the governments to turn their solemn renunciation of war into a living reality. For the first time nations were told by Britain's spokesman that their honor, their pledged word and their loyalty to one another were involved, not in declaring war but in preventing it. "We are answerable to mankind," he said. "We must demonstrate to the world that our renunciation of war is real. The British government knows of no alliance except the great world alliance against war. We are all allies."

The gospel of economy is not one that finds a follower in Arthur Henderson. Speaking recently he pointed out that instead of more economy and less spending the reverse is what is required if trade and industry are to be revived. "The world is suffering from too much economy," he said, and he proceeded to disagree in no uncertain terms with the general demand for smaller expenditures. He made no reference in his speech, however, to his cabinet colleague, the Rt. Hon Philip Snowden, who, as chancellor of the exchequer, consistently preached the most drastic economy until his present illness removed him for the time being from the House of Commons.

DOES "R. B." SMOKE?

THERE is only one member of the Bennett clan who does not share R. B.'s horror of foreign imports. That is the little son of Captain Ronald V. Bennett of Sackville, brother of Canada's prime minister. Existence of the heresy on the part of the youngest member of the name was unsuspected until Mr. Bennett visited his relative on his return from the Imperial Conference. Along with old friends of the premier's boyhood days, Captain Bennett met his distinguished brother at the railway station. The premier was warmly greeting all, irrespective of their political affiliations, when he was interrupted by the childish treble of young Ronald Bennett, who, throwing all Canada First doctrines to the wind called out: "Uncle Dick, have you brought me any cigar bands from Europe?"

Detroit Collects Eight Runs in the First and Sixth Innings.

GIANTS IN THIRD PLACE.

Lindstorm and Vergez Clicking in New Positions on New York Field.

(By Gayle Talbot, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

Of the two principal "noble experiments" conducted by the big league foremen this year, one gives every promise of being a howling success. The other is proving a keen disappointment to its sponsor.

John McGraw appears to have made a wise move in shifting Freddie Lindstrom from third base to the outfield and posting the rookie Johnny Vergez at the warm corner. At least, the Giants were in third place in the National league to-day, the result of their third straight victory. Both Lindstrom and Vergez are clicking in their new positions.

Bill Killiefer, on the other hand, has had no such luck with the "pony" infield he installed this spring on his St. Louis Browns. For a week the Browns went great, winning three of their first four, but since then they have not done anything except lose seven straight ball games. To-day's sun found them resting at the bottom of the American league standing, having ousted even the Boston Red Sox. It may be pointed out, however, that the Sox have not played for five straight days and thus had no fair opportunity to defend themselves.

7th Straight Defeat

The Chicago White Sox handed Browns their seventh consecutive jolt yesterday, 10 to 9 in 11 innings. The victory, Chicago's third straight, pushed the Sox into a tie with Detroit for fourth and fifth places. Harold McKain was credited with his third win of the year. Nine errors marred the conflict.

So relieved were the Yankees to get out of Washington after dropping three to the Senators that they drove Rube Walberg from the mound and beat the tAhletics 7 to 2 in their opener at Philadelphia. Henry Johnson held the champions to six hits and struck out seven of them.

Detroit hopped on Willis Hudlin for four runs in the first inning and got four more off Craghead in the sixth to halt Cleveland's winning streak, 9 to 4. Fonesca's double with the bases loaded accounted for three of the Tribe's runs off Hoyt.

Fred Fitzsimmons was almost the whole show as the Giants downed the Boston Braves, 2 to 1, at the Polo Grounds. The veteran righthander held Boston to two singles, scored one Giant run and drove in the other. It was the first defeat of the year for Tom Zachary.

They finally fed one too many southpaws to the Brooklyn Robins; the men of Robinson jumped Jumbo Jim Elliott for four runs in the early innings, drove him from the hill and defeated the Phillies 6 to 1. Frederick hit a homer with two on in the third.

Pittsburgh extended Cincinnati's latest losing streak to four straight. The score was 8 to 3. The Pirates got all of their nine hits off Eppa Rixey in the six innings he worked. Lloyd Waner heading the assault with a home run inside the park. Mickey Heath, Cincinnati's rookie first baseman, ceived a broken right arm when Thevenow ran into him in the fourth inning.

Rain prevented the start of the crucial series between the National League leaders, Chicago and St. Louis, in the latter city.

THE REVEREND WRESTLER

A most bizarre career is that of the Rev. Charles Urban who one evening feeling the desire for a little healthy excercise and also the need for a little financial assistance stepped from his pulpit into the wrestling ring and scored a quick victory at the Philadelphia arena, over Frank La Ditzi of New York in five minutes and two seconds with a crotch hold and a body slam. The explanation of this most unusual action is that the Rev. Charles Urban was a former member of the Pennsylvania football team and also a star of that university's red and blue mat team. The idea is a good one for increasing one's income as long as it does not lead to a too enthusiastic sermon on how to get your man.

DAVIS CUP SERIES WILL START TO-DAY

United States and Mexican Players to Tangle in First Round.

MEXICO CITY, May 1 (C.P.). — The tennis journey that is expected to end in the Davis Cup challenge round in France begins to-day as the United States faces Mexico in the first matches of the opening North American zone tie.

The youthful team of Frank X. Shields of New York, Wilmer Alison of Austin Texas, and Sidney B. Wood, New York boy who is a student at the University of Arizona, is expected to come through the first matches, perhaps with some difficulty, and to go on to meet Canada in the zone final at Montreal on May 21, 22, and 23. The players from the north have been practising here for several days and are reported to have become accustomed to the altitude.

Two singles matches are scheduled for the opening day Shields meets Mexico's first ranking player Richard Tapia, and Alison plays Alfonso Unda The general opinion here is that the Mexican players will put good struggles against their stronger opponents, but have little chance to win

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 1 (C.P.)—President John Heydler of the National League is convinced the league's new baseball with its raised seams is making the pitchers more effective.

"I have noticed," he said,, "that the scores are closer. That, I believe, is due to the new baseball with its raised seams. Heydler said the umpires again are rubbing the ball with earth to take the gloss and glare off, and are not discarding balls as readily as in the past, tending to increase the pitchers' effectiveness.

SECOND GAME 22-15.

Montreal Team to Meet McAdam High School for Dominion Honors.

MONTREAL, Que., May 1 (C.P.) — The third Montreal basketball team to reach a Dominion final make their fight for a Canadian championship here on Saturday and Monday, when Young Men's Hebrew Association of Montreal meet McAdam High School of McAdam, N.B., in the finals for the Juvenile honors. Y.M.H.A. qualified by sending the Arrows from Windsor, Ont.; back home with a 22 to 15 defeat here last night and 39 to 24 beating on the two-game round. They took the first game of the semi-final by the score of 17 to 9.

Last night's game was better than the first encounter, with Y.M.H.A. working smoothly on their quick attacks and Windsor breaking fast when on the offensive. The Arrows' erratic shooting, which spoiled many sure baskets was their downfall. For the majority of the game Y.M.H.A. kept them out of the goal area and they were forced to shoot from up the floor where few shots found the baskets. Y.M.H.A. had to fight hard to break through Windsor defence, but succeeded nine time. The Arrows missed sure points on free shots many times while Y.M.H.A. made nearly half of their count.

In the first half of the game Windsor were just able to keep up with Y.M.H.A., trailing by three points when the whistle blew. Right from the start of the last half Y.M.H.A. piled a lead which stood them in good stead when Windsor took the offensive. The Arrows ran up six points quickly but the rally was cut short by the final bell and the team which had played without a relief left the floor with 15 points against Y.M.H.A.'s 22.

BETTY AGAIN CONFOUNDS CRITICS

Last year the English tennis experts did not think much of Betty Nuthall's tennis form, so she showed them how bad it was by capturing the United States Women's Singles title. This week she again confounded experts, who said she was below form, by giving Elizabeth Ryan, one of the world's foremost players, a severe beating: 6-3, 6-2, in the finals of one of the English County championships. The above pictures show the popular English tennis start in action and going on the courts for a match.

PESTS HALT ROYALS.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 1.—Rochester defeated the Orioles here yesterday by a 9 to 7 score. Four Bird hurlers failed to check the hard-hitting Red Wings, who garnered 16 safe blows, including home runs by Myers and Cotelle and doubles by Sisler, Southworth and Jordan.

Six successive hits in the second inning earned Rochester five runs and a margin, too much for the Orioles to overcome, although Maisels' clan hit freely in the latter part of the game.

NEWARK, N.J., May 1.—The Newark Bears collected 14 hits off a trio of Buffalo Bisons here yesterday to win 7 to 3.

"Dusty" Rhodes, obtained on option from the New York Yankees, made his first start in the box. He was taken out in the eighth inning after the Bisons had made eight hits. Myles Thomas replaced him and finished without any trouble.

Rhodes hit a home run into the right field stands with one on in the fourth inning. Ralph Shinners, Buffalo outfielder, also hit for the circuit in the fourth inning with none on.

Charles Hargreaves, veteran catcher, led the Bruins at bat. He clubbed out three singles and a double in four tries, drove in four runs and scored twice himself.

GENERAL VISITS BATTLE FIELDS

Hon. S. C. Mewburn, Former Minister of Militia, Sails For Europe.

YPRES MEMORIAL.

QUEBEC, Que., May 1—While I am over in Europe I am going over to Belgium and Flanders to visit the battlefields where so many Canadian soldiers paid the supreme sacrifice, stated Major General S. G. Mewburn, former Minister of Militia for the Dominion, to newspapermen as he sailed from Quebec Wednesday on the Canadian Pacific Empress of France.

"I am particularly interested in the battlefields of Belgium and one of the places I will most certainly visit will be that of Ypres, as chairman of the National Battlefields Commission I am going to meet General Hughes, who is now over in Europe, and one of the things I will do is to try and expedite the completion of the Vimy Memorial.

This Memorial was supposed to be completed next year, but I understand that there has been some delay in receiving the stone, and while I can say nothing officially, it is possible that the completion of the Memorial will be later than was expected, it will probably be dedicated next year, however," he said.

General Newburn is accompanied by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Thompson. He is returning to Canada on the new Empress of Britain, which leaves Southampton on June 17.

CANTRELL HURLS TORONTO SQUAD TO 5-3 VICTORY

Shiver's Triple in First Innings Starts the Leafs on Way to Win.

ERRORS ARE COSTLY.

Toronto Hurler Is Good in the Pinches, While Teammates Make Hits Count.

READING, Pa., May 1.—Guy Cantrell, former Detroit right-hander, held the Reading Keystones well in check here yesterday, to pitch the Toronto Maple Leafs to a second straight victory over the Keys, 5 to 3. Cantrell was nicked for ten hits, but he was effective in the pinches. He hurled exceptionally well in the eighth and ninth innings, when the Keys attempted to overcome the Toronto lead.

The Leafs practically won the game in the first inning, when they pounded "Broadway" Jones for four hits and three runs. The runs were manufactured after two were out. Nelson Greene, lanky left-hander, relieved Jones, and allowed only three hits in six innings, but two errors gave the invaders a pair of runs while he was hurling.

The Leafs got only eight hits, but they made better use of their bingles than did the Keys. Cantrell shut off a Reading rally in the eighth after two runs were scored on a walk and two singles, None were out, but he forced the next three batsmen to pop up. In the ninth, Reading placed the tieing runs on base with two out, but Quellich poped out to end the game.

Cantrell Strikes Out Five

Cantrell struck out five and walked only three. His fast ball was fooling the Reading batsmen, while he also had the Keys looking foolish when he tossed his curve. The defeat was Reading's eleventh of the season.

Toronto, having slammed out fifteen hits in the first game of the series, continued its sensational slugging in the first inning against Jones, and hit him so hard that his day's duties were ended after hurling the one frame. The Leafs socked Jones for four hits and three runs.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL WINS AN EASY 17 TO 1 DECISION

Victors Much Superior Over League Opponents in Every Phase of Play.

FIELD STARS ON MOUND.

In a game that started with all the earmarks of a tidy pitcher's battle, King Edward School took a walkover decision from Queen Mary by a 17-1 count on the latter's grounds and have yet to taste defeat in the present Public School schedule.

The winners appeared to have everything—pitching, batting, fielding—and could do nothing wrong. They trotted out a nice little southpaw hurler in Field, who showed the West End team their first real ball pitching to date. He had the homesters at his mercy fanning eight and allowing but two hits, both of which came in the first inning. After this frame, only three batters faced him an inning, no one reaching first base.

Mowry Also Good

Mowry, on the receiving end, helped his pitcher along a lot and the entire team turned in a nice fielding performance.

Len White toiled hard on the mound for Queen Mary but was effective only in spots. In the first and third frames he retired the side without a score but in the second and fourth, the opposition fell on him with a vengeance and pounded out eight and six runs in the respective innings. However, his team mates accorded him miserable support and grounder after grounder sifted through the infield for easy hits.

The homesters were not playing their positions on the diamond and huge gaps were left in the infield where easy grounders went for one and two base clouts.

The boys tried hard but were entirely outclassed by a much faster and heavier hitting squad.

Wild on Bases

The King Edward team showed up well in base stealing and in the second, when they tallied eight times, they stole no less than eight bases on Clark, the opposition receiver, and appeared to run the sacks at will.

In the fifth, to finish the game fittingly, Jobe and Field poled out long homers and made sure of their victory.

Queen Mary's only marker came in the first, when Hamley doubled and was brought home by Len White on a nice single. From then on, Field was complete master and the homesters went out in order and did not register another hit.

Queen Mary started the first frame in a conspicuous manner when they retired the visitors without a score, but in the second, the South Enders went on a rampage to garner eight runs.

Again in the third they were held scoreless, but in the next inning they commenced another batting spree and wound up with six more tallies.

Not content with this, Jobe homered in the fifth, Todd singled, and scored when Field knocked the second homer of the day to bring his team's total to 17.

The teams:—

Queen Mary.—A. Clark, c; Hamley, 1b; L. White, p; G. Clark, ss; Mortimer, lf; Harding, 3b; Kelly, cf; Florence, rf; R. White, 2b.

Score by innings:—

|---|---|
| Queen Mary | 10000— 1 |

Warning Is Issued To Hockey Players

REGINA, Sask., May 1.—(C.P.)—A warning to hockey players throughout the Dominion of Canada who contemplate changing residence before May 15 so that they can play for a new team next season was issued last night by Jack Hamilton, President of the C.A.H.A. The circumstances surrounding every transfer will be investigated by the C.A.H.A. before play starts next season and a Dominion-wide effort to curb the activities of the hockey players known as "tourists" will be made.

The aid of the various clubs is counselled by the C.A.H.A. President in stamping out the undesirable "raiding" of certain parties and the club officials are asked to investigate all transfers before signing a player's release.

PONIES MAY SIGN HARRY BATSTONE

Kingston Club Notifies Secretary Newton They Will Play in C.O.B.L.

STRONG OUTFIELD.

KINGSTON, May 1.—Contrary to expectations, Kingston will be represented in the Central Ontario Baseball League. Yesterday, Kingston Ponies notified Secretary Newton Thompson that they will play in the C.O.B.L. this season and will play their first game with Peterborough here on June 3. There is a chance, however, that Oshawa may make a belated application to enter the league, though Kingston are opposed to entry of the Motor City team, because of the long jump and the heavy expense the team would meet in traveling there.

Indications are that the C.O.B.L. will carry on with the tentative schedule arranged at the meeting in Belleville last Saturday. The Ponies are confident that they will show up well in the C.O.B.L. In the outfield, they will have Bert Vince, George Ada, Tommy Boyd, Vin McQuaid and others, while on the mound they will have "Yammy" Jamieson and Quinn, the latter a clever lefthander. Bernie Tetro and Steve Amey are available for the backstop position.

It is possible that the Ponies will have Del Cherry. Efforts will be made to induce Harry Batstone, who will be here this summer, to turn out. Batstone would be a wonderful aid to the nine either as a player or coach.

Plans for extending the women police system in Scotland are being considered.

CASUAL COMMENT

The City Baseball League meets to-night at eight o'clock at Duffus' to close entries and arrange an opening date for the schedule. There should be more teams entered, especially in the junior and the juvenile divisions. There's a whole flock of young players around if some one would only organize them.

• • • • • • •

The committee appointed to look over the site of the proposed new City League diamond at the Exhibition Grounds will report back at this meeting. The city has promised to put the diamond in shape for the league. A wire netting will have to be installed as well.

• • • • • • •

Tomorrow night, the Men's City Softball League closes its entry date. While there were only four teams represented at the last meeting, six have promised to join. The next meeting of this loop is called for Monday night at eight bells in Duffus'.

• • • • • • •

The teams which are expected to play in the Men's Softball League this summer are: Westclox, Examiner, Brintons, Sugar Bowl, All Saints Club, and the Imperial Oil Company.

• • • • • • •

Most of them are getting organized these days, and holding workouts on various grounds. The Examiner outfit has been practising several nights lately up at Nicholls Oval, and has been getting good turnouts. It's all right for those with Eskimo blood in their veins.

• • • • • • •

Rumor has it that Belleville has another Indian pitcher. If he's anything like Jack Williams, former star twirler of the Nats, the Petes' and the Ponies' batters better start practising up now.

• • • • • • •

Manager Gerow would like to get Harry Blakely back at short, as that position is one of his main worries. With Point Anne out of the Trent Valley League, the Quinte City ought to have plenty of good senior material.

• • • • • • •

Rumor hath it that a few of the good players are afraid to sign as their work will not permit them to go out of town through the week. We would like to know the shop that would refuse to grant a player time off to represent Peterborough in baseball when they only play out of town five days throughout the summer.

• • • • • • •

It is not probable that any employer in town is so devoid of sportsmanship and civic pride, but if such is the case, how can he kick when the Petes will only be playing five games away from home and most of those in July.

• • • • • • •

George and Chris Graham will be the judges at the Peterborough Ranger's boxing show to-night at the Armouries. These two, along with Referee Garwood, assure the fighters of the fairest of decisions all the way through.

• • • • • • •

"Red" Springer will be unable to come down tonight for his return go with Lesurf in the main bout, but Ed Cordell, another lightweight from the Central "Y", Toronto, will take his place. Cordell has the name of being a fast, two-fisted scrapper, and Lesurf may wish Springer had come here instead, before it is over.

• • • • • • •

Twelve bouts are on the card, with Toronto sending three boxers, Lindsay another three, and the others from right here. No Belleville boxers will be here, as far as it is known now. Plenty of seats are assured the fans, ringside and rush.

• • • • • • •

The show starts promptly at eight bells, and little time will be lost in between bouts. Quite a few spectators are expected to come down with the Lindsay gladiators. It should be a great card, all right.

• • • • • • •

King Edward team showed no mercy to their opponents, Queen Mary school, yesterday evening on the latter's diamond. The score ended 17-1 for the Kingsters, with "Lefty" Field having complete control of the situation from beginning to end. The winners played nice baseball in every department, while the losers just couldn't get a break.

• • • • • • •

The other school game down at Prince of Wales was much closer with King George beating the home team 8-7, though trailing once and being almost overtaken in the last frame. It was a good game with the hits and errors about equally divided.

• • • • • • •

The game would have been tied up in the seventh if Kingdon, the losers' catcher, had stopped on second after his nice double. But he tried to make third and was thrown out. Two runs scored after that, and had he come in the game would have went overtime. Just tough luck for him.

• • • • • • •

The winners showed some snappy fielding the last three innings, retiring the sides in short order. It was a good game.

WINNERS BUNCH HITS IN FINALS

Issue in Doubt Until Final Out Despite Numerous Errors on Part of Both Teams.

WILLIAMSON GOOD.

After being held to one-hit in the first three innings, King George School bunched their hits off two pitchers in the last half of the game to win out 8-7 over Prince of Wales, although the latter team threatened to tie it up in the final frame. Despite cold weather, and numerous errors on the part of both outfits, it was an exciting game, and in doubt until the final out.

McIlmoyle, starting on the mound for the losers, pitched nice ball for three innings, and his teammates crossed the plate five times to make it look very much like an easy win. King George, however, began hitting in the fourth, and, helped by several errors, counted three. They collected three more in the fifth, and Rusaw went in for the Prince of Wales. He struck out three in the sixth, though one run came in on a hit and two errors. They got one more in the seventh, and then the losers collected three hits, and, on two errors, counted two runs to make the score 8-7 before the last player was retired. Kingdon, trying to stretch a double into a triple, was out starting this frame; otherwise, the game would have been sewn up. "Stew" Williamson, doing the hurling for the winners, pitched steady ball, and while he was touched for eight hits, he kept them fairly well scattered after the second. He was assisted by the snappy fielding of the infield in the last four innings.

A large and noisy crowd of youngsters shivered but remained throughout the game. The teams:

Prince of Wales: Robertson, 3b.; Kingdon, c.; Menzies, 1b.; Roberts, ss.; Rusaw, 2b., p.; Platt, cf.; Abramson, lf.; McIlmoyle, p., 2b.; Hope, rf.

Umpire: O. Steer.

Score by innings:

| | | R. | H. | E. |

| King George | 0003311 | 8 | 8 | 6 |

4-TEAM LACROSSE LEAGUE IS LIKELY

Campbellford, Norwood and Either Oshawa or Havelock Will be Other Teams.

A large number of the lacrosse players were on hand last night at the Exhibition Park, and two teams were chosen, and the workout lasted about two hours.

A four-team league will likely be formed shortly, consisting of Peterborough, Campbellford, Norwood, and either Oshawa or Havelock. It will be an intermediate league, affiliated with the O.A.L.A. Practices for the local team will be held in the evenings, with games being played on Saturdays.

Another practice is called for tomorrow afternoon at the Exhibition Park at two o'clock, and a full turnout is requested. Players are advised to wear their uniforms, weather permitting, as there is a room to change clothes on the grounds. As well as the regular ones who have been working out, Coach Creighton would like to see the following come out to-morrow: Eddie Foley, B. Ashmore, Art White, Charlie Raney, Mark Swanger and Eddie Williams.

Four Course Winner One Thousand Guineas

NEWMARKET, England, May 1 (C.P. Cable).—Lord Ellesmere's bay filly Four Course, by Tetratema out of Dinner, to-day won the One Thousand Guineas, the second of the season's classic for three-year-olds, and one of the only two classics of the English turf restricted to fillies.

M. H. Benson's Lady Marjorie, by Sansovino out of Florena, finished second, and Lady Helen McColmont's Lindos Ojos, by Buen Ojos, out of Fourfold, was third.

Twenty fillies ran, the race being over the Rowley mile.

Four Course started at odds of 100 to 9 against; Lady Marjorie at 4 to 1 and Lindos Ojos at 10 to 1.

Four Course won a great race by only a head, with a length separating second and third horses.

At the Theatres

AT THE REGENT

"DRACULA"

Do human vampires actually exist? Records of the United States Government say that they do. In fact, Dr. John E. Lind, physician in charge of Howard Hall, the hospital for the criminal insane at the St. Elizabeth's Hospital, the Federal Institution at Washington, D.C., is authority for the statement that for many years a vampire has been one of the inmates—a sailor.

Thus a measure of credibility is given to "Dracula" Universal's strange drama based on Bram Stoker's famous novel at the Regent Theatre. Count Dracula, the central character of the story, is a vampire, and his attacks on other persons in the story are the means of forcing them, too into the terrible Legion of the "Undead."

Three members of the original cast of the stage play, in the persons of Bela Lugosi, Edward Van Sloan and Herbert Bunston, appear in the screen version, while other important roles are played by Helen Chandler, David Manners, Frances Dade, Dwight Frye and Joan Standing. Tod Browning directed "Dracula" the screen adaption of which was written by Garrett Fort, and Mr. Browning with added dialogue by Dudley Murphy.

SENIORS LIKELY SIGN SATURDAY

Several of Old Reliables Will Be Seen on Senior Representatives Line-up.

HAVE CLASSY OUTFIT.

Just a few days over three weeks and the Peterborough senior team will swing into action against Belleville in the opening game of the Central Ontario League. And with the coming of May, the interest of local fandom is turning to the home representatives in this league. Who will be playing for the Petes this year? Have any of them signed yet? And when will they workout together as a team? These are a few of the questions being asked around town these days by some of the dyed-in-the-wool senior ball fans.

The answers to these and other questions pertaining to the Central League entry will be known shortly, as "Shiner" Johnston is calling for a workout to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock down at the Exhibition Grounds and most of the team will be signed up right there.

He wants every player who wants a tryout in faster ball to be on hand and those who are going good will be asked to scribble their "John Henry" on the dotted line, if they haven't done so already. It is not known yet who, if any, have signed, but some of those who have promised to try out with the seniors include: Heckman, Swanston, Hilliard, Sweetman, Nicholls, Legon, Kitchen, Foley, Masterson, Utronki, Maudsley, Whatley, J. Jones, Fred Jones, and others.

Harry Ranger is waiting to get the names of his players, so that he can order new uniforms, and other equipment for the team. The weather should begin warming up from now on, and more and more workouts will be the order for the big team.

Kingston and Belleville are both lining up strong teams, and fans here are assured of classy ball again. There is still a chance of Oshawa being permitted to enter, making the Central League a four-team loop. At any rate, the Petes should get lined up and then start practising together two and three times a week if they wish to be in the pink when the schedule opens.

TWELVE BOUTS ON LIONS' CLUB SHOW

Best Amateur Boxers in Canada and United States Will Be Seen in Action.

TORONTO, Ont., May 1. (CP)—While the ancient sport of boxing, that is the professional sort, has been hard hit by the prevailing economic depression hereabouts, amateur leather pushers expect to have one of their greatest nights next Monday. On that date the annual international boxing show, sponsored by the Lions Clubs of Canada and United States, will be held at Arena Gardens.

There are 12 bouts on the program and these being together some of the best boxers in the two countries. As a matter of fact several of the Canadian contestants preferred to compete in the Lions show rather than journey west and try to hammer their way to a Canadian title in the Dominion boxing championships which commence at Winnipeg to-night.

RELIEF NEEDED ANOTHER WINTER OTTAWA HEARS

Conference at Capital Finds Few Signs of Early Recovery.

PROBLEM STUDIED.

Towns Asked to Discourage Wandering of Unemployed Men.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1 (By The Canadian Press)—Appointment of a permanent national committee to study all phases of social and economic conditions with a view of making plans to prevent recurring cycles of unemployment is urged on the Dominion Government by the round table conference of unemployment which met here Wednesday.

The proposed committee, it is suggested, would study the economic and social structure of Canada "with the purpose of pooling the best knowledge of governments, industrial, agricultural and financial interests, social and health agencies in evolving a more stabilized system of production and distribution and of supply and demand."

Drift of Unemployed

Suggestions are offered in connection with the problem of the drift of unemployed from one town to another. Legislation is suggested to empower municipalities to send back to their previous place of residence persons who have no hope of maintaining themselves in the place they have moved to. Municipalities are also urged not to provide transportation to get unemployed persons out their borders unless they have legal residence in the place to which they are going or have a definite offer of employment.

"While there are some indications of a slight improvement in certain lines of activity," the report says. "The situation on the whole gives no windespread or well-founded hope of improved conditions during the fall and winter of 1931 and 1932."

Under the circumstances it is felt a continuance of temporary relief measures will be required while the need of some permanent and constructive measures is even more apparent.

ARABS HAVE OWN POWERFUL CARS

came by boatloads. At once they were put to work giving Morocco a good roads system. With traditional Teuton thoroughness they went at the job and gave this part of the country one of the best road systems in all the world.

To those who picture Morocco as a land of tropical palms and oasis peopled by sheiks and handsome soldiers of the foreign legion I advise a ride on these roads. Get into a Canadian-made car, drive out past the city walls and onto the broad highway. Close your eyes. Open them again. Where are you? You're in Canada. Absolutely and positively the same. Never a palm tree. Never an oasis. The same kind of roads exactly. Similar fields of hay and grain. Similar trees. Similar birds. Similar everything except people. When you peep off into a field and see a stray Arab stolidly ploughing with one camel and one cow you know this is not Canada.

Sorry to take away some of that romantic hokum folks but it just works out that way.

City Is Different.

Back in the city it's different. Vastly different. Canada will never see such a conglomerate mass of peoples. The latest 16 cylinder cars are being driven by Arabs in flowing robes who could have stepped straight out of an ancient painting. Veiled women by the thousand. And when I say veiled, they are veiled! None of this fussy little handkerchief hanging down from their nose but yards and yards of that kind of stuff bath towels are made from. This is swathed around and arou leaving but one tiny peep hole from them to see through as they thread their way through broad boulevards like an army of soft treading ghosts.

Street cars clank up and down loaded with a dozen different types of Arabs not to mention the grinning eunuchs from Nubia or the hard fighting boys up from Senegal. Black fellows there. Coal black with cruel eyes and ferocious ideas.

The sheiks who held small bits of goat pasture near the edge of the town ten years ago are millionaires now. Or they were millionaires before the card sharks and rouelette experts got to them Whether they make a million out of their land or lose it on a full house facing a straight flush doesn't matter. It's all done by Allah. The muezzin bawling from the minarets which spot important corners says so. Daily he screams in his high voice "There is no other god but Allah. Allah is the only god. There is no other god but Allah." He probably says a lot more but that's all that has been interpreted for me. The cafes which line boulevard after boulevard are crowded with Arabs who roll up their long robes and have boys hustle about to wash their feet and hairless legs while they drink.

Bandits Plentiful.

Camel caravans from the edge of Sahara come and go loaded with the wares of the desert. Figs and spices, rugs and hides, wool and brasswork. But it's a powerful caravan driver who gets back to his tent with the spoils of his sales. Boom towns are like that. Always somebody lying in wait to fleece the unwary.

Casablanca is worst of all when it comes to gyping the worker. So there are duels and nocturnal murders. People mysteriously vanish never to be seen or heard from again. Guides who meet the great ships and take passengers on conducted tours are held responsible to the government for the safe return of every passenger. I took one of these trips on my arrival here and felt gay and blithe about it all. Since I have returned on my own there have been times when the wind was put up me pretty completely. But that come later. In the meantime let you and I stick around this metropolis in a land of mystery. There's all sorts of things we can do here and nobody seems to sleep.

WOLF RAVAGES STILL CONTINUE

Buck Lake Lodge Caretaker Finds Carcasses of Seven Deer.

LINDSAY NEWS.

LINDSAY, May 1. (Special to The Examiner).—Further reports of the ravages of prowling wolf packs are coming out of Haliburton County. Yesterday morning a Lindsay hunter who had been in the northland, gave out the information that the caretaker of a lodge on Buck Lake, owned by Lindsay hunters had come across the carcasses of seven deer which had been killed by wolves. He had been successful in bagging two of the packs. Some of the farmers in the north have organized night vigils in order to protect their stock. The wolves are becoming to bold as to actually prowl around the farm buildings.

Trappers on the local waters have reported that a great many muskrats have been found dead. They appeared to have been diseased, and the opinion is expressed that it was due to gaseous matter under the ice. A great many bass as well as suckers fell victims, as is evidenced by the great number of dead fish found floating in the water as well as along the shores.

The announcement that both the Lindsay-Fenelon Falls and the Lindsay-Bobcaygeon highways had been taken over by the government as part of the Provincial Highway System was received with a great deal of satisfaction by the Victoria County Council. These two highways serve as arteries to the tourist districts, and their upkeep during the past years has cost the county considerable money. They were the only two important highways in this district which were rendered impassable for motor traffic during the past winter.

Mrs. Joseph F. Naylor of Bobcaygeon sustained serious injuries a few days ago when she fell down cellar at her home. Her left leg was broken at the knee and her back badly injured.

Lumbering and mill operations will not be as brisk in this district as in past years. Two large mills, however, will operate this year. These are the property of the Carew Lumber Company, and are situated at Lindsay and Haliburton. The northern mill will start to cut next week, and the Lindsay mill around the last week in May.

Mrs. J. E. Shields of Victoria Road was the victim of a very painful accident on Thursday. While frying meat, some of the fat spluttered on the floor. In stepping from the stove Mrs. Shields slipped, overturning the frying pan, the contents of which fell on her hands, inflicting serious burns. Dr. Ross attended the unfortunate woman, who is suffering greatly from the burns.

Mrs. Herman Hart, who resides on the Bobcaygeon road, about three miles from Lindsay, and who is in 92nd year fell in the kitchen of her home a few days ago and broke her hip bone in four places. She was taken to Ross Hospital.

Lloyd Wiley, aged fourteen years, residing at Oakwood, Mariposa, is in the Ross Hospital suffering from a double fracture of the left leg. The accident occurred while the boy was playing on a shed at school. He was taken to the Ross Hospital.

FISHERMEN OUT AS SEASON OPENS

Big Bens Rang Early in Many Peterborough Homes This Morning.

TROUT AND PICKEREL.

Big Bens rang early in many a Peterborough home this morning, as fishermen leaped eagerly from their downy cots to hie to river and stream for the first day of fishing.

Reports from the fishing front state that the rodsmen were out in legion numbers whipping favorite streams for the wily trout and casting plugs upon the river for hungry pickerel. Their efforts were not without reward; few returned home without at least one finny prize and some got their full quota.

Pickerel fishermen must remember that they can not fish from boats until July 1, and their day's catch can not exceed eight fish. These may be sold, but only to licensed fish dealers. Reports have already been received by The Examiner that pickerel were being sold from house to house in the south end of the city to-day.

HUMANE SOCIETY APPEAL SATURDAY

Protection of Dumb Animals' Tag Day Purpose

"To help those who cannot help themselves" is the motto of the Humane Society, which tomorrow is making its annual local appeal to the citizens, in the form of a Violet Tag Day.

Domestic animals have ever been the friend of man. People who, at this time of year, are very wroth at the spectacle of a dog hurting the grass or shrubbery on their front lawns, have something to complain about but they remember probably that the dog is always ready to aid his master. The spectacle of the Premier of Ontario decorating personally that little nondescript Toronto dog, Bunty, that saved an entire family from death by awakening his master while fire was destroying the home, and the story of that lonesome collie of the Sault who wore his feet out travelling hundreds of miles to rejoin his owner, should be enough to convince anyone that animals are worthy of kind treatment.

There is always the other side of the picture: Stories of hogs and cattle herded into pens too small for them and being slowly crushed to death over long journeys; of dogs tied up on short, tight leashes and half starved; of fowl being left in frozen cellars to rot slowly to death; of horses maltreated in every conceivable way while trying to carry out the will of their cruel owners.

The Humane Society's annual reports show all too plainly just how much need there is of restraining the cruelty that dwells in many people, and any community would be poorer in many ways by a lack of such an organization.

If you own, or ever did own, an animal that repaid kindness and care by a wealth of unselfish and wholehearted affection, give a little to the taggers to-morrow.

Seventy coins, valued at $300 were received anonymously through the mail by the Poor Law Institution of Romford, England, recently, and will be used for installing radios in the tuberculosis wards.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 53 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

With the talkativeness of a native to other natives, Kovudoo's runner had unfolded his whole mission to the black servants of the two Swedes. They were not long in relating the matter to their masters. The result was that when the runner left their camp to continue his journey to the Sheik, he had scarcely passed from sight before there came the report of Jenssen's rifle and he rolled lifeless with a bullet in his back.

The next day the Swedes set out for Kovudoo's village bent on obtaining possession of the white girl whom the chief's runner had told them lay a captive there. They approached the old savage with friendly words upon their tongues and deep craft in their hearts. Their plans were well made. There was no mention of the white prisoner. They chose to pretend they were unaware Kovudoo had her. First they gave him little gifts

As they talked, Malbihn mentioned quite casually that the Sheik was dead. Kovudo showed interest and surprise. "You did not know it?" asked Malbihn. "That is strange. It was during the last moon." Kovudoo, not suspecting the lie, evinced much disappointment. No Sheik meant no ransom for the white girl. Now she was worthless, unless he utilized her for a feast. Then the wily old wretch conceived a strategic

These white men were peculiar. They traveled far without women. "I know where there is a white girl," he said unexpectedly. "If you wish to buy her she may be had cheap." Malbihn shrugged. "We have troubles enough, Kovudoo, without being burdened by some old hag." "She is young, and very pretty," insisted the chief. "There are no such in all the jungle," laughed Malbihn, winking at Jenssen. "Come, said Kovudoo, "I will show you."

NOT SABINE WOMEN?
Two headless women were borne unresisting, along Brock street at an early hour of last evening. Limp and lifeless, they appeared to be utterly powerless to do anything about it. Just why they were committed to the tender care of two small boys remains a mystery. Threatening to throw the "dames in the drink" the two voluble youngsters bore their charges—two plump dressmakers' judies—around the corner and disappeared with the silent ladies clattering their feet on the asphalt pavement.

TWO FIRE CALLS
The period of quietness at the Fire Station has been broken by only two fires of a minor nature. At 2.35 yesterday afternoon a call was sent in for a grass fire at the corner of Walnut and Cambridge Streets. Burning rubbish in the rear of 500 Sherbrooke street caused some alarm and a call was received by the Department at 7.48 p.m. Neither fire required any of the fire-fighting apparatus.

IN POLICE COURT

A fight in a George street cafe last night resulted in two local young men decorating the police court docket this morning. The one held responsible for the fistic activities pleaded guilty to being drunk and was taxed $10 and $4.50 costs. The other stoutly maintained that he wasn't drunk, but gracefully said "guilty" to being disorderly.

One year has passed since that sad day,

But in our hearts she liveth still.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,

In silence she suffered, in patience she bore
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

25 INJURED IN CALGARY.

Police Keep May Day Celebraters Well in Hand at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 2 (C.P.). —The arm of the law clung to 29 men to-day, arrested in May Day demonstrations throughout the Canadian West and at the lakehead cities. The majority of the cities and towns experienced quiet Communist mass meetings and parades, but in some instances the crowds became unruly, police action and arrests following.

Regina, Sask., and Calgary, Alta., were scenes of riots as police mingled with the throngs, swinging batons on heads in an attempt to quell the disturbers. Fights occurred as thousands of people churned about the streets, scores of persons being injured in the melees.

The Saskatchewan city's parade of unemployed was attacked by spectators who ripped asunder banners and plunged into the ranks, breaking up the long line of demonstrators and blocking traffic. Police entered the fray and arrested nine men on charges of disorderly conduct, fighting or resisting police officers.

Union Jack Seized.

Bloody faces and twisted noses resulted when a Union Jack, swung aloft by opponents of the Communists, was seized. Police officers finally brought the uprising under control and the streets were cleared

Seven men were arrested and 26 police and men injured in Calgary when Communists attempted to parade despite refusal by police of a permit. Officers wielded their billies and the demonstrators used their banners, but the affair ended in a few minutes after several arrests were made. Six of those arrested will be charged with being members of an unlawful assembly, while the seventh faces a charge of assaulting an officer.

Fort William and Port Arthur were the only other western cities to witness disturbances. In both these centres police clashed with the unemployed demonstrators when they attempted to parade against orders. Banners were torn down and 17 men arrested before peace and quiet returned.

Quiet In Winnipeg

In all other cities of the west May Day celebrations were fulfilled quietly. Winnipeg had a parade of thousands of unemployed led by a band of Communists. When the songs had been sung and the parading over, two Communists reposed in jail. One of them, John Pletzer, is charged with vagrancy while David Butler is charged with fraud. Pletzer is alleged to have pasted Communistic literature on downtown buildings while Butler is charged with defrauding the city relief department.

Monarch in Tibet Breaks Tradition, Buys Devil Wagon

DARJEELING, India, May 2.—(A.P.)— Departing from all the traditions of his country and faith, His Holiness the Dalai Lama, ecclesiastical King of Tibet, to-day ordered an automobile sent to him at Lhassa, high in the Himalayas.

A newly trained Chinese chauffeur will pilot the car where routes are navigable, but where no roads exist parties of 30 coolies each will be posted along the mountain passes and on the desolate Tibetan plateau to carry it in relays to its destination.

Heretofore, all automobiles have been dubbed "devil waggons" by highly superstitious Tibetans but the Dalai Lama expects his new acquisition to break down existing prejudices against these "infernal machines."

2 AUTOISTS RACE ONE CAR CRASHES GIRL NEAR DEATH

Machine Careens Over Curb, Upsets in Doorway, Takes Fire.

THREE TRAPPED INSIDE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 2. — Three persons were hurt, one probably fatally, when their automobile, after what the police say, was a street auto race, hit a traffic standard, mounted a curb, broke a telegraph pole in two, and ablaze and demolished, overturned in the doorway of a store.

Eleanor Aldrich, 21, of Pawtucket, at a hospital, with fractures of the skull and jaw, is not expected to live. The driver of the car, William A. Duclos, 46, and his other passenger, Irene St. Pierre, both of Pawtucket, escaped with less serious injuries.

Firemen Cut Off Roof.

The accident victims were extricated by firemen, who cut away the top of the car to reach them, keeping the vehicle soaked in water to prevent the flames from adding to the injuries.

Police are holding Duclos and Jas. H. Mullins of this city, with whom they say he was racing at the time of the accident. Mullins did not stop when the Duclos car crashed, but was chased and captured by the police as he returned to the scene a half hour later.

Blackpool Saves Selves From Demotion by Drawing With Manchester City.

LONDON, May 2 (C.P. Cable). — West Bromwich Albion, who last Saturday won the English Football Association Cup, to-day crowned their splendid season's work by gaining promotion from the Second Division of the English League to the First Division. The Albion went into senior company when they beat Charlton Athletic, while their competitor for the second place in their group which carries promotion, Tottenham Hotspurs, lost at Burnley.

Blackpool saved themselves from demotion from the First Division by the skin of their teeth when they got a draw with Manchester City. The axe falls on Leeds United, who made a valiant bid, however, to avoid relegation, beating Derby County. Leeds will go down with Manchester United. Reading and Cardiff City will be demoted from the second division to the third. Everton won promotion from the Second Division to the First some weeks ago. Other promotions will be Notts County and Chesterfield from the Third Division to the Second. REGENSBURG, Bavaria, May 2.—(A.P.) — The guillotine still used in some parts of Germany, to-day was used in fulfilling a death sentence passed on Erich Tetzner, a torch murderer, who burned a stranger in his automobile in an effort to defraud a life insurance company.

In conformity with the law twelve citizens officially witnessed the execution. Several newspapermen were the only other spectators.

WIND CHANGES TOWN IS SAVED AT LAST MINUTE

Whole Population of Athabasca Turns Out to Fight Bush Fire.

STUDENTS LEND AID.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 2 — A change of wind was all that saved the town of Athabasca from destruction yesterday, in the fourth bush fire that has threatened the town in the past few days. The whole population turned out to fight the blaze, a large bush fire sweeping down upon the town, and the High School students were released from their texts to aid in the work.

Four major fires were reported from the Spirit River district with large timber losses, although bridges and culverts in the district are as yet unharmed. No loss of life has been reported.

Rain is badly needed now to smother the existing fires that may encompass the whole country in the next few days, according to wires from the many central and northern Alberta points.

TO END SEPTEMBER 7.

Lawn Bowling Club Seeks Refund of 1931 Taxes—Request Granted.

Daylight Saving will start in Peterborough at midnight June 14 and will continue until midnight September 7; so the Finance Committee decided at a meeting held last night.

The motion carried with little discussion. Alderman Cotton moved, seconded by Alderman Macdonald, that Daylight Saving start as per the original bylaw.

"Why not start it earlier?" asked Alderman Fitzpatrick.

"We will likely get enough criticism from some quarters with it as it is," stated Mayor Denne.

In reply to a question by Alderman Tuggey, Chairman Phelan explained that there was no need of getting the citizens' sanction to a decision on Daylight Saving; it remained wholly with the Council. "We took a vote twice before just to get the feeling of the people," he stated.

The motion passed unanimously.

Refund Was Granted

Much discussion arose over the request of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling and Tennis Club, that the Council make a refund of $300 on the

Second Portion of Programme Consisted of "A Glimpse Into Fairyland."

(By Jeanette)

The splendid training that Miss Caroline Littlefield has given for years to the girls who attend the gymnasium classes at the Young Women's Christian Association, had another triumphant demonstration last night, when the annual Gym Pageant had its first presentation at the Grand Opera House. To-night will see the second presentation of this brilliant exhibition of skill and grace, which is of a pleasant length, goes through like clockwork with military precision and ease and displays in each brief portion of the program a different side of the physical training imparted to the students of the various classes at the "Y."

"A Glimpse Into Fairyland," a beautiful fantasy arranged by Miss Littlefield, formed the second portion of the Pageant, the first part being devoted to various physical drills and several bright dances. This Fairyland fantasy brought onto the stage, in a maze of moving color and light, a large number of dancers. There were the lovely Dream Flowers, a PEYKJAVIK, May 2.—(A.P.) — The steamer Odin, which sailed yesterday for Greenland, carrying an airplane which was to have searched for Augustine Courtauld, missing British scientist, radioed to-day that she was putting back to Reykjavik.

Serious motor trouble had developed in the plane, the message said, and the expedition would have to be abandoned.

Cut Scribe's Eye, Tear His Clothes and Start a General Riot.

SAVED BY LEGIONNAIRE.

By GORDON A. SINCLAIR

CASABLANCA, Morocco, April 5—(Copyright, 1931).—One courageous fighting man from the far famed French Foreign Legion came to my rescue in the native quarter of Casabanca to-day and saved this wandering reporter from a grown up hiding. A hiding administered by enraged Moslem women. It was one of those tricky things of the East that could never happen in any other country.

During my one day of prowling as a shepherded tourist complete with guide I carried a camera, anxious to shoot the veiled women which dot every corner. The guide always stopped me with a warning. His warning never seemed very complete to me. "Don't do it," he'd say. "They hate it. You'll get into trouble. Big trouble."

To-day I had no guide, no plans, no place to go. I simply wandered about hatless and along snapping an Arab water boy here or a group in prayer before a minaret somewhere else. I bought a pair of slippers for 80 cents and was immediately surrounded by 30 merchants convinced that if I needed one pair of slippers, I needed a dozen.

"Is H. G. Boulay being employed by the Canadian National Railways or the Department of Railways and Canals, or any other department, either as an investigator of the political activities of railway employees and other civil servants, or as a special agent or detective, or in any other capacity?" asks Mr. Veniot.

Mr. Veniot also asks if railway passes have been issued either by the Department of Railways and Canals, or the Canadian National Railways, to Mr. Boulay.

JUDGE TO VISIT ACCIDENT SCENE

Judge O'Connor Reserves Judgment in Belmont Township Cases.

OLD ROAD LEFT OPEN.

Judge L. V. O'Connor reserved judgment to-day in the double damage suit brought against the Townships of Belmont and Methuen for $1,500 by Herbert Wrightley, of Havelock, and Cora Kirby, of Illinois. The case, arising from a motor accident on the Rock Hill road on March 1, 1930, was completed to-day after a recess from Tuesday, but His Honor stated that he would not give judgment until he had visited the scene of accident and inspect the hill.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., acted for the townships in the case, and W. F. Huycke appeared for the plaintiffs.

Evidence taken this morning was for the defence and was given to describing the hill and travelling conditions over it.

NANKING, Kiangsu, May 2 (C.P.). —A threatened rebellion in Kwangtung Province virtually stopped conversations to-day between Nationalist Government officials and foreign diplomats concerning new agreements on extraterritoriality.

British and French authorities were said to be closely watching the situation in South China and awaiting developments.

Harold Robson, Member of Examiner Staff, Sails From Montreal.

MORE LETTERS TO FOLLOW.

(By Harold Robson)

MONTREAL, April 29 (by mail).— The wayfarer handicapped by a lack of practical French soon realizes why this city is accredited as being "the worlds' second French city."

Marking time until he crosses the gangplank of the cattle steamer, "Manchester Commerce" here on Thursday, en route to England, an Examiner reporter much to his embarrassment, had several questions parried with the query, "Parlez vous Francais" accompanied by a shrug of the shoulders keenly suggestive of something bordering on contempt for anyone but a bi-lingualist.

There was one man, however, interviewed at noon Thursday who did express himself in the "universal" tongue—very bluntly, too! He was the cattle exporter agent's right-hand man, to whom the writer was ordered to report.

Known from coast to coast among a wide circle of adventurers seeking a cheap means of travel, yes, and even heard of by the newcomers to this fair land, while out on the high seas, the agent trades in human cargoes at a certain little office on St. Antoine street.

Four of Wanted Gangster's Henchmen Rounded Up in Series of Raids.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 2.—Alphonse Capone, the gang chief, was sought to-day by State's Attorney's detectives for questioning in connection with their inquiry into the death of a man whose charred body they believed to be that of "Mike De Pink" Heitler, pioneer racketeer. The body was found last Thursday in the smouldering ruins of an ice house near Barrington, Ill.

Acting on orders issued by Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney, the officers raided the Lexington Hotel, reputed to be frequently used as Capone headquarters. Although they failed to find the gang chief, four of his henchmen were arrested. They were Louis Russo, brother of "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn; Phil Andrea, Fred Rossi and Tony Capezio.

The police also arrested at his home, "Dago" Lawrence Mangano, reputed operator of a Capone vice, gambling and liquor syndicate. Roche said Heitler had operated exclusively as a rival to the Mangano organization. Other raids were made on resorts reputed to be run in the area in which Heitler operated by the police, who declined to reveal what if anything, they had learned.

General Raid

"We will raid everywhere until we drive out every hoolum from Chicago,' Roche said. "This is just part of our campaign to clean up the city. The hoodlum is getting out. That means Capone, too, and we are now looking for him."

Positive identification of the "torch victim" was sought meanwhile by police through attempts to trace two of his gold teeth to the dentist who had done the man's work. Roche said after viewing the body, he was convinced the man was Heitler.

Heitler was to have appeared in court yesterday on a charge of perjury, but his attorney asked a continuance, saying that his client had been missing since last Wednesday.

PRINCESS HELEN STAYS WITH SON

Queen Refuses to Leave Michael's Bedside Though Suffering Slight Fever.

TREATED WITH ANTI-TOXIN.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 2 (C.P.). — Although stricken with a slight attack of fever, Princess Helen to-day hovered over the bedside of Crown Prince Michael, who has diphtheria.

The mother was given an injection of anti-toxin to protect her. She scoffed at her indisposition, which was a consequence of the protective treatment, and refused to leave the boy. The British governess whom the lad has known through infancy also was treated with anti-toxin.

Physicians expressed the belief that Michael was out of danger. His temperature dropped from 104 degrees to 101.3.

The sudden illness of their only child was described in court circles as a strong inducement to end the estrangement of King Carol and his Queen. They have conversed several times in the anti-chamber of the sickroom and the monarch has telephoned for news of the boy's condition at nearly every hour of the day. He has been warned against further visits because of the danger of infection.

A reassuring report issued later indicated the lad was progressing favorably. This coincided with an announcement that King Carol was leaving on a tour of the provinces.

Father Shoots Sons Takes His Own Life

GARFIELD, N. J., May 2.— John Lubic, a confectioner in Passaic, returned to his home here early today, went into the room where his three sons were sleeping, shot each of them in the head and then turned the gun on himself.

The younger, John Jr., 4, was dead when police arrived and the father died several hours later in Passaic General hospital. The other children, Arthur 11, and Emil 12, are in a critical condition.

Mrs. Anne Lubic, the mother, was the only member of the family not shot. She was sleeping in an adjoining room. Her husband, she told police, had been worried by the lack of business at his confectionary store.

Alfonso Ends Visit, Returns To France

LONDON, May 2.—(AP)—Alfonso of Spain, traveling as the Duke of Toledo, left today for France to rejoin the royal family at Fontainbleau after eleven days in this country.

During his stay he placed his third son, Don Juan, in the naval training college at Dartmouth and paid a visit to his mother-in-law, Princess Beatrice, who is recuperating from an attack of bronchitis at Torquay.

SAY MILL OWNERS DOMINATE GANDHI

British Trader in India to Unite With Minorities if Discrimination Continues.

UNREST EXAGGERATED.

LONDON, May 2 (A.P.)—Edward Villiers, President of the European Association of India, was quoted by The London Express to-day as saying that "British business men in India will ally themselves with the Mohammedan minority and all other minorities even to the extent of using physical force if anything further is done to discriminate against British traders in India."

As head of an organization which has 8,500 members, representing British mercantile interests in India, Villiers is here on a mission which the newspaper said had already merited receptions by Premier Ramsay Macdonald; Indian Secretary Rt. Hon. Wedgewood Benn, and Conservative Leader Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin.

Mahatma Gandhi may be a saint, he said, but he is also an astute politician and is completely dominated by the wealthy Parsee millowners of Bombay. "They whistle and he dances to their tune," he was quoted as saying.

The idea that Gandhi represent India is wholly wrong, in his opinion. He merely heads an important political party and should be regarded as a party leader. The unrest there has been greatly exaggerated, he said, and is not nearly as universal as represented.

club's taxes for this year. Andrew Brown, W. J. Oke and Mark Bredin formed a delegation from the club. They maintained that the club was providing recreation for a large number of citizens, and that it was only the extensive improvements made on the property by the club that had caused the increase in taxes.

A motion to refund the $300 in taxes was championed by Alderman McNabb and Fitzpatrick, and was opposed by Alderman Turner, who maintained that the club should charge a fee of membership high enough to make it self supporting and that this year was no time to be taking money from the pockets of the taxpayers for the bowling club. He moved that no action be taken.

Alderman Fitzpatrick stated that the refund would not set a precedent and would not likely be asked for another year.

When the vote was taken, Aldermen Cotton, Fitzpatrick, McNabb, Tuggey, Phelan and Macdonald voted for refunding the $300, while Aldermen Stocker, Turner and Holland voted against. Mayor Denne and Alderman Hamilton did not vote.

Alderman Stocker reported to the Parks' Committee that a truck for doing work on the parks had been purchased for $400. The bill for the truck was passed without question, but Alderman Tuggey asked: "Is it true, Alderman Stocker, that you are going to lay aside your bicycle now?"

Seventy per cent of the shrubs and plants ordered by the city have already been planted and the whole work will be finished on Monday, Alderman Stocker said. The softball diamond near James Stevenson Park is nearly ready for the City Softball League, sand and cinders having been spread. It only remains to be rolled and should be in shape in a few days, it was reported.

A letter from J. H. Burnham regarding the need for an air port in Peterborough was shelved when it came before the Property Committee.

Doings In Commons.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2. (CP). Yesterday in Parliament:

The Senate did not sit.

The House of Commons voted appropriations amounting to $14,540,- for public buildings, harbors and rivers, dredging etc., in the various provinces of Canada.

During the private members hour last night debate on two bills was adjourned. These were one sponsored by Oscar Boulanger (Lib. Bellechasse) which aims at restricting preference in Civil Service positions to returned soldiers who served only with the Canadian forces, and another moved by J. S. Woodsworth (Lab. Winnipeg north centre). The latter seeks to amend the Criminal Code so as to provide that the general nature and character of speeches upon public affairs "must be the ground for regarding any meeting as unlawful."

ESTIMATE VOTES KEEP HOUSE BUSY MANY SNAGS HIT

STEWART PROMISES PROBE.

Low Water Levels Over Canada to Mean Extra Drain on Gov't Funds.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2. (CP)—Private members of the House of Commons will occupy the limelight on Monday when the entire day will be reserved for measures standing in their names. It will be a varied agenda, the order paper containing notice of many different forms of proposed legislation. The members yesterday figurately rolled up their sleeves and stormed away at the estimates of the Department of Public Works. Money for new public buildings, wharves, harbors and river works in all parts of Canada was provided. The total vote for the day was $14,500,400.

Although progress generally was rapid, every once in a while a stumbling-block was encountered. The most stubborn of these was an insignificant-looking item of $8,000 for a wharf at Summerside P.E.I. Nearly three hours was consumed in a cross-floor argument over the vote, which finally was allowed to stand to permit Hon. Hugh A. Stewart, the minister, to produce a file of documents relative to the contract.

Difficulties Over Contract

The argument centred about a contract awarded by the department to a man who did not submit a tender. The contract originally was given on a competitive basis to a man who subsequently asked to be relieved of it. An agreement then was entered into, permitting an outsider to secure the contract at the price named by the original successful tenderer.

This disclosure brought a storm of protest from the Liberals and a defence equally as vehement from the government supporters. The atmosphere at times became decidedly cloudy with charges, counter-charges personalities and innuendoes being hurled across the chamber.

Two other features were on the day's program. One originated with Mr. Stewart who declared irregularities in his department would be investigated and, if necessary, prosecuted regardless of political affiliation. His department, he declared with some emphasis, would be administered creditably and charges of irregularities relayed to him would be investigated.

J. F. Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouata) provoked the minister's statement when he asserted irregularities had occurred in connection with a wharf construction at Riviere du Loup, Que.

In prefacing his manifesto, Mr. Stewart said the department had information that under the former administration work was paid for but never performed. In another in-

Patrol Boat Reaches Greenland Ice Barier and Unloads Plane.

DOG TEAMS ON WAY.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 2.—(A.P.)—Search for Augustine Courtauld, British explorer, who is marooned on the Greenland Ice cap, moved toward its goal by land, by sea and by air.

Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier, landed here last night after a flight from Bergen, Norway, via the Faroe Islands. He hopes to resume his flight to-day.

The patrol boat Odin reached the ice barrier of Greenland some time earlier and unloaded an airplane for Sigurd Jonssen to take off in. The crew refitted the machine with skis. Weather and sea conditions were favorable for a flight.

Two groups of dog teams, driven by friends of the scientist, were believed to be mushing across the frozen wastes toward the tiny meteorological station in which he volunteered to spend the winter. They left Angmagsalik yesterday afternoon.

A third plane, belonging to H. G. Watkins, leader of the England-Canada air route expedition of which Courtauld was a part, prepared to leave Angmagsalik for the same purpose.

Canadian Trade Drops With New Zealand

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2 (C.P.). — New Zealand's trade with Canada showed sharp recessions during 1930, according to an article by C. M. Croft, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Auckland, appearing in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal.

In the last quarter of the year, after the revocation of the trade arrangement between the two countries, exports to Canada amounted to only $1,245,000 as against $6,255,000 in the last three months of 1929. This decline was due almost entirely to shrinkage in butter exports, Mr. Croft states.

GRAIN MEN URGED TO GET TOGETHER

Bracken Urges Establishing Gov't Marketing Board as Temporary Measure.

OUTLINES SYSTEM.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 2. (CP)—Sounding a clarion call to the grain growers of the prairies to unite behind a well ordered plan that would prevent dumping of the 1931 crop immediately after it was harvested, Hon. John Bracken, Premier of Manitoba, in an address last night advocated setting up of a Government grain marketing board as a temporary measure.

In the event such a board is created, Premier Bracken urged the necessity of definite objectives being kept in mind for a future marketing system. These included "a system owned, operated and controlled by the producers themselves, it should be truly co-operative, built upon the present farmer-organizations with modifications as may be found necessary, provide for a pooling system on a voluntary basis and eliminate duplication of competition between farmer-owned facilities.

Portuguese Rebels Subdued By Federals

LISBON, May 2 (C.P.).—President Carmona and his Cabinet sat in the Third Regiment Barracks protected by barbed wire and machine guns today, but while revolution threatened at home Portuguese forces in Madeira sent word that the rebel Junta at Finchal had surrendered.

The Minister of the Interior sent word from the fortress that the naval expeditionary force which bombarded Funchal from the sea and air had brought the rebels to their knees.

Lights Go Out as Hydro Pole Breaks Off in Havelock—Driver Fails to Wait.

HAVELOCK, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—A hydro pole in front of Mr. Abraham Aboud's dry goods store was snapped off about ten feet from the ground, when a light touring car driven by Roy McArthur of the Norwood-Havelock road, crashed into it about 9.30 last night. Mr. Godin of Norwood, Hydro superintendent for this district, was called by the Reeve and repaired the pole, adjusting the wires and replacing the lights. No damage was done to the building. The driver of the car did not stop to ascertain what damage had been done, but drove away, apparently none the worse for the collision.

True Bills Returned In Shooting Affair

TORONTO, Ont., May 2. —(CP)— Charge of attempted murder having been withdrawn by a grand jury, Frederick Bailey and Morris Stickwood of Holland Landing, faced charges of shooting at Arthur and Kate Holley through a house window on the night of March 29 last with intent to maim disfigure or disable, and carrying concealed weapons, before Mr. Justice Raney and a jury in an Assize Court today.

C. W. Bell, K. C., was special Crown Prosecutor, while Charges A. Thompson appeared for the accused. True bills were returned in the counts charged.

Evidence brought forth by the Crown today pointed to an alleged animosity of the two men towards Holley and his wife.

Gov't Action Indicated Upon Unemployment

CALGARY, Alta, May 2.—Indications that the Dominion Government is considering some action with regard to unemployment within the near future is given Mayor Andy Davidson in a letter from Hon. Gideon Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor.

Dealing with the request of the Mayors of Calgary, Edmonton, Lethbridge and Drumheller for a Dominion Conference, the Minister wrote:

"Should it develop that assistance will be necessary next winter, I think the policy should only be determined after consultation among federal, provincial and municipal authorities, profiting by the experience of last winter and determing the policy to be followed by joint action in preparation for meeting anticipated needs".

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

LATE hours are all right if you use them for thinking and not for drinking! If the keeping of late hours be a sin, then I am, in this respect, the chief of sinners. And if there be anything to the somewhat fantastic doctrine of Transmigration of Souls I am likely to be a cat when I next come back to this earth! What sort of a cat I may be I am unable to say. Should I be thinking of my appearance only, I might choose to be an aristocratic Persian. If such be my lot I shall have a new version of "In a Persian Garden" as my theme song for such nights as my old-maid mistress permits me to get out to have "a jolly party" with cats in my own class! On the other hand, if I am in a reckless mood—which is very likely—and feeling full of "the old scratch," I shall probably make my appearance as a common alley cat with a challenge in my eye for all comers—dogs also included!

Tricks of the Mind.

What silly thoughts pass through our minds! Well, what of it? Better silly thoughts than sinful ones! The years may correct the former, but only an entirely new nature can do anything for the other. And I hope that when you get that new nature you will still be human enough to indulge in silly thoughts occasionally. The trouble with so many church people is that they have just got enough "religion" to spoil them—although it is an open question whether some of them were ever any good! What they should do is to have a good look into a mirror. Such a useful article is provided with each copy of the Word of God. The Bible is a mirror of life—not the life of one period, but of all periods. If most of us studied that book more than we do at present it might be easier for our friends and neighbors to get along with us.

I sometimes think that one reason why some people are so scared of the Scriptures is that they are afraid of what they might discover of the depths of their own depravity. The Bible has a way of disclosing our real character to ourselves—and a lot of people are shocked when they make such a discovery!

What the Pew Wants.

The human animal is a strange creature. It is made up of likes and dislikes. And it has as little reason for the one as for the other. Its disposition is never more marked than when it is passing judgment on the preacher and his preaching. When, like "The Village Blacksmith," he goes to church on Sunday, his likes and dislikes are standing out all over him like the quills on a porcupine. He doesn't want the preacher to preach the kind of a gospel that will get under his skin and burn.

He prefers a talcum-powder, violet-scented, lady-like proposition—something done up in tissue paper and pink baby ribbons!

If the preacher's Calvinistic conscience compells him to speak about sin, this particular type of hearer wishes he would have the art—if not the heart—to erect a stained glass window between the somewhat tender feelings of his hearers and the subject of his discourse.

What Is It?

There be those who tell us that sin, like sickness, is only a state of mind. It sounds well—to some ears! Especially to such ears as make you think of a donkey! And it all seems so simple as an explanation, but it is only a simpleton who will believe it! Anybody who can believe such nonsense has been born short-weighted on grey matter.

Silence in the presence of dogmatic statements does not necessarily mean that the authority for such statements is not being questioned.

An old woman, trying to save rent by living in a shoe, may be an authority on children's fancies, but I refuse to permit any old woman—even if she comes from the Hub of the Universe—to persuade me to accept any of her silly statements when they go in the face of the plain teaching of the Word of God, and are contradicted by the every-day experience of mankind.

"Mere authority, unsupported by fact or argument, has lost its appeal."

One of the things worth while about this sophisticated age in which we are living is that an unthinking docility has taken its departure, and the mind has taken on the habit of questioning almost everything that enters into human experience.

A Detached Point of View.

No one, except, perhaps, an evolutionist, or a moral contortionist, can discuss sin from a detached viewpoint. It is woven into every fibre of our being. We are born in sin and shapen in iniquity. That is, we are all born morally imperfect, and come into the world having a kink in our moral nature!

The Devil can tempt us to sin, but he can't sin for us. Every man has got to do his own sinning.

You have to remember that your sin is the sin you have permitted, that you have enjoyed, that is to-day mastering you. You may call it by another name, but it is sin!

Changing the Label.

When Dr. Howard, now minister of Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, was minister of Flinders Street Methodist Church, Adelaide, Australia, he preached a sermon on sin. After the service was ended, one of his officers came into his study to see him. He said to his minister: "Mr. Howard, we don't want you to talk as plainly as you do about sin, because if our boys and girls hear you talking so much about sin they will more easily become sinners. Call it a mistake, if you will, but do not speak so plainly about sin."

Then Mr. Howard took down a small bottle of strychnine marked "Poison." Said he: "I see what you want me to do. You want me to change the label. Suppose I take off this label of 'Poison' and put on some mild label, such as 'Essence of Peppermint,' don't you see what happens. The milder you make the label, the more dangerous you make your poison."

The great need of sinners is to feel their need. The grand aim of preaching is to make them feel it.

A Wonderful Prayer.

It was a service in Boston, and the preacher was in the uniform of a major in the British Army. He had been a chaplain at the front. He went forward to the reading-desk and bowed his head. Standing for a few moments without uttering a word, a great hush seemed to steal into the church. Then from the 16th century he brought the framework of his prayer, and I thought I had never listened to anything finer.

O Lord, support us all the day long of this troublous life, until the shades lengthen, and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed, and the fever of life is over and our work done. Then, Lord, in Thy mercy, grant us safe lodging, a holy rest, and peace at the last, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

In its company I am tempted to place an epitaph which I once saw in Stirling Cemetery, Scotland. I copied it on the back of an envelope.

Our life is but a winter day.
Some only breakfast and away:
Others to dinner stay, and are full fed, the oldest man but sups and goes to bed.
Large is his debt that lingers out the day.
He that goes soonest has the least to pay.

Can It Be True?

He was preaching to a great congregation, and he seemed to be speaking as one inspired. There are those who would say that he is an obscurantist. Let that be as it may,—listen to what he has to say and leave no stone unturned in your endeavor to know what the truth is.

"The kingdom, the millennium is to be introduced by the personal Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with associated terrific judgments on the earth. So far then from anticipating the cloudless skies of peace through which we may insensibly enter into the glad millennial days, we may expect the skies to darken and lower, growing blacker and blacker along the heavy horizon, and the mutterings of the divine wrath to be heard from time to time, increasing in tone and volume, in shorter and shorter intervals, till there seems to be one continuous terror-inspiring peal.

The Age's End.

As the age draws to its close it will be like a ship in the night, now and then hearing the rise of a low, sullen roar, till at last, through the night and the deepening gloom, a white line is seen, and the cry rings out on the startled ears: 'The Breakers! The Breakers!'"

This is the end toward which human society, with all its boasted art, science and culture, is steadily drifting.

The low, sullen roar of the surf may be heard by those who will take the pains to listen.

The tramp of armed men, the voices of the mob, the blows, steady and hard upon the foundations of the righteous, the increasing discontent of the masses, the wild and desperate efforts to cure the ills of inequality and poverty, the angry spirit of the discontented and the idle, the lukewarmness of the church, the open and unrebuked infidelity in its pulpits, in the world the spirit of lawlessness and wild beast ferocity that every now and then thrusts its monstrous visage into the face of men, the steady increase of crime, the faithlessness in places of public trust, the breaking down of standards, the lack of definite convictions and the wild rush for material gains and material pleasures, the accentuated denials by representative men, not only of the divinity of Christ, but of the personal existence of God, and the swift readiness to listen to any voice that can demonstrate this denial as reasonable,—

All these things bid us know, if we have an ear to hear, that the white line is rising, that the surf is just beyond us, and that a long suffering God will let loose upon the earth the scourge that shall tell it that He is the Master; and because He has been rejected in grace will come to rule with "a rod of iron and dash in pieces like a potter's vessel."

The Hour Of Prayer

FORGIVE us, O Lord, that we have passed the meridian of our years and still know not how to pray. Be Thou our Teacher even now, we beseech Thee, and through our latter days, that we may learn to ask, not for the sake of receiving, but for the joy of communing; to knock, not that at our magic touch the door may swing to the land of our desire, but that we may grasp across the threshold the hand of a Friend; that we may find more in Thee than in Thy gifts, may covet the joy of harmony with holiness, may cease to be as sulking children who turn their backs upon their father because they may not rule his house, may walk with Thee by faith though all the prayers of all Thy saints be sealed in golden vials. "O that I might find Him," we cry. Fulfill now the promise: "If with all your hearts ye truly seek Him, ye shall surely find Him." Amen.

Public or Private

ONE man's heart beating against yours may be little to you; but when it is the echo of a thousand hearts, you cannot resist it. A single snow-flake,—who cares for it? But a whole day of snow-flakes, obliterating the landmarks, drifting over the doors, gathering upon the mountains to crash in avalanches,—who does not care for that? Private opinion is weak, but public opinion is almost omnipotent.

Care is an enemy to life.

What Think Ye Of Christ?

THE feeblest intellect must see the strangeness of supposing that the holiest of men was a deceiver, His disciples either deluded or liars, and that deceivers should have preached a holy religion, of which self-denial is the chief duty!

GEMS FROM SPURGEON

ALL THINGS WORKING FOR GOOD.

CHRIST is the arbiter of all events; in everything His sway is supreme; and He exercises His power for the good of His Church. He spins the thread of events and acts from the distaff of destiny, and does not suffer those threads to be woven otherwise than according to the pattern of His loving wisdom. He will not allow the mysterious wheel to revolve in any way which shall not bring good unto His chosen. He makes their worst things blessings to them, and their best things He sanctifies. In times of plenty, He blesses their increase: in times of famine, He supplies all their needs. As all things are working for His glory, so all things are working for their good.

BREAKING EGGS

WHAT if the parent bird should sit, nervous and fluttering, upon the bough, when the young ones were hatching, and mourn because its beautiful egg-shells were being broken?

Yet this is what we do. We have joys and truths deep as eternity, committed to us in the egg form, and the shell must need be chipped before they can be born, and fly, full-fledged, singing, towards the gate of heaven. Yet we grieve and fear, and cling still to the undeveloped egg.

SHOULD BE PASSED.

Once again has S. W. Jacobs, M.P., introduced his bill proposing to eliminate the necessity of members of the House of Commons appealing to their constituents for re-election upon the acceptance of Cabinet appointments.

This common-sense measure should meet with the approval of the House.

As a matter of fact, Canada is one of the few parts of the Empire in which it is obligatory for Cabinet appointees to contest a by-election.

The formality was done away with so far as the British Parliament is concerned in 1925.

New South Wales, South Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, Queensland, the Commonwealth of Australia and the Union of South Africa are other self-governing nits of the Empire which do not insist on newly appointed Cabinet Ministers being put to the inconvenience of a totally unnecessary election.

Mr. Jacobs' bill would apply only when elevation to the Cabinet comes within twelve months after the annual election.

There is no reason why it should not be put into force.

The present arrangement is out of joint with the times.

It means expense and delay, and worse than that, some times deprives a worthy member of the promotion he merits.

THE CANADIAN LEGION.

Activities in which the Canadian Legion will play a prominent part this year should do a great deal to stimulate interest in the veterans' organization and culminate in an increased membership.

The Legion, the result of whose efforts in the speeding up of remedial pension regulations is becoming evident, is still carrying on in a determined effort to enlist in its membership every person who is eligible.

The Peterborough branch, it should be noted, has been built up by earnest endeavor, but more could be accomplished were it not for the indifference of many people who choose to remain outside the organization and find fault.

The successful development of the Canadian Legion can be attributed in no small degree to the fact that its constitution is founded on a policy laid down by Earl Haig, who not only understood military problems as they affected his soldiers, but had a knowledge of the requirements and responsibilities of ex-service men in civilian life.

This August, Earl Jellicoe, who is Earl Haig's successor as head of the British Empire Service League, is coming to Canada, and it is desired to show him that the spirit of the Canadian army is still carrying on and that the membership of the Legion is truly representative of the Canadian corps.

The provincial and Dominion conventions, to be held at Oshawa and Niagara Falls, followed by the British Empire Service League conference, will be a series of most important events that should enlist the interest of every ex-service man in the country.

THE DAY OF REMEMBRANCE.

Reports from Toronto declare that there is much opposition among business men to the setting apart of November 11 as a national day of remembrance.

It is argued out that two holidays in November would interfere with business and have a harmful effect upon Christmas trade.

There is, however, no necessity of having both Thanksgiving Day and Remembrance Day observed in November, the understanding, of course, being that the former will revert back to early October, a much more appropriate time for giving thanks for bountiful crops and other national blessings.

The war is not so long over, the sacrifices that were made are not so far back in the past surely that there should be any objection raised to setting aside one day of each year to remember the heroism of Canada's army.

It is not possible to celebrate all the important war anniversaries, but certainly there should be an opportunity given every year to recall those days of trial and test, and there does not seem to be any more fitting occasion than the anniversary of the end of the Great War.

A national holiday would permit all Canada to unite in ceremonies appropriate to the occasion, and the patriotism of the Canadian people can be entrusted with the responsibility of making the necessary arrangements now that Parliament has made a nation-wide celebration possible.

A BUSINESS WEAPON.

Advertising is the most effective of all weapons in the fight for business.

Some business concerns are constantly giving excuses for not doing more business. Excuses and wishes will never bring business.

Now is the time for them to stop going around in circles. Modern business men plan their course—chart the route to follow and then go straight ahead.

No business can be greater than the minds of its owners will have it.

Successful business men not only advertise continuously but live it, and throw the weight of their personality and ambitions into it. By so doing, they make a worth-while business.

What you have to say through the printed page about what you have to sell does the most to aid in selling. You must make up your mind to fight for business by advertising. Unless you put all your force behind your efforts and fight to win, you will soon be like some unplanted ones who still just barely manage to keep on earth.—Oshawa Times.

NO DOLE FOR CANADA.

(From the Buffalo Courier-Express)

Though a nation of less than ten million people, Canada seems to have enough hard common sense for a country of twelve times as many inhabitants.

Radicals, many of them professed Communists, staged demonstrations the other day in various parts of the Dominion. One group, a delegation from the Workers' Unity League, marched on the official buildings in Ottawa. Premier Bennett met them. He flatly refused to consider enactment of legislation for non-contributory state unemployment insurance.

"We will not," declared the Premier, "put a premium on idleness and we will not put our people on the dole."

Canada would not be to-day one of the world's great lands of opportunities if it had ever yielded to demands that the Government support the people instead of insisting always on its own demand that the people support the Government.

BATHING SUIT STYLES.

(From the New York Sun)

The couturiers and manufacturers of the 1931 model feminine bathing suit again have achieved the impossible, it seems. Advance showings of the flamboyant new creation are seen in exclusive news startle-shots from Palm Beach and Miami.

Society and its 40 million imitators, it develops, will disport its feminine self upon a thousand and one beaches this season in a creation that can be known only as the half-piece suit.

There is a bit more to its fabric than Gertrude Ederle's grease-paint, but little more than a good-sized thimbleful.

The half-piece bathing suit, let it be explained for the no longer startled populace, is a mathematical masterpiece in the realms of subtraction.

As displayed at all the very best fashion shows—and on almost every other possible occasion, the costume begins about here, runs a very brief shrieking course to about here, veering hence in a generally southwesterly direction to somewhere about there. It is bound in red velvet or orange worsted or blue velour and consists, like San Marino, mostly of boundary.

The new style suits, which are slightly less cumbersome than the daintiest pocket handkerchiefs, may be carried in the purse without crowding the nickels or the powder that your nose knows.

Variously titled with names seductive to Old Sol to impart his violet rays of health to the girl who inhabits the garment so slightly, the new suits already have been adopted as standard equipment at New York beaches, which follow the lead of Florida in most everything, including building booms, fresh water pools at the salt waters' edge and orange drinks.

As shown in the leading feminine shops, the ne plus ultra of the suits are executed in a nonshrinkable silk, a favorite fabric for those who go down to the sea to swim, and in other more decorative and more shrinkable cloths for mere beach lounging.

PROPERLY DEPORTED.

The Department of Immigration, tired of the abuse which has been showered on it by the press of England and, in some cases, of Canada, for alleged inhuman deportations of persons who had become public charges in Canada, has replied, for the first time and with a vengeance, to the latest batch of charges based on the stories told by deportees who landed in England last week from the S.S. Ausonia.

Dealing with the persons deported by name, the department shows plainly enough either that deportation was the correct thing to do from all angles or that it was done at the request of the deportee. We are informed that that has been the almost invariable experience in the Border Cities; where the relief authorities have recommended a British person or family for deportation it has been because they wanted to go back home.

Moreover, the department has shown quite effectively that the deportees named in its statement had not been in Canada very long, or else had been unfit to gain a living in this country from the time they arrived or had entered on false statements, and were better off in the land of their birth, where they desired to return.

In order to clear the air once and for all, it would probably be advisable for the department to issue a denial, if it can, that any persons have been deported to England who desired to stay in Canada and who appeared likely to become useful Canadians.

While it has not been customary for the department to defend itself, the issuance of this first statement should establish a valuable precedent, for the damage that can be done through the widely-spread report of one deportation which seems to indicate that British settlers are not wanted in this country, is incalculable. It will not be long until we are seeking settlers again in Great Britain, and it is not desirable that the Dominion should be handicapped by erroneous impressions.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It has been suggested in the House of Commons that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson's "style should be cramped." That, however, is a difficult operation.

The result of by-elections in Britain afford the Labor Government every reason for being grateful that Lloyd George has not forced a general campaign.

Ontario Conservatives are to hold a convention, likely in June, to select a new party leader. At this writing the temporary selection of Hon. George S. Henry would seem almost certain to be confirmed.

One of the sorrows of the teaching profession is that it is easier to interest youngsters in the manipulation of a yo-yo than it is to inspire an interest in geography or arithmetic.

J. Hannigan's assertion that the municipalities urged the Hydro-Electric Power Association to purchase power from outside sources throws a new light upon the controversy.

News of Our Own Village

Mark Pengilley, our demon dog catcher, took up his duties this week, but canines is still heard in our midst up to the present writing.

The fishing season opened in these parts Thurs. without so far contributing much to the table of your scribe, we regretfully report.

A lot of manufacturers from all parts of this fair province et at Graham's Hotel Wed. and decided there must be a hell or elswhere has business gone.

The village Kiwanians and Rotarians is going to sit down at the festive board together at Graham's Hotel Mon. nite and listen to Hon. Rev. Martin tell what's going to be done for the welfare of all and sundry.

Promiscuous hitching of horseless carriages on the Main St. has well nigh stopped this week, owing to the efforts of Sam Newhall, our vigilant chief, and his well-trained constabulary. Nice work, boys, say we.

"When a bird orders a head lettuce these days," sez the Hall of Wisdom sage, "you don't know whether he's a millionaire or just a Grit looking for a chance to crab about Dick Bennett's government."

Tues. nite seen the village foot soldiers again on parade; showing the boys is carrying on even without much help in the financial way from Ottawa, east of here.

Bob Abbott, Jim Juby, Tom Dutton and Jack Gillespie, members of the village Rotary Club, paid a flying visit to a convention at Buffalo, south of here, this week. According to the lads Niagara Falls, which they passed en route, is quite a sight.

No plans as yet has been announced for a celebration of Victoria Day in this flourishing village. Mebbe Walt. Stocker might be able to put on a decorated bicycle parade or Stan Lowe arrange some speeding in the ring. Let's have some action, lads, say we.

The village park committee deserves a vote of thanks, Ashburnham folks thinks, for putting up a guard rail east of the million dollar bridge, thus saving pedestrians from being knocked over into J. Stevenson Park by horseless carriage drivers in a hurry.

Market Notes: The maple syrup supply aint exactly what it was. Spring onions opened strong this week. Rhubarb seems to be as sour as usual. Price of eggs aint giving the hens much to boast about.

MR. BENNETT'S INSURANCE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Mr. Bennett's contributory unemployment insurance scheme will take the place of relief with that vast body of workers who though accustomed to work have more and more found themselves without any demand for their services. Later statistics from Ottawa show that there are about 250,000 of unemployed workers in Canada. The wisdom of the measure is undoubted, since casual public relief might at any time fall off and is in any event an unsatisfactory plan.

So far, so good. But that does not settle unemployment. Unemployed workers cannot contribute. Workers requiring relief have nothing to contribute with. There still remains the necessity of finding some system by which workers will find employment. If there were work for all, the Bennett plan would, like all systems of insurance, steady the situation and provide for slumps. But what are we going to do if unemployment on a large scale is to continue? Manifestly the real difficulty still continues unsolved.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

The voyage to Korsar was uneventful and during its entire extent Tanar saw nothing of either Stellara or Gura for, although he was not confined in the dark hold, he was not permitted above the first deck, and although he often looked up at the higher deck at the stern of the ship he never caught a glimpse of either of the girls, from which he concluded that Gura was confined in one of the cabins and that Stellara deliberately avoided any sight of him.

As they approached the coast of Korsar, Tanar saw a level country curving upward into the mist of the distance. He saw cultivated fields and patches of forest land and a river running down to the sea—a broad, winding river upon the shore of which a city lay, inlanda little from the ocean. The ship made directly for the mouth of the river, up which it sailed toward the city, which as they approached it, Tanar saw far, surpassed in size and the pretentiousness of its buildings any habitation of man that he had ever seen upon the surface of Pellucidar, not even excepting the new capital of the confederated kingdoms of Pellucidar that the Emperor David was building.

Where the river widened the town had been built and here there rode at anchor a great fleet of ships of war and many lesser craft—fishing boats and river boats and barges. As their ship approached, cannons boomed from the decks of the anchored warships, and the salute was returned by their own craft, which finally came to anchor in midstream, opposite the city.

Small boats put out from the shore and were paddled rapidly toward the warship, which also lowered some of her own boats, into one of which Tanar was ordered under charge of an officer and a couple of sailors. As he was taken to shore and marched along the street he excited considerable attention among the crowds through which they passed, for he was immediately recognized as a barbarian captive from some uncivilized quarter of Pellucidar.

During the debarkation Tanar had seen nothing of either Stellara or Gura and now he wondered if he was ever to see them again. His mind was filled with some sad thoughts that had been his companions during the entire course of the long journey from Hime to Korsar and which had finally convinced him that he had never known the true Stellara until she had avowed herself upon the deck of the ship in the harbor of Carn. Yes, he was all right upon Amiocap, but in Korsar he was only a naked savage, and this fact was borne in upon him now by the convincing evidence of the haughty contempt which the natives of Korsar stared at him or exchanged rude jokes at his expense.

It hurt the Sarian's pride to think that he had been so deceived by the woman to whom he had given all his love. He would have staked his life upon his belief that hers was the sweetest and purest and most loyal of characters, and to learn at last that she was shallow and insincere cut him to the quick and his suffering was lightened by but a single thought—his unquestioned belief in the sweet and enduring friendship of Gura.

It was with such thoughts that his mind was occupied as he was led into a building along the waterfront, which seemed to be in the nature of a guardhouse. Here he was turned over to an officer in charge, and, after a few brief questions, two soldiers conducted him into another room, raised a heavy trap door in the floor and bade him descend a rude ladder that led downward into darkness below.

No sooner had his head descended below the floor joists than the door was slammed down above him. He heard the grating of a heavy bolt as the soldiers shut it and then the thud of their footsteps as they left the room above.

Descending slowly for about ten feet, Tanar came at ast to the surface of a stone floor. His eyes becoming accustomed to the change, he reazlied that the apartment into which he had descended was not in total darkness, but that daylight filtered into it from a small, barred window near the ceiling. Looking about him he saw that he was the only occupant of the room.

In the wall, opposite the window, he discerned a doorway and crossing to it he saw that it opened into a narrow corridor, running parallel with the length of the room. Looking up and down the corridor he discerned faint patches of light, as though other open doorways lined one side of the hallway.

He was about to enter upon a tour of investigation when the noise of something scurrying along the floor of the corridor attracted his attention, and looking back to his left he saw a darkform creeping toward him. It stood about a foot in height and was, perhaps, three feet long, but in the shadows of the corridor it loomed too indistinctly for him to recognize its details. But presently he saw that it had two shining eyes that seemed to be directed upon him.

As it came boldly forward Tanar stepped back into the room. On the thing came and turning into the doorway it stopped and surveyed the Sarian. In his native country Tanar had been familiar with a species of wood rat, which the Sarian considered large, but never in all his life had he dreamed that a rat could grow to the enormous proportions of the hideous thing that confronted him with its bold, gleaming, beady eyes.

Tanar had been disarmed when he had been taken aboard the Korsar ship, but even so he had no fear of a rodent, even if the thing should elect to attack him, which he doubted. But the ferocious appearance of the rat gave him pause as he thought what the result might be if a number of them should attack a man simultaneously.

Presently the rat, still standing facing him, squealed. For a time there was silence and then the thing squealed again and, as from a great distance, Tanar heard an answering squeal, and then another and another, and presently they grew louder and greater in volume, and he knew that the rat of the Korsar dungeon was calling its fellows to the attack and the feast.

He looked about him sfor some weapon of defense, but there was nothing but the bare stone of the floor and the walls. He heard the rat pack coming, and still the scout that had discovered him stood in the doorway, waiting.

But why should he, the man, wait? If he must die, he would die fighting and if he could take the rats as they came, one by one, he might make them pay for their meal and pay dearly. And so, with the agility of a tiger, the man leaped for the rodent, and so sudden and unexpected was his psring that one hand fell upon the loathsome creature before it could escape.

With loud squeals it sought to fasten its fangs in his flesh, but the Sarian was too quick and too powerful. His fingers closed once upon the creature's neck. He swung its body ground a few times until the neck broke and then he hurled the corpse toward the advancing pack that he could already see in the distance through the dim light in the corridor, in the center of which Tanar now stood awaiting his inevitable doom, but he was prepared to fight until he was dragged down by the creatures.

As he waited he heard a noise behind him and he thought that another pack was taking him in the rear, but as he glanced over his shoulder he saw the figure of a man, standing in front of a doorway further down the corridor.

"Come," shouted the stranger. "You will find safety here." Nor Did Tanar lose any time in racing down the corridor to where the man stood, the rats close at his heels.

"Quick, in here," cried his savior, and seizing Tanar by the arm he dragged him through the doorway into a large room in which there were a dozen or more men.

At the doorway the rat pack stopped, glaring in, but not one of them crossed the threshold.

The room in which he found himself was lighted by two larger windows than that in the room which he had just quitted and in the better light he had an opportunity to examine the man who had rescued him. The fellow was a copper-colored giant with fine features.

As the man turned his face a little more toward the light of the windows, Tanar gave an exclamation of surprise and delight.

"Ja!" he cried, and before Ja could reply to the salutation, another man sprang forward from the far end of the room.

"Tanar!" exclaimed the second man. "Tanar, the son of Ghak!"

As the Sarian wheeled he found himself standing face to face with David Innes, Emperor of Pellucidar.

"Ja of Anoroc and the Emperor!" cried Tanar. "What happened? What brought you here?"

"It is well that we were here," said Ja, "and that I heard the rat pack squealing just when I did. These other fellows," and he nodded toward the remaining prisoners, "haven't brains enough to try to save the newcomers that are ncarcerated here. David and I have been trying to pound it into their stupid heads that the more of us there are the safer we shall be from the attacks of the rats, but all they think of is that they are safe now, and so they do not care what becomes of the other poor devils that are shoved down here. But tell us, Tanar, where you have been and how you came here at last."

"It is a long story," replied the Sarian, 'and first I would hear the story of my Emperor."

"There is little of interest in the adventures that befell us," said David," "but there may be points of great value to us in what I have managed to learn from the Korsars concerning a number of problems that have been puzzling me."

"When we saw the Korsar's fleet sail away with you and others of our people, prisoners aboard them, we were filled with dismay and as we stood upon the shore of the great sea above The Land of Awful Shadow, we were depressed by the hoplessness of ever effecting your rescue. It was then that I determined to risk the venture whish is responsible for our being here in the dungeon of the capital of Korsar.

"From all these who volunteered to accompany me I selected Ja, and we took with us to be our pilot a Korsar prisoner named Fitt. Our boat was one of those abandoned by the Korsars in their flight and in it we pursued the course toward Korsar without incident until we were overwhelmed by the most terrific storm that I have ever witnessed.'

"Doubtless the same storm that wrecked the Korsar's fleet that was bearing us away!" said Tanar.

"Unquestionably," said David, "as you will know in a moment. The storm carried away all our rigging, snapping the mast short off at the deck, and left us helpless except for two pairs of oars."

"As you may know, these great sweeps are so heavy that, as a rule, two or three men handle a single oar, and as there were conly three of us we could do little more than paddle slowly along with one man paddling on either side while the third relieved first one and then the other at intervals.

"Fitt had laid a course which my compass showed me to be almost due north and this we followed with little or no deviation after the storm had subsided. We slept and ate many times before Fitt announced that we were not far from the island of Amiocap.

ADVERTISING AS AN OCCUPATION

By C. D. Cook

Advertising is the oldest profession known to man. It antedates, by many centuries, the medical profession or that of the law. The first authentic advertising on record happened in the Garden of Eden, the snake adv rtising the apple to Eve who proved to be a likely prospect and signed up on the dotted line. As a consequence, mankind has been condemned to work ever since. Since then, advertising has come down through the ages growing increasingly and constantly better until to-day it ranks high among the professions.

Like everything else, it has its advantages and disadvantages, its attractive and unattractive sides. Anyone who makes a success of advertising must be ever on the alert, quick to grasp an idea and apply it to his particular business. It calls for constant reading, keeping up to the minute on whatever concerns or affects the business in question.

Advertising brings into play tact and sympathy; it calls for imagination, the power to peer into the future, "far as human eye can see." All great things have been first visions or dreams. The aeroplane of to-day is the culmination of fantastic dreams of a century. When Alexander Graham Bell set up his first crude telephone perhaps he dreamed of a voice that could carry round the world. When Edison invented the electric light, he called into existence a ray that has never been extinguished.

Advertising requires the power to concentrate, to select the leading points of a proposition under discussion and to enlarge upon them, to bring them before the reader in such a way that he will be impressed with their importance. After all, advertising is only printed salesmanship. Its mission, like any sales talk, is to convince the prospective buyer of the advantages to be derived from the use of some particular article. Unlike a sales talk, it is usually limited to short messages. How important, then, it is that such messages should be both tactful and convincing; that it should be expressed in words that cannot fail to be clearly understood!

Advertising calls for persistency in both the writer of advertising and the advertising itself. The memory of the public is short, their favour fickle in the extreme. A fact must be constantly reiterated in one form or another to impress itself on the mind. A rock doesn't fear a flood but the constant drop of water will wear away the hardest stone. An overhanging cliff in Niagara Falls suddenly broke off and fell with a terrific crash. Scientific engineers say that it was caused by the ceaseless action of the water wearing away the rock. It shows what persistency can do. In like manner, the one who gets out advertising must go persistently forward until the goal is reached.

Optimism is another important trait. Funeral orations never sold anything or induced a buying mood. Advertising has no use for the pessimist with that 'don't he look natural' expression. Whatever is to be written or said must be painted in a rosy hue; must be coloured like the rainbow. No one will yearn excessively for anything described in a dismal fashion or in a half-hearted way. The emotions must be given play if the desired results are to be achieved.

A general education with some knowledge of rhetoric is necessary to start. With proper qualifications, the rest that is necessary can be acquired in actual practice. Anyone entering must be content to start at the foot of the ladder, where mistakes that will naturally occur, will be corrected by a superior. In this way a knowledge can be acquired while learning and earning. For after all, cold, hard experience counts for as much in advertising as in anything else.

There are two courses open to one entering advertising. A position may be obtained with some large organization which prefers to originate its own advertising; or he may enter an advertising agency which has various clients. In either position, the applicant can learn the fundamental laws, can acquire a knowledge of the value of space, what art work is necessary and how best to use it. He will learn in what cases to recommend advertising through the press and to recognize when direct advertising by way of folders through the mails would produce the best results.

The compensation, as in anything else, depends entirely upon ability and hard work, whether it takes the form of a salary or a commission. Very few advertising men have ever been found in the bread lines and still fewer have been convicted as malefactors, possessing great wealth. The hours necessarily involved are not to be counted; they may be short or long; but to one who loves his work for its own sake it will make no difference. There are, as in almost all lines, some seasons busier than others but it is one of the duties of advertising to build up the dull seasons.

There are many things that can be said about advertising as an occupation, both for and against it. Some have tried it and failed; many others have tried it and achieved success. It all depends upon the one who does the trying.

What To-day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If May 2nd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to noon, from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. There is only one danger period, from 4:30 p.m. to 6:45 p.m.

May 2nd holds out, according to the signs, great hope for those engaged in exploration or invention and research work. Efforts that have extended over a long period will be suddenly and unexpectedly rewarded. Differences amongst friends will arise after sunset unless the mergency brake is applied.

Children born on this May 2nd will lead rather prosaic lives. They will be careful, methodical, and endowed with very little initiative or originality, and will always seek the path of least resistance. They will be tender-hearted, and, as a result, others will impose upon them.

Born on May 2nd, you do a good many things well, but are prompted to do them, not because the work itself gives you any particular satisfaction, but because of the anticipated praise of your efforts from others. Adulation is unction to your soul, and when it is not forthcoming you feel hurt, and sulk. To see a rival receive honors that, in your exaggerated sense of self-importance, should accrue to you, arouses within you childish and hateful feelings. Though, too, you try to disguise them, you never succeed; everyone can read your thoughts.

In sports you are quite a "dab," but, being a poor loser, your sportsmanship is spoiled. This same spirit animates all your actions. You are envious of every one's success, and rather rejoice over their failures. You can and do work hard. When failure or disappointment comes, you "quit" however, and turn to something else. This, of course, does not spell success. If you could work for your own satisfaction, or for the glory of achievement, and forget about the limelight, you would achieve much, as your brain is an active one and your mind is quite keen. Your love nature demands much, and your home life will only be happy if your mate accepts responsibility for all shortcomings, and awards you the kudos for everything that goes well.

If May 3rd is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a.m. to 9:45 a.m., from noon to 2:10 p.m. and from 5:45 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger hours are from 10 a.m. to 11:50 a.m. and from 2:50 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

The planetary aspects of May3rd denote that there will be much work to do, but little inclination to do it. Attention will be side-tracked from things that matter to those of relative insignificance. Only by constant effort, regardless of seductive influences, will the day prove of beneficent progressive value.

Children born on this May 3rd will make their mark in the world, if allowed to develop along the lines for which they themselves show a preference. Their dispositions will be affectionate and their love deeply rooted. They will be actuated by high ideals, and will be clean-minded.

Born on May 3rd, in spite of an innate diffidence, you have very positive ideas and opinions. You are, however, fearful of voicing them. Self-consciousness is one of the contributory causes to this state of affairs. You are frightened by the spectre of appearing ridiculous. This is a matter of regret, as your views are original and enlightening. If tongue-tied, why not, when you know you have something worth-while to say, commit it to paper? As a writer, you would probably shine.

You do not lack determination, and are both persevering and energetic. When engrossed in your work, your power of concentration is very great, and you accomplish much more than the average toiler. Of admirers you have quite a few, and their respect has not been stimulated by what you have said, but by what you have done.

Your nature is a kind and an affectionate one, and your temper is equable up to a certain point. When, however, the demon that is in you, as in all of us is aroused, the results are somewhat devastating. Such happenings are, fortunately, infrequent.

You excel at sports, and though a modest winner, are a good loser. You will not fail in love readily, but when you do succumb, it will be "for keeps."

NORANDA GAINS POINT AT 26 1-4

Volume is Light With Recessions Limited to Fractions on Toronto Exchange.

SMELTERS DOWN 5.

TORONTO, May 2. — Stocks sold lower again to-day on the Toronto Stock Exchange, the market winding up the week with the tone soft. Volume was very light and under the circumstances recessions were naturally limited to fractions.

Noranda rebounded to-day from its low of yesterday, closing with a net gain of almost 1 point at 26¼. Nickel held until near the close when it dropped back just under last night's final. Consolidated Smelters lost 5 points to 105.

Bell Telephone, Brazilian, C.P.R., Massey-Harris, Walker's, Steel of Canada, lost less than a point. Oils were irregularly lower, dropping back just before the close.

Durant Motors rose 1½ points to 7½ following news that American interests and the Canadian company had come to terms and that the proposed agreement with Nash would not be blocked.

DOCTORS AT TWO CENTS A DAY

Doctors of Essex, England, have inaugurated a medical service for the benefit of the $1,250-$2,000-a-year man and family. He is offered a full medical service for himself, his wife and children at a cost of two cents a day each. Many families have already joined.

IMPENDING NEWSPRINT MERGER RUMORS FEATURE OF THE WEEK

General Declines Continue on Canadian Stock Exchanges —Lead Issues Drop to New Lows.

NORANDA IS SPECTACULAR.

TORONTO, Ont., May 2 (By The Canadian Press).—A further general decline in Canadian stock prices, reports of impending mergers in the newsprint industry, and news of forthcoming government bond issue to replace maturing loans were the outstanding developments in the Canadian financial situation this week.

The stock market's decline carried prices of nearly all leading issues to new low levels for the year or longer, largely due to the aggressive tactics of professional short traders in New York. A feeble rally on Thursday did more than temporarily check the recession and closing prices on Friday at Toronto and Montreal were around the lowest levels of the week. Noranda, a spectacular feature of firmness earlier in the week, finally gave way under vastly increased selling and dropped $2.30 a share on Friday to close at $25.50 compared with the week's high of around $29.25. Noranda is still higher than its price of $23 a week ago.

Gold issues were also firm in the face of declines among industrial issues and buying of these shares were particularly evident at the close of the week. Dome at $11.25, against $11.05 last week; Teck-Hughes at $8.10 against $7.90 last week; Lake Shore at $28 against $27.25; and Hollinger which has risen from $8.05 to $8.15 are among the golds to reflect continued accumulation. McIntyre Porcupine at $25 recorded the largest gain in comparison with $23.15 last week. Base metals were irregular due to uncertain copper prices and the general unsettled condition of the industrial share market.

The dark side of the picture was the unrelenting pressure against industrial shares. The bright feature of the situation was that technical conditions were largely responsible and the decline did not represent the activities of more than a relatively small body of speculators. This week, such issues as C.P.R. and Ford of Canada "A" were pressed downward, the railway stock closing at 34, a new 1931 low, against 35⅛ last week.

International Nickel fluctuated narrowly, and on the whole moved in accordance with the ebb and flow of prices at New York. At 14 3-8 Nickel is fractionally below last week's quotations.

MINOR CHANGES WINNIPEG MART

Friday's Close Shows Only Fractional Advances as Compared With Week Ago.

TRADING IS JUMPY.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 2.—(By the Canadian Press)—Prices on the Winnipeg wheat market during the past week moved within narrow limits and at the close Friday showed only fractional advances as compared with a week ago.

The gains ranged from ½ cent to ¾ cent a bushel, the May future closing out at 60 5-8 cents a bushel, July 62 cents, and October, the new crop month, at 64 1-8 cents, recording the biggest advance.

Markets were extremely 'jumpy" during the week, but despite the narrow price range, a healthy tone prevailed and news generally was of a more constructive nature, especially that from Europe.

NEW YORK LIST TURNS UPWARD

U. S. Steel and American Can, However, Drop to New Lows in Early Selling.

AUBURN REGAINS LOSSES.

New York, May 2. (C.P.) — The stock market pointed upward in the latter part of to-day's session as the bears took profits in advance of the week-end closing.

The market did not turn up however until it had absorbed another flurry of selling, which carried U. S. Steel and American Can to new lows.

Ausburn continued to sweep over a wide range, regaining a substantial part of yesterday's net loss of 28 points. Gains of 1 or more points appeared in late trading in such issues as General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, United Corp., American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, National Biscuit and Eastman.

In the decline, U. S. Steel got down more than a point to a new low at 112 5-8, within a point of its 1927 bottom. American Can dropped 3 to 105 3-4 before rallying. American Telephone, Westinghouse and North American American dropped about 2 points temporarily. Trading was in fair volume.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

WALL STREET IS IRREGULAR DURING WEEK

Declining in First Part, Market Later Advances, to Slump Again on Friday.

TRADE NEWS FAIR.

Car Loadings for Week Ending April 18 Make More Than Season Gain.

By John L. Cooley,)
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 2.—Wall Street worked itself into an acute state of nervousness this week. It sold stocks to new lows for the bear market in the first three trading days, began to buy them back in the fourth and part of the fifth, and then dumped them overboard again yesterday.

The market appeared to be at the mercy of the shorts, rallying when they decided to cover and breaking when New York buying support appeared to check the swift reversal of bear party tactics. With speculative sentiment so highly explosive observers found it difficult to weigh accurately developments in other directions, but the substantial reduction in corporate earning power, reflected in recent income statements, calls attention forcefully to the substantial repairs that must be made.

There have been varying guesses as to the extent of the short interest in the stock market. The fact that early in the week more than 300 listed issues were being eagerly sought by borrowing traders, both amateur and professional, in need of stock for delivery against short contracts pointed to unusual congestion in the bear camp and made apparent the imminence of the rally which came on Thursday. However, the rapidity of Friday's decline suggested the technical position was not as strong as reputed. Shorts made good use of the United States Steel Corporation's report, showing the poorest results for any quarter since 1921, and doubtless protected some commitments under clover of Wednesday's drive against steel common. The market's action yesterday, however, gave notice that the strong professional bears, who went short months ago, had not been troubled by the rally and were not to be stampeded into covering.

Some of the week's news from commerce and industry was not so gloomy as the reports from the floor of the stock exchange. March railroad earnings already reported were less than 25 per cent under a year ago whereas the aggregate drop in February was more than 50 per cent. Car loadings for the week ended April 18, made more than a seasonal gain, and the best rise was in miscellaneous freight. Steel production, according to one weekly review, fell nominally another reported virtually no change. The industry is said to be confident that although May will probably be a slow month, the downward movement will taper off.

TECK HUGHES HAS STRONG STATEMENT

In Six Months the Net Earnings Were $1,725,988.

TORONTO, May 2 (Over Butler, Hevenor & Co. Wires). — Gross income of Teck Hughes for the six months period from August 31st, 1930, to February 28th, 1931, amounted to $2,693,611, according to official figures just issued. The total operating cost was $967,623, leaving net earnings of $1,725,988 after deducting estimated net taxes of $130,-839, a total of $1,595,148 remains as net earnings before depreciation. Estimsted depreciation is $125,691 and after deducting this item the estimated surplus stands at $1,469,456.

Wright Hargreaves.

A despatch from Kirkland Lake states that when official figures are published shortly regarding earnings of Wright Hargreaves for the three months ending March 31st, 1931, they will show well over $700,000 in bullion produced. This will be the highest production ever recorded in any three months in the history of the property. Operating at entire mill capacity of more than 700 tons daily and with mill heads now said to be averaging in excess of $12.00, monthly production is now averaging more than $250,000 and during the calendar year 1931 it is claimed that a total output of more than $3,500,000 may be expected. On the current basis of about $5.50 per ton profit the total profits for the year should be $1,425,000, or equal to about 25c a share, the despatch concludes.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market was firm during the first period when prices scored gains of ¾ to ⅞ from Thursday night's close. The buying was largely local in character, based on the firm cables, the continued dry weather in spring wheat territory, and to the cabled report that Germany had reduced their import duty against foreign wheat entering the country. While the general news was bullish, it was not followed up overnight with any material amount of export business, but some further business was received during the day, and finally total sales were estimated at around 600,000 to 700,000 bushels, mostly Manitobas. Offerings were not large, but there was fair buying at times by seaboard interests. Two items of news had a depressing effect after the first hour the market slipping away to under the previous close. The first was the private reports on the winter wheat crop, with the average forecasts indicating a total yield of 658,000,000 bushels, as compared with the private reports on April 14th of 619,000,000 and the Government estimate on April 9th of 644,000,000. The reduction in the German tariff was later denied, a private cable stating that Germany will not reduce import duties on wheat but will give rebate for limited quantities fixed by Government monthly to such millers which accept obligations of selling flour at reduced prices. No undue imports will be allowed and grinding act in regard to German wheat remains in force. There was a better tone to the demand for cash wheat, particularly for certain grades of straights and toughs, and while offerings were not pressing spreads were unchanged to ¾ better. The weather continues dry and unfavorable in Western Canada, and while cooler temperatures were forecasted there was no moisture promised. Winnipeg futures closed unchanged to ½ lower, the deferred months being the weakest.

Coarse Grains. — Oats and barley were firmed in the nearby months but offerings were light and there was nothing of feature going on, consumptive demand appeared to be very ordinary with little or no export business. Rye was weak with no demand from any quarter. Oats closed ½ higher to ¼ lower, barley ⅜ higher to unchanged and rye ½ to ⅝ lower. Flax market was stronger but there was no feature a very light trade passing. Closing prices 2 to 1⅛ higher.

Liverpool cables due 1-8 to ¾ lower based on Winnipeg.

MINING ISSUES ARE NOT CHANGED

Soft at Opening Mining Market Rallied Somewhat Towards Noon Close.

TORONTO, Ont., May 2.—(CP)—Soft on the opening, the mining market rallied somewhat towards the noon close today but failed to wipe out the early recessions which predominated among changes on end. Low turnover among penny issues was reflected in total sales of 181,481 shares for the session.

Noranda gain provided some broad action, declining to a low of $24.25 in the first few minutes and rallying on short-covering to close a half above last night at $26.25. International Nickel sold off for a time but recovered to finish unchanged.

McIntyre in odd-lot trading, was down $1.25 to $24.25 and losses of a quarter each appeared in Dome and Teck-Hughes. Lake Shore remained in firm demand and Wright-Hargreaves and Hollinger were steady. In the lower-priced golds Sylvanite, Kirkland Lake Gold, Tashota and Moffatt-Hall lost a cent or so apiece, while Eldorado was down 4.

On reports of recent completions in the Tioga field, Homestead sold up 40 to finish at $1.45. Noranda lost a couple to 26 and Sarnia was 3 lower at 70. Other lower-priced oils were quiet.

BUSINESS HEADS SEEK SOLUTION

Leaders of 46 Nations Plan to Study Economic Situation.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 2. (AP) Business leaders of 46 nations are coming to try to find out next week what they can do to improve economic conditions without the aid of their Governments.

In preliminary discussions emphasis has been placed upon the belief that delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce convention here next Monday through Saturday must solve their own problems.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the United States Committee of the organization, said it is certain "that a recovery can only be brought by cooperative individual effort and not by Governmental action."

Among other suggestions will be one advanced by the Australian National Committee that regional exceptions be granted to the most-favored nation clauses in commercial treaties. A resolution that group will submit as part of its report holds that these exceptions should be allowed when they are "intended to facilitate mutual exchanges between the countries concerned."

At the opening session Monday, delegates will attempt to settle to their satisfaction the cause and effect of the depression.

is still open, although not used a great deal. He described the manner in which the railing was bent and declared that more care was taken in the construction of this particular piece of road than any other in the township.

Mr. Spencer said that during the three weeks in October that he was building the road not more than six vehicles passed each day.

Cross-examined, he said that the year he built the road for the Colonization Department he was a member in township council. He had drawn the plans for the hill himself but it was staked by the Department engineer.

Grant Dafoe, township clerk, submitted a record of the lots bordering on both sides of the Rock Hill road for 4 miles and their assessed value in 1930. He said that three or four of the better farms were assessed for one fourth of their actual value.

Went Over Road Twice

Frank R. Towns, former resident of Park Hill road for five years, stated that he went over the hill twice the day of the accident. He said the road was icy. It was raining and freezing. There were ruts and he drove his car in the ruts.

George Newton, farmer within a mile of the hill, said he had also traversed the road that day.

John Pollock, creamery man, said he traversed the hill regularly and never had any trouble with it.

Robert Newton, also resident on the road, stated that outside of July and August not more than ten vehicles passed daily.

CHICAGO WHEAT IS HIGHER FOR WEEK

Much Curiosity Aroused as to Farm Board Regarding Wheat Accumulation.

(By John P. Boughan)
(Associated Press Market Editor.)

CHICAGO, Ill., May 2.—Curiosity is rapidly increasing as to just what the Federal Farm Board's allied organizations will do with the immense amount of wheat they have accumulated. In this connection, some authorities attach special significance to the fact that under normal conditions 100,000,000 bushels or more of domestic wheat is constantly in trade channels, and it is asserted that present government-sponsored virtual withholding of 200,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels from the market leaves only about the usual amount of grain available in the United States, despite talk of a huge surplus.

Friends of higher prices say that this withdrawal is likely to have considerable effect on the early part of the 1931 new crop season beginning July 1, that so far there has been almost no new crop flour booked, and that when business starts it will probably come with a rush.

Compared with a week ago, wheat this morning ranged 1-8-1 1-8 cents a bushel higher, with corn 1 7-8-2 1-8 down, oats 1¾-2 1-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 35 cents lower.

WORKERS FIGHT TO CONTROL WELL

Nitroglycerine Experts Called to Scene of Tragedy at Gladewater.

50 CLEAR UP DEBRIS.

GLADEWATER, Texas, May 2 (C.P.). — Workmen blistered by a burning oil well which fatally injured eight men in an explosion on Tuesday neared completion today on preparations to blow out the flame.

An airplane motor was set up to fan a path for M. M. Kinley and Harry Kinley, Tulca, Okla., nitroglycerine experts, when the time came to drop explosives at the mouth of the well.

J. M. Clevenger, foreman, headed a crew of 50 men with mule teams and tractors clearing away debris and iron work. At intervals the men who worked the "hot end" of the job retired to the cool of the pine trees nearbly to count noses. These checks were made to keep anyone from falling because of heat exhaustion.

The well had been running wild since Sunday, when it came in unexpectedly as a gusher. The eight men who perished were laboring in an effort to bring it under control when the fire broke out.

AUTOIST KILLED AS CAR HITS POLE

Two Passengers Critically Injured in Mishap on Outskirts of Toronto.

CAUSE PROVES MYSTERY.

TORONTO, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—One man was killed and two others critically injured in an automobile accident on the western outskirts of this city early to-day.

The machine, carrying three passengers, Robert and William Huxtable and Dr. W. Falconer, crashed into a hydro standard on the lakeshore highway, practically demolishing the car and almost instantly killing Robert Huxtable. He was pronounced dead on admission to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The men were returning to their skull, compound fracture of the right thigh, double fracture of the left thigh, and compound fracture of the left leg. He is not expected to live.

William Huxtable, whose condition is also critical, suffered severe lacerations of the head and face and a fractured skull.

The men were returning to theid homes here when the crash occurred. Police are unable to explain the accident.

100,000,000 Hectars To Be Sown in Wheat

MOSCOW, May 2.—(A.P.)—Soviet Russia, apparently unconcerned with grain surpluses in the rest of the world this spring will sow 100,000,000 hectars, 28,000,000 to wheat and the rest to corn, rye, oats and flax. The hectare is about 2½ acres.

The total area planted to all agricultural products is 140,400,000 hectares, the area scheduled for 1933, the last year of the five year plan. From present indications the harvest will be excellent, but a serious shortage of farm machinery is causing deep concern.

Official statements show that farm machine manufacture in the last six months ran 50 per cent. behind schedule.

In all the factories the schedule called for 31,150 machines but only 14,591 were made. The difference between supply and demand was covered by imports, principally from the United States.

This year 50,000,000 hectares were sown by the collective farms, 7,000,000 by the State farms and the rest by individual peasants.

The increase in collective farms is one of the reasons for the huge crops expected.

CAROL AND HELEN MEET AT BEDSIDE OF SON MICHAEL

PARENTS ESTRANGED.

Monarch Breaks Long Silence by Warning Queen of Danger in Visits.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 1.—(AP)—While estranged father and mother stared coldly at each other from opposite sides of his sick bed, Michael, the boy who was King, lay suffering with diphtheria, dread disease of childhood.

Two injections of serum administered by the Royal physicians were believed to have averted serious danger of death, although it was said that anxiety must continue. The Crown Prince, who carries the title "Grand Voivode of Alba Jule" was running a high temperature.

Queen Warned

The physicians warned Queen Helen, mother of Michael, that she must not endanger her own life or run the risks of contagion by too constant attendance upon the patient, who is nine years old.

Helen looked at King Carol, who was standing near her in the sick room and answered then.

"What is life to me? I have only one child. I shall never have another. My place is at his side."

Carol, breaking a near silence of months in which he is said to have spoken to her only over his shoulder, reiterated the physician's warning, and assured her that Michael had trustworthy nurses and attendants. But Helen only shook her head.

It is the second time this year that Michael has been ill, having suffered from a chill and influenza in January. Some concern was felt by the royal family last year at his tendency to obesity. Recently King Carol instructed attendants to teach him everything about automobile mechanics.

Carol Has Troubles

Carol, called to the bedside of Michael at Helen's quarters in the Sinaia Palace, was having his political troubles at the same time. Premier Jorga dissolved Parliament and called a new election for next month against widespread popular protests. Crowds which shouted "Long live the King" in answer to the shouts of other crowds which cheered the new Spanish Republic ranged the streets of Bucharest during the night.

OBITUARY

MATTHEW JOHNSTON

CAMPELLFORD, May 2 (Examiner Staff Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Matthew Johnston, whose death occurred on Thursday, April 16, was the largest held at Wellman's for many years, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Rev. F. G. Joblin preached a very impressive sermon from John 14:27, "Peace I leave with you," and the choir rendered two favorite hymns of the late Mr. Johnston, "Where He Leads Me, I Will Follow" and "Will the Circle be Unbroken."

The late Mr. Johnston, who was one of Rawdon's most highly respected citizens, was in his sixty-seventh year and had been confined to his home for nearly two months, suffering from heart trouble. He was born in Rawdon township and will be remembered for years to come as the builder of the first modern hip-roof barns in Rawdon and adjacent townships and his skill as a blacksmith and at repairing has always been recognized by all who benefitted by his services.

The late Mr. Johnson being twice married, he is survived by eight sons and one daughter of the first union, Matthew and Blake, of Tamworth, Ont.; Wilfred, of Madoc; William and Walter, of Wellman's; Fred, of Marmora; Harper, of Union Hill, N.Y.; Alex and Mrs. Sanford Kellar, of Campbellford; by the second marriage, besides his widow, he is survived by six sons, Earl, Donald, Lindsay, Murray, Clinton and Robert, all at home.

The pall bearers were six sons, Wilfred, Matthew, Fred, Harper and Alex Johnston.

WILLIAM JACKSON.

ROSENEATH, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of the late William Jackson, who died on Sunday, April 26, was held on Wednesday afternoon. The high esteem in which the deceased gentleman was held was in evidence from the large number of friends and relatives who gathered at his home to participate in the funeral service which was conducted by Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., and who chose as his text St. John 14, verse 1: "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me."

A short story of Mr. Jackson's past life appeared in The Examiner on March 23, when on that day he and Mrs. Jackson enjoyed themselves in celebrating their 61st anniversary of married life and having lived in the village of Roseneath for the past fifty-two years, they were highly honored by their friends on this noted event. The late Mr. Jackson was born in Hamilton Township on May 26, 1843, and spent all his life in the County of Northumberland. He was an ardent Orangeman since a young man, although he had not taken part in the Order for some years past, yet his heart was strong in the society. The local Orangemen were joined by the brethren from Hastings L.O.L. for the service at the graveside, which was conducted by Bro. William Murphy and Bro. James Timlin, and was most sincere and impressive. He leaves to mourn his passing his aged widow, formerly Catherine King, and four daughters, Mrs. John Steele, Mrs. Gordon Black, Mrs. John Tilley, and Miss Jennie Jackson, and two grandchildren, Marguerite Tilley and Leslie Steele, all of Toronto.

Many beautiful floral tributes adorned the handsome oak casket, among which were designs from L.O.L. No. 261, Roseneath, Ravina Rebekah Lodge, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, Toronto, Mrs. L. Irish Mrs. F. Precious, Cobourg, and a huge pillow from the family. Interment took place at Trent Valley Cemetery, Hastings. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Roy King, Alexander Shearer, William Taylor C. W. Varcoe, C. Thackeray, and Ross McCracken.

MRS. HENRY JAMES DAUBUZ.

LAKEFIELD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. H. J. Daubuz passed away last evening at her home on Queen Street, Lakefield, after an illness of about two weeks. The deceased was born in Douro, only daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. Charles Crawford. She has lived in this district all her life. Surviving her are her daughter Edith G. Daubuz at home, and two brothers, Richard Crawford of Lakefield and Walter of Toronto. Her husband was an officer in the 60th Royal Rifles in India, and died on February 21, 1916. A daughter Nina predeceased her on January 20, 1906.

A private funeral will be held from her late residence at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon. Rev. W. J. Creighton of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, assisted by Rev. T. M. Wesley and Rev. Canon Sawers, will officiate. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

CHALLENGE LEADS ISSUER INTO CELL

Unknown Man Causes Excitement on Havelock Street By Strange Antics.

HAVELOCK, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—Great excitement prevailed on George street at 4.30 yesterday afternoon when a man was seen to be acting queerly. He addressed all and sundry passing by, talking in a most incoherent manner.

A crowd of old and young soon gathered about him, which added to his excitement. When some of the men tried to quiet him, he began to undress in the street, calling on any one to come and fight it out with him. He threw his garments into the middle of the road, and stood there in the street, clad only in trousers and undershirt, and dared anyone to lay a hand on him. He was finally subdued and taken to the cell in the basement of the town hall.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 2.—Government-sponsored agencies acting through methods usually referred to as speculative, shouldered a huge new load of approximately 36,000,000 bushels of wheat yesterday.

This action resulted from a long preceding series of purchases made in the speculative grain pits of the Chicago Board of Trade and other exchanges at prices much higher than the wheat could be disposed of recently or at present for export or other commercial use. Yesterday was the first day on which the bulk of such contracts could be formally settled by delivery of the wheat, and it had long been foreseen that deliveries to the Farm Board's allied organizations would be on an immense scale.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, May 2. — The wheat market moved restlessly yesterday within a narrow range, as conflicting reports from Europe, all unverified, tended to first encourage bulls, and then bears. At the close prices were unchanged to ½c lower.

Early advices from England intimated that Germany had reduced its tariff on foreign wheat entering that country from $1.62 to $1.03⅝ a bushel, resulting in improving wheat values here. Broomhall later denied that a reduction had been officially announced, and the market settled back.

Export sales were moderate, amounting to about 700,000 bushels.

May wheat finished ¾c down from its high point, closing unchanged from Thursday at 60⅝c. July was off ¼c to ⅜c at 62c, and October was down ½c to 64⅛c.

Cash wheat spreads were slightly better as certain grades were in good demand. Coarse grains advanced.

St. Andrew's W. A. Sponsors Play "Martha" By St. Paul's Choir Under Martin Chenhall.

MANY GAY SCENES.

LAKEFIELD, May 2 (Examiner Correspondence).—Music lovers in this community had a real treat in the production of "Martha," a musical play, put on by St. Paul's choir, Peterborough, under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., under the auspices of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church on Thursday night. The attendance was not in keeping with the quality of the production, there being many counter attractions apparently.

The stage of the town hall was much too small for the production which was on a large scale indeed with seventy voices. The story of the play, like all light musical plays, was a little flimsy, but it had a swing and music which appealed with rousing choruses full of delightful harmony; solos, duets and quartettes, which were a musical treat.

The "Spinning Wheel" quartette, and the "Midnight Chimes" quartette were two outstanding numbers which will long remain a memory, sweet and fragrant, to all who listened. "The Last Rose of Summer," the immortal love song of the English language, was a treat of a high order as the pure, sweet soprano soard higher and higher. This was the "theme song" of the play and was heard in part several times.

The stage setting was minus as Lakefield is rather short of scenery for the town hall but a good imagination supplied all that was lacking. The costumes were good, those of the ladies were quaint and graceful and of vivid color in the main. England was merry England at that time with labor troubles and unemployment not a problem.

Gay Scene

The street fairs which occupied two of the scenes, were delightful even under such crowded conditions, and he gay scene was like an ever moving Kaleidescope to the audience, the clowns, the boxers, the pretty maids, the gallant swains and the tuneful melodies. The principal characters were as follows:

"Lady Harriet," Mrs. Bruce Munro; "Nancy," Miss Jessie Pattison; "Lionel," William S. Grieves; "Sir Tristan," Harold Coulson; "Plunkett," George Coleman.

The quartette work of the two ladies and Messrs. Grieves and Coleman, was quite outstanding. Lakefield had the pleasure of hearing what practically amounted to a dress rehearsal at a much lower price than is usual, and also an opportunity of hearing a high class musical entertainment. "Martha" is being put on in Peterborough next week. Among local people taking part were: Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Smith and Miss Lulu Smith; others formerly of Lakefield were: Mrs. Strong (nee Richardson), and Miss Olive Cullen.

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED CHURCH TO CELEBRATE 98TH ANNIVERSARY

HISTORY OF CONGREGATION.

St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough, is to celebrate the ninety-eighth anniversary of its founding on Sunday, May 3, when Rev. Murdoch MacKinnon, D.D., of Runnymede United Church, Toronto, will be the special preacher.

Ninety-eight years carries one back to the days when pioneer conditions prevailed in this province, then Upper Canada. The names which appear on the minute books of those days are now enthroned in the names of some of our streets — Romaine, Dennistoun.

The methods of transacting the business of the congregation were very thorough; the handwriting enviably clear and artistic; the spelling faultless. Strict economy was the order of the day, every dollar being burdened to the limit of its traction power. Moreover, a perusal of these minutes reveals to us the changes which time works gradually, yet thoroughly.

$75 a Year for Precentor.

The precentor, an official now consigned to oblivion, once held an honored place. Indeed, he was indispensable as is shown by an extract minute of the board of managers' meeting, held on November 13, 1862. It reads as follows: "It was moved by Mr. A., seconded by Mr. B., that Mr. C. be engaged as precentor for St. Andrew's Church for one year, commencing the eleventh instant, at a salary of $75, payable quarterly or half yearly as Mr. C. pleases, on the following terms: That he occupy the precentor's desk; that he be in attendance whenever services are to be performed in the church; that he find a substitute in the case of absence."

Moreover the beadle was an officer of importance at one time. Perhaps it is the modern wave of industrial efficiency, or perhaps it is the increased ability of the clergyman to care for himself that has rendered the office of the beadle obsolete. The following minute is interesting in this regard: "The managers of St. Andrew's Church met on January 18, 1859. Present: Messrs. Lundy, Brownlee, Arnotte and Fortye. It was settled that Mr. A. should be paid $14 for his services as beadle from the commencement until this date. Mr. A., being present, agreed and an order was given to him on the treasurer for $12, which, with $2 due by him for seat rent, made the amount. He was also engaged for one year, commencing Feb. 1, 1859, at $20, as beadle. The meeting was also given to understand that Mr. B. was willing to act as precentor at present for $40 a year and free seat. It was agreed that he should be engaged at that."

In continuance, we learn that the officials were pondering seven weeks before the Confederation of the British Provinces in North America became a reality. At that time the original stone church, which was erected on the site of the present structure in 1835, was becoming old and in need of repair. The minutes impress us that stoves, stovepipes and closed pews differentiated the church of the sixties from its present-day successor.

"The managers of St. Andrew's Church met on May 20, 1867. Present: Messrs. Lundy, Romaine, Edmison, Pentland and Carnegie. It was decided that the following repairs should be made on the church: Floor to be repaired — south side to be examined and repaired if necessary; stove-pipes to run along aisle as at present — then to be carried direct to a flue to be built from ceiling on both sides; pillars on which gallery rests to be built up from ground to floor with stone; walls to be colored and scored in imitation of stone work (color not determined) — ceiling whitewashed; paint woodwork and ends and door of pews oak color; the back ledge on seats to be planed off on inside — outside doors painted oak color; outside and inside doors to be made to open outwards."

Pew Rents.

Furthermore, pew rents were an ever-present help in the time of financial trouble, a fountain to be depended upon when a draught of money was imminent.

The following recalls such an incident: "The managers met on February 26, 1869. Present: Messrs. Romaine, Carnegie, Lundy, Pentland and Fortye. Moved by Mr. Lundy, seconded by Mr. Romaine, that we, the managers of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, in pursuance of a resolution, passed at a congregational meeting held on February 5, 1869, do hereby order and direct that the pew rents and seat rents of and on the said church be from and after the first day of April next increased 50 per cent., such increase to be devoted to pay off the debt now incurred by the manse building committee and by the managers and to be by them and by the managers incurred. Carried — Mr. A. dissenting."

The passing of the years works numerous changes, nevertheless certain fundamental human needs remain unchanged.

"All is changed by slow degrees,
All but the basis of the soul."

Therefore, St. Andrew's seeks to serve the present generation as it served the past. The new emphasis on the importance of the Sunday school led to the erection of the Sunday school building in 1923. In missionary interest, the congregation is unsurpassed, the various organizations working incessantly to support and encourage the soldiers of the cross who are in the front line of battle. As the congregation approaches its centennial, it looks backward with gratitude and pride, and scans the horizon with fortitude and faith.

stance, men had been paid for attending political meetings and had been driven around in motor cars at public expense.

Estimate Insufficient

Two Manitoba Conservatives, J. H. Stitt (Selkirk) and J. L. Bowman (Dauphin) joined with Opposition members in protesting against the dredging estimates for that province. Low water levels in the Manitoba lakes had land-locked wharves and impeded shipping, yet the estimates were insufficient to remedy the situation, they declared.

Low water levels were common all over Canada, answered the minister. The Government was endeavoring to meet the emergency with the funds available.

Amendments to the criminal code providing that the general nature and character of speeches upon public affairs be the grounds for determing the legality of any meeting, were proposed in a bill sponsored by J. S. Woodsworth, (Lib. Winnipeg North-Centre). He still was explaining it when the private member's hour expired and the House took no action.

A safeguarding clause of the type suggested was needed in the law, the Labor member believed, due to the actions of police in some Canadian cities. The Toronto Police Commission, for instance had ruled public assemblies would be permitted only if the English language were used. This was a ridiculous regulation, the Laborite exclaimed.

It was not the business of policemen to pre-judge what was sedition, Mr. Woodsworth said, even Communists had some right under the law, although the Winnipeg member admitted he was not one of them.

Debate Adjourned

Because the membership of the House was "thin" debate on a bill sponsored by Oscar Boulanger (Lib., Belle-Chasse) was adjourned until Monday. It would amend the present law so as to restrict the preference given returned soldiers when applying for Civil Service positions. At the present time, a man who has been a resident in Canada three years, receives a preference over a native-born Canadian who saw no active service. The Boulanger bill would restrict this preference to men who served in the Canadian corps.

Opposition to the bill came from Col. J. L. Ralston, former Minister of National Defence; R. B. Hanson (Cons., York-Sunbury) B. M. Stitt (Cons., Nelson) Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib., Vancouver Centre) Robert Maczenzie (Lib., Assiniboia) and Col. S. C. Robinson (Cons., Essex West) support for the measure came from Hon. Charles tSewart, former Minister of the Interior and Dr. J. L. Duguay (Cons., St. John.)

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

GREAT CARE IN FEEDING, TRAINING NEEDED TO REAR SIRE FOR HERD

Do Not Let Bull Get Too Fat After He Reaches Age For Service.

GUARD AGAINST TEASING.

By Dr. L. D. Le Gear, V.S.

We have seen in a previous article how necessary it is in the success of a dairy herd to have a good sire. He is "Half the herd," in other words. We take up now the problem of the owner who decides to raise his own bull.

Feeding is an important item in a young bull. For the first six months he should receive about the same rations as the heifer calves. Many farmers feed skim milk to the bull calf for eight or ten months because it is so healthy for bone growth. A grain mixture, say five parts wheat bran, four parts ground oats, one part linseed meal, and plenty of legume hay, after weaning is recommended.

There is a strange notion among some breeders that bulls fed on silage will not be as potent as those to which no silage is given. There is no scientific basis for such a deduction that I know of.

Be careful not to let the bull get too fat, especially after he reaches the age of service which is around ten months. He must be well fed, and not too thin for the best results.

Separate Calves at 6 months

Separate the bull calf from the heifer calves at about six months of age. At this time start his lessons in leading, a little every day. By eight or ten months put a light weight ring in his nose, say one and a half inches in diameter, non-rusting, of course. At the age of two years a larger and and at age four about a three-inch ring is necessary. After the ring is installed teach the young bull to lead with a staff.

You can prevent the growth of horns by rubbing caustic potash on the place where they appear when the calf is a day or two old. Or at age two you can dehorn. Unless you wish to use him for show purposes better take the horns off, as they are dangerous.

It is true that bulls at the head of famous herds usually have horns. Some breeders feel that dehorning handicaps his breeding powers. I know of no foundation for this. Of course, it does injure his chances in the show ring.

Do not let the bull run with the herd. Keep him in separate quarters altogether, if possible. See that he gets proper excercise. One way is to string a wire cable, with a rope from the ring in the animal's nose to the cable. Some herd owners use a tread mill.

If you have a barn yard turn the bull in there after the cows have been sent to pasture.

Above all do not keep the bull in a dark, uncomfortable stall. He needs good ventilation and should be hardened to the weather.

Teasing a bull should never be allowed. They become vicious enough as it is. Sometimes it is best to have two persons handle him. If you can arrange a breeding pen next to the bull's pen, so he will not have to be handled at all, so much the better.

Remember this, proper exercise, proper feeding and comfortable housing will enable a bull to give service until eight or ten years of age.

One Mistake

One mistake breeders make is to dispose of a bull before his real value is known. His offspring may be marvelous producers but you can't know that until his daughters have come into milk. He will be four or five years old by that time. Sometimes breeders put their bulls out with others under an agreement they can recall them at a stipulated price.

I have frequently been asked whether it is safe to keep a bull that is the first calf of a young heifer for breeding purposes. I know that bulls from older cows command higher prices. About the only basis for such a feeling is that we do not know how good the mother is when she is a two-year-old heifer, therefore, it is sometimes safer to wait until she has proven herself before taking a son to be sire of a herd.

As a final word of caution, do not give the bull a chance to demonstrate its physical powers. A bull has enormous strength. It can break fences, untie straps, and gates with comparative ease and without much injury to itself if it wants to. Once he learns how easy it is to jerk away from a keeper, he will be a pretty dangerous animal from then on.

Week's Crop Report From the District

It is a great many years since fall wheat and clovers came through the winter in as good shape as this season. It is not however commencing to grow very rapidly.

There has been a large demand for alfalfa cultures during the past week in Hastings, which would indicate that there will be quite an increased crop of alfalfa in this district.

Fall wheat, alfalfa and clover in Durham County have come through the winter in excellent condition but are in need of a warm rain at present to stimulate the growth. Several farmers in the southern part of the county report that they have already finished their seeding, and the majority have the larger percent of their crop sown. In the Northern part of the county seeding has just nicely started.

WHERE ROSES GROW TO BEST ADVANTAGE

Plants Should Be Set Out Where There Will Be Sunshine Most of Day.

In selecting a location for the planting of roses three principal factors need to be considered. Roses require an abundance of sunlight. The soil in which they are planted should be cool, containing plenty of humus, and it should have a good capacity for holding moisture.

The Dominion Horticulturist at Ottawa advises that rose plants should be set out where there will be sunshine most of the day. Where this is not practical the next best site is one where the plant will get the morning sun but will not be in such a position that the heat of the midday or afternoon sun will be reflected from some wall or building, for in this burning heat both flowers and plants will suffer.

Plenty of Moisture

Roses need an adbundance of moisture. The bed or garden should not be within reach of the roots of trees which would exhaust the soil of much moisture and plant food. Those who are familiar with the English rose garden will recall that the moist air and cool soil typical to that country is particularly suited to rose culture. In most parts of Canada the air is much drier and the soil much warmer, with the result that unless special care is taken roses will not do so well.

Clay loams are usually naturally richer than sandy loams, and as the rose requires a liberal amount of plant food the heavier soils have the advantage in this respect also. Shallow soils should not be chosen for roses, as they are liable to become very dry and warm during a drought, making conditions unfavorable.

Care should also be taken to avoid soils in which water lies within three feet of the surface, as such soils are cold, and roses will not bloom in them. Plants will often make strong growth in such soils but will not bloom, puzzling the grower.

The soil in which roses are planted should be cool, well drained, deep and rich, and where such a condition of soil is not natural, care should be taken in preparing the bed for rose planting to make it as nearly like this as possible.

Film Producer Seeks Divorce From Star

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 2 (A.P.)—Charging Pauline Starke, the screen actress, with kicking him in the face, calling him names and otherwise abusing him, Jack White, film producer, led suit for divorce here yesterday.

Miss Starke was unduly jealous, he alleged, discharging his nurse at a hospital and wrongfully accusing him of associating with other women.

The actress filed suit April 13, asking division of $100,000 in community property and $750 a month separate maintenance. White listed their community property at $30,000 and asserted Miss Starke had an independent income of $350 a month, was capable of earning $1,500 a week in the movies, and owned property, jewels and furs worth $15,000.

QUALITY NEEDED AMONG POULTRY

Select Your Stock From Birds With Certificates of Production Behind Them.

PROFITS HIGHER IN END.

In these days of new values in agriculture, particularly in the poultry industry, it is more important than ever for the farmer who would make a profit out of his poultry, or who would market his grain and feed crops at good values, to find the real quality of his poultry flock.

There is a lot of truth in the statement that it costs no more to feed a good hen than a poor one. The difficulty lies in determining the true worth of the individual bird. It is in this respect that the federal policy of Record of Performance for Poultry, administered by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, has not only won a place for itself with farmers throughout Canada but is rapidly gaining in popular favor.

In Report No. 11 for the record year 1929-30 a total of 30,385 birds were entered from nine provinces. Of this number 6,965 qualified for R.O.P. Certificates by laying the minimum of 150 eggs per bird, while a further 3,028 qualified for R.O.P. Advanced Certificates by laying 225 or more eggs. The average annual production of all hens in Canada is about 85 eggs per bird.

Indicate Real Worth

These figures are a graphic indication of the real worth of certified poultry stock in the poultry industry. It is from such birds as these that foundation stock for the building up of real working poultry flocks is secured.

It is not enough nowadays to select foundation breeding stock from a poultry flock on an average of flock production basis, nor does it pay to buy or hatch chicks from any sort of eggs, when a good supply of eggs or chicks from birds of known production ability can be secured.

The progeny of Record of Performance birds mated with approved cockerels assures a poultry flock which may be expected to measure up to the known quality of both sire and dam. Such pullets properly fed and cared for, even with egg prices at present low levels, are bound to pay their way with a fair measure of profit for their owner. Only one bird in ten selected for entry in Record of Performance comes through to qualify for R.O.P. Advanced Certificate, and only one bird in five qualifies for the R.O.P. Certificate. Birds such as these have a real value to the farmer who raises them, and they are not only an asset to him from the standpoint of producing a foundation stock of pullets that will lay eggs for him, but during the breeding season the eggs from R.O.P. Approved flocks command a premium in any part of the country. A further advantage is, of course, the premium which poultrymen and farmers interested in improving their flocks willingly pay for birds of known quality.

NEW PAMPHLET OUT ON FEEDING OF HOGS

Gov't Experiments Taken With View to Aiding Farmers.

"Of all the problems of the swine grower perhaps the devising of suitable rations is the most difficult," states E. B. Fraser, B.S.A., M.S., animal husbandry expert with the Dominion Department of Agriculture. "The characteristics of the grains and general analyses of them are known in a general way, or at least are easily procurable, but the problem of combining these grains most advantageously is the unsolved mystery."

With a view to assisting the farmer in meeting the problem successfully and to get the greatest possible benefit out of hog production, the Federal Department of Agriculture has prepared for free distribution a pamphlet on economic pork production. This pamphlet not only determines suitable rations for use under both eastern and western conditions, but it also deals fully with the complete problem of feeding from the care of breeding stock to the finished selected bacon type hog.

Entirely free from involved technicalities this new pamphlet is at once a practical and useful guide to assist farmers throughout Canada to reap to the fullest the benefits which will come to those taking advantage of the Brood Sow Policy, introduced under the direction of the Honorable Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, during the last few months.

A copy of this Pamphlet (135, N.S.) is available without charge on application to the Publications Branch of the Department at Ottawa.

Careless Fumigation Blamed For Death

WINDSOR, Ont., May 2 (C.P.).—Carelessness is alleged against those in charge of fumigation operations in a verdict returned last night by a coroner's jury which inquired into the death of Murray Robertson of East Windsor.

The ten-year-old lad was found unconscious in his home and died before he could be taken to hospital. The house had been fumigated during the day and the lad in some way managed to get into the house before it was cleared of gas.

CAREFUL GUARD OVER BABY CHICKS REAPS REWARD IN EXTRA PROFITS

Bad Habits if Caught at First Can Easily Be Warded Off.

TEACH THEM TO ROOST.

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V.S.

Chicks are a good bit like children in a great many ways. With proper training, both will develop into valuable members of their respective branches of society. Much has already been said in this series of articles on the subject of environment. I have stressed the need for clean, comfortable quarters, ventilation, adequate range, sanitation and other phases of that subject. Heretofore, however, I have had no opportunity to mention one very important matter which is the training of young chicks in what a friend of mine has humorously called barnyard etiquette.

Begin Training Early

I begin training my chicks the moment I transfer them to the brooder room. As soon as possible I begin scattering their grain ration in the litter so they will have to scratch for it thus giving healthful exercise. I also watch them carefully and guide them into the heated area of the hover whenever they need such direction. Whenever I find chicks huddled together, I place them under the hover. It may be necessary to do this quite often during the first week.

Crowding is another danger that can be greatly lessened by early training. I prevent huddling in corners by placing chick wire or boards diagonally across them. They must be watched carefully, however, for if they cannot crowd into the corners, they will often pile together in football scrimmage style right in the middle of the floor. Watch your chicks at all times, but especially at evening and gently force them apart if they show any tendency toward crowding. There will always be need for watchfulness in this respect until they are actually roosting.

Crowding is only one of many bad habits chicks will develop if not watched carefully or if not given proper feed, excercise and space. All these habits may be overcome if proper action is taken the moment they show up.

A Serious Habit

One quite serious habit, Toe Picking or Cannibalism, usually results from lack of animal protein in the feed or sufficient excercising room. If they have plenty of room to scratch and excercise naturally, there is less danger. If too closely confined they will seek other forms of activity one of which is picking at one another's toes. Sometimes a chick's toes will be injured and the sight of blood attracts others. Once they taste blood, the picking may become general, causing serious injury and even death to considerable numbers.

Whenever this habit is noticed, take steps to enlarge the quarters or divide the chicks into smaller groups so they have more room. It is also a good idea to add more meat scraps to their mash or milk to drink. You will also probably find that there are one or two ringleaders causing most of the trouble and teaching the others bad habits. If so, take them out of the pen and keep them out until the injured toes have healed. Paint the injuries with tar, which has a disagreeable taste and discourages Toe Picking.

Feather eating or pulling is another habit that often leads to chicks literally pulling all the young feathers from each other and eating them, or to eating one another up, starting usually at the tail. It is due to much the same causes as Toe Picking. Do not put them back until they are thoroughly healed.

Teach Them to Roost

One very important phase of a chick's early training is teaching them to roost. This can be quite easily done if started before the chicks are too old. By putting them on the roost a time or two at night, they will take to the roosts nicely.

Bild temporary roosts 12 to 18 inches from the floor, with an inclined runway to the first roost, all the roosts being on the same level, the same as for other roosts. Build it so that the chicks cannot drop between the roosts and the walls, and cover the under side of it with 1-inch netting. This protects the chicks dropping from the roosts to the floor and also keeps them out of the droppings. The chicks will in all probability take to these roosts naturally and quickly without crowding, but they should be watched a few nights to prevent crowding. These roosts should be from 2 to 3 inches wide, which will help prevent crooked breast bones in both chicks and poults.

Raspberry Notes Worth Reading

The Raspberry and Its Control in Canada, Bulletin No. 114, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, summarizes general control measures for raspberries as follows:

(1) Use nothing but clean healthy, certified stock. This is the first essential in successful growing of raspberries. Government certified stock is now available. Demand such stock from your nurseryman. For further information concerning certified stock, inquire of the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, St. Catharines, Ontario.

(2) Practise clean cultivation.

(3) Practise rotation of crops. After destroying an old raspberry plantation do not replant it to berries for at least three or four years. Grow some such crops as corn, grasses, cereals, legumes, etc.

(4) Destroy wild raspberries or blackberries in the vicinity of the cultivated varieties.

(5) Remove fruiting canes as soon after harvest as possible. At the same time dig and destroy all badly diseased plants.

(6) Systematically remove from the plantation and burn all rogued plants, or prunings.

May Take Potatoes Off Higher Duty List

OTTAWA, Ont., May 2.—(CP)— A possibility that the Government will revise the order-in-council, issued a week ago, to the extent of eliminating potatoes from the list of vegetables upon which the Government raised the import value for duty purposes, loomed today as a result of strenuous protests from Eastern Canada, and particularly the Maritime provinces. Cabinet will meet at two o'clock this afternoon when, it is expected, this matter will be reviewed and steps taken to exempt potatoes from the operation of last week's order. This went into effect on April 22 and fixed the value for duty purposes on potatoes at six cents a pound.

An immediate reaction was a storm of complaint from the growers of Virginia and the Southern States who were joined by the growers of certified seed potatoes of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick. The United States producers purchased thousands of carloads of seed potatoes annually from P. E. I., and N. B. growers.

There is Still Money in Eggs

"With eggs selling at 17 cents a dozen one can still make money, if he operates his poultry flock on a business basis," was the recent statement of one of the leading poultrymen of the Niagara District to officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Feed costs are lower, and the prospects of lowered production through flock depletion is inducing many farmers and poultrymen to make sure of having a good flock of laying pullets this fall by buying approved chicks in lots of from 300 to 500 or more.

NEW EGG PLANT PROVES OF VALUE

Small Japanese Variety Crossed With Black Beauty for Canadian Market.

GIVES EARLY CROP.

An egg plant which promises much of value to Canadians is referred to in the annual report of the Director of Dominion Experimental Farms. As the result of long continued studies the Dominion Horticulturist makes the following observation:

A Japaneses egg plant called Negasaki, with fruit too small for the general market, having proved the only egg plant that would produce a satisfactory crop in many parts of Canada owing to its earliness, was crossed with the Black Beauty, one of the large but rather late varieties, with the result that an egg plant of good size was produced, which is much earlier than the Black Beauty. Experimental work in this connection is now being centred upon getting the type fixed. When this is accomplished an egg plant suitable for cultivation under Canadian conditions will be established and it will probably become an important new factor in horticulture throughout Canada.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT 81 YEARS OLD TO-DAY.

LONDON, May 2 (C.P. Cable).—The Duke of Connaught, uncle of King George and Governor-General of Canada from 1911 to 1916, to-day celebrated his 81st birthday anniversary. He remains in good health, and is expected to return to London from the south of France next week.

PROPER FOUNDATION PLANTING IMPROVES HOME'S APPEARANCE

Use Selection of Shrubs That Will Give a Natural Effect.

EVERGREENS DESIRABLE.

(By J. B. Spencer, B.S.A., Director Ontario Horticultural Association)

In the horticultural beautification of home grounds it is highly important that the foundation planting be properly done. As the term implies, foundation planting is the placing of shrubs along the foundation walls of the house in such a manner as to give the most pleasing effect. The use of a single variety should be avoided, but such selections of shrubs should be made as will give a natural effect.

One of the purposes of foundation planting has often been expressed as a means of tying the house to the grounds, that is to say when the planting has become established it should give the house the appearance of rising out of the adjacent growth. Irregular planting is advisable for most situations, unless the grounds immediately about the building are to be laid out formally. It is important that plants of different heights should be chosen so as to avoid any ressemblance to a hedge about the building. Variety in width is also necessary for a similar reason. The lower growing bushes may be placed below windows and along the sides of the building, but the height should be increased at varying intervals, and in most cases, more particularly at the corners and on either side of doorways.

Conceal Alignments

While all the foundation wall should not be hidden, the planting should be so arranged as to conceal the alignments of the foundation, and also to minimize its height. Treating this subject in his book "Beautifying the Home Grounds of Canada" Professor M. H. Howitt points out that the smaller the property the more important relatively are these points. The smaller the grounds the higher does the house usually appear to be. Small lot dwellings usually disclose less architectural interest in the foundation than larger homes. What may be termed mass planting in such properties cannot be followed with safety. Professor Howitt sets down as the fundamental desirable effects in foundation planting: grace of outline, individual points of interest and adequate provision of cover for the foundation.

Graceful outline is obtained by the selection of plants which are themselves graceful in form, and individually give a soft and pleasing effect. For individual points of interest plants should be chosen that exhibit a variation in colour and texture of leaves and which present an interesting play of light and shadow. To adequately cover the foundation, such plants should be chosen as have a fairly spreading habit, and supplement these by a facing or cover planting of smaller lowheaded shrubs at the openings.

Perennials May be Used

In positions favoured with good sunlight a few carefully chosen perennial plants may be used to give colour effect. Peonies are useful for this purpose because not only of their beautiful bloom at their proper season, but because the foliage remains attractive during the whole season.

In shrubbery the use of evergreens is desirable for winter effect especially, and for accent points. It should be remembered however, when mixing flowering shrubs and evergreens that the latter will suffer from too close cropping of deciduous plants. Very fine effects are obtained by using evergreens exclusively. Of these there are many distinct forms including the pyramidal and globe shaped Arbor-vitae and also the spreading varieties of the Juniper and Mugho Pine. Of the flowing shrubs the spiraeas, the Barberries, the Hydrangeas and the Caraganas, particularly of the dwarfer kinds are very useful. These and many other beautiful shrubs as well as ornamental trees and vines are fully described in the Federal Department of Agriculture bulletin No. 89. Professor Howitt holds the view that the judicious use of both deciduous and evergreen material is most pleasing for the base of foundation planting, with possibly the evergreen predominating.

GLORIA SWANSON TALKS OF FILMS

Triumvirs of Success Are Director, Writer and Player.

HER EXPERIENCES.

A successful film depends on the writer, director and leading player, said Gloria Swanson in a recent interview.

"The rest are just by-products of the industry. I have grown up in motion pictures on that principle. My first picture, I remember, was 'The Great Moment.' Allan Dwan and I wrote the story together in Florida. Then came 'Manhandled.' I did the cutting for that picture. I have absorbed every angle of my business. I have confidence now in my ability to portray what I want. And I'm the interested party in whether my picture is to be a success or not. Why not? Why shouldn't the star be more interested than a man who sits behind a desk and produces twenty pictures. It's like writing a book—the book is yours and you don't want other people meddling in it, knowing it means more to you than to them.

"You see, a producer really has just one way. He'll tell the star, 'to much temperament' or 'no spirit,' or something like that. But there's no passing the buck when it comes to writer, director and star. It has happened that a writer has paid his own way to Europe just to discuss some angle of a new story with me. Only twice in my career was I forbidden to take my part in working on the story. I won't name the pictures, but the consensus of opinion from the public as well as my friends proved that they were my two poorest productions.

"Take 'Sadie Thompson.' Raoul Walsh and I worked together in perfect accord. There was no outside interference. We worked on the story for two solid weeks, filling in scenes that the play had only suggested. We virtually lived in the big studio set for eight weeks while we were making the picture. It was as though we were actually in the South Seas. The rain, the earthly smell, the foliage. I couldn't tear myself away. And that had become so much a part of me that when the time came to tear down the set I couldn't bear to watch and I had to go away.

"It was the same with 'The Trespasser.' Edward Goulding collaborated with Laura Hope Crews and myself. We three worked along in the sun room overlooking a beautiful garden. The servants had strict orders not to disturb us during working hours. And we felt inseparable parts of that picture."

Fascinating Work.

Producing one's own picture, Miss Swanson admitted, was a fascinating but nerve-wracking business. But it has its compensations.

"My friends would ask, 'Who are all these people around the set?' while I was working on a picture. I wouldn't know. I'd discover they were supervisors, assistant supervisors, editors, efficiency experts and I don't know what else. Now I won't have anything like that and I believe I'm right."

Contrary to popular belief, she said, the motion picture star usually has a sense of humor. Without it, she would not last out a week on a set.

"It's like a Turkish bath, it weakens you so you want to sleep. Yet you must maintain a highly emotional state of mind to do justice to your part. There is the heat of the terrible lights, you can't eat properly, you can't sleep after hours. Everything's wrong, you see, to begin with. Now I understand they have lights which require only one-fifth or one-tenth of the power formerly used. I think that's wonderful for the poor actor, who never gets the sympathy he deserves."

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

William Haines plays the lead in "A Tailor Made Man," a transcription of the stage comedy. Financially embarrassed, Mr. Haines established himself in business as a clothes presser, which leads to romantic complications between himself and the tailor's daughter. Borrowing a dress suit from the shop, the young man sets out to impress his personality on society in a big way. Dorothy Jordan, Joseph Cawthorn and Marjorie Rambeau head the supporting cast.

Eleanor Boardman and Monte Blue are the featured players of "The Flood." In the course of the story a town is supposed to be swept away on the surging waters of the Mississippi.

Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel, "Lost Ecstasy," is undergoing the process of transformation to the screen by Paramount. It will be known as "I Take This Woman," and the principal players will be Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard.

Leo Ditrichstein's play, "The Great Lover," is to have Adolphe Menjou in the leading role in the M-G-M production, with Irene Dunn and Baclanova in the feature feminine roles.

The first of the four pictures chosen for Ann Harding on the 1931-32 Pathe program will be an adaptation of Pamela Wynne's novel, "A Little Flat in the Temple."

Fannie Hurst has written a story called "Symphony of Six Millions" for Radio Pictures and, as might be supposed, it signs the tears, laughters and drama of New York's teeming millions.

In the lobby advertising, posters, billboards and other exploitation media, Mickey Mouse is presented as distinctly a national type in each of the many countries where his sound cartoons are shown. In Germany he appears as a rotund individual with a pronounced bay window; France knows him as a swaggering apache; Spain introduces him as a jaunty toreador in a neat bolero jacket; his eyes take on a Mongolian slant in China; his trousers in Turkey assume baggy proportions.

"Dude Ranch," at the Paramount is the romantic story of an Eastern heiress who visits a ranch in search of excitement. A hungry troop of stranded actors arrive on the scene and are hired by the manager to furnish his bored guest with local color. Jack Oakie, Stuart Erwin, Eugene Pallette, Mitzi Green and June Collyer are the players.

Pat O'Brien, the Hildy Johnson of "The Front Page" is in New York to play opposite Nancy Carroll in "Personal Maid." Miss Carroll is now finishing her new picture, "The Night Angel," with Frederic March, over in the vernal wastes of Astoria.

Leonard Merricks' novel, "Laurels and the Lady," has been selected for Ruth Chatterton, the screen rights having just been acquired for that purpose by Paramount. The story will take Miss Chatterton into the Kimberley diamond fields, where she will be seen in an atmosphere of intrigue.

Dolores Del Rio will remain at Radio for a year, under a new contract handed her by the studio.

John Meehan is rewriting "Daybreak" because Metro picture had too much Jean Hersholt and not enough Ramon Novarro.

Wallace Beery's option for another year has been taken up by Metro.

Emil Jannings received a $75,000 settlement from Paramount for his contract.

Jack Oakie now carrying gloves to match his sweat shirts.

Doris Kenyon will do Europe this summer in a concert tour.

There has been a change in Radio's proposed contract with Dolores Del Rio. Instead of one picture, with options, the studio is giving her a contract for three, with options.

Forty members of "Daily Star," staff, Toronto, initiate Jimmy Nicol into Masonic Lodge.

Bert Wemp, city's ex-amayor, now editing women's section of Toronto "Telegram."

Paramount's new policy of showing no more films dealing with gunmen, gangsters and crime will go into effect in July, according to S. R. Kent.

Lila Lee, actress, recovering from a pulmonary ailment, is back in Hollywood from Prescott, Ariz., and plans resuming picture work within a month.

Chevalier is spending his time between pictures at the Zukor estate on Long Island.

Mrs. Ruby Brown obtained a default divorce from Nacio Herb Brown, composer of "Broadway Melody" music, on the grounds of cruelty. She dropped her alienation charges naming Doris Eaton, film actress. Brown had at one time filed a cross-complaint but withdrew it. Mrs. Brown was given a settlement of approximately $120,000 and custody of their nine-year-old son.

All news reel cameramen will receive not less than $175 per week or at a rate of $50 per day on a daily basis, according to agreement made by their four unions.

Duncan Renaldo, who had the part of Little Peru in "Trader Horn", given a contempt of court citation for failure to pay $1,000 counsel fees for his divorced wife, was granted temporary respite while trying to find work. Suzette Renaldo attempted to have the actor's Nevada divorce set aside. She also has a $50,000 damage suit pending against Edwina Booth, actress, charging that Miss Booth alienated Renaldo's affections while both were on location in Africa for Metro's "Trader Horn."

Sam Goldwyn has Estelle Taylor for "Street Scene." Universal wanted her for the vamp part in "Talk of the Town," hoping to cash in on her present divorce publicity. It would tie in with their title, but Goldwyn outbid.

SPAIN AS LOCATION

"Marcheta" Will Follow 'Cimarron' With Same Leads

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—Radio is building "Marcheta," as a follow-up on "Cimarron," also using Richard Dix and Irene Dunne in the leads.

Studio is budgeting the film at $750,000 with about four weeks to shoot. Entire company will be taken to Spain in September for filming.

Miss Dunne has arrived from the east. She goes into "Next Corner" at Radio.

London had 13,899 marriages in the last three months of last year.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright,
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass.
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal
The good of all mankind.

WARSAW.

Reviving what Country women in other parts of the world have done, may have taken some of the conceit out of some of us, who thought Ontario was the birthplace of the movement, and that from or through us, it had spread to many other countries.

In a way the idea is correct, for we are the first to have the Institute organized just as ours is. We are practically the only one organized just as we are. Conditions are different, climate ,social, conditions, soil, products, housing, government itself is different. No two countries are just alike. Consequently it would not do, could not work, for all to be alike in their organization.

We find that the country-women of most civilized nations have some sort of organization . In practically all the foremost ideas is for the betterment of the home and through the home, the country. Also practically all, are non-political, non-denominational, some put it without creed nor party, and some include "without reference to race or color."

Throughout the other provinces in Canada, the Institutes are much the same as ours. During the war, Mrs. Watt went to England and organized Institutes, which follow much the same line as our own. She also organized in Wales. A man, Mr. Nujent Harris, Lecturer of the Agricultural Organization Society, grasped the idea, believed in it, pushed it. The government gave generous support. Scotland saw the results in England, and the chairman of the Agricultural Board had seen the results of the work in Canada, so Mrs. Watt was invited there too, and Institutes were organized. Large government grants were given for five years. Belgium sent commissioners to Canada to study Institute methods, and Belgiums' "Circles of Women," are much in the same line as our Institutes.

Even in far off India, Saraj Naleni had been trying to carry out an idea born in her own mind, and done much good by it. While in England she heard of the Institutes, visited headquarters, grasped the idea, it was just what she wanted, but it had to be modified to suit Indian conditions. There are all that seem directly to have followed Ontario's lead.

The truth is, women all over the world were wakening up to their needs or possibilities. In some cases as in the care of Mrs. O'Connor, of South Africa, some educated farm woman realized the need of her fellow country women and got to work with the motto "Work ennobles."

In some countries, as in Switzerland, the country-women's Associations were formed primarily to enable the peasant women to market their produce to better advantage. Naturally other ideas followed, until now there are training colleges.

In others, Norway in 1889 for example, the housewives associations were started before ours in Canada were.

Finland, Estonia and some others arose, because some of the more thinking women, realized that it was in the women as home-makers, and nation builders, that their safety as a nation depended.

No matter what was the beginning, all eventually come to the place where in some way or other, women's condition is improved, women themselves learn they can do better work in their homes, if they are not mere machines. Beauty, leisure, music, reading, all help and make her more of an help-meet, for her husband, a better mother and a grander citizen.

Care of mothers, and children, nursing, clothing, food and all that these things imply come in all these women's organizations. Australia even provides rest cottages, where mothers and their children may go for a rest, also maternity homes.

The organizations invariably aim to bring out those who have had no chance. We in Canada cannot easily realize what caste or social position, even as in England means, so there is not the levelling process. While non-sectarian, the teachings of Jesus underlie every one of them. While non political the ideas which made a nation great or good, underlie every organization.

In all cases, especially in those countries where social distinctions are very visible, the start of the idea, or the grasping of it from some outside source, has been by some educated, far-seeing, woman and in most cases, some wives and good man has helped push the matter.

CAVAN

Articles made from a flour sack very often have been demonstrated at institute meetings. In the isolated districts, where the "bread man" fails to make his rounds, and where flour is bought in large quantities, the flour sack has numerous uses in the households.

Dainty and useful articles for all phases of necessity are created from the different sized bags. One woman reports that she makes all her house dresses from them. The ninety-eight pound sacks are given a bath in the dye pot and converted to some dainty pastel shade before cutting out; bands of white or a matching shade used for trimming. She is a neat embroiderer and a spray of blossoms worked in pretty coloured thread adds the final touch of daintiness. When she wishes a change for the afternoon, she has pretty white dresses, daintily embroidered in white or colors made from the same material. Other uses for the bag are: The twenty-four pound sacks make pretty bedroom curtains, the material being thin enough to admit the light. Four or six sacks are required for a pair, according to the length of curtain desired. Two sacks would make a curtain about twenty-five by fifty inches, while the three sacks would make one about seventy-two inches long. Insertion an inch or so wider is used to join while lace of the same width, edges the bottom and one side. Instead of turning a deep hem for the curtain rod at the top and thereby shortening the curtain, the inside may be faced. The addition of a little embroidery on the corner, worked in shades to harmonize with the color scheme of the room, makes an attractive decoration. Lunch cloths in wide variety can be made from either the large sacks or the forty-eight pound ones. With color so much in vogue for table linen, an edge of inexpensive colored lace makes a pretty finish for these. Serviettes can be made to match.

Two every-day dresser scarfs can be made from one forty-eight pound bag. Cut in two, lengthwise, and attach bands of plain-coloured chambray to each end. Complete with a lace edge.

A bed-spread is another article which can be constructed simply from flour sacks. Large or small sacks adapt themselves readily for this, joining with bands of rather heavy insertion and edging with lace to match.

Every-day pillow cases, lace trimmed and embroidered, are economically made from the larger sacks and are a worthy addition to any linen closet.

Tea towels, aprons, night gowns and laundry bags are various other necessities often made from flour sacks, not to mention kiddies' bloomers, tips and underwaists. School dresses made from the dyed sacks, prettily trimmed, help out the school girl's wardrobe, while school handkerchiefs, so often lost at play, may be made from the finer bags, trimmed with a bit of lace and perhaps an initial in one corner.

MILLBROOK

A discussion at a recent Institute meeting brought up the question of the children being allowed to bring their friends to the home, without having to face the parents' unkindness over the practice, unless permission had first been given, thus discouraging the instinct of hospitality natural with most boys and girls, and hurting feelings all around.

That parents are often selfish in this matter, preferring an undisturbed atmosphere in the home to the noise and happy activity likely to ensue from a number of healthy young folk in a 'get together' informally planned, was stressed by the president, who also insisted upon a look at the obvious outcome of such action.

"We drive our children to finding their pleasure outside the home because we selfishly prefer quiet and order, and our own pleasure and comfort, to assuming the responsibility that is ours, when we refuse to welcome our young folks' friends to our homes," she insisted. "Or we rob them of friends, and compel them to choose those of the wrong type. Surely as mothers we want to know what kind of boys and girls our own are associating with, and can we not best make their acquaintance by having them bring these companions to our home?"

That the mothers have an obligation to influence their children's friends in wholesome channels, was another suggestion in the discussion which grew quite warm as it progressed, probably a somewhat guilty conscience in some of the members instigating sharp retorts to statements made. "A sympathetic mothers' influence will only be measured in eternity, and while her floors may be tracked, and her rooms not nearly as tidy as she could wish, and she must often give up time and strength to helping with the amusement of the young people, it will pay here and hereafter," was decidedly stressed by one who had tried out in practice who she now made clear as her personal theory. "Let us think more of our children's developing character than of our polished floors", she concluded.

"It helps in keeping me young," a middle-aged mother said, "and chumming with my children, even after they have passed school age and are out of their 'teens, brings me their confidence and gives me lots of fun and good times. They tell me all their affairs and ambitions, instead of confiding in an outsider, or brooding over them in secreta and imagining no one cares, leading perhaps to deceit and wrong practices."

MADOC

This paper was prepared by Mrs. George Huffman, for the Institute meeting held recently at Madoc.

Making the Best of What We Have

"In thinking about how or where to start this subject, I thought I would start with the pioneers of this county. They came here with very little to work with and started a new life making the very best of what they had. They had their homes to build, and cut down trees, hewed the logs, made their roofs from sod, hewed out logs for the baby's cradle, thinned birch bark for stationery, built fireplaces and bake ovens from stones which was the best materials they had. I have heard of men having no drag taking a large limb off a tree to drag the ground. Then in cutting their grain with a sickle, next a scythe, then a cradle; after that with a reaper, and now with a binder, and the day is not far distant, when one machine will cut and thresh the grain at the same time.

"It is by keeping on making the best of what we have that we attain to better things. I was reading last week of a farmer in Ontario, who had a small farm infested with twitch grass. He was struggling to make a living, but the land seemed so unproductive that it was hard work to keep the family. Finally he decided he must specialize on something or quit. He decided on potatoes. He bought enough Irish cobblers to plant an acre and then set out to learn two things—whether he could grow and market potatoes to advantage, and second, just how they should be grown and marketed to produce the highest returns. Well, last year he grew twelve acres of Irish cobblers, and marketed eighteen hundred bags of potatoes, and had to turn down orders for twelve hundred bags. By making the most of what he had he achieved success.

"Take people. It is our main duty to make the most and best of oneself, at least we are told that by a host of teachers and guardians who but to make the best of others is also our duty and that doesn't mean trying to reform others when we need so much reforming ourselves, but to encourage the best in those with whom we are associated and whose lives and interests touch ours day by day. There are employers who are adept at getting the best and most willing and cheerful labor from their employees, while there are others who seem to rouse antagonism by their speech, their manner and their very presence, and the work that is done for them is given grudgingly.

"In making the best of ourselves we need the sympathy and confidence of our friends. Let a man feel that he is a poor creature and in many he is a poor creature and in many cases he will lose heart and hope, and that our friends believe in us and we will rise to the best that is in us and go on our way rejoicing. But there are some people who will make the best of themselves up to a certain point and then fail. I was reading lately of a man listening to an address that was given in a town hall of a country village. It showed lack of thought and lack of careful preparation. His friend sitting by him said, "That man is making a failure of his life because he is resting on his laurels." When he was a young man he was very ambitious and determined to get an education. He went to college and studied hard for ten years. At last he gained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Then he entered a learned profession, and was happy because he could write four degrees after his name. Then he quit, in place of keeping on making the best of what he had. He was not much like William Ewart Gladstone, who was Premier of England when he was eighty-five and only retired because he was becoming deaf, but he still kept on studying and growing till the end of life. It is said of him that his brain was twenty years younger than his body.

"God has given each of us talent. To some one, some five, some ten, and if we make the best of what we have it will certainly increase. It is not the man with ten talents who always achieves something. He may waste them all and be surpassed by the one talent man who does his best. So of other things not possession but use, determines the value of the man and of the things we have.

"If people were content with making the best of what they have and not try to keep up with the Joneses, we can all find ways of improving how much happier they would be, what we have. At this season of the year (house-cleaning), how many of us would like to throw out some of the old furniture and get some that is new and up-to-date, but right here by making the best of what we have we can improve things. With the oils, stains and varnishes on the market, we can brighten up the old furniture, re-arrange it in the rooms and with some flowers or a bit of color make things look different, then we can sit down and enjoy it knowing we have made the most of what we have."

Famous Organization Coming To City

YE OLDE TYME VILLAGE QUARTETTE TO APPEAR HERE

On Monday evening, May 4th, Peterboro citizens are to have an opportunity of hearing in St. Andrew's United Church for first time Canada's famous entertainers, "Ye Olde Tyme Village Quartette" of Toronto. The personnel of this quartette consists of Marjorie Waters, soprano; Betty Thompson MacKenzie, contralto; A. C. Chapman, tenor and director; and James F. Carter, baritone. They have now given over 1600 concerts during the past ten years in all parts of Canada and the United States. Some idea of their popularity can be obtained from the fact that last week they gave concerts in Rochester, Syracuse and Buffalo with great success. They have appeared for nine successive years at the Canadian National Exhibition and many radio fans have enjoyed their splendid concerts from the Canadian National Railways Radio Station (CNRT) during the past year or two, as well as being exclusive victor artists for records. This organization is the original Olde Tyme Quartette, although it has been highly flattered by being imitated many times. Its programmes are a combination of music, costume and humour, many of the old songs which are so dear to all hearts are revived and it is these songs that has made them justly famous.

Press reports from all the leading cities, churches and organizations tell us that a real treat is in store next Monday and St. Andrew's Church, where the concert is being held under the auspices of the Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary, should be crowded to the doors.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15c—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all!"

Y.W.C.A. PAGEANT

group from the Senior Dancing classes who wove dreams into beautiful patterns, casting a spell over the woodland glade. They wore pastel-tinted frocks of filmy chiffon, with slender weaving scarfs and floral wreaths. eBaring aloft a large green ballon scarf, they danced their misty and beautiful dance, while song birds sounded above them. Suddenly a fairy call is heard and the Woodland Fairies, girls of the Senior Toe Dancing class, wearing white ballet costumes spangled with silver stars, come tripping in to do a graceful toe dance. The Leaf Elves (members of the Junior Toe Dancing class), clad in woodland green, stir from their recumbent posture, and lazily twirl and whirl, listening to the song dance of the fairies, who tell of a little Earth Child caught by the Baby Butterflies, dainty little creatures from the Babies' Dancing class, who have gauzy butterfly wings and bodies of purple, yellow and mauve. They discover the little girl asleep in the woods. Bewildered at first, but finally gaining courage, the Earth Child (Mrs. Victoria Gray(, does a lovely dance, gleefully telling the story of her happy entry into Fairyland. She wears a frock of rose pink with a huge bow in her hair. Then come the gorgeous Joy Bubble Fairies from the Intermediate Dancing class, girls with frocks of poudre blue and silver slippers, bearing silver balloons which they use in their beautiful interpretive number. A dozen brightly-colored balloons drift down from above to heighten the illusion of moving, brilliant color and charm.

The finale of this beautiful fantasy, which also forms the finale of the program, is an ensemble with all the lovely flowers and fairies on the stage, with their dreamland companions.

F. D. Kerr, K.C.

A brief and very entertaining speech, spiced by stray bits of dry humor, preceded the Pageant. It was given by F. D. Kerr, K.C., who stepped from the wings to say a word for the Y.W.C.A. Following the Grand Processional March which, as in other years, brought every member taking part onto the stage from the side of the house, and up the runway, to show the varied groups, from the tiny tots of two and one-half years to the seniors of the advanced classes, Mr. Kerr estimated the worth of five hundred girls taking part in the opening, as worth five hundred millions to the parents of Peterborough, giving each child the value placed on it by its parents of a million dollars.

Under Miss Littlefield's tuition, the pupils of the various classes were happy, hearty and energetic young people, trained in grace and in health habits, an asset to the community.

Mr. Kerr also paid an eloquent tribute to the work of Mrs. E. Morrison and the general secretary, Miss Leta Brownscombe and her assistant, Miss D. Sherin. Of the $26,000 required annually to carry on the work of the Y.W.C.A., only 7 per cent., he said, is donated by public subscriptions, the other 93 per cent. coming from "Y" activities.

Wearing their snappy middy suits of blue and white, with white stripes down their dark bloomers, the girls of the various classes went through various drills requiring a large degree of ease, precision and skill. The Juniors had dumbell exercises which were followed by a cunning exhibition of the "Daily Dozen," by members of the Babies' class, tiny tots who had their own sweet way on the stage and almost brought down the house with their funny antics.

The Intermediate Class members gave a fine demonstration of skill in their work with pliant, graceful reeds and there was a jaunty atmosphere to the wand exercises by members of the Elementary class.

Gymnastics based on the Danish system made a striking interlude and were expertly carried out. These are difficult movements that call for a high degree of muscular control and poise, with exacting leg and arm extension work and the turning of the body in uncomfortable positions. They were interesting and novel exercises.

The Baby Bandits were some of the jolliest little tots imaginable. They were out to discover love and they wore little suits of bright red and orange, with black scarfs and caps. When four graceful Sweethearts (Special Class members) came in to do a dashing dance, they wore futuristic chintz Pierrette outfits, with brilliant red tulle ruffs and cuffs. Their large red, glistening Valentine hearts were seized by the little bandits and borne triumphantly away. It was a bit of gay mimicry that was a highlight in the program.

Then came a skilful and interesting display of fancy club swinging, with difficult movements including a coffee mill grind," by senior school girls and seniors, following by four dancing numbers that were heartily applauded.

They included the gay, hopping measures of a Mexican hat dance, with the girls of the Intermediate Gymnasium and Dancing classes clad in khaki and white suits, with bright poncho scarfs and huge Mexican fringed hats.

Two Tartar Numbers

Then there was the different and brilliant Russian Rhapsody by seven members of the Senior Dancing class, interpreting in crimson, trailing gowns, their dark locks waving, the tale of the oppression of the old Russia and its hope for the future. This was beautifully done to the measures of music which opened with the Volga Boat Song and quickened later to a livelier and most passionate rhythm.

The second Russian dance, Petite Ukrainienne (Little Russia), by members of the Junior Class, was a bright, swiftly-moving thing by gay girls wearing the flowered chintz skirts, the white blouses and vivid headbands and streamers of the Ukrainian peasant.

A dance that brought plenty of applause and was extremely well done was the Sailor's Hornpipe, the dance of the jolly Jack Tars, by members of the Elementary, Senior School Girls and Senior classes. The girls wore pure white suits with long slacks and blue ties and collars and they danced in a fashion that was extraordinarily bright and gay. With four of the group turning swift cartwheels at the front of the stage, they went off bearing tiny flags, on a triumphant and jolly note.

The orchestra which played during intermissions was a tuneful and bright aggregation of musicians, including Miss Mildred Hteherington and Miss Irene Foster, pianists; Alex Robertson and Stanley Northrop, violinists, and R. W. Beach, drums and traps.

During the evening, several bouquets of lovely flowers were presented to the popular director, Miss Caroline Littlefield, to whose enterprise, skill and energy the success and interest of the Pageant is due.

Boxes for the two performances are being occupied by members of the Rotary and Kiwanis and Kinsmen clubs and members of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Molly Wood was responsible for the very nice posters which have been used to advertise the event, in various store windows.

To-night sees the second presentation of this interesting performance by local girls.

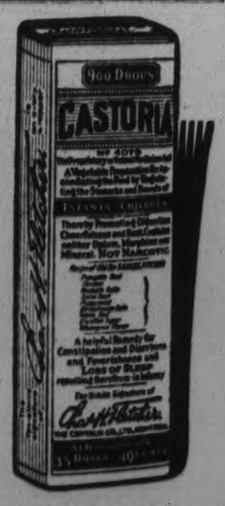
SIXES EIGHTS KNIGHTS

Quick COMFORT for fretful upset children



ALL children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give it to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown!

For sale by all druggists. Be sure to get the genuine product with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper, and this familiar nameplate:

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Most of our homes are now built for comfort as well as artistic architecture.

• • • • • • •

The first is not incompatible with the second. Architects make a point of combining these elements. Unless the house is designed especially for an owner, however, one essential element has to be carefully considered by the person building the home, and that is the exposure of the various rooms.

• • • • • • •

Frequently ready-made plans are secured by the person who is having a residence built. These houses are designed to meet various necessities sometimes to suit different shaped lots, or sizes of lots and frontages.

• • • • • • •

It is true that it costs less to get ready-made plans, but the owners must assume certain responsibilities for the liveable comfort of the dwelling.

• • • • • • •

Possibly some minor changes may have to be made to insure its meeting this great essential, which is comfort.

• • • • • • •

A matter of vital importance is the exposure of rooms. In cold and temperate zones the living room should get the maximum sunlight. It is a room constantly used during the daytime by the members of the family and sunshine is a prime factor for good health.

• • • • • • •

Where a staircase comes against an outside wall, it is well to have this a north wall. The north side of a house is, in the matter of exposure, the least desirable.

• • • • • • •

Staircases are merely passage ways, and while they should be attractive, they do not require the choicest exposure.

• • • • • • •

If a woman plans to do her own work, it is better to have a sunny kitchen, than a sunny dining room. If one has to be sacrificed, it is wiser to have it the latter.

• • • • • • •

A dining room, if it is used solely as a place in which to eat, is occupied but a short period of time in which the sun would flood the room.

• • • • • • •

The kitchen will be occupied more and sunshine gives a glow even to the doing of homely tasks.

• • • • • • •

Play-rooms must be sunny for children thrive in sunshine. Bathrooms can have northern exposures. The sun should shine part of each day in bedrooms. The more sunshine they get the better.

DRAFTING

Learn at Home

MECHANICAL Drawing is the wedge that opens the way to advancement in almost every line of engineering and industrial work; it is the universal language of the mechanical world; it is a stepping-stone to mechanical engineering. Formerly, a knowledge of mechanical drawing and machine design could be acquired only through a college course or years of observant practice. I.C.S. instruction shortens the years of plodding. We enable the ambitious student to gain quickly a knowledge of mechanical drawing and to forge ahead into the field of machine design. To the young man without a trade our Course offers a clean and profitable profession; to the mechanic, it offers promotion.

That our Drawing Courses are thoroughly practical and meet with the highest approval is shown by the fact that the General Electric Company—one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world, employing over six hundred draftsmen—uses our instruction papers in carrying on drawing instruction for its young men. A similar policy is followed in the apprentice classes of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Canadian National Railways, the General Motors Corporation, and other concerns. The employment of hundreds of our students and graduates in Mechanical Drawing in the drafting rooms of Canada, is undeniable evidence of the value of our instruction.

BRILLIANT MINISTER TO VISIT ST. PAUL'S

Services Will Be Conducted By Rev. J. F. Anderson of Australia, in Pastor's Absence.

A brilliant young Irishman, for many years minister of one of Scotland's historic churches and recently minister of one of the foremost Presbyterian congregations in Australia, the Rev. J. Fisher Anderson will be the preacher at both services in St. Paul's Church here to-morrow in the absence of the minister, the Rev. William Allan.

Nine years ago when the Rev. Mr. Anderson was minister of the famous Wynd Church in Glasgow, a series of memorable services was conducted in that church by the present minister of St. Paul's at the height of the great Scottish revival. After a successful ministry at the Wynd, Mr. Anderson was called to Melbourne, Australia. He has just come to Canada with his wife and family in an attempt to recover his wife's health which was impaired in the semi-tropical climate of the Antipodes.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson, who is gifted with the charm of personality peculiar to his countrymen, is a graduate of Queen's University, Belfast. The happy association enjoyed by Mr. Anderson and Mr. Allan at the Wynd was renewed immediately before Mr. Allan's coming to this country when Mr. Anderson paid a preaching visit to New York during Mr. Allan's last pastorate there.

It is expected that large congregations will greet Mr. Anderson's brief stay in Peterborough.

A definite indication of growing prosperity throughout Canada is evidenced by a current report covering the sales of Frigidaire Electric Refrigerators. Frigidaire Corporation announces that sales for the first months of this year have substantially exceeded the same period in 1930, with excellent indications of possibilities for an even better showing during the remaining months of this year.

Revival of business among retailers and the growth of the demand for electric refrigeration is reflected in the large number of progressive merchants who have joined the Frigidaire dealer organization in the past few months. These newly-appointed dealers include some of the largest retail organizations in the country—many of them operating extensive branch store systems.

In the belief that business conditions are largely what they make them nearly three hundred Frigidaire dealers throughout Canada are now conducting special Spring Showings presenting the new White Line Frigidaires which embody many striking improvements and refinements.

CALEDONIANS PLAN SUMMER ACTIVITIES

Several Picnics Will Be Held and Also First of July Excursion.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Caledonian Club was held last evening in the Woodmen of the World Hall. W. Petrie, president, occupied the chair, and a large attendance of members were present.

Reports were heard from various committees. As it has been customary in former years to close the Club for the summer months, so this year only the monthly business meeting will take place in June, July and August. Several picnics will be arranged, however. A boat has been chartered for the first of July, and Harwood will be the destination.

During the months in which the Club won't require the hall, it was decided, if due notification were given, to let the Caledonian Football Club or the Caledonian Choir have same to run social evenings.

Fast Mitt Work Seen In Ranger's Boxing Card

THOMPSON TAKES COUNT IN THE ONLY KNOCKOUT OF POPULAR RING BILL

George Mintz Declared Victor in First Round of the 139 Pound Class.

SEVERAL SPEEDY TESTS.

Reg Lesurf Wins Decision From Ed Cordell of Toronto in Main Bout.

Close to eight hundred fans saw twelve fast bouts at the Peterborough Rangers' boxing show in the Armouries last night. While there was plenty of blood spilled, and numerous knockdowns, only two K.O.'s—one of them technical—were chalked up. The Peterborough fighters won over their out-of-town opponents, though several of the latter failed to be on hand, and most of the bouts were between local boys.

Gord Garwood, who promoted the card, made an efficient third man in the ring, and the decisions handed out by him and George and Chris Graham, judges, were well received by the crowd. Prizes, donated by merchants and other fight fans, were presented the winners. Plenty of seats, and smart handling of the spectators, was a feature of the show.

The Clark brothers, Allan and Grant, weighing 98 and 96 pounds respectively, started it off in a no-decision bout. It was fairly fast, but cautious in the first, feeling each other out, and registering the odd one. The round was pretty even. The second was faster, with Allan using a left to the face, and Grant landing his right to the stomach. They were boxing nice, but careful at the end. It was even, also. Allan was more aggressive in the third, but both landed several times, and the final minute saw the pair at it hard and connecting often, too. It was a fairly even scrap, and both boxers received prizes from the Tip Top Tailors.

Mowry Takes Decision.

Doug. Mowry, 95, took the decision over Ward Wright, 98, in a rough and tumble fight. They were cautious at first, but mixing up in a few hard exchanges, but both swinging wicked haymakers which missed for the most part. It was slower at the bell. Round even. They started the middle round fast and furious, swinging in wicked style. Wright went down, partly through tripping, and was up without a count. Mowry landed several nice ones to body and head, and both were mixing at the bell. It was Mowry's round. They went at it hard again in the last. Doug smacked him hard several times, and kept boring in, but Wright was willing and kept trying. Both were tired and going slow at the gong. Mowry received the prize given by Al Sharpe.

Ken Roy, weighing 122, won over Don White, 123, in a fast scrap marked by a continuous roar from the excited crowd. They started fairly fast, but a little cautious. Then they loosened up and both boys were willing. Roy connected more, and finally put White down with a right to the button, but he was up at once, and they were milling around at the bell. It was all Roy's. The second was a whirlwind affair, with first Ken and then Don looking better. Both were staggering at the end with Ken having a little the better of it. It was his round. White started good in the third, but Roy began throwing hard rights and lefts at his head and had him covering up. They were mixing it up willingly at the end. The prize, given by Colonel Park, was handed to Roy.

Technical Knockout.

Gord Chapman, 132, won by a technical kayo in the third over Art Hunter, going 120 pounds. Chapman entered the ring with a badly swollen right hand which was practically useless throughout, but gameness and careful fighting won for him. The first was fairly even, though Gord could only use his left. It was a cautious round and fairly even. They wrestled each other down to start the second, but were right up. This session saw a lot of clinching, with each landing a few stiff jolts to the whiskers, and both bleeding at the end. The last one started fast. Gord was boxing coolly and jolting the other with stiff lefts on the chin, and following up fast. Art was getting groggy, and, as Gord landed two more hard ones, the fight was stopped. Chapman received Grafton's prize.

Max Gilbert, 120, outfought George Cassie, 122, in an exciting battle to get the nod. They started hard, both boys using their two mitts, and George looking the better at first. Then Max put him on the floor twice in a row with right hooks, but there was no count. It was Gilbert's round. They were both landing uppercuts starting the centre go, and milling all around the ring. Max began weaving and smacked the other several that hurt. George went down again, but was up quick and they were travelling easier at the bell. Gilbert took that round, also. They were at it hard again in the last, standing up and swinging. Each scrapper stopped some nice ones on the face. George took the aggressive and had Gilbert's nose running blood at the end. The Hood & Coummings' prize went to Max.

Easily Beats Vinette.

Jack Gardiner, 135, had little trouble getting the decision over Bat Vinette, 133. They started slow, with both sparring about. Then Jack began swinging and landing rights to Bat's chin, and the latter went down three times, but took no count. Jack was better at end, and had the round easily. They were both landing in the second, but Vinette did more clinching. Jack brought up a few from down around his heels and had the other worried all the time. Vinette went down with an uppercut on the jaw as the gong sounded. It was Jack's round. Bat was more aggressive in the third and landed several stiff left jabs that kept Jack out. They were both moving around and landing fairly frequently at the end. Jack got the Tip Top Tailors' prize.

John Hill, of Peterborough, weighing 107, got the nod over Maurice Murphy, Lindsay, 103-pounder, in a bout packed full of thrills. They went at it from the start, milling around, first one looking the better, then the other. They were very willing and took some hard smacks to hand out the same. It was an even round. The second was even faster, but Hill got more cracks home to the jaw of the other. Murphy, however, was boxing nice, and using the rope to advantage. It was Hill's go. They wrestled each other down in the third but were right up, and at it fast and furnios again. They were going like a pair of mad windmills, landing and missing, but always boring in. Murphy was the better boxer, but Hill put him down with three fast rights. He was up quick, and they were battling at the bell. Hill was handed the prize donated by the Peterborough Rangers.

Bud Aggas, 130, won over Jack Chamberlain, 133, in another nice scrap. They began carefully, with Jack trying to land. Then Bud started sinking them in Chamberlain's midriff, and they seemed to hurt. Bud was a classy boxer, using both hands, mostly to the stomach. It was his round. They came out faster in the second, and both connected for a few hard wallops to the head. Jack went great for a minute, then Bud slowed him up with more to the stomach. The round was fairly even. There was a lot of clinching in the last, but both fighters were willing. They mixed it hard for a space, then Bud jolted the other with more to the body, and a few crosses to the head. They were boxing carefully at the end. Bud received Major Fred Hall's prize.

Thompson Takes Count.

George Mintz, 139, put Fred Thompson, 138, to sleep in one and one-quarter minutes of the first round. George put him down right at the start with a hard right flush on the jaw. The other got up right away, but looked groggy. They sparred around the centre for a minute, then Mintz rushed him to the ropes and hit him hard and often with both hands, until he fell to the floor. He was almost up but couldn't quite make it at the count of ten. George was given the prize donated by the officers' mess of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons.

Art Hamilton, 165, using his left to good advantage, won over Henry Noakes, 158, in a nice boxing bout. They were fairly fast in the first, and Henry used his right several times. Art jabbed him often with a straight left to the face, and soon had the claret flowing. They boxed carefully most of the way. The round was even. They began the second in furious style, with both landing often. Then they slowed up some, and just boxed for a bit. They were again mixing it at the gong. Again it was even. It was fast and marked with steady hammering away in the last go. Art had his left working and kept Noakes' beak bleeding freely. The latter got in a few nice right drives to the body, but Art had it pretty much his own way most of the round. Art took the J. F. Strickland prize.

Popular Semi-final.

Jimmie Jinfino, 110 of Toronto, was given the decision over Jimmie Gordon, 112, also of Toronto, in a bout marked with hard hitting and clever boxing. They started fast, and Jinfino was more aggressive and smarter, but the other used his longer reach to keep the former out most of the time. They each landed a few hard ones before the bell. The round was even. The second started slower, but soon speeded up. Both boys took some dirty cracks on the jaw in a sudden flurry in the centre. Jinfino was faster and changed in his style several times to get in on the other and smack him on the whiskers. It was his round. The last was pretty even, and a lively swat-fest. Gordon opened up more and both were giving all they had. Some hard walloping and some neat boxing was seen before the end. Jinfino received the prize given by the Empress Hotel.

Colonel M. Park spoke a few words before the last bout. On behalf of the Rangers, he thanked the fans, the boxers and the promoter, Gord Garwood for their efforts to revive boxing in Peterborough. And he said he hoped more of those boxing bouts would be put on next fall. He got a big hand.

Lesurf Gets Decision.

In the main bout of the evening, Reg. Lesurf, local 136-pounder, won all three rounds from Ed. Cordell, of Toronto, weighing 132. This bout was somewhat slow and uninteresting owing to the Toronto boxer's clinching tactics. He grabbed every time Reg. started to swing, and the crowd kept yelling for more action.

They started at a good clip, but soon slowed up. Reg. hit him a few on the head and body and they began clinching. They were sparring around looking for an opening at the end. It was Lesurf's round. The second was slower, and marked by plenty of holding. Reg. piled up the points, using a one-two to the body and head, but the other fellow went into a huddle with himself and kept covered up. It was Reg's round. The last round started fast and both landed a few nice cracks to the head. Then they slowed up and Cordell began clinching again. Reg. lifted his head two or three times with hard uppercuts, as the crowd yelled for more action. Reg. was trying to get somewhere but couldn't get through the Toronto boy's guard. They were sparring around the ring at the gong. Reg. was handed the prize given by Captain Dunkerly, and the crowd started to leave.

NEWSBOYS TO SHOW THEIR STUFF

Next Monday the newsboys of Montreal, Philadelphia, Toronto and Hamilton, under the supervision of Charlie Ring of the Lions Club, Toronto held their annual fight show. Ten years ago this show was conceived and inaugurated by the late Willie Frankel, whose name is still on the Challenge Gamecock Trophy. The newsboys provide the talent and sell the tickets and the proceeds go towards sending the boys and underprivileged boys to a summer camp. The first show was held in the Gayety theatre, Toronto, where they packed the house to the rafters. The prizes varied from underwear to shoelaces. Nearly every newsboy in Toronto wanted to iron out his differences with the next fellow until Lou Marsh was forced to call it a night at three a.m., after 24 bouts. The headliners of the show were Joe Mush and Sunshine, the winner being presented with two suits of underwear. It was the first fight that Charlie Ring ever staged, although he had been in many himself. The first show netted $800, the show last year netted $7,000 and has become known as the biggest of its kind in the British Empire. A long list of famous boxers has sprung from these bouts including: Stephy Rocco, Red Braggan, Sammy Hackett, Jackie Johnston, Jackie Phillips, Doug Lewis and Lawrence. The show has now become an international affair, the Lions Clubs of different cities financing teams to send to the bouts. The show is a credit to Willie Frankel who originated it and to Charlie Ring who has managed it since the beginning.

BEARS BEAT HERD IN 13TH INNING

Spirited Rally in Ninth Ties Score—Bruins Tie Bisons for 5th Place.

ORIOLES POUND WINGMEN.

NEWARK, N.J., May 2.—The Newark Bears defeated the Buffalo Bisons 4 to 3 here yesterday, winning in the thirteenth inning. It was the third straight win for the Bruins and enabled them to move up in a tie for fifth place with the Bisons.

A long fly to centre field by Harry Layne scored Bennie April with the winning run. April had reached first on a fielder's choice and taken third on Byron's Speece's single.

A spirited rally in the ninth with two down enabled the Bruins to tie the score at 3 to 3, the eBars pushing across two runs on four hits.

Bill Gould went the full distance for Buffalo and was pounded for 17 hits.

ORIOLES POUND WING HURLERS

BALTIMORE, Md., May 2.—The Orioles moved back into first place when they trounced the Rochester Red Wings, 14 to 5 yesterday in a clash that resulted in five visiting pitchers being bumped for a total of 15 hits.

Monte Weaver, who was given a 6-run lead in the first three innings, eased up and was mauled for an even dozen hits. However, they were bunched effectively in only the fourth inning, and he chalked up his fourth straight victory for the season.

THORMAHLEN'S 2ND SHUTOUT

JERSEY CITY, N.J., May 2.—Herb Thormahlen, veteran portsider ace of the Montreal pitching staff, registered his second consecutive shut-out of the season here yesterday by blanking the Jersey City Skeeters 2 to 0, while allowing four widely scattered hits.

Gulley was the batting star of the game, reaching Frank Nekola of the Sweeters for a home run and a pair of singles.

TORONTO FALLS TO THIRD PLACE

Keystones Bat "Curly" Ogden Hard to Take 8-4 Decision.

LEAFS GET 13 HITS.

READING, Pa., May 2.—Toronto's winning streak was broken here yesterday when the Reading Keystones pounded "Curly" Ogden hard to score an 8-to-4 triumph. It was Reading's second victory of the season.

Ogden, touched for 13 hits, was blasted off the hill in the ninth inning. The Keys pecked at the curly-haired right-handed in every inning excepting the fifth. They drove him off the hill when Matthews singled and Partridge doubled in the ninth. Shanklin, his successor, couldn't stem the Keys and he was nicked for a home run and double before the uprising was quelled.

"Dutch" Kemner, ancient right-hander, allowed 13 hits, but was tight in the pinches. The Leafs wasted many scoring opportunities, having seven men left on base.

George Quellich ruined the Leafs' chances with two home run drives, while Jimmy Adair also hit for the circuit. McHenry and Davis led Toronto's attack, with three hits apiece.

The Leafs wasted a scoring opportunity in the first inning, when Rogell was caught napping off first after singling, but they hopped on Kemner for two runs in the second. Shiver, McHenry and Davis blasting out hits.

ALBION CLUB WOULD SPONSOR ENTRY IN CITY LEAGUE HERE

Hinted Leonard Foster May Also Enter Team at Loop Meeting Last Night.

GROUNDS COMMITTEE.

A rather optimistic note was struck at the City League Baseball meeting held at the Duffus Recreation Academy last night, when the secretary of the league read a communication from the Albion Club in Havelock, asking for accommodation for a junior team from that town, while another member of the local organization made the statement that Leonard Foster, Charlotte street tobacconist, was considering sponsoring a junior entry this season also. These two teams if secured would round out the junior section of the league into a worthwhile circuit, as the Kiwanis Club has already entered under the management of Jack Deannard.

Letters which were sent to Keene and Norwood inviting them to enter teams in the City League have not been answered as yet, and therefore it is not likely that either of these two village will enter; however, there is some possibility of an entry from Lakefield, but so far no definite information has been received.

The first regular business of the meeting was the election of Pat Calladine Jr. as secretary-treasurer, which completes the executive for the coming season. A grounds committee appointed last week to look over the Exhibition Grounds with a view to securing a suitable practise field, reported that there were two or three sections of this property which is not taken up at present time that would accommodate a baseball diamond large enough for practising.

The Bantam section of this league will not begin to operate before the Public School League is over, an arrangement which has worked out very satisfactory for all concerned in other years.

A motion was passed which says that the players' certificates will be handed over to the team managers as soon as the entry fee is paid to the secretary, and another motion covered the fact that the league will not be responsible for any accounts unless the individual has a written order signed by both the president and the secretary.

Michael O'Brien, whose active interest has gone a long way towards encouraging baseball among the youngsters during the past two years, was appointed umpire-in-chief for this season.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the last week has been a washout from a sporting standpoint. With the big leagues nearly froze out and nothing going on around home to get excited about, they ain't much, if anything to talk over with the customers in this here weakly discourse.

Since my last the Central loop has materialized with the Kingston outfit, what wasn't going to move a wheel, back in line. That leaves 3 teams, which is good so far as she goes, but the local end ain't much changed. Most of the players has been shy about signing on the dotted line until they see what's what or who's who, and the result is the various local managers is getting so much exercise running round in circles they'll be in shape quicker than any player on their squad. The boys will have to light somewhere soon, and in the meanwhile they ain't much to be said.

1 of the features so far of the big show in baseball, Mac, is the stunt performed by Mister Wesley Ferrell of the Cleveland Indians, who unloaded himself of a no-hit, no-run game the other day. No-hit pitching has been as scarce as women in Parliament, and any pitcher what can go out in weather cold enough for ear-muffs and make the opposition look like they was up there without bats is some thrower. I claim, Mac, some thrower. It looks like as if Mister Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia A's, if he wants to top the A. L. winning list, will have to deliver a whole lotta superfine pitching throughout the season, for Mister Ferrell is away to a flying start, and it's going to be tough to head him off. The Indians, by the way, was on top of the heap when this was wrote, and showing signs they was intending to stay there. As old Muggsy McGraw used to say, the games you win in April you don't have to take in September, but it's a long season, mates, a long season, and a lot can happen before they start to sell seats for the world's serious.

Well, old-timer, let us hope that before next week the local tangle is all unravelled and we'll have a idea of what we're going to have in the way of baseball during the summer.

Incidentally somebody oughta remind the city fathers that the sporting organizations expect summer time as usual during the warm weather.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

The tennis players are having the laugh on the lawn bowlers around their joint club house these days, inasmuch as several of the tennis courts are now open for play and the real tennis enthusiasts are able to get out for a game. As the greens for lawn bowling will not be ready for use for another three weeks, all the lawn bowlers can do is to look on with envy while the tennis players disport themselves at their favorite game.

CENTRAL SQUAD ARE WINNERS IN BITTER TANGLE

Both Hurlers Touched Hard and Often in School League Fixture.

TAKE EARLY LEAD.

Queen Alexandra Stage Hitting Spree to Garner Five Runs in Fifth.

In a summer setting, with a large and excited crowd, lining the diamond at the Oval yesterday evening, the boys from Central School managed to win out 10-8 over a fighting Queen Alex outfit. They were a very evenly matched pair of teams, and it was anybody's game right until the end. The boys seemed to enjoy themselves immensely, especially the batters, as both hurlers were touched often and hard. The game was marked with plenty of fielding errors, and with three strikeouts by Wiley in the final half-inning.

The winners grabbed themselves three in the first and two in the second, hitting hard, and taking advantage of ragged fielding. Queen Alex got one back in the first and another in the fourth. Central crossed the plate twice in the fifth and a couple more times in the sixth. They made it ten in the last innings. Queen Alex went on a hitting spree, and packed away five runs in the fifth, but could only counter once more, and that was in the sixth. The hitting and the errors were about equally divided, and there was little to choose between the two moundsmen. But, it was the hitters' day, and the boys made the most of it. In the last half-innings Wiley struck out three in a row, to hold that lead, and he got a big hand from the large crowd.

The teams:

CASUAL COMMENT

The seniors are working out this afternoon at the Exhibition Grounds, and "Shiner" Johnston intends to sign up a bunch of them right after the practice. And then, the team can get going several nights a week so as to be "right" when the Central League campaign opens.

• • • • • • •

All Saints' Athletic Club is preparing for a busy summer. The Club House will be fixed up soon, and the basketball court begun, whenever the ground dries up. And that ought to be shortly.

• • • • • • •

This club has entered two softball teams this year, one in the Men's City Softball League, and one in the Church Softball loop. In addition to this, they are forming a harriers' club to train runners for any distance meets being held throughout the summer or fall. That's a swell idea, all right.

• • • • • • •

Coach Jack Creighton is working the lacrosse players out this afternoon. Everything looks like the game is going to be revived to some extent around here this summer. Every practice finds a bigger bunch out than before.

• • • • • • •

There will probably be an intermediate lacrosse league formed within a few weeks, composed of Peterborough, Campbellford, Norwood and Havelock. Oshawa would like to put in a team, too. At any rate, there are plenty of lacrosse fans who want to see a bunch of games.

• • • • • • •

The East Peterborough Baseball League meets tonight at Duffus' and final entries will have to be in at this time, unless the executive puts back the date. It is hoped there will be a fourth team entered tonight, to round out the league.

• • • • • • •

The City Baseball League, which met last night, expects a few out-of-town teams to join up, so the entry date was held back a little longer. Everything looks promising for this league for another good year.

• • • • • • •

Mike O'Brien, last year's president, accepted the position of umpire-in-chief, taking the responsibility of either umpiring or having a suitable substitute at every game. Mike will make a satisfactory one without a doubt.

• • • • • • •

A vote of thanks was passed at the meeting to the Duffus Bowling Academy, for the generous offer of their room for meeting purposes at any time. This is quite a bit of help to the City League.

• • • • • • •

Central School nosed Queen Alex out 10-8 in an exciting ball game in the Oval last night. They were well-matched and the large gathering of fans were in a fine state of excitement all the time. And the players had a swell time out of it, too.

• • • • • • •

The Rangers' boxing show in the Armouries last night went off without a hitch. They had a fine system working, and the sizeable crowd was seated with a minimum of trouble. They hope to continue these fight cards next winter. Well, the fans will come out for them quick enough.

• • • • • • •

Another Lindsay boxer was down last night, but he didn't go on as no local scrapper of his own weight could be found. Young Murphy, of Lindsay, looks like a coming boxer. He and "Finnegan" Hill put on one of the liveliest and most interesting battles of the evening.

• • • • • • •

But for real gameness, you've got to hand it to Gord Chapman. He shouldn't have been allowed to go on at all, as he had a badly bruised hand, which was swollen up and painful. It was his right duke, and that's his best weapon. But he went on and won, using nothing but the left, and a lot of ring brains.

• • • • • • •

The Toronto Scrapper who fought Lesurf was a big disappointment, as he clinched all the time. However, the card, as a whole, was very good.

WEST FAVORED TO WIN TITLES

Winnipeg and Regina Boxers Leading in Dominion Championship Tests.

FINAL BILL TO-NIGHT.

(By Elmer Dulmage.)

WINNIPEG, Man., May 2 (By The Canadian Press).—Just the cream of Canada's amateur boxing and wrestling talent remained in the hunt for titles today after a gruelling night of ring combat that separated lesser components. Five hours of furious battling last night sufficed to eliminate aspirants in large enough numbers that Winnipeg Police Athletic Association officials believed six hours more action would decide the Dominion's pre-olympic year ring champions.

Unless a dwindled eastern delegation is able to sweep nearly every class in which it has entries, the west will take the lion's share of titles tonight. Winnipeg and Regina alone, stand to dominate the championships lists if the tide of battle favors contenders from this side of the Great Lakes Divide.

But at least three boxers from the east were given better-than-even chances of taking titles away with them and a fourth was expected to figure in the outstanding bout of the Saturday night program. Ross Galloway, St. Thomas, Ont., bantam, must win two bouts to take the honors in his class and observers figured he would accomplish the feat. Tony Mancilli of Montreal, loomed as a possible welter titlist and Pete Lightheart, of Hamilton, was favorite to capture the heavyweight crown.

Ray Adamson, hard-hitting featherweight from Timmins, Ont., and Arni Johannesson, of Winnipeg, were expected to win their semi-finals and meet in the final of their class. Fight fans predict it will be the tournament's feature contest. Both were easy winners last night.

Sammy McCart and Nill Weatherhead both of Winnipeg will meet in the flyweight final and Paul Frederickson, Winnipeg, and Edward Bent, Regina, for the lightweight. The light heavyweight class is an all-Saskatchewan affair, with Carl Katzberg of Yorkton, and Bob Hayes, of Regina, clashing in the final.

Dan Matheson, Regina Police sergeant, won the heavyweight wrestling championship last night. He had previously held the title for three years, retiring unbeated in 1925.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

Fighting Caravans.

With a splendid cast, an exciting theme that is like "The Covered Wagon" in its outlining, and with those two old favorites, Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall, as the comedians of the production, "Fighting Caravans" is a very interesting talkie.

The story is placed in the days of the civil war when the country west of the Mississippi was supplied by the fighting caravans that made the long trek over bad lands—before the days of railways.

Gary Cooper, as Clinton Bellman, is a scout, trained by those two old warlocks, Bill Jackson (Ernest Torrence) and Jim Bridger (Tully Marshall). Felice (Lily Damita) an orphan, joins the caravans with one of her own, before they leave Independence, and the two old pals play a practical joke on Felice and Clint that leads to a serious quarrel between the two, which continues at intervals all through the picture, until the happy ending.

There is plenty of dramatic and thrilling action in the production. They stop over at the trading post and there a wild orgy of drinking and gambling ensues. Later, on their journey, they are attacked by Indians and Clint sets fire to a load of kerosene to save the caravan from the attackers. The burning fluid spreads over the lake and forms one of the most spectacular episodes in a striking picture. The Indians are routed, but not before they have done a great deal of harm to the caravan.

It is a thrilling and exciting talkie, with plenty of vivid and memorable scenes. The fine cast and the nature of the story combine to make it very interesting. —Jeanette.

Jumbering Callendo K.O.'s Three Boxers

DETROIT, Mich., May 2 (CP). — They laughed when Anthony Callendo of Jersey City, N.J., lumbered into the ring at Olympia arena last night, no small part of his 225 pounds hanging in a roll of fat over his boxing trunks.

But one minute later, they were carrying Joe Brian, 195-pound Gary (Ind.) boxer from the ring and posting police guards at the dressing rooms — just in case the Gary boy shouldn't survive his four contacts with Gallendo's pile-driver fists. He did, and the fights went on.

That was the Jersey City man's introduction to the audience at Scotty Monteith's third beef trust boxing carnival.

In his second fight, Gallendo knocked out Frank Kitts, 196, of Cleveland, in the first round with two blows. He clinched his right to the evening's honors by winning an easy decision over Paul Phurman, 177, Detroit, who had a knockout and a decision to his credit. Phurman spent as much time on his back as he did on his feet in those last three rounds.

Observing the nineteenth anniversary of the day on which Captain Scott made his last diary entry before his death in the Antarctic, a party of London boys recently laid a wreath at the foot of the statue to the polar explorer.

Ottawa, Ont.—Bibber McCoy, 220 Cambridge, Mass., defeated Bob Ling, 205, Finland (two straight falls—28:09 and 9:55); Lee Wykoff, 210 St. Louis, threw Bob Wilkie, 200, Buffalo (one fall—21:10).

EARNSHAW OF 1930 RETURNS AND WORLD CHAMPIONS HOLD YANKEES TO 4-0 DECISION

Lowly Red Sox Spring Surprise By Pounding Senator Hurlers for 10-4 Win.

CARDS TAKE LEAD.

National League Tie Broke as Cardinals Defeat Chicago Cubs 6-2.

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

The famed right arm of George Earnshaw which came to the rescue of Connie Mack's Athletics last fall has not been performing so perfectly this spring for George—or at least it hadn't until yesterday.

Four times Connie Mack has given his right-handed ace the assignments and four times Earnshaw failed to win. But yesterday Earnshaw was the Earnshaw of 1930, who won 22 games for the world champions, as he turned the New York Yankees back with three singles and the Athletics won 4 to 0.

Jumping into battle after a five-day layoff due to rain and cold weather, the lowly Boston Red Sox poufed three Washington pitchers all over the lot to defeat the Senators 10 to 4.

Joe Judge, veteran Washington first baseman was forced to withdraw from the game in the sixth and was taken to a hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. His physician said he probably would be out of the game two weeks.

Vic Frasier had his right arm and batting eye working on "all four" as he pitched and batted the White Sox to an 8 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The Texas rookie held the Browns to nine well-spaced hits and in addition doubled with the bases loaded in the sixth.

Charlie Sullivan stepped out of his usual role as a relief hurler, starting and finishing a game as the Detroit Tigers turned the Cleveland Indians back 4 to 2. Charlie Gehringer, although not playing second because of a sore arm, got into his 597th consecutive game when he batted for McManus in the eighth.

Cards Take Lead

The battle for first place in the National League was settled, at least temporarily, when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 6 to 2. The victory gave the Cards undisputed possession of the top of the percentage column.

To most teams, a two-game winning streak is not much but to the Brooklyn Dodgers, it means they probably have hit their stride after a dismal start. Heavy hitting behind the steady pitching of Joe Shaute gave the Dodgers their second in a row over the Phillies. The score was 8 to 4.

Hughie Critz, Giants second baseman, swung a powerful bat in New York's 5 to 0 victory over the Boston Braves. He clubbed out four singles and a home run for a perfect day at bat while Bill Walker was keeping the Braves' seven hits well scattered.

A base on balls proved to be the downfall of the Cincinnati Reds as they lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates 5 to 4 in 11 innings. With the bases loaded Carroll lost control, passed Sankey and Paul Winer scored.

Sharkey-Carnera Bout Official Title Scrap

NEW YORK, May 2 (CP). — Jack Sharkey asked the commission, the commissioners agreed. And now the battle between Sharkey and Primo Carnera, to be held at Ebbets Field, June 10, weather and courts permitting, is officially designated as being for the heavyweight championship of the world.

When the New York State Athletic Commission sanctioned the Sharkey-Carnera scrap, the fistic fathers said they had not labeled it a title bout because no one had asked them to. Yesterday Sharkey appeared at their meeting and presented his argument.

The commission agreed and adopted a resolution recognizing the bout as for the title.

NO WAGE SLASH FOR C.N.R. STAFF

Hon. R. J. Manion Says No Present Reduction Contemplated.

LIKE CIVIL SERVICE.

OTTAWA, May 2.—(Special to The Examiner).—The Canadian National Railways is not contemplating at the present time a reduction of either wages, working hours or operating mileage. What may come as a result of continued depression is purely a matter for speculation.

Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, asked about the rumors of wage cuts, declared he knew of no such intentions.

On Parliament Hill it is felt that there is a radical difference between the position of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National systems. The latter is virtually a government enterprise and the same considerations apply with very little change as to actual civil service.

The C.N.R. has built up a complicated cooperative plan and any move in the direction of lower wages might have a very upsetting effect on the cordial relations between employees and directorate which have been the special pride of Sir Henry Thornton.

In any event no announcement is expected for several days. When it does come it will be issued at Montreal. A regular directors meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday and the matter is likely to be discussed informally at that time.

ARAB WOMEN RESENT CAMERA

reinforced by dozens of others and it looked as if I'd be torn to pieces before the day was out. One vanished with my handkerchief. Two fought over the slippers I had already bought and these disappeared. Someone grabbed my sun glasses and broke them. I spotted a taxi and tried to retire in good order pleased that I still had the camera.

After four blocks I got out, found the cab amazingly cheap and hoped they were always within call. I was still in the native quarter with its tiny smelly streets of solid stone. Its caravans of puny asses and gaunt camels. Its smells and its shops the size of packing cases. Mangy dogs passed up and down but they weren't half so mangy as most of the people. Along the road came two heavily veiled women with two veiled girls. Behind them was a camel caravan of about 12 animals prodded along by Nubians. There was a monkey on the back of the front camel.

The Second Scrap

Here was a real honest-to-gosh picture. One of those all-wool-but-the-buttons things of the east. I focussed the camera and was about to let fly when the forward woman screamed in protest. I still looked in the finder. From somewhere under her robe the woman produced a whip. A leaded stinging whip. She rushed at me and brought it down with a wallop across my forehead. The corner of the hide flipped into my eye and made the blood spurt. I thought for a moment I was blinded. The other woman came at me with a big stone. It got me on the left knee and I went down.

At once the bazaar was in an uproar. People must have thought I had given this woman the supreme insult that an Arab woman can get—that of tearing her veil away. They crowded around in an infernal chatter. The men, whom I feared, laughed uproariously. They thought this was the best fun in years. The woman with the whip went back at me. She reversed the whip cracking my head with the leaded end. Things were getting pretty black. I couldn't run because of the knee and the crowds. They started to throw things. Mostly soft things like potatoes and carrots. There seemed to be no help but I made no attempt whatever at fighting. That might have been fatal.

Then the legionnaire arrived. He was a young fellow with a black beard. He jumped right into the centre of things, helped me up and bawled these people out mightily. They grew angry. The men commenced to throw things now. What they were probably saying was "infidel dogs" or something like that. The smile had gone from these male faces by this time. Had it been night I might have written my last yarn. My eye was bleeding badly and I was more frightened than I've been in years. My only suit was torn at the collar where someone had jerked me. Flies were gathering on my head. Morocco flies can put a nasty infection into an open wound.

Didn't Dare Fight

The legionnaire was pretty frightened too. He was not armed but that didn't matter any way. We wouldn't have dared really fighting. He tried to give me instructions but I couldn't understand him. The crowd was still milling around. Still menacing. Still telling each other what horrible things had happened.

We brushed ourselves off, made a bold face of it and pushed through the crowd. I still held the camera. People jerked out greasy hands for us. A girl scratched the legionnaire deeply and he lost some buttons off his uniform. But he was a brave fellow. My hat goes off to him. The crowd followed. We found a big white bus. There was no driver but we climbed in and closed the door. My eyes was in a nasty way. I could not see a thing from it but the blood had quieted down to a slow ooze. My one and only suit was a sad mess but the tear at the collar was the only serious damage.

When the driver came we chartered the whole bus and went to the hospital. The crowd still yelled and screamed behind me. The hospital people were very decent and spoke English. They shaved my head so that I looked like a scarecrow and assured me the sight of the eye was in no way damaged. I had to stay in hospital one day during which the suit was fixed up. When you have just one it has to be guarded carefully. Well so much for legionnaires and Arab women. Next time some one else can take their pictures. What makes the fool thing worse is that since then I have had two women pose most graciously for me in any position I liked to photograph them. Just one of those things. The eye at this writing is still sightless.

to the fact that it is subsidiary to a private employment agency.

Disposed on benches in the main portion of the office were a motley collection of men, for the most part ill-clad and seedy looking. At a counter stood two men—one of whom was the aforementioned "right-hand man," a listless atmosphere brooded over all. He was small of stature, with a curt manner not entirely displeasing, but suggesting that he was well versed in the art of handling a tough class of men. "What do you want," he snapped.

"Is 'So and So' in?" naming the agent.

"What do you want with him"

"I wish to speak with him," was the somewhat lame reply, and then as inspiration dawned, "Are you 'So and So'?" A non-committal grunt from him and identification of myself placed the interview on a sounder basis.

"Come into the back office," he commanded. "You are late! What time did you get in?"

"Early this morning and I forgot that Montreal is on summer time," was the vague excuse. But it served, and incidentally hid the fact that a soft downy bed in one of Montreal's newest and largest hotels was a big contributory factor.

"Your passport," he demanded. A cursory glance, with the expression, "It's a new one," and he handed it back.

"You are to report here at eleven o'clock in the morning. If you have not any work clothes, you'd better get them. You'll have to work."

Rooms at 50 Cents

Then, in kindlier tones, he added a reminder that I should be required to accommodate myself for the next two nights. "There are rooms a few doors below at 50c a night."

Declining his offer with thanks and intent upon seeking accommodation in a more salubrious neighborhood, the thought presented itself as the office was left behind, "Were those idlers a portion of the luckless unemployed or are they to be 'Shipmates o' mine'?"

The answer was provided at eleven bells on Friday—thirteen of them are to be travelling companions. Not a bad bunch, either, after more minute inspection and personal contact.

We were all given a ticket bearing our own respective names, the name of the steamer, date of sailing, time and shed number. Rumor had it that we sail at noon tomorrow, after having seen our charges safely aboard —500 head of cattle, plus fourteen men to feed and water them. One optimist (or was he the reverse) with a broad Kentish accent, was of the opinion that as soon as we are done feeding this colony of steers it will be time to start all over again. He also volunteered the "pleasant" intelligence that the second officer had remarked, "You fellows will all go below to your duties as soon as we clear the harbor. You will not come up again, till we reach Manchester."

We shall see!

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 54 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The Swedes followed Kovudoo to a nearby hut. In the dim interior they saw the figure of a woman lying bound. "She must be a thousand years old, Kovudoo," said Malbihn and he turned away. "Wait," cried the savage, "it is dark in there. She IS young. I will have her brought forth." As Meriem came into the sunlight her beauty fairly took the breath away from the Swedes. With difficulty they suppressed their astonishment when they recognized her.

There could be no doubt; this girl was the same who had been stolen from the Sheik several years before. "Well," asked Kovudoo, "Is she not young and beautiful?" "She is not old," replied Malbihn, pretending no interest. "But even so she would be a burden to us." Meriem stood looking straight at the white men. She expected nothing from them. They were to her as much enemies as the blacks. She feared them all. Malbihn addressed her in Arabic.

"Would you like to have us take you away from here?" he questioned. Slowly and dimly, as from a great distance recollection of the once familiar tongue returned to her. "I should like to be free," she said, "and go back to Korak But not with you." Malbihn turned to Kovudoo. "She does not wish to go with us," he said. "You are men," returned the black. "Can you not take her by force?" Malbihn appeared to be turning the matter over in his mind.

Then he answered: "It would only add to our troubles. No, Kovudoo, we do not wish her; but if you want to get rid of her we will take her away." Now Kovudoo knew he had made a sale, so he commenced to bargain. In the end Meriem passed into possession of the two Swedes in exchange for six yards of calico, three empty brass cartridge shells, and a shiny, new jack-knife from New Jersey. And all but Meriem were more than pleased with the bargain.

Eastern U.S. Railways Divided On Wage Cut

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 2. (CP)—Although railway heads are divided as to the feasibilty of trying to reduce wages, "The Business Week" says to-day that it can be authoritatively stated that the four leading eastern lines are opposed to it.

"Sentiment for a reduction in the wages of railroad labor as a means of cutting the costs of harassed carriers" it asserts, however, "gains strength this week in banking circles and among owners of rail securities.

While "The Business Week" does not name the four leading eastern carriers opposed to such a move, Wall Street regards it as the four eastern leaders the four trunklines—New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and the Chesapeake and Ohio Lines.

CLANCEY-FITZGERALD.

A quiet, pretty wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock, Tuesday morning, at the church of the Sacred Heart, when Mae Fitzgerald, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzgerald, became the bride of Fergus Clancey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Clancey.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. O'Brien. The wedding music was played by Mr. J. Armstrong and Miss Minnie Allen sang very sweetly during the Nuptial Mass.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of orchid silk crepe de chene with hat, shoes and gloves to match and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

She was attended by Miss Alice O'Connor, who wore a becoming gown of peach georgette, a large black hat and satin shoes, and carried a bouquet of carnations.

William Clancey acted as best man.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the brides parents.

Later Mr. Clancey and his bride left by train for Toronto, Windsor and Detroit. On their return they will reside in Otonabee.

OBITUARY

After an illness of just one week, Mrs. Margaret J. Pilling passed away early this morning in St. Joseph's hospital. Her death wasd ue to complications which developed as effects of a rather simple accident in her son's home a week ago.

Mrs. Pilling was the widow of the late James Pilling. She was born in St. John's Newfoundland, seventy-seven years ago. The family lived for some time in Port Hope, prior to coming to Peterborough twenty-eight years ago. Her residence in this city won for Mrs. Pilling many friends and acquaintances who will retain kindly memories of her and of the members of her family to whom their sympathy is now extended. They are her daughter, Mrs. E. Roddy of Kingston, Ont., and five sons, Walter of Rochester, Edward, John Robert and Roy of Peterborough, also her sister, Mrs. M. Pethick of Toronto, and two brothers, J. A. Liddell of Buffalo and J. H. Liddell of this city.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the home of her son, Robert Pilling 222 Wolfe street. Service at the house will begin at 1.45 p.m., with Rev. G. J. Bousfield officating. The funeral will proceed by motors to Port Hope for interment in St. John's cemetery.

OPERA MARTHA COMING FRIDAY

Seventy Members Are in the Cast of Flotows' Opera.

IN OPERA HOUSE.

"Martha," the well-known romantic opera, with music by Friedrich von Flotow, will be presented in the Grand Opera House on the evening of Friday, May 8th, under the auspices of the choir and Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., will conduct, and Horace Hope will have charge of the stage management. Those who attended the production of "Maritana" under the same auspices, last season, will remember how tuneful was the music and how colorful the costuming of that opera, which was of the same type as "Martha," or "The Fair at Richmond," as it is called.

An eight-piece orchestra will play and there will be a cast of seventy people on the stage. Costumes will be brought from Toronto for the production and every detail of arrangement is being looked after to ensure a satisfactory and worthwhile presentation.

Leading singing roles will be taken by Mrs. Bruce Munro, soprano; Miss Jessie Pattison, contralto; George Coleman, George East and William Grieves.

BIBLE VERSUS "CHURCH."

The average preacher says God is a God of love, but many in next breath tell us that God punishes the guilty of crimes and errors of a short and troubled life with torture, which shall have no end. The portrayal of God by "churchianity" is of such a character that even to the vilest and most cruel of mankind cannot but be repulsive. Could any man, however cruel he might be, gaze forever with complacency on the horrors of hell-fire as depicted by the theologians? Is it any wonder that those who think for themselves are falling away from the influence of "churchianity?" On other hand let us not thoughtlessly blame the vast numbers of blind votaries of the "church" for holding allegiance to the same, seeing they vainly cling to the hope that through the ministry of the "church" they will escape the endless suffering of the "church" hell-fire; especially let us remember and consider that this horrid idea of the "church" hell was born in them, and from infancy up to manhood they have been fed and brought up on this awful God-defaming doctrine of endless torment, and are in the dark as to what the Bible hell really is.—M. T. Butcher.

In a report on the opening of the pickerel fishing season in yesterday's issue of The Examiner, the following statement appears: "These (the pickerel) may be sold, but only to licensed fish dealers." It has been since discovered, on looking over the latest Fish and Game laws, that no one can sell fish unless he himself has a license to do so. Therefore, the fish dealer must catch his own fish, and the fisherman must get a license for himself.

WALTON FANS AT HASTINGS

First Contingent of Summer Sportsmen Arrive With Opening of Pickerel Season.

The opening of the pickerel and trout fishing season has attracted an influx of sportsmen to Hastings. Four arrived yesterday, but they were simply the outriders of the main body who checked in this morning twenty strong, and another twenty are expected on Sunday. The information comes from George B. Stevenson, the big insurance man for the Manufacturers' Life Association in Hastings, who was in the city to-day.

Pickerel fishing is almost a major industry at Hastings from May until the cold weather sets in again in the fall. The bridge, dam and other points of vantage along that short stretch of the Trent have a piscatorial reputation that is more than local. Many of the summer visitors are from Ohio, and they keep coming every year, betimes spreading the fame of Hastings, because the fish are numerous and willing to take a chance at almost any kind of bait.

LINDSAY COLONY ESCAPES CRASH

Canadian Visitor to St. Petersburg Withdraws Large Sum Day Before Bank Closes.

WATER SUPPLY LOW.

LINDSAY, May 2. — (Examiner Correspondence.)— The members of Lindsay's winter colony at St. Petersburg are congratulating themselves on their escape from financial loss as a result of a bank crash in that city. One local resident withdrew a considerable sum just the day before the institution closed its doors. No word had been received or not a hint given of the bank's unhealthy condition.

The story is told by a local man to the effect that on the morning the bank closed its doors a woman had deposited the sum of $13,000 which she had secured on marriages. The teller had just finished entering the deposit in her book when the key was turned in the door.

Low Water Proves Worry.

The local Board of Water Commissioners is seriously concerned over the low water in the Scugog river, from whicl. the town secures its supply for fire and domestic purposes. The river is very low at present, and it is feared that should stagnation result, a positive menace to health would develop. It is understood that the Mayor as well as the secretary of the Water Board, will draft a letter to Supt. Killally ,of the Trent Canal at Peterborough, asking him to make every effort to conserve the water in the Scugog.

HAMILTON LADS ARE GIVEN TERMS UP TO TWO YEARS

Youths Faced Six Charges of Robbing Stores While Armed.

ALL FROM GOOD HOMES.

Magistrate Burbidge Raps Movies Depicting Criminal Heroes.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 4.—The career of crime entered upon by Richard Hawley, James Ward and Alfred Poley was brought to an abrupt conclusion by Magistrate Buridge in Police Court today when the three youths were convicted on several charges of robbery and sentenced to jail terms with lashes.

Ward, who is nineteen years of age, was given two years less a day definite and the same period indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory and 21 lashes. This sentence was imposed in each of the six charges involving robbery of stores while armed, and carrying concealed weapons, the terms to run concurrent, the lashes being administered but once. Poley, aged 18 and Hawley, aged 17, received eighteen months determinate and 2 years less one day indeterminate in the reformatory on each count to run concurrently. Poley will receive 21 lashes and Hawley 18 lashes.

Wrong Class Of Movies

"The sooner the authorities suppress the movies depicting criminal heroes the better, or we will have more of these cases," the Magistrate commented in passing sentence.

"You boys come from good homes and have had good training so you know better. Your counsel says you

GATINEAU TO AID POWER SHORTAGE

Local Factories Will Not Face Power Shortage Gaby Writes.

INFORMATION SOUGHT.

Reports that some Peterborough factories may be faced with a power shortage this summer due to low water levels in the northern reservoir lakes were contradicted to-day in a letter by F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

"But the contracts which the Commission has arranged with the Gatineau Power Company for additional supplies of power will obviate any possibility of a power shortage in this district," states Mr. Gaby's letter to City Clerk Armstrong, who requested information concerning the power situation in this district.

Mr. Gaby's letter follows in full.

"Referring to your communication of April 10th with which you enclosed clipping from The Mail and Empire in reference to the possibility of a power shortage in your district, this is to advise you that since that time a report has been made on the water conditions in the Central Ontario District, which report, however, is not complete, in view of the lack of information on storage conditions in back lakes. You will appreciate that in view of the existing conditions there is a possibility of insufficient storage on this drainage system to provide the necessary water for power loads as in recent years, but the contracts which the Commission has arranged with the Gatineau Power Company for additional supplies of power will obviate any possibility of a power shortage in this district."

BANDIT IS SHOT BY STOREKEEPER

Victim Sent to Hospital—Companion Captured Near Winnipeg After Chase.

PAIR CUT 'PHONE WIRES.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 4 (C.P.).—William La Ferriere, pioneer storekeeper of Silver Plains, 30 miles sotuh of Winnipeg, demonstrated his ability to use a shot gun when two youthful bandits attempted to rob his store Sunday morning.

The result was that Leo Trottier, 18, of Winnipeg, is in hospital here with a shotgun wound in his thigh, while the other, a juvenile, is held by police on a charge of robbery. Trottier's wound is not serious, and he will face a robbery charge when released from hospital.

Robbed two weeks ago, La Ferriere was prepared. He watched the youths cut telephone wires leading to the store and saw them draw revolvers and start firing, with the object apparently of frightening the aged man. The young bandits fired at a gasoline pump.

La Ferriere immediately started a return fire, Trottier falling to the ground, while his companion fled in an automobile. The juvenile was captured in the car near Winnipeg.

ANNUAL RENTAL IS BEING SOUGHT FOR ALL TOWERS

Farmers' Right of Way Association Hold Second Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Plans Are Outlined for the Settling of Easements With Hydro.

Compensation for property occupied by Hydro-Electric towers should be on the basis of an annual rental instead of the present lump sum settlement plan, the members of the Farmers' Right-of-Way Association declared in a resolution unanimously adopted at their meeting here Saturday afternoon. They also asserted the right to prevent the ocuupation of their lands by any agent of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario until satisfactory terms have been agreed upon.

This resolution was moved by Richard Succee and seconded by Frank Crowley, and it was adopted with expressions of determination to stand together in a new effort to unite against the predatory methods which, the farmers complain, have been employed against them in the past by representatives of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

One member reported that two Asphodel farmers had recently made a cash settlement for Hydro easements on their lands. It was understood that these property owners were satisfied with the indemnity which they had received from agents of the Hydro-Electric Commission, but on the other hand some suspicion was expressed that this might be an effective system of undermining the new association of farmers before its potential effectiveness could be brought into action by the extension of the organization which is now spreading eastward from Pickering township in Ontario County.

Officers Elected

The following officers were elected Saturday:—

Chairman—Reeve Fred McIntyre, Otonabee Township.

Vice-Chairman—G. A. Brethen, Asphodel Township.

Sec.-Treasurer.—E. M. Elliott

Most of the members of the executive committee which was appointed at the inceptive meeting several weeks ago were present. John Gawley of Madoc Township was added to the committee.

The resolution proposing annual payments to property holders instead of the present lump sum settlements was introduced by W. A. Anderson of Otonabee.

Criticism Muzzled

Mr. Anderson recalled that the Hydro-Electric Commission had been developed in Ontario as a public ownership enterprise, and because of this feature of it the public was discouraged from criticising its actions. This

Bees Become Drunk Make Peppy Honey

PLEA OF INSANITY IS MADE AT TRIAL OF BROCKENSHIRE

Case Adjourned Until May 6 to Allow Mental Examination By Crown.

JUDGE RANEY ON BENCH.

Whole Court Room Cleared After Great Throng Jams Limited Space.

TORONTO, Ont., May 4. (CP)—Following a plea of insanity entered by the defence counsel in the trial of John Brockenshire, of Windsor, jointly charged with Harry Clarkson for the murder of Police Constable Roy McQu'llin here last December, Mr. Justice Raney to-day adjourned the murder trial of the accused until May 6, to permit the Crown to proceed with a mental examination of Brockenshire.

Court Room Cleared

More than an hour and a half before the scheduled time of the trial hundreds of people thronged the corridors of the City Hall and tried to enter the court room where the Assize Court was sitting. Finally after many people had been ejected from the court room and the halls outside the court were filled with anxious spectators it was ruled the general public would be excluded from the trial and as a result the few hundred people who had gathered for the trial were ejected from the room by officers of the law.

On Trial Wednesday

Brockenshire and Clarkson will go on trial Wednesday charged with the murder of Police Constable Roy McQuillin last December. The officer was shot when the pair were about to be apprehended in a stolen automobile. Clarkson was arrested shortly after the shooting but Brockenshire was not captured until one of the biggest manhunts ever staged in the province was concluded. Before Brockenshire was taken into police tolls, in a field near Oakville, Ont., he was shot in the abdomen and later removed to a local hospital where he was confined to bed for nearly three months.

BANK ACCOUNTS WILL BE PROBED

Every City Gov't Department Head in New York Comes Under Seabury's Sweep.

RELATIVES INCLUDED.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4 (C.P.).—The New York Times says to-day that bank accounts of virtually every department head of the city government and possibly those of relatives will be examined under subpoena by Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Legislative Committee investigating the city government.

Mayor Walker's investigator of municipal conditions, his Commissioner of Accounts, James A. Higgins, was asked to be the first witness at Mr. Seabury's inauguration of private hearings to-day.

It is Mr. Seabury's intentions to hold private hearings before Senator Samuel F. Hofstadter, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee, and later to present facts, gleaned from these sessions in public hearings. Democratic leaders have said they will resist this procedure.

ARMAMENT LIMITATION SUGGESTED BY HOOVER TO REDUCE TAX BURDEN AND RELIEVE ECONOMIC DEPRESSION

Thousand Business Leaders From 35 Nations Gather in Washington.

Chamber Commerce Parley.

Ex-Premier of Belgium Blames Situation on Lack of Understanding Between Nations.

(By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 4. — President Hoover, speaking at the opening of the Sixth Conference of the International Chamber of Commerce to-day, told one thousand leaders of business in thirty-five nations that the present world economic depression was comparable in its depth and extent only to those which have followed about the same distance after the former great wars of modern history. The President suggested as a means of reducing the tax burden of the world, limitation of armament. He pointed out the world expenditure on arms is now nearly $5,000,000,000 yearly; that there are 5,500,000 men under arms and 20,000,00 more in reserves, vast forces greatly exceeding those of the pre-war period.

The President said "Reduction of this gigantic waste of competition in military establishments is, in the ultimate, of an importance transcendent over all other forms of economic effort."

Keynote Speech

The President's comment on the extent of the present depression and his remark, "It is needless for me to emphasize the high degree of economic interdependence of the world," found almost reiteration in the address of Georges Theunis, former Premier of Belgium and President of the International Chamber of Commerce, who made the keynote speech for the sixth conference of the chamber.

M. Theunis described the economic crisis as "of such depth and extent as the world has never seen before,' and he continued "the world is economically a single unit." He said lack of observance of the doctrine of understanding between nations "is largely responsible for our present misfortune."

Proceeding to a review of the general situation, M. Theunis expressed the conviction that the causes of the depression were of universal char-

New York Welcomes Royalty From Siam

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4 (C.P.).—Bugles blared an Imperial welcome and rifles glinted in the spring sun to-day as New York said "Glad to meet you" to King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai Barni of Siam.

The accompaniment of screaming sirens of motorcycle police, the Eastern Potentate and his Queen dashed from the Westchester estate of the late Mrs. Whitelaw Reid to the City Hall to receive the formal welcome that had been delayed pending their convenience.

The National Anthems of Siam and the United States rang out, and soldiers, sailors and marines saluted smartly as the Royal pair entered the City Hall.

Inside Mayor Walker made a speech of welcome, and the absolute Monarch responded, praising the "force and enterprise of American business" and the hospitality of the United States.

MOTHER'S DEATH IS BLAMED UPON ROCKLAND GIRL

Startling Action Follows Reopening of What Was Apparently Suicide Case.

WOMAN FOUND STABBED.

Blood-stained Clothing Dug Up in Back Yard Fit Lucia Goulet.

ROCKLAND, Ont., May 4 (C.P.)—Charged with murdering her mother, Mrs. Adelard Goulet, aged 54, on Friday morning last, Lucia Goulet, 17, was arrested at her home here to-day. This startling development followed re-opening of the investigation into circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Goulet, who was originally believed to have committed suicide.

The body of Mrs. Goulet was found in the kitchen of her home after the authorities had been summoned by Lucia. The latter declared that she made the discovery when she returned to the Goulet home in East Rockland after going on an errand for her mother. There were two deep wounds on the neck. A pair of large scissors were nearby.

Apparently a Suicide

All indications pointing to a clear case of suicide, the Coroner of the district decided it would not be necessary to hold an inquest but Mrs. F. Charbonneau of Hull, a married daughter of the dead woman, requested the police to conduct a full investigation of the case and to-day's arrest followed.

At a preliminary inquest held here on Sunday, medical examination revealed multiple wounds about the upper portion of the body. Blood-stained clothing was later found buried in the yard behind the Goulet

Three Brothers Die In Playhouse Blaze Mother Goes Blind

Three Small Boys Perish in Nook in Their Father's Barn in Tweed Where They Were Spending the Night, Just for a Lark, Bellowing of Cow Gave Alarm.

OLDER BOY MIGHT HAVE JUMPED TO SAFETY BUT HE RETURNED TO GET HIS BROTHERS

The Boys' Charred Bodies Were Found After the Fire With the Arm of the Oldest Around His Little Brother—Mother Was Visiting in Stirling.

TWEED, May 4.—(Examiner Correspondence). — "No, Dad, I'll get the others".

With these words, 14-year-old George Rashotte early yesterday morning refused to jump alone to safety and plunged back into a blazing barn to die with his two small brothers.

The brothers, William, aged eight; Benjamin, five, and George, were sleeping for a lark in their father's barn when fire broke out.

The building was found in flames by Felix Rashotte, their father, and his family at 4 o'clock yesterday morning when they were awakened by the bellowing of a cow.

The fire brigade was called and spared no effort in an attempt to quench the flames. They could not enter the blazing barn.

Charred Bodies Found

The boys' charred bodies were found after the fire, George's arm was around little Ben.

They were taken to Frosts Undertaking Parlors, where an inquest was opened before Dr. Mather, Coroner. With the preliminary evidence taken, the hearing was adjourned until Monday, May 11.

Three weeks ago the father, overborne by the coaxing of the three children, had given his consent to their sleeping in the barn. They had retired early on Saturday night.

Mrs. Rashotte at the time of the tragedy was visiting with her mother, Mrs. George Whitty, in Stirling, who a few weeks ago was bereaved by the death of her husband. When she returned home, she collapsed from the shock. Taken to the home of a neighbor, Ivan Corcoran, the ordeal proved so severe that she went blind temporarily, and is in a critical condition.

The father also was overcome by grief, but was able to relate some few facts concerning the triple tragedy. He said the children were sleeping in different parts of the barn, the younger two being near where the fire broke out.

"When I went to the window and saw George frantically calling for help I yelled for him to jump. "I'll catch you,' I called. He waved and I heard him say, 'No, dad, I'll get the others.'"

Tramp Believed in Barn.

Mr. Rashotte said that it was his belief that a "transient" or tramp had taken a night's lodging in the lean-to of the barn, in which the cow was quartered, and started the fire. He could think of no other explanation, since the boys had no matches with them, and there was nothing in the barn of a combustible

THREE FATALITIES NEAR MONTREAL

GIRL SWALLOWS POISON.

MONTREAL, Que., May 4 (C.P.).—One man was instantly killed, another threw himself into the waters of the St. Lawrence and was drowned, and the body of a third man was found floating in the Lachine Canal, while seven persons are in more or less serious conditions as the result of mishaps in the home and on the street over the week-end. Among these is a two-year-old girl who swallowed poison by mistake.

Struck by an east-bound street car while walking along the tramway line between Montreal West and Ville St. Pierre, Tomasso Pellengrino, aged 44, was killed instantly yesterday morning.

According to police, Pellengrrino was travelling home on a Lachine street car and got off at the wrong stop. He started to walk the rest of the way in a driving rain. His collar was up, and he evidently did not see the oncoming street car. His skull was crushed.

While three witnesses looked on, an unknown man of about forty years of age, suddenly leaped into the St. Lawrence River at the foot of Desery Street on Saturday afternoon. The passersby threw a life preserver into the water, but the victim apparently refused to save himself, and several seconds later, disappeared below the surface. Police were notified immediately, and a search for the body proved unsuccessful. A felt hat was removed from the water. It bore a trade mark "Pellati."

Reported missing by relatives a few days ago, Omer Jette, 41 years of age, of 200 Turgeon Street, a milkman, was found dead, floating in the Lachine Canal, at the foot of Charlevoix Street, at 12 40 o'clock yesterday morning.

Don't Even Allow Self-starters on Motor Buses—Doctors Are Out.

AND COUNTRY BOOMS.

(By Gordon A. Sinclair)

CASABLANCA, Morocco, May 4—(Copyright 1931)—Did you ever sit in a strange place surrounded by strange people who speak a strange tongue and feel that you were being stared at? A goofy feeling. Nerve testing, yet vacant.

It came to me to-day as I nursed a sore eye by loafing in one of the innumerable lively cafes which dot the Plaza de France in this half caste metropolis.

The plaza itself is something different from what you will see anywhere else on earth. A combination of Times Square, the Champs Elysees and a midway sideshow. Bands whoop, lights dart here and there, native drivers curse their donkeys in burning Arabic and Englishmen read the Times.

I was just marvelling on the poise of the average Englishman when this strange prickly feeling came. No matter what far corner of this earth you visit you will find the Englishman. The world's greatest traveller. He is the man you will see giving orders

Horse Runs Away Tot of 7 Killed

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4 (C.P.)—Seven-year-old Romeo LePage climbed aboard a bread wagon that stood outside his home on Water Street here to-day, took the reins in his little hands and drove away to his death. When the light wagon cut a corner too sharply, the horse took fright at the noise of the wheels striking the curb and ran away. At another street intersection the swaying wagon again struck the curb and the tot was thrown to the pavement and suffered a fractured skull.

Proceeding Slow In Federal House

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4 (C.P.)—Proceedings were slow in getting under way in the House of Commons this afternoon. For some minutes after the usual daily prayers, the Chamber in camera discussed how long the House should sit in view of the reception in the Senate at five o'clock for their Imperial Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Takamatsu. The reception will be followed by an official dinner to their Hightnesses to-night. Finally the House decided to adjourn for the day at 5 o'clock.

BANKER'S DEATH DURING BAD TIMES CAUSES GOV'T. TO LOSE FORTUNE

Inheritance Tax Shrinks As Market Value of Stocks Tumbles.

BAKER'S WEALTH UNKNOWN.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4 (C.P.)—Because George F. Baker died during hard times, the Federal Government and the States in which he owned property, stand to "lose" a fabulous fortune.

The amounts they will collect in inheritance taxes will be huge but nowhere near as large as though the "Sphynx of Wall Street" had died during the boom period of 1929.

Nobody knows, probably the dean of the nation's bankers did not even know himself, how large his fortune is or was. It is therefore impossible at this time to estimate the amount of the taxes his estate will pay.

Third Richest Man

Guesses as to the wealth of the "third richest man in the country" range from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000, and even higher. Since the market value of the stocks constituting a huge portion of this has shrunk, the amount of the inheritance tax will be correspondingly smaller. The Federal Government and New York State, in which Mr.

WIFE, YOUNG SON ARE BADLY HURT AS AUTO UPSETS

Wilfred Hamilton Fails to Regain Consciousness—Dies Sunday 5 O'clock.

GIRL 4 ESCAPES.

Tragedy, Which Occurred Near Cambray, is Ordered Probed.

LINDSAY, May 4.—A motor fatality took place Saturday night on the Cambray-Lindsay road about a half-mile east of Cambray School, when a car containing Wilfrid Hamilton, his wife, and two children, in passing another car, took to the ditch, turning over twice and causing fatal injuries to Hamilton.

FIRE IN QUEBEC RAZES BUILDINGS

Damage Will Exceed $300,000 When Building Houses Are Swept.

ALSO TWO HOMES.

QUEBEC, May 4—Causing damage estimated at more than $300,000, the most disastrous fire that has occurred in Quebec City for some years broke out Saturday afternoon in the centre of the leather industry district. Four business establishments were totally destroyed by the flames, together with two houses. Eight other houses were badly damaged by fire, while almost a score of neighboring dwellings received slight damage from smoke and water.

Major Disaster Feared

Fears were entertained that a widespread conflagration would break out in one of the most densely built industrial sections of the old city, but splendid work by a large squad of firemen brought the flames under control after a three-hour fight.

The business places destroyed were those of Edgar Clement tanner, where the fire originated; Raoul Richard & Company, manufacturer of lasts and shoe supplies; Francois Leclerc, biscuit manufacturer; and Joseph Paradis, baker, all situated on Arago Street.

Explosions in these establishments rapidly spread burning debris over near-by houses, making the work of the firefighters increasingly difficult. Two such houses, belonging to Joseph Paradis and Emeric Dorais, on Jerome Street, were razed. Damage at the Clement plant was estimated at $100,000; at Richard & Company, $110,000; at Leclerc's biscuit factory, $80,000, and at Paradis's bakery, $20,000. The homes destroyed were valued at $1,000 each.

Eighty Lose Jobs

Some 80 people were thrown out of employment by the blaze, which broke out in midafternoon, and was brought under control at 7.30 p.m. All Saturday night and Sunday firemen poured water on the ruins.

Poor water pressure at the outset hampered the firemen at their work. A large part of the fight was waged from the cliffs which tower over that section of the city, lines of hose being run to the edge of these cliffs and directed upon the flames from there. One fireman was overcome by smoke, but recovered following treatment.

Great German Plane Arrives In Bolama

BERLIN, May 4 (A.P.)—Captain Friedrich Christiansen, Commander of the seaplane DO-X sent word today that he had landed at Bolama, Portuguese West Africa, at three o'clock (10.00 a.m. E.S.T.) yesterday afternoon.

The message said the trip, which was one of the longest yet essayed by the Dornier plane, was without incident. She had flown to Bolama from Villa Cisneros, in Spanish Rio de Oro, a distance of about 950 miles. From Bolamo she hopes to begin the ocean leg of her long-deferred flight to Brazil.

Because waste boxes at beauty spots in Dorking, England, bear the sign "Post your litter here," several letters addressed and stamped for mailing were found in the receptacles.

Lads Break Into Pet Shop; Free Inmates; Police Play Animal Hunters in Dark

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 4.—A quartet of young nature lovers, not yet 15, let police in for an animal hunt which for excitement, if not for dangers, rivals any tale of doings in the jungle yet told.

It all started last night when the boys broke into a pet shop. They wanted to see if homing pigeons were a fake. They got their pigeons and were about to depart, when a kind impulse prompted them to open every cage, jar, kennel and box.

They did and bedlam broke loose. The place was rent with an ear-splitting cacophony of shrieks, chirpings, meows, gibberings, helps, etc.

Soon police were on the scene. Bravely they entered the miniature jungle—now a shrieking darkness.

A cat was in the goldfish bowl. Mice were trying to scurry back to their safe cages. A monkey grabbed a policeman's hat. A parrot gave another cop directions about his future life, while a brother polly more appropriately announced "it's a stormy night."

Finally the cops got the chaos in hand and started searching for the liberators. Their hunt ended a short distance away when the boys were found thoughtfully providing for their stolen pets by breaking into a peanut stand. They went to the House of Detention, homing pigeons, peanuts, et all.

SCARBORO POLICE CAPTURE YOUTHS

Lindsay Girl and Her Boy Companion Wanted in Oshawa For Robbery.

CAR ALSO RECOVERED

SCARBORO', May 4.—After a thrilling chase during the early hours of Sunday morning, Albert Daynard, aged 20 of Haig Street, Oshawa, and his companion, Dorothy LeBleau, aged 18, of St. Lawrence Street, Lindsay, were captured by Seargeant Tom Draycott of the Scarboro' police. They are wanted in Oshawa on a robbery charge.

About 1 a.m. word was received from the Oshawa police with the number and description of the car in which the two were believed to be heading for Toronto, and an hour later it was sighted by Constable Whitney on the Provincial Highway, near Oak Ridge, but the driver ignored an order to stop and sped westward.

Some time after, Sergeant Draycott noticed a taxicab pull to the curb at Victoria Park Avenue, and on questioning the driver, elicited the information that he was on the way to the Scarboro' filtration plant to pick up a fare. Puzzled by such a call in such hours, the officer jumped into the taxicab and, on arriving at the plant found the man and woman hiding, having apparently abandoned their car, and seeking to make their escape to Toronto in the taxicab.

The car was later recovered on Pharmacy Avenue, not far from where the pair were hiding, and two hammers were found on the rear seat. Both Daynard and his companion were lodged at the Scarboro' jail until officers arrived to escort the pair back to Oshawa.

HOWARD KENNEDY TAKEN BY DEATH

Freat War Hero Gave Blood Transfusions Which Saved Over 200 Lives.

HAD MANY MEDALS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 4.—The Blood of Howard N. Kennedy, which he shared in transfusions to save more than 200 lives, never will be used in another operation.

The 47-year-old Great War hero and President of the Free Blood Doners' Association of America, dropped dead of a heart attack at his home here yesterday.

Estimates made by friends from records they had kept, show, it is believed, that he gave his blood to more persons in transfusions than any other known man. And he gave it free.

Kennedy, who numbered among his decorations a Congressional Medal, Croix de Guerre, and a Carnegie Hero award, was talking to his wife when he was stricken.

In 1926 when former President Coolidge's father was dying in Vermont, Kennedy went there by airplane to offer his blood. He underwent several transfusion operations in front line dressing stations during the war and is credited with saving the lives of 18 soldiers.

Ultimatum Laid Down For Alphonse Capone

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.—(A.P.) — Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney John Swanson, laid down what he claimed to be his Alphonse Capone ultimatum to-day.

Simply stated: When Capone walks into his office, it'll be in custody of the law.

Roche rejected all of Capone's offers of surrender yesterday.

When the last offer, reported made through the gangster's attorneys, that he would surrender providing he was not to be locked up after questioning in connection with the supposed torch murder of "Mike De Pike" Heitler, Roche answered:

"We'll get him anyway, and when we do, we'll keep him behind bars as long as the courts will let us."

Roche, who said he was convinced Heitler was killed because he informed the State's Attorney of the West Side gang activities.

Services will be from the Baker home in Tuxedo Park, N.Y., at noon, with the Rev. Dr. Minot Simons, Rector of All Souls' Unitarian Church, officiating. Mr. Baker will be buried beside his wife in Kensico Cemetery.

Thousands of messages of condolence have come. Among the senders are President Hoover, Calvin Coolidge, leaders of finance, industry and business.

By Mr. Baker's wishes, there will be no honorary pall-bearers, there will be no ostentatious obsequies, and the First National Bank of New York which he guided, will remain open. The Union League Club will send a delegation headed by Elihu Root. George F. Baker wanted to be buried quietly as he lived 91 years.

Other than the natural promotion which must come to one of the present leaders in the First National Bank, the Financial World indicated there would be no uncertainty in Wall Street. The institution Mr. Baker founded will continue with policy unchanged.

THREE AIR MAILS TO BE CANCELLED

Motives of Economy Cause of Federal Department Cutting Services.

ENDED YEAR WITH DEFICIT.

OTTAWA, May 5 (C.P.)—Cancellation of three air mail services will take place on June 1, it was learned from Postoffice official last night. The services are Montreal-Saint John-Moncton, Montreal-Ottawa, Toronto-Buffalo.

Motives of economy were stated to be the cause of the reduction of services. All three services have been regarded as more or less experimental, and the volume of mail carried has not been large. The Montreal-to-Ottawa flights were carried out about one a week. The other two were daily, but proved too costly to be maintained in the face of low revenues.

For some time it has been predicted that air mail services would be curtailed. The Postoffice Department ended the fiscal year with a deficit in the neighborhood of $6,000,000, and the situation has been carefully canvassed in the hope of reducing expenses. As far as could be learned, no further cancellations of air services are in contemplation. The remaining routes are the lines from Rimouski, Que., in the East, to Lethbridge in the West, with several junction points making contact with air mail services in the United States.

Nearly 240,000 miles of roads have been opened in Asia in the last five years.

Contracts Let for Gigantic Seadrome

The mid-ocean man-made island was dreamed of when man first started to fly over the Atlantic Ocean is now to be a reality. According to reports contracts for the construction of the seadrome have been let and its financial backing is most impressive. For the present, only one seadrome will be built, but the plans call for eight, eventually, strung across the ocean with hotels, storage rooms, fuel tanks, and other facilities which will enable a trans-oceanic air service to operate regularly. The above picture shows an Armstrong Synthetic Island as it looks in the plans

C.P.R. SOLICITOR DIES SUDDENLY

Angus MacMurchy Passes Away While on Train Returning From Overseas.

UNIVERSITY GOVERNOR.

TORONTO, May 4. — Angus MacMurchy, K.C., solicitor for the Ontario Division of the Canadian Pacific Railway, vice-president of the Penny Bank of Toronto, a member of the Board of Governors of the University of Toronto, past president of the Alumni Federation, and a leading figure in every good cause, died suddenly about 2.30 o'clock on Sunday morning while a passenger on the Canadian Pacific Railway's 11.59 train from Montreal.

With Mrs. MacMurchy he was returning from a six weeks trip to Britain and the Continent, visiting Florence ,Rome, London, Edinburgh, and Glasgow. Early in his trip he complained of feeling tired, but a physician whom he consulted advised him there was no cause for alarm. During the last three weeks Mr. MacMurchy was in splendid health, and greatly enjoyed the trip. Mr. and Mrs. MacMurchy landed from the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Bedford in Montreal on Saturday night, and arranged for the journey by train to Toronto.

Car Plunges In Ditch Four Occupants Hurt

WINNIPEG, Man., May 4 (C.P.).—Four automobilists are in hospital here, two of them not expected to live, following a mishap on the Portage Highway, 20 miles west of Winnipeg, Sunday.

W. W. Peters, 35, driver of the car and a resident of Winkler, Man., and J. Anderson, 30, of Winnipeg, both suffered fractured skulls and hospital authorities hold out little hope for their recovery. Anderson's spine is also fractured.

Mrs. Anderson and her sister, Mary Howley, required hospital treatment for cuts and bruises, while another sister, Miss Louise Howley, escaped with minor injuries.

Travelling at high speed, the car was wrecked when it swerved, struck a culvert, somersaulted several times, and landed in a ditch.

Bush Fires Threaten Lake Winnipeg Camp

WINNIPEG, Man., May 4 (C.P.)—Extensive bush fires threatened destruction of Matlock, picturesque Lake Winnipeg summer resort, 40 miles north of here, Sunday.

Swept by a high wind, the fire advanced toward the town with great rapidity and was within a quarter of a mile of the summer dwellings when brought under control. From another section came a new threat. Flames again headed for the resort and residents were preparing to leave when more than a score of fire fighters brought this fire in check.

A cottage and two stables on the edge of the town, set afire by sparks from the blazing bush, were destroyed.

Many new hotels are being erected in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Large Pickerel Caught Trent River Fisherman

TRENT RIVER, May 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — James Cook was successful for fishing for the first time this season on Friday night in landing a fine pickerel, measuring 30 inches in length, the girth 15½ inches. Mr. Cook used a minnow for bait and caught the fish at the big pier; there were several others fishing at the same place, among them was John Garneau, who was also successful in landing two pickerel but not large ones.

Want Diocese Limits Of Ontario Extended

KINGSTON, May 4.—Some of the leading Anglicans of the old Diocese of Ontario, the first to be established in Upper Canada, expect that if the limits of the Diocese of Toronto are reduced to the City of Toronto and York County, and a suffragan is appointed for Peterborough, the limits of Ontario Diocese will be extended westward from Trenton, perhaps to include Cobourg and Port Hope. Ontario Diocese is now small as compared with Ottawa and Toronto.

BLAST SHATTERS HUGE VAPORIZER WORKER KILLED

Assistant Watchman at McColl-Frontenac Company Seriously Injured.

FIRE FOLLOWS EXPLOSION.

Several Thousand Dollars Damage Done Before Blaze is Controlled.

TORONTO, Ont., May 4 (C.P.).—A terrific explosion which occurred in a vaporizer at the local plant of the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company early this morning snuffed out the life of Ted Armstrong, 27, Toronto, recently of Niagara Falls, and caused serious injuries to William Scott.

The vaporizer, somewhat like a huge still in appearance, had not been in use for some time as it was undergoing repairs. Last night it was put in operation, and Scott and Armstrong were assigned the job of attending it. A few moments prior to the explosion the men were discussing some work to be done, and by a peculiar twist of fate Armstrong elected to work 25 feet above the ground. He chose the side of the vaporizer which suffered the full force of the blast. He was hurled nearly 30 feet, and his body horribly mangled.

Hurled to the Ground.

Scott, working on the opposite side, was hurled to the ground, and besides suffering from shock was painfully burned by the blazing oil. After receiving medical attention he was able to discuss the accident, and was then removed to a hospital.

Fire which followed the explosion proved spectacular, but of short duration. Flames leaped 50 and 60 feet in the air. A fire hall is located nearby, however, and firemen quickly extinguished the blaze. Damage amounted to several thousands of dollars.

MILLBROOK C.G.I.T. HEARS BRIEF TALK ON W. HERRIDGE

Members Hold Regular Meeting at Home of Leader, Miss Marian O'Brian.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

MILLBROOK, May 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls-in-Training met at the leader's home on Thursday evening for its regular meeting, twelve members being present, a somewhat smaller number than usual owing to the change of date for the gathering due to unavoidable circumstances.

The president, Miss Marian O'Brian was in the chair and the musical number for the program was provided by Misses Mary Burnham and Bryar Edmunds, whose piano duet, "At the Races" was much enjoyed. Miss Madeline McDowell gave the current event, choosing a brief sketch of the life of Canada's new representative at Washington, Major W. Herridge.

A review of some of the material given at the First Aid lecture was in charge of Misses Phyllis Kidd, Mary Burnham, Marian O'Brian, Madeline McDowell and the leader. Those responsible for this review at the next meeting are Misses Gertrude Richards, Eleanor Ferren, Bonna Clarke, Dorothy McDowell, Margaret McCarthy and Bryar Edmunds.

A practice of the new group 'yell,' featured the latter part of the meeting, and all members were given copies with the obligation to memorize the lines as speedily as possible. Miss Elma Davis was the one appointed to provide the current event at the next meeting.

The devotional period was particularly helpful, a "Service of Worship and Praise," of which each member had a copy, and which contained appropriate consecration hymns, responsive readings, and prayers in unison, being used. The C.G.I.T. closing prayer brought the meeting to a close.

Music, and toasting marshmallows were features of the social hour at the close. Next week's meeting will be the seventh in the First Aid course, which it is expected will be completed by the end of May as at that time the group closes its meetings for the summer months.

A special request has been made that none of the girls who have been taking the lessons in First Aid will miss any of the course from now until the closing date in the series.

DR. W. P. ALEXANDER

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, May 4.—The news of the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. W. P. J. Alexander of Bloomfield, (formerly of Madoc) received in Madoc on Friday caused much sorrow among the large number of lifelong friends and acquaintance in the village.

Dr. Alexander suddenly passed away while attending a patient at the Outlet, Prince Edward County early on Friday morning, from an attack of angina pectoris. He was stricken in the home and passed away before medical aid could be summoned.

Dr. Alexander was born in Peterborough County, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander, and was 52 years of age. He obtained his education in the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute of Peterborough, and Toronto University, graduating in Medicine and Pharmacy. He entered practice in Bancroft, then moved to Madoc, from thence to Bloomfied.

The late Dr. Alexander was married in early manhood to Blanche V. O'Hara, who survives him. He was a member of the Masonic Order and of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, and was a member of the United Church.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, May 3rd, from his former resident in Bloomfield, where a service was held to Trinity United Church, Madoc, which was filled to capacity of mourning friends and old neighbours who were gathered to pay their last respects to the departed.

Both Orders joined in the funeral services. The funeral cortege arrived at the United Church about three o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. G. W. Rivers of Madoc and Rev. Mr. Redding of Bloomfield took charge of the services. The flowers were simply massed, and were very beautiful. The hymns sung were special favorites of the deceased, "Breathe On Me, Breath of God," and "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord Is Ended." During the service, Mrs. Hulin sang, very impressively, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Rev. G. W. Rivers, of Madoc, took charge of the opening service of prayer and hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Redding gave a very earnest message of consolation and sympathy to the mourners and all present, choosing as his text, "I have redeemed thee; I have called thee by thy name, thou art mine; When thou passeth through the waters, I will be with thee. Isaiah 43:1 and part of 2. Speaking of the many genial and courteous qualities of the deceased, he dwelt on the splendid work done for the Church and the community, and the bitterness of the sudden call, concluding with the well-known verse "Fear not — I am with thee; be not dismayed, For I am thy God, I will still give thee aid; For I will be with thee, thy trials to bless and sanctify to thee thy deepest distress."

Rev. G. W. Rivers also spoke a few words of sincere appreciation and of sympathy to those called to mourn. The interment was made at Lakeview Cemetery in the family plot of the O'Hara's, and there the final service was under the fraternal auspices of the brethren of I.O.O.F. where their beautiful ritual was in charge of Bros. J. B. Hough and Wm. McBain.

ANNUAL RENTAL

compliant attitude had been stimulated by the Toronto newspapers especially, and as a result, Mr. Anderson said, it came about that the farmers had accepted inadequate settlements for the use of their lands to be occupied by the Hydro towers. Criticism had been silenced, and the farmers were the victims.

"I came to the conclusion some time ago that the principle of paying the farmers was wrong. In the first place the Commission never of paying farmers what they regarded as full compensation for damages and depreciation to their lands, and in the second place the payments should be on an annual basis instead of a lump sum settlement."

Mr. Anderson recalled that three years ago Hon. Mr. Sinclair broke away from the public policy of silence towards the actions of the Hydro and condemned the payments which were being made to farmers. In the next session of the Legislature, the Hon. Mr. Cooke promised to make a readjustment of the prices paid to farmers on the first line erected. Where twenty-five dollars a tower had been paid in the first place, Mr. Cook promised that they would be raised to $40. Now a new scale of settlements has been brought in, but Mr. Anderson contended that even this was not sufficient compensation for the farmers, and that the most equitable plan was that of yearly payments.

"The Hydro system was formed to supply power at cost," Mr. Anderson said. "In that most your easements should be included. If you are not receiving full compensation then Hydro power is not supplied at cost, for part of that cost is taken unfairly out of the farmers. There should be no reason for townships considering the possibility of reduced assessments if the farmers are given the just treatments they have been promised."

Mr. Andersons' motion, seconded by Frank Crowley was to the effect that the association go on record as desiring to have a yearly sum paid by the Hydro for the erection of each tower on farmers' lands and also that this be made retroactive, and also that payments for the telephone lines be made on the same basis.

Another resolution by Mr. Brethen, seconded by Reeve McIntosh of North Monaghan, instructed the secretary to write to the Commission for the name of the valuator in this district and also for information regarding his duties.

Reeve McIntyre presided as chairman of the meeting.

Canvass Property Owners

The local association is to make a canvass of all property owners in this district who are affected by the Hydro power lines, according to a resolution by Mr. Brethen, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Hulton of Otonabee; and the local committee was made responsible for the arrangements for this enlistment, with power to add to their own number if necessary.

A resolution by Fred Eason of Otonabee, seconded by Leonard Clancy of Otonabee, requests that the Hydro telephone poles be erected along concession boundaries or fence lines, instead of crossing the open fields; and also that the Commission be asked to remove to the concession lines the telephone poles that have already been erected.

A motion by Morley E. Smithson of Otonabee, seconded by Deputy-Reeve W. G. Waterman of North Monaghan, proposed that a small committee be appointed to co-operate with representatives of the Ontario County Right-of-Way Association for the purpose of extending this association through all the counties in Eastern Ontario which are traversed by the present and projected Hydro lines.

The motion was adopted. Mr. Smithson said that apparently the construction of the power lines to Toronto would be in progress for the next five or ten years. The usefulness of the Right-of-Way Association was not simply an activity of the present year, and it needed the co-operation of all the other communities in the eastern part of the province that are in the path of the Hydro power lines.

Mr. Chapman's Letter

A letter from F. M. Chapman of the Ontario County association, which Mr. Elliott read, offered the following suggestions to farmers in regard to their procedure in entering into new agreements with the Hydro-Electric Commission:—

"Find out where the towers are going to be placed, then figure out for yourself the extent of the damage to your land, to the fences and to the overhang and to the frontage obstruction if any, so as to arrive at a reasonable figure that you are willing to take to cover your losses.

"Then ask the Hydro to estimate your losses and to make you an offer. Do not first tell them what you want. Have the several items in your mind, and ask for a liberal allowance to cover each item.

"Then, if you can come to a fair settlement in your case, so much the better.

If they will not approach you with a reasonable offer, defer settlement. Write me (E. M. Elliott), telling what you are asking and what their offer was. In all cases keep me posted, but insist that all work on your property be halted until a settlement is reached.

If you are reasonable, they ought to meet you, and if they do not I would not allow them to go on and make any changes on your property until they were more reasonable.

If your price is too high, there is the appeal to the valuator, but I think I would not call him in until you had exhausted all attempts to settle between yourselves.

Hon. Mr. Cooke says he wants to be fair to all farmers, but if you know what your losses are; no one is in a better position to say what those actual losses are than yourself. Be fair, therefore, and try to settle for actual losses. If trees are cut, trees have an actual value as growing timber, as farmstead beautifiers, and as spring protectors of water supply.

The main thing is to be sure that you know your losses; and that adequate compensation is given to cover these annual losses to your farmstead.

In the case of timber land, to be cleared, it must be understood that this land becomes non-revenue producing if the timber is removed, in most cases. The payments therefor should allow for this annual loss of a timber crop, or, for a complete clearing of the land for cropping purposes.

Shelter belts and open spaces through timber lands should receive extra consideration by reason of the possible destruction by winds."

Regarding Appeals

Mr. Chapman's letter also included the following information: "Mr. Breuls of the legal staff of the Hydro-Electric Commission prepared a summary of the new appeal amendments including the following: If after a reasonable effort no peaceful settlement by negotiations between the claimant and the Commission can be reached, instead of an arbitration, expensive to both parties, under the old procedure, there will now be called in a valuator who will be appointed by the government from time to time.

An appeal from the valuator will lie to a judge of the Supreme Court or a judge of a County or District Court, to be appointed by the Government, or it may be referred to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board for a hearing. We desire very much and ask for a fair trial and working of the new amendments."

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, May 4. — Indications that export interests had taken a big quantity of wheat off the hands of Farm Board auxiliaries turned the wheat market strongly upward on Saturday. The total was said to be 13,000,000 bushels, and the price 61 cents, free on board vessels.

Wheat closed buoyant at the day's top level, unchanged to 1 5-8 cents higher, a jump of 3 cents from earlier bottom figures. Corn finishead at 1-8c to 1-4c decline to 3-8c advance; oats unchanged to 1-4c down, and provisions unchanged to 17c setback.

Sale Is Confirmed.

An official statement confirmed that the whole of the Grain Stabilization Corporations' Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico stocks of hard winter wheat had been sold, and that the unsold part of the corporaton's recent 35,000,000 bushel offering for export shipment consisted now of durum and Pacific Coast wheat exclusively. News that an immediate large outlet been obtaned came as a surprise to for Government financed wheat had the majority of traders, and soon brought about a complete reversal of the market trend.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, May 4.—Prices of butter, cheese and eggs declined on the produce and dairy market here last week, while potato quotations were unchanged. On Saturday all prices held unchanged.

No. 1 finest pasteurized, fresh and regraded butter was quoted at 22¼c to 22½c a pound and to retailers solids were 24c and prints 25c a pound. Receipts last week were 7,456 boxes.

On the egg market carlot prices of fresh Ontario and Prairie extras were quoted at 20c, firsts at 18c and seconds at 16c a dozen. To retailers prices of fresh firsts and seconds, in cartons, will be 1c lower on Monday at 22c and 19c a dozen, respectively. Fresh specials and extras will be unchanged at 27c and 25c a dozen. Receipts last week were 22,113 cases.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were quoted at 80c per 80-pound bag, or 90 pounds bulk and to retailers 90c per 80-pound bag.

WINNIPEG WHEAT.

WINNIPEG, May 4. — Wheat futures traders paid heed to reports of continued dry weather in the Canadian wheatlands on Saturday, and speculators went to the buying side of the Winnipeg market, supplying the incentive for a rise of more than a cent. Unconfirmed reports that the United States Farm Board had disposed of the greater part of its 35,000,000 bushels of wheat, earmarked for export, was another encouraging factor.

After an easy start, declines being fractional in all months, wheat moved steadily upward. It showed net gains of 1¼c to 1½c a bushel at the close. Some short covering in view of Monday's market holiday assisted in the advance.

The May future closed at 62c, its 1¼c to 1½c at 63¾c to 63½c, and net gain being 1¾c. July was up October advanced 1¼c to 65¾c to 65½c.

Cash wheat trade was fairly brisk, spreads remaining unchanged. The coarse grains futures moved higher.

The market will be closed to-day (Arbor Day).

WASHINGTON IS GOAL.

TOKYO, May 4. (AP)—With the White House at Washington his ultimate destination, Seiji Yoshiwara, Japanese flyer was at Numasaki, 368 miles north of Tokyo today, the first stop of a 6 268 mile flight to the United States.

He landed there at 3:25 p.m., today (1.25 a.m., E.S.T.)

His route lies along the Kurile Islands, extending north-eastward from Japan, and the Aleutians to Alaska, thence down the North American coast to San Francisco. He planned to make about twenty stops for fuel and supplies enroute to San Francisco.

If successful, the 27-year-old flier will deliver to President Hoover messages of goodwill from Premier Wakatsuki, Minister of Communications Kotzumi Seiji Noma, Japanese Magazine King and principal backer of the flight and Mayor Nagata of Tokyo.

Yoshowara began his flight from Tokyo amid the cheers of tens of thousands.

After the formalities and speeches were concluded, Yoshiwara took a sip of sacred sake, a rice wine, from Meiji shrine handed him by a Shinto priest. A band played the national anthem "Kimigayo" and he took off.

DR. MACKINNON GUEST SPEAKER AT ST. ANDREW'S

Ninety-eighth Anniversary Held by Peterborough's Oldest United Church.

CHRIST IS ON THRONE.

"The cultivation of the inner life may be accomplished by a wise passiveness, by giving more thought to religion, and by paying more attention to devotional reading" declared Rev. Murdoch Mackinnon, D.D., of Runnymede United Church yesterday morning, on the occasion of the 98th anniversary of the church's founding.

The preacher chose his text from Ephesians 3:14—"For this cause I bow my knees unto the father of our Lord Jesus Christ, of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named that he would grant you, according to the riches of His glory, to be strengthened with might by His spirit in the inner man."

"We are called upon to build up the Kingdom of God in the world" said Dr. Mackinnon. "It is indeed a formidable task, but we are not asked to do it in our own strength. There is a great call to-day for men and women who have the power to both undertake and accomplish".

"The Church is His, and His holy spirit gives it continuity and power. Christ is still on the throne of the universe, and it is on account of the grace and glory of God that the Apostle writes the words of my text. This glory is available in the inner man, where in response to prayers he comes into communion with us."

"The sources of His glory may be made the more available to us in three ways. We may adopt a wise passiveness. The best workers are those who are not active all the time, but who take time occasionally to gain inspiration for their work by communion with God. Just as Baldwin brought a deeply appreciated tranquility to Great Britain after the strenuous years of the War, so there is a similar need for tranquility in the arduous round of modern life. This period of rest is particularly needed in the home to make more unity in the family and to keep up its moral standards. The same is true of the church: its religious character must be kept up. We are in danger of forgetting the words, "Be still, and know that I am God", and the words of Christ, 'Peace I bring unto you." In this connection we must to-day realize the problems which are upon us, and at the same time we must admit of the need of the Spirit of God."

"Another manner in which glory may be made available to the inner man is through giving a little more thought to religion. 'To think is also to worship' said the great philosopher Hegel. There is enough in the New Testament to challenge the minds of the greatest of us to thought. Religion has nothing to fear from thought or reverent inquiry."

"And finally the inner man may be strengthened by attention to devotional reading. During my travels I have noted a great poverty of religious books in the home. There were never so many books as are being published at present, and we should plan to add a few books to our library every year. The Bible remains the most important book as it has all through the ages. The suggestion for more devotional reading is in the interest of the church.

"May the power of God come to us, that he would grant us according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by His spirit in the inner man."

Much credit in the success of the service is due to the choir which has been reorganized in the past few months under the able leadership of Thomas Phillips, organist and choirmaster. The service was commenced with the organ prelude, "Berceuse" by Steane. The anthem "Lord, I Loved the Habitation of Thy Dwelling" by Torrance, was sung by the full choir. The offertory voluntary was "Cantilena" Lyon. After the address, Miss Betty Thompson Mackenzie, contralto of Ye Olde Time Village Quartette of Toronto, sang "My God, my Father, while I Stray" and "Midst your Hearts."

BELMONT COUNCIL CUTS EXPENDITURE

Extra Outlay on Tax Collection to be Felt on Road Program.

HAVELOCK, May 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—The regular meeting of Belmon and Methuen Township Council was held at the Armstrong House on Saturday afternoon when all the members were present. Reeve Breckenridge occupied the chair.

Tax Collector Anderson reported $10,899 still outstanding in taxes, as follows: Arrears for 1928, $67; arrears for 1929, $1,812; arrears for 1930, $9 000. It was thought that some of the properties in arrears would have to be confiscated, as there is too much of the township funds tied up in outstanding taxes. On account of the expense of the extra election, the road expenditures will have to be curtailed to some extent for the current year. The need for strict economy was the keynote of the meeting.

On motion by Councillor Steenburg, the report of school attendance officer, Mrs. Freeman, was received and adopted as read.

Moved by Councillors Vansickle and Whitney, that the Township Treasurer issue all cheques in connection with road expenditures, for 1931. Carried.

Moved by Councillors Vansickle and Whitney, that the following accounts be passed and orders drawn on the treasury for the same:—

Mrs. Jason Roe, for cleaning township hall three times, $9; Joseph Seabrooke, payment for two sheep killed by dogs, $18; Ross Barrons, payment for supplies to Anderson family, $28.95; payment of voucher No. 3 to the amount of $290.82 was passed, and cheques ordered issued to the following persons for the amounts as follows: Robert Marshall, $52; Charles Chard, $30; R. B. Newton, $60; James Kennedy, $37.50; Wellyn Dafoe, $24; George Outwater, $17.50; Wilt. Ellis, $11.25; Fred Ellis, $5; Carmen Steenburg, $14; Harry Sexsmith, repairs, $1.25; R. F. Covert, gas and oils, $24.30; Charles Chard, for freight, 63c; Cecil Wilson, repairs, $5.25; Ross Barrons, gasoline and oil, $7.94; total accounts, $346.77; previously voted, $708.27. Total $1,055.04.

Moved by Councillors Vansickle and Anderson, that the council adjourn, to meet in the Court of Revision on May 30, or at the call of the reeve. Carried.

PEOPLE'S PARTY OPPOSES CHIANG

Leaders Decide Kwangtung Will Not Participate in Congress at Nanking.

CENSORSHIP SET UP.

HONG KONG, May 4 (A.P.)—Canton dispatches indicated to-day members of the Kuomintang (People's Party) in Kwangtung Province were agitating intensively against Chiang Kai-Shek, President of the Nationalist Government. However, it appeared likely the ultimate results of the movement would remain obscure.

At a mass meeting of the Provincial Party Sunday resolutions were adopted looking toward furthering the charges against President Chiang, leader of the Kuomintang. Also, it was decided Kwangtung would not participate in the National People's Congress at Nanking, May 5.

Koo Ying-Fan has replaced Chen Ming-Shu as Acting Governor of Kwangtung, placing anti-Nanking elements in control of the Province's telegraph and wireless communication facilities. A censorship has been established, but it was reported Canton remains quiet.

Chen Ming-Shu leaned toward the Government while Koo Ying-Fan is believed to favor anti-Government factions.

PASTOR APPEALS CHURCH SUPPORT

Rev. N. Clark Wallace Speaks on Anglican Mission Work in Canadian West.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 4 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A stirring appeal for financial support to carry on the work of the Anglican Church in the Canadian West was made on Sunday morning at Christ Church, Campbellford, when the Rev. N. Clark Wallace preached an appropriate sermon in accordance with the request of the church authorities.

The service, which was a celebration of the Holy Communion, was well attended. Mr. Wallace took for his text St. Luke 9, verse 62: "And Jesus said, No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God." He stated that there was no more thrilling story of adventure and hardship than the acquisition and development of the Canadian West by that company of gentlemen, the Hudson's Bay Company, who came from England for the purpose of establishing trade.

It was not until 1811, however, that settlers under Earl Selkirk, who was given 1,600 square miles of territory, went into the land, these settling at Fort Garry, afterward Winnipeg. This started the settlement of the West, the preacher said, declaring that it was impossible to appreciate the hardship of these people, who built the Empire in this part of the world.

In Older Ontario, Mr. Wallace stated, the Church of England had neglected to some extent the people in the growth of the country, but this was not the case in Western Canada, for the Anglican Church there had been the first on the field. Over 110 years ago its first clergyman, the Rev. John West, went out to the Red River settlement to minister to the people. In 1844 the Bishop of Montreal had paid a pastoral visit, making the trip by canoe, and confirming over 800 candidates. In 1846 the first Bishop of Rupert's Land, Bishop Anderson, was appointed, he being followed in 1865 by Bishop Machray. It was not until 1852 that the first Presbyterian minister arrived, although the original settlers were mostly Scots and Presbyterian, and had urged the sending of one of their own ministers. The Methodist Church sent its first missionary in 1868.

First in the Field.

"The Church of England has done its duty. It has laid a fine foundation, and was the first in the field," declared Mr. Wallace, pointing out that it was for the church and the Empire that men went to these unsettled parts. He said that it ought to be the work of every congregation and individual to see that the story of the self-sacrifice and worthiness of these pioneers was maintained in this generation. He also stressed the fact that other churches were sending out missionaries in larger numbers than the Anglican Church was, declaring that "the arrears that have been signed by our missionaries by the sign of the Cross will pass into other hands if the appeal that is now being put forward by the church is not heeded. We have put our hands to the plough," Mr. Wallace concluded, "and Jesus tells us that he who looketh back is not fit for the kingdom of God."

SUMMER TIME.

In deciding to put Peterborough on a summer time basis for an abbreviated period again this summer, the City Council had the justification provided by the fact that twice within the past two years a majority of the electors expressed approval of daylight saving.

In May, 1929, and again in January, 1930, a by-law providing for daylight saving during the summer months was carried, and in view of that double endorsation, there was nothing to be gained by going to the trouble of again testing public opinion on the question.

Summer time will be in force only from June 14 until Labor Day, a period that offers the greatest benefit and the least inconvenience from the operation of the system.

While it is unfortunate that there should be so much confusion as a result of some communities adhering to standard time and others adopting the summer time idea, the local Council has been wise in confining the daylight saving term to the really warm weeks.

The additional hour of sunlight in the evening will be appreciated by a good many citizens, especially those who participate in or like to watch sporting events; the others will take consolation in the fact that the plan has been shortened materially as compared with that followed by many other communities.

VICTORIA'S NEW ROADS.

The announcement that both the Lindsay-Fenelon Falls and the Lindsay-Bobcaygeon roads are to be incorporated in the provincial highway system is of much interest locally.

Evidently the attitude of Victoria County toward provincial highways differs from that of the Peterborough County Council, for the Lindsay Post remarks that "Victoria County will be able to congratulate themselves that these two roads will be paved soon at a cost of two-fifths of the expense were the county to pave them."

As a matter of fact, Victoria County had already made good progress on both these roads, having completed four miles of pavement and six miles of base-coarse macadam out of the 13.5 miles of the Fenelon road and about two miles of pavement and eight miles of macadam out of the twenty miles of the Bobcaygeon road.

"The benefits of these roads,' says the Post, "from the standpoint of the tourists they will attract here, in the help they will be to transportation and in the pleasure of local motorists, need not be described."

The taking over of these roads as provincial highways means paved roals to two important points on the Kawartha system, while our own district, fond of talking about itself as the gateway to the Kawarthas, is without permanent road facilities so far as the summer resorts are concerned.

It is a difference that is likely to be reflected in the tourist traffic.

A RED CROSS CELEBRATION.

It is singularly appropriate that May 12th, which is the birthday of Florence Nightingale, should have been chosen as the date of an Empire-wide Red Cross celebration.

The relationship between this famous English woman and the Red Cross is obvious.

Henri Dunant, through whose efforts the Red Cross convention of Geneva was launched, declared that he owed his inspiration to Florence Nightingale and her devoted service in the relief of suffering.

Miss Nightingale, too, was the advance guard of the Red Cross in another way.

She firmly believed that public opinion should be educated along the lines of disease prevention and health improvement, thus outlining one of the principal objects of the Red Cross organization as we know it to-day.

No more fitting date, therefore, could have been selected for British Empire Red Cross Day than the birthday of the "Lady with the Lamp" who revolutionized the military medical service and paved the way for the creation of a great humanitarian organization that has relieved the suffering both in peace and in war.

The anniversary is to be celebrated in every part of the British Empire, the Canadian Red Cross Society cooperating with other Empire units to make the occasion worthy of such a significant anniversary.

AN APPEAL TO DRIVERS.

In an open letter to drivers of motor vehicles, wagons, etc., the Ontario Safety League stresses the necessity of more care and appeals for co-operation in its campaign to prevent accidents.

The league's communication is as follows:

"In order to reduce the large number of fatal and less serious traffic accidents, it is necessary that more care be exercised by all concerned, particularly at street intersections where most collisions between vehicles occur.

"To avoid accidents at street crossings it is imperative that all drivers look both ways before attempting to cross. It is a matter of common road courtesy to signal with the hand before turning a corner. This permits drivers of other vehicles to regulate their movements to conform with yours. Corners should only be negotiated at a reduced and reasonable speed. Never force your 'rights' upon another driver who is approaching at right angles at an intersection; for safety's sake give way.

"Caution should be exercised between intersections, owing to the fact that pedestrians frequently cross roadways at other than the proper crosswalks and elderly people and children often become confused and consequently are incapable of taking care of their own persons.

"We ask your special care when passing schools, during the time in which pupils are going to and from the schools. Children suddenly released from their studies are liable to rush heedlessly on to the road and therefore need extra protection.

"Accident prevention is a matter for the whole community, but we appeal to you as regular users of the public highways to assist, so far as lies in your power, to reduce the present large number of preventable accidents."

The Examiner calls the attention of local motorists to the second last paragraph of the above appeal.

There is a notable disregard here of the accident hazards in the neighborhood of school buildings.

Despite the presence of warning signs, many drivers continue to drive at dangerous speed in the vicinity of the city schools and at hours when the children have to cross the streets to and from school.

The speed at which traffic moves on Water street at the noon hour is an example of this careless driving, and it should be corrected before an accident gives tragic emphasis to the warning.

PUBLIC MONEY THROWN AWAY.

An extraordinary story of technical inefficiency, overlapping of duties and waste of money in certain Federal Government services is told by Mr. Andrew D. MacLean in the April issue of Canadian Power Boating. He says that while other countries use their air force, their navy and other more or less scientific or mechanized departments for the advancement of related peacetime industries, ours are allowed to stagnate.

The Royal Canadian Air Force is an excellent organization, but Mr. MacLean says that, because of the official attitude of mind, it has never been encouraged to develop any scientific data on the design or use of aircraft that would be of invaluable assistance to the aircraft industry or to commercial air transportation. The Air Force is supplied with equipment and then trains only for war. The Royal Canadian Navy is in a similar position. Practically every chart in the world is either produced from data gathered by the British Navy in peace time or is based on early charts made by it. On the Pacific and Atlantic coasts of Canada are thousands of miles of imperfectly charted water, which the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy travel over frequently. New charts are needed and the officers of the Canadian Navy are qualified to make them. Yet they are not allowed to.

The Preventive Service of the Department of National Revenue operates 48 or more vessels, manned by over 400 officers and men. This extremely costly force is reported to have wasted upwards of $2,000,000 on badly-designed ships in the past two years. Mr. MacLean declares that Soviet Russia is able to obtain 50 per cent. more speed from the same engines in boats of similar size. As another example of ignorance, he refers to the tenders called by the Department of National Health for an immigration vessel to be used in Halifax harbor. The boat builder was to guarantee 12 knots. Yet the specifications were for a motor of insufficient size to give 10 miles per hour. In other words, the boat builder was asked to tender on and guarantee 12 knots with power and equipment capable of less than nine knots. In another case the Royal Canadian Air Force required a motor boat to pick up and tow seaplanes in Pacific waters. They decided on a motor of certain power against the advice of independent engineers who urged double that power. One year later a motor of the power specified by the independent engineers was installed, as the Air Force found their estimate to be grossly in error.

These are a few of the instances of incompetency, and Mr. MacLean says there are thousands of them. One reason for the waste of public money is the overlapping of duties. Among the departments of the Federal Government that now design, order and man ships of all sizes and types are: (1) Department of National Revenue (Customs Preventative Service); (2) Royal Canadian Navy; (3) Royal Canadian Mounted Police; (4) Department of Marine; (5) Department of Fisheries; (6) Department of Canals; (7) Department of Public Works. (8) Department of Health (Immigration); (9) Royal Canadian Air Force; (10) Department of the Interior (Surveys Branch); (11) Department of Mines; (12) Department of Forestry; and probably many others.

As Mr. MacLean points out, no political party is to blame, but rather the careless attitude of past administrations. He suggests that the remedy is to appoint the Canadian Navy or a reorganized Department of Marine to control the ordering, building and refitting of all Federal Government craft. His article is timely, for Mr. Bennett has hinted at a consolidation of various Government services, some of which are working at cross purposes. A consolidation of branches dealing with vessels, under capable officials, should effect a great saving of public money. Mr. MacLean knows more about motor boats than most people. For one thing, while on special volunteer service with the British Navy during the war this young Canadian operated a mystery motor boat in the then dangerous waters of the Mediterranean.—Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

This is private members' day in Parliament. Just when private citizens will get their inning has not yet been announced.

If unemployment insurance is as long in coming as an all-federal old age pension scheme, it will not have much effect upon the previous depression.

Up to the present there have been no suggestions advanced in the British House that High Commissioner Ferguson's recall should be asked for.

It cannot be said that Peterborough's City Council is air-minded. Judging from its attitude toward the question of a municipal flying field.

No outsiders will get work on city paving jobs this year, mainly owing to the fact that no paving is to be done.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"We still had ample water and provisions to last us the balance of our journey if we had been equipped with a sail, but the slow progress of paddling threatened to find us facing starvation, or death by thirst, long before we could hope to reach Korsar. With this fate staring us in the face we decided to land on Amiocap and refit our craft, but before we could do so we were overtaken by a Korsar ship and were taken prisoners."

"The vessel that picked us up," continued David, "was one of those that had formed the armada of The Cid, and was, as far as they knew, the only one that had survived the storm. Shortly before they had found us, they had picked up a boat-load of the survivors of The Cid's ship, including The Cid himself, and from The Cid we learned that you and the other prisoners had doubtless been lost with his vessel, which he said was in a sinking condition at the time that he abandoned it. To my surprise I learned that The Cid had also abandoned his own daughter to her fate and I believe that this cowardly act weighed heavily upon his mind, for he was always taciturn and moody."

"She did not die," said Tanar. "We escaped together, the sole survivors, as far as we knew, of The Cid's chip, though later we were captured by the members of another boat crew that had also made the island of Amiocap and with them we were brought to Korsar."

"In my conversation with The Cid," resumed David, "and also with the officers and men of the Korsar ship I ought to sound them on their knowledge of the extent of this sea, which is known as the Korsar Az. Among other things I learned that they possess compasses and are conversant with their use and they told me that to the west they had never sailed to the extreme limits of the Korsar Az, which they state reached on, a vast body of water, for countless leagues beyond the knowledge of man. But to the east they have followed the shore line from Korsar southward almost to the shore upon which they landed to attack the empire of Pellucidar.

"Now this suggests, in fact almost proves, that Korsar lies upon the same great continent as the empire of Pellucidar and if we can escape from prison, we may be able to make our way by land back to our own country.

"These other prisoners tell us," continued David, "that the fact that we are not immediately killed indicates that they are saving us for some purpose; but what that purpose is I cannot conceive."

"I can," said Tanar. "In fact I am quite sure that I know."

"And what is it?" demanded Ja.

"They wish us to teach them how to make firearms and powder such as ours," replied the Sarian. "But where do you suppose they ever got firearms and powder in the first place?"

"Or the great ships they sail," added Ja; "ships that are even larger than those which we build? These things were unknown in Pellucidar before David and Perry came to us, yet the Korsars appear to have known of them and used them always."

"I have an idea," said David; "yet it is such a mad idea that I have almost hesitated to entertain it, much less to express it."

"What is it?" asked Tanar.

"It was suggested to me in my conversations with the Korsars themselves," replied the Emperor. "Without exception they have all assured me that their ancestors came from another world—a world above which the sun did not stand perpetually at zenith, but crossed the heavens regularly, leaving the world in darkened half the time. They say that a part of this world is very cold and that their ancestors, who were seafaring men, became caught with their ships in the frozen waters; that their compasses turned in all directions and became useless to them and that when finally they broke through the ice and sailed away in the direction that they thought was south, they came into Pellucidar, which they found inhabited only by naked savages and wild beasts.

"And here they set up their city and built new ships. They intermarried with the natives, which in this part of Pellucidar seem to have been of a very low order," David paused.

"Well," asked Tanar, "what does it all mean?"

"It means," said David, "that if their legend is true, or based upon fact, that their ancestors came from the same outer world from which Perry and I came, but by what avenue?—that is the astounding enigma."

Many times during their incarceration the three men discussed this subject, but never were they able to arrive at any definite solution of the mystery. Food was brought to them many times and several times they slept before Korsar soldiers came and took them from the dungeon.

They were led to the palace of The Cid, the architecture of which but tended to increase the mystery of the origin of this strange race in the mind of David Innes, for the building seemed to show indisputable proof of Moorish influence.

Within the palace they were conducted to a large room, comfortably filled with bewhiskered Korsars decked out in their gaudiest raiment. Upon a dais, at one end of the room, a man was seated upon a large, ornately carved chair. It was The Cid, and as David's eyes fell upon him, his mind suddenly grasped, for the first time, a significant suggestion in the title of the ruler of the Korsars.

Previously the name had been only a name to David. He had not considered it as a title; nor had it by association awakened any particular train of thought, but now, coupled with the Moorish palace and the carved throne, it did.

The Cid! Rodrigo Diaz de Bivar—El Campeador—a national hero of eleventh-century Spain. What did it mean? His thoughts reverted to the ships of the Korsars—their motley crews with harquebuses and cutlasses—and he recalled the thrilling stories of the Spanish Main. Could it be merely coincidence? Could a nation of people have grown up within the inner world, who so closely resembled the buccaneers of the seventeetnh century or had their forebears in truth found their way hither afrom the outer crust? David Innes was frankly puzzled But now he was being led to the foot of The Cid's throne and there was no further opportunity for speculation.

The crue', cunning eyes of The Cid looked down upon the three prisoners from out his brutal face.

"The Emperor of Pellucidar!" he sneered. "The King of Anoroc! The son of the King of Sari!" and then he laughed uproariously. He extended his hand, his fingers parted and curled in a clutching gesture. "Emperor! King! Prince!" he sneered again, "and yet here you all are in the clutches of The Cid. Emperor—bah! I, The Cid, am the Emperor of all Pellucidar! You and your naked savages!" He turned on David. "Who are you to take the title of Emperor? I could crush you all," and he closed his fingers in a gestureof rough cruelty.

"But I shall not. The Cid is generous. You shall have your freedom for a small price that you may easily pay." He paused as though he expected them to question him, but no one of the three spoke. Suddenly he turned upon David. "Where did you get your firearms and your gun powder? Who made them for you?"

"We made them ourselves,' replied David.

"Who taught you to make them?" insisted The Cid. "But never mind; it is enough that you know and we would know. You may win your liberty by teaching us."

David could make gunpowder, but whether he could make any better gunpowder than the Korsars he did not know. He had left that to Perry and his apprettices in The Empire, and he knew perfectly well that he could not econstruct a modern rifle such as was being turned out in the arsenals at Sari, for he had neither the drawings to make the rifles, nor the machinery, nor the drawings to make the machinery, nor the shops in which to make stee. But neve th less here was one opportunity for possible freedom that might pave the way to escape and he could not throw it away.

"Well," demanded The Cid, impatiently, "what is your answer?"

"We cannot make powder and rifles while a man eats," replied David; "nor can we make them from the air or from conversation. We must have materials; we must have factories; we must have trained men. You will sleep many times before we are able to accomplish all this."

"How many times shall we sleep before you have taught our people to make these things?" demanded The Cid.

David shrugged. "I do not know," he said. "In the first place I must find the proper materials."

"We have all the materials," said The Cid. "We have iron and we have the ingredients for making powder. All that you have to do is to put them together in a better way than we have been able to."

"You may have the materials, but it is possible that they are not of sufficiently good quality to make the things that will alone satisfy the subjects of the Emperor of Pellucidar. Perhaps your niter is low grade; there may be impurities in your sulphur; or even the charcoal may not be properly prepared; and there are even more important matters to consider in the selection of material and its manufacture into steel suitable for making the firearms of the Pellucidarians."

"You shall not be hurried," said The Cid. He turned to a man standing near him. "See that an officer accompanies these men always," he said. "Let them go where they please and do what they please in the prosecution of my orders. Furnish them with laborers if they desire them, but do not let them delay and do not let them escape, upon pain of death." And thus ended their interview with The Cid of Korsar.

As it chanced, the man to be detailed to watch them was Fitt, the fellow whom David had chosen to accompany him and Ja in their pursuit of the Korsar fleet, and Fitt, having become well acquainted with David and Ja and having experienced nothing but considerate treatment from them, was far from unfriendly.

As they were passing out of the palace they caught a glimpse of a girl in a chamber that opened onto the corridor in which they were. Fitt, big with the importance of his new position and feeling somewhat like a showman revealing and explaining his wonders to the ignorant and uninitiated, had been describing the various objects of interest that they had passed as well as the personages of importance, and now he nodded in the direction of the room in which they had seen the girl.

"That," he said, "is The Cid's daughter."

Tanar stopped and turned to Fitt.

"May I speak to her?" he asked.

"You!" cried Fitt. "You speak to the daughter of The Cid!"

"I know her," said Tanar. "We two were left alone on the abandoned ship when it was deserted by its officers and crew. Go and ask her if she will speak to me."

Fitt hesitated. "The Cid might not approve," he said.

"He gave you no orders other than to accompany us," said David. "How are we to carry on our work if we are to be prevented from speaking to anyone whom we choose? At least you will be safe in leading us to The Cid's daughter. If she wishes to speak to Tanar, the responsibility will not be yours."

"Perhaps you are right," said Fitt.

He stepped to the doorway of the apartment in which were Stellara and Gura, and now, for the first time, he saw that a man was with them. It was Bulf. The three looked up as he entered.

"There is one here who wishes to speak to The Cid's daughter," he said, addressing Stellara.

"Who is he?" demanded Bulf.

"He is Tanar, a prisoner of war from Sari."

"Tell him," said Stellara, "that The Cid's daughter does not recall him and cannot grant him an interview."

As Fitt turned and quit the chamber, Gura's ordinarily sad eyes flashed a look of angry surprise at Stellara.

His appearance in court will not take place until next week, by which time it is expected his companion in the attempted hold-up of the grill store Monday night, still at large in Toronto, will be captured.

The younger boy caught in Toronto member of the same gang, while not taking part in the grill affair is implicated in other thefts.

The gang had a shack in a secluded spot where police found a quantity of rope, hunting knives, belt hatchets, etc.

There were four in the gang who after reading wild west and crime novels, named themselves "Lizard Gang." A pair of rabbits feet were found in the possession of the boys caught in Toronto.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Would you please settle an argument by stating whether daylight saving was voted on in Peterborough last year or the year before and also whether the by-law was submitted at the January elections or at some other date.

Anxious.

Daylight saving was voted on here both last year and the year previous. The by-law was voted on on May 3, 1929 and carried by 1,838 to 1,524, a majority of 314. The question was submitted to the people again at the January elections in 1930 and carried by 2,580 to 2,325, a majority of 255.—Editor.

What To-day Means To You.

"TAURUS."

If May 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:45 a.m. to noon, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10:15 p.m. The danger hours are from 8:10 a.m. to 10:15 a.m. and from 5:15 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The planetary aspects of May 4th presage a day full of perplexity and doubt, and prudence counsels the postponement of any important decision until conditions are more propitious. In the evening, the atmosphere will be benign, and especially favor lovers and sweethearts.

Children born on this May 4th will not distinguish themselves during the school age. Just as soon, however, as they have to fend for themselves, they will develop definite traits of self-confidence, perseverance and aggressiveness. Their dispositions will be very amendable to good influences.

Born on May 4th, you have ability that singles you out from your fellows. You are easily above the average. It does not require your "say-so" to convince others of your superiority; yet, you persist in blowing your own horn in season and out of season. You may have business or social rivals, but as a "self back-patter," you are in a class by yourself. This attitude of self-glorification very seriously detracts from the merits of your achievement. It is all to the good to pride yourself on being self-made, but there is no occasion to publicly worship your creator.

Your horoscope denotes very little that induces a spirit of humility. Yet, this is a grace you should assiduously cultivate. You are alert, clever, ambitious, and untiring, and in all your relationships, never hit below the belt. Versatility is also one of your assets. If you are wise, however, you will choose the line of endeavor that makes the strongest appeal to you, and stick to it. Success awaits this course; your only chance of failure is diversified interests. You can do wonders with one ball, but you cannot juggle six. Your disposition is merry and cheerful, and, in your home, you will always be the chief joy giver—never a joy killer.

STIMULATES ACTIVITY.

"The Moss Mine is coming into commercial operation under very auspicious circumstances, and its future career will be watched with unusual public interest," declares the Canadian Mining Journal, an authoritative magazine dealing with mining and metallurgy, at the conclusion of an extensive article in its current issue on the history and position of the property of Moss Gold Mines, Limited, whose shares are listed in Montreal, Toronto and New York.

In addition to this article the Mining Journal takes occasion to refer editorially to the significance of the Moss development as likely to stimulate activity on a broader scale. Declaring that the property is at the eastern end of a gold belt that extends more or less continuously for 100 miles, it states: "It would be extraordinary if the Moss Mine is the only favorable deposit in this 100-mile belt, so it is hoped that the successful development of this particular property will stimulate a search on other properties."

The financing methods followed by Moss Gold Mines are particularly commended in the following terms: "Though most of its development took place during the height of the recent boom, this was financed by private subscription of shares, not one dollar nor one share of stock having been expended for the services of promoters or other intermediaries. This means that all the money provided has been used solely for the purpose of mine making. We hope that further mineral developments in the Thunder Bay district will be financed with similar circumspection, and that other attempts to make mines in that locality, prompted by the signal success of the Moss Mine, will be followed by equally good fortune."

EXCHANGE SALES LESS FOR MONTH

Observance of Legal Holidays For April Lessens Total.

NORANDA FEATURES.

Owing to the observance of legal holidays during April, necessitating fewer trading days, total sales for the month on the Toronto Stock Exchange were slightly below those of March, but ahead of the previous months of the year. For the six months prior to April the monthly increase had been continuous, being stepped up from 289,090 in November to 687,350 in March.

As regards the volume of individual stocks, International Nickel, whose position as premier trading stock on the Toronto Stock Exchange was usurped in March by Noranda, regained its leadership with 52,000 shares. Noranda with 40,567 shares was relegated to third place, B.A. Oil taking second with 47,343.

Fourth place was taken by Imperial Oil with a turnover of 36,306, while Walkers followed with 35,319. The spread between Brazilian and Hiram Walkers was considerable, the utility having less than 24,000. International Petroleum was sixth, while Ford "A" stepped from ninth place in the previous month to seventh in April. Wright Hargreaves, Teck Hughes and C.P.R. followed in order.

The general trend of stocks during the period under review was influenced by the pronounced weakness in interlisted issues, nearly all of which made new lows for the year. Aggravating the situation were the many rumors mostly emanating from New York, directed principally against the oil stocks, and it was not until reassuring statements were made by the officials of the leading Canadian Oil distributors that the pressure was lifted.

The resumption of cautious buying towards the end of the month had the effect of stabilizing prices just above their lows and altering the general situation materially.

The yields rose in inverse ratio to the decline in market values and it was not difficult at any time to select a broad list of securities, representative of the soundest industries in the Dominion, that gave an average yield of 7 per cent. or better.

Date Set For Hearing Of 3 Murder Trials

MONTREAL, Que., May 4. (CP)—Facing a charge of murder, Jack Edgett, 21, of Prince Edward Island, will go on trial for his life on May 13 before the Court of King's Bench here. Jack Edgett and William Wilkinson are both accused of the same crime: that of shooting to death Marcel Dupre, Montreal restaurant keeper, in a hold-up.

The two boys were held under separate indictments of murder, but it is expected that they will be tried jointly. It is probable that Wilkinson will be submitted to a mental examination before his trial comes up.

Paul Warren must also face trial for murder at the next term of the Court King's bench, charged with killing Cecile Mondor, his youthful companion in a small apartment on Demontigny street.

Business Conditions In Brazil Reviewed

"Business in Brazil last month March continued depressed, with the uncertainties of future exchange movements and of possible economic measures that may be enforced by the provisional Government. The level of unemployment continued its upward trend, with no apparent relief in sight," says the Guarnty Survey, published by Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "Among the commodities whose sales were stagnant were automobiles, general and agricultural machinery, construction machinery electrical appliances, foodstuffs and leather. Stocks of practically all imported lines were low, not only because of the lack of any evidence of an improvement in retail demand but also because the uncertainties attending exchange movements have made importers hesitant in placing commitments abroad.

"Money continued easy, with the banks paying 5½% and discounting at 10%. The cessation of the moratorium was due at the beginning of this month (April) but its effects are still uncertain. However it is felt that the lenient policy of creditors will materially reduce the number of resulting failures.

"As part of its program of economy, the Federal Government has suspended practically all public construction; for, up to the present, both Federal and State revenues have been substantially below budget estimates. Contractors working on what little Government construction there is and those who supply material for the projects are being paid largely in bonds, which are being quoted at about 90% of their face value.

"A Government decree issued during March requires the mixture of 5% alcohol with gasoline, another limits the importation of machinery, while a third places manufacturing establishments operated by the War Department on a commercial basis, thereby permitting them to compete in the open market."

RIDGELY ADVISES TO BUY ON BREAKS

Time Has Now Come For Stock Speculators to Change Their Position.

NEW YORK, May 4.—It is not kindness to the public to hold out false hopes when no grounds for optimism exist. I have been unable to advise a single purchase since before we had the six-million-share day—volumes at the top, as usual—some two months ago, until very recently. I have held that there could be no permanent turn for the better in the general list until Steel common broke 115. Then we would see.

But in my judgment the time has arrived to change our position; to buy on breaks instead of selling on rallies. Many stocks are still too high, but there are many others of real value unduly depressed and which may be go very high again eventually. These were the five which I advised buying outright last December at prices given: Un. Air. 20, Un. Cor. 15, I.T.T. 19, Mont.-Ward 15, Republic 11. They are not likely to go to those figures again, but pick them up the best you can when the market is demoralized. For speculation we advised Byers Pipe below 35, Anaconda 26, Am. F.P. 27, E.I Bond and Sh. 38, McKeesport T.P. near 70. You may get most of them at those prices again.

I am also very sweet, in the order named, on Vanadium, Westinghouse, Std. Oil Jersey, Woolworth, Rep. pfd., Loew's, Barnsdall, Mex. Sea. and Simmons. Next week I may have something very bullish on Allied Chem. But you must buy stocks on the sinking spells. At present I do not know the precise figures to tell you. There may, or may not, be acute demoralization again in the next few days. If there is, so much the better, for the more drastic the cleaning out the longer and greater will be the subsequent advance. But if the market saw its bottom yesterday, then I am afraid the rise will be only a matter of weeks.

U.S. Steel and Bethlehem are almost low enough, but I am skeptical of Gen. Elec., Un. Carbide, Con. Gas., A.T.T., Can, Coca-Cola and Gen. Motors.

The trend of grain should be gradually towards higher levels. October Cotton below 10 cents can be bought for small rallies.

At close today, the stock market looks to me like trend would be upward for the next several weeks.

Several New Lows Set At Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., May 4.—(CP)—Several new lows were registered on the Montreal stock exchange this morning as security prices took a general turn downwards.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting stock plunged to a new low at 96½, a loss of 8½ points from Saturday's close at 105. Asbestos dropped 20 cents to sell for 25 cents. Grazilian Traction touched a new low at 1-8, off ¾ from the previous sale. Dominion Bridge reached a new low.

Bell Telephone was down 1-8 at 141 7-8 a new low. Nickel lost ½ at 14, National Brewer was off 1 at 29½, Shawinigan lost 1 point at 45 and Steel of Canada lost ½ at 30.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

After opening draggy with prices slipping about half cent under the close Friday night, the wheat market scored a sharp recovery, prices advancing to about 1½ over the previous close. There was not much for sale at any time, especially after the opening period and when shorts commenced covering, they were forced to bid prices up to get their requirements. Monday being a holiday in this market and with a forecast for continued dry weather in western Canada over the week-end the short interests decided to even up. There was also a little buying based on the report that the United States Farm Board had sold their surplus supplies that were held at seaboard to a pool of exporters and also to weather reports forecasting light frosts in Kansas and Ohio. There was very little doing in the way of export business overnight or Saturday morning sales being confined to a few scattered loads. There was a fair shipping demand for certain grades of cash wheat. Buenos Aires closed unchanged to 3-8 lower. The stock market closed from 1 to 2 points higher generally. The market acts nervous with the trade commencing to pay more attention to the drought conditions existing in spring wheat territory, both sides of the border. Winnipeg market will not re-open until Tuesday but all other markets will be open as usual on Monday.

Coarse Grains.—These markets were all firmer in sympathy with the strength shown in wheat but there was not much going on both futures and cash markets being generally quiet. Oats closed 3-8 to 5-8 higher, barley 3-8 to ½ higher and rye 3-8 higher. Flax dull and featureless, closing ½ to 1 lower.

Liverpool due 1¼ higher on Winnipeg.

CONSOLIDATED SMELTERS IS 10 POINTS BELOW SATURDAY'S CLOSE

Noranda Works Higher to 27 But Later Reacted for One Point Decline.

BALANCE LIST STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., May 4.—(CP)—Opening unchanged from last week's close Toronto stock exchange fluctuated within a small range on light volume of sales the first hour this morning. The market got nowhere in particular, a mixture of gains and losses at the end of the first hour showing no defined trend. In the second hour, however, the list turned downward and at midday leaders were practically all lower than they had left off last week. Volume remained light throughout.

Consolidated Smelters was the leader on the side of the decline reacting to around 96, the lowest in years and more than 10 points under Saturday's final.

Noranda for a time worked higher selling at 27 or better, but at midday it was back down to 26. International Nickel touched 14, where it was only 18 above its record low made earlier this year. Utilities were unchanged to slightly lower, the foods and steels inactive. Ford of Canada at 19¾ was unchanged.

Oils did not make an appearance until the morning session was well advanced. Initial prices showed an advantage but when the general market settled the oils too, lost ground.

Domestic Copper Price Drops To 9 1-4 Cents

NEW YORK, May 4 (CP).—Unsettlement in the domestic copper market became more pronounced to-day, with the metal offered by Custom Smelters at 9¼ cents a pound and some copper reported available from speculative sources at 9 cents a pound or lower.

The offering price of 9¼ cents by Custom Smelters represents a drop of an eighth of a cent from the quotation at the close of last week, and the lowest price for the metal in more than 35 years.

Consumers, however, are reported to be uninterested in buying at this time, although small lots of the metal were reported to have been sold late last week at 9 cents a pound.

Foreign selling is practically at a standstill, with the export price remaining unchanged at 9.80 cents a pound.

RATE FIXED FOR RADISHES

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4. — Pursuant to the provisions of the Customs Act, the Minister of National Revenue to-day fixed the value for duty purposes on importations of radishes at 10c a pound—the weight of the package to be included in computing the weight for duty value.

This was announced to-day in a departmental bulletin which, at the same time, carried a notice to appraisers cancelling that portion of the order-in-council of April 22, which fixed a duty value of 6c a pound on potatoes.

Wall Street Closing Firm, Issues Stronger

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4.—(CP)—Stocks moved quietly higher in dull trading and made their best prices in the final hour, closing firm. Coppers were heavy, reflecting lower prices for the metal but reduced their losses. Shares rising 2 to 3 not included Allied Chemical, Dupont, Eastman, American Telephone, New York Central and Union Pacific. U.S. Steel American Can, Atchison, General Motors, General Electric and Chrysler were up a point or more, while Auburn soared 15. Sales totalled less than 1,500,000 shares.

GOLD SECTION LITTLE HIGHER

Base Metals Reflecting Another Slump in Prices at London Display Easier Tone.

ON STANDARD LIST.

TORONTO, Ont., May 4.—(C)P—Prices moved irregularly in the opening session of the week on the mining market to-day. Golds and oils were steady to slightly higher in trend, while base metals, reflecting another slump in metal prices in London, displayed an easier tendency.

International Nickel appeared to be subjected to some selling pressure with price off a half at $14 at midday. Noranda moved above Saturday's close for a time but was off a fraction to $25.90 when taken.

Dome firmed a few cents and other higher-priced golds were steady. In the cheaper golds Big Missouri dropped a couple and Barry Hollinger was off a point. Moffatt-Hall advanced a cent and other pennies showed fractional gains. Eldorado met renewed demand and was up 8 to 72.

Majority of oils were quiet. Homestead, Saturday's feature, added another 20 to recent gains to sell at $1.60.

WINNIPEG CLOSED.

NEW YORK, May 4 (CP).—Bar silver quiet and steady and Æ higher t 23⅜.

HIGHER TONE RAIL ISSUES

New York List Stronger To-day Despite Heaviness of Coppers.

INDUSTRIALS ALSO UP.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4.—(CP)—Wall Street appeared to have regained its nerve over the week-end, and share prices worked higher in quiet trading to-day, despite isolated heaviness of the coppers.

The better feeling engendered by the climatic upturn of Thursday appeared to be spreading once more, after the setback it received when the market broke again late Friday, and closed the past week with uncertain fluctuations.

Issues selling up a point or two embraced a substantial assortment of industrials and utilities, and some of the rails. Allied Chemical pushed up more than 4, and Auburn more than 13. Shares gaining moderately included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American, General Electric, General Motors, U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Woolworth, Eastman, American Tobacco "B" Johns Manville, Southern Pacific, Atchison, Union Pacific and New York Central. Bears did some experimental selling of U.S. Steel and American Can for a time in the morning, but got nowhere with it.

Heaviness of the copper shares reflected news of considerable demoralization of the market for red metal and the annual report of Anaconda, showing a deficit of about $24,000,000 after payment of common dividends and the setting up of reserves against the drop in prices of inventories. Copper metal has finally dropped below the 36-year low price of 9½ cents established last autumn. Custom Smelters are asking only 9½ cents in some cases, and some metal has sold at 9 cents, or just half the price from which it started downward little more than a year ago, and below the cost of production for many producers.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner.

CANADIAN PACIFIC DIVIDEND.

Much discussion is heard in all financial centers of a reduction in the $2.50 annual dividend of C.P.R. common stock. The company during the boom refrained from the hasty declaration of extra dividends and consequently built up a huge surplus. It watches business indices carefully and if prospects are good for a come-back within a year it could easily pay dividends out of its cash surplus. In fact, this surplus at the present time would pay common dividends for over three years. Needless to say next week's directors' meeting of the company is of great importance in this respect.

STOCK DIVIDENDS.

Many dividend baskets will not be so well filled with posies as usual this year, but they will nevertheless be a welcome break in the long string of dividend reductions. Lower dividend rates and omissions will take a sharp cut into the May 1st disbursements. As a matter of fact the day's payments will amount to approximately $5,301,1 7 and is, according to the records of 2inancial Service, the smallest monthly total in over a year and compares with $6,580,454 paid out one year ago, bond interest payment totals $43,620,549.

SERVICE STATIONS

Earnings of Service Stations for the first half of 1930 were very satisfactory with the result that earnings for the entire year were 3.60 on the combined "A" and "B" stocks. The company was obliged to absorb a heavy loss on inventory besides other difficulties such as keen competition in its own field from a subsidiary of the Standard Oil of New Jersey. Then again the oil companies earnings have been so diversely affected that they have been curtailing buying service station equipment. One leading executive points out to Financial Service that the expansion in the number of service stations during the last few years has been so rapid that it has pretty well approached the economics limit. The current dividend rate is $1.60 a share as against a former one of $2.60. The shares are to-day selling in the vicinity of 18.

WESTERN EDITOR SEES EARLY CERTAINTY OF DOLLAR WHEAT

CANADIAN FINANCE.

Piecemeal financing by the Dominion Government to provide for its maturities of the next three years will be avoided, at least in large part, by the conversion loan on which Premier Bennett issued a preliminary announcement. Canada's credit in New York as well as at home is tone of the highest, but the bond market will be lightened if this refunding obligation of more than a billion dollars can be accomodated by straight conversions.

Grain Prices Average Lower Early To-day

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.—(CP)—Influenced by eports of showers in Canada, grain prices averaged lower early to-day. Declines, however, were checked by indications that moisture was not sufficient to furnish adequate relief from drought. Opening at 5-8 cents off to ¼ up wheat afterward held near to the initial range. Corn started at 5-8 decline to 3-8 advance and subsequently sagged all around.

WORLD OVER-PRODUCTION.

Remedial forces are at work that will rapidly restore dollar wheat, argues Charles W. Peterson in an article in The Financial Post, Toronto, this week. With this view many Canadians, observers of the world wheat situation, may disagree. But whether dollar wheat comes this year or not—and The Financial Post states that it neither endorses nor disagrees with the prediction—it is of great significance that a man of Mr. Peterson's experience and reputation should be able to make a convincing case for the economic solidity of wheat growing in Canada.

Mr. Peterson is publisher of the Farm and Ranch Review of Calgary and has a national reputation for his writings on agricultural subjects and for his sympathetic appreciation of the relations of western farming in eastern business.

Mr. Peterson says, in part:

"The price of wheat is, by and large, the barometer of prices of all other agricultural products. Hence, the controlling factors in Canadian business welfare and prosperity are, precisely: the world price of wheat and the yield of this cereal upon the broad acres of Canada's prairie section.

"Within the past year, wheat prices have touched unprecedentedly low levels and there has been no substantial change in this disastrous situation recently.

World Over-production.

"The sole cause of this disastrous situation is world over-production, resulting in large carry-overs of wheat from year to year, with the inevitable result of demoralizing prices.

"To all practical purposes the price of wheat is now temporarily pegged at an absolutely uneconomic figure, i.e., a figure which does not come anywhere near paying the actual bookkeeping production cost, taking into consideration the overhead of the farm, return on invested capital and a reasonable wage.

"Such, however, is a situation the Western farmer has lived through, time and again, in past years.

"This same situation now prevails in every part of the globe where wheat is produced and does not apply to Canada solely. It is a universal emergency. Such a situation necessarily carries within itself its own certain and speedy cure, namely, largely curtailed world acreage and production.

"Ignoring entirely the lower purchasing power of money, we find that over the centuries the price of wheat at Liverpool has averaged $1.34½ per bushel, which would mean exactly one dollar and fourteen cents at Fort William, or the even dollar at average prairie loading points to the farmer. The price at this writing is little more than one-half of the average figure established over centuries of production and trading.

"In the long run, wheat prices have pursued the even tenor of their ways. They have gone up to dizzy heights in times of stress and emergency, and descended into the depths when over-production, stimulated by spectacularly high prices, has exacted its pound of flesh from the body of agriculture, as at is doing now.

"But when everything is said and done the outstanding fact remains, that 350 years of continuous recorded wheat history, pegs the price at a dollar a bushel on the Canadian prairie farm.

"This is a substantial fact to tie to in our present stress. It is a safe guide for the future. It would be madness for Western Canada to abandon wholesale, large-scale wheat growing and turn to other systems of farming over-night in sympathy with prevailing unsatisfactory wheat prices. Agriculturally, it is our main business. Furthermore, it is Canada's main business. The system of extensive agriculture on our prairies is without a doubt the most efficient the world ever saw."

REV. J. F. ANDERSON SPEAKS AT TWO SERVICES IN ST. PAUL'S

Former Glasgow and Melbourne, Australia Pastor Addresses Large Congregation.

SPLENDID SERMONS.

The preacher at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday was Rev. J. F. Anderson, B.A., of the Wynd Church, Glasgow, and Melbourne, Australia, now of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. With a rich though not too pronounced Irish brogue (being a native of Erin), Mr. Anderson addressed two splendid sermons to large congregations. His discourse in the morning, with a clear, convincing delivery and with a delightfully pleasing personality betokened a close study of the contents of the last book of the Bible, Revelations, that all-too-seldom-dealt-with prophetic section of the Scriptures. The special portion chosen by Mr. Anderson, was the fifth chapter, verses nine and ten.

The Great Revealer.

The two verses are a laudation of Jesus Christ, the great revealer of life to man, said Mr. Anderson. Christ alone was worthy to reveal the word of God and all it meant, to undo the seals of the Book of Life. The great Redeemer of the redeemed, gave His life for all. "Thou art worthy" is the keynote of the song. Jesus is the plan of God for all who trust Him, and this plan even the angels do not know. Jesus Christ is the key to revelation, to life itself, revealed alone by Christ. Knowledge of God comes from Him alone; all other knowledge is false. He is also the great revealer of God.

The Great Redeemer.

Many martyrs have died, but none as a redeemer, as an atonement for the sins of mankind. Christ died for all, as a propitiation for sin, on the cross. He did not need to do so—His love for us called Him to give His life as a ransom. Redeemed through, by, and to God, continued the preacher, signifies the Redeemer becomes the centre of our life.

Great Reconstructor of Life.

We can be king of all things through Christ in our life and actions. We will bring that influence to bear on all with whom we come in contact. It is our human weakness that makes us dislike God—we hide from Him in our sin; we cling to our misdeeds with a supposed fascination. When we realize the fact that we are redeemed through His blood, we crave the light—we are in direct communion with God, the song of heaven is in our hearts, we are reconstructed, and are made worthy of Jesus, worthy of men, and our lives have a new meaning in the eyes of Him and the world.

The Evening Message.

"Take my yoke upon you . . . and ye shall find rest unto your souls" (Matthew 11:29) formed the theme text of a learned exposition by Rev. Mr. Anderson, at the evening diet. In part he said:

There are two invitations apparent in the verse—to two classes of people; come to Jesus and accept God's rest—having accepted, go a step further, take his yoke upon you. Rest is the gift of God, eternal life to all who come unto him. These two acts enable us to fit into God's plan, from day to day. But rest accorded does not mean we should stop and do nothing to further His Kingdom; we are given rest to pursue our knowledge of Him. This laying of our lives at His feet and service betoken a surrender of our whole life.

A Full Surrender.

Surrender is the first law of spiritual life—it means going to a higher plane with Jesus as our guide. Political, professional, military and naval life calls for a surrender of our freedom, as it were, to masters who demand certain service and duties off us, and we fiulfill these demands. Christ demands full surrender, but not coercion—it is voluntary; if we would serve Him, we must be willing to obey His commands. To link ourselves with Jesus we become followers of the ideal set by Him. He knows us, loves us, and wants us to fill His plan, to get control of life in this plan. If we refuse, we foil the plan, given to us to escape the many temptations which beset us day by day, thereby becoming safe in His tender care. Learn how to be surrendered men and women and receive rest to our souls.

Lessen Friction in Church.

Life then fits in between our souls and God. Let us pull together and work in harmony, in church and business life, to further God's Kingdom, without friction and ill-feeling. Let Him readjust our lives to His plan—at the hands of a Master, our hope will be realised for a better and nobler life. Others will be blessed when we have been blessed. Put things right in our life and show forth the praises of our Redeemer—the world needs His assistance to readjust our mode of living. When this is accomplished, the world will be a better and happier place to live in, for everyone will have the spirit of God in our hearts and will carry out His wise plan.

Service of Song.

The choir under Martin P. Chenhall was in full force at both services, and rendered two anthems and a male chorus, the evening number "Judge Me O God" being especially appreciated being the prize number at the 1928 Kiwanis Festival.

MOTORING NEWS

(By Roly Young)

Over in Paris the French motorists have benefited by a bitter price-slashing war between American and British motor fuel wholesalers which has cut fuel prices in half. Last year motor fuel was selling for 40 to 60 cents a gallon, and it is now sold at rival service stations for from 20 to 22 cents. This is the lowest fuel prices have reached since the war.

I noticed last week that the vice-regal party travelled in Hupmobiles during the inaugural ceremonies in Halifax. Hup, hup, hurray!

Driving an Auburn 8-98A Custom Phaeton Sedan, Prince Erik of Denmark, won the Royal Danish Automobile Club Tourist race to Aarhus on April 19th. This is one of the major social and sports events of the year. The prince was driving his personal Auburn car. Peter Nielson, chief engineer of Danish aviation, won second place, also in an Auburn, while third place went to Baron Wedellsborg, driving a Cord. How's that for an enviable record for one make?

The Stewart Motor Corporation of Buffalo announces the organization of the Stewart Truck Corporation of Canada, Limited, with offices and plant located at Fort Erie, Ontario. The plant has been in operation for two weeks and is filling orders promptly with "Made in Canada" Stewarts.

Do you know it's just a curious fact that Austin is the only car that makes its own shock absorbers.

Perhaps no other absorber could stand the shock of being attached to the midget!

These enthusiasts are betting that the oil-burner entered at Indianapolis will be among the finishers, which, if realized, will be an achievement in that gruelling grind.

It is an appalling fact that in the last six years, nearly 10,000 children were killed by motor vehicles in the United States.

The danger of accidents is not confined to new drivers. It is quite the reverse, for apparently new drivers are nervous enough to be careful. Nine out of every ten killed last year by auotmobiles were victims of drivers with more that one year's experience. Drivers between the ages of 25 and 54 acounted for 60 per cent. of the total.

Indicative of how many car buyers prefer to have non-shatterable glass in their machines, and are willing to pay extra for it, are figures recently compiled by the Willys-Overland Company. These show that in the case of Willys-Knight, its highest priced line, 87 per cent. of the purchasers were willing to pay the premium of from $30 to $40 for this special safety cature, while 77 per cent. of those who bought Willys eights and between 30 and 40 per cent. of those purchasing the small six, the company's cast expensive line, paid the additional cost.

L. A. Miller, president of the company, believes that the use of safety glass will lessen the annual toll of injuries.

"Surveys by insurance companies," he says, "disclose that more than 60 per cent. of all persons injured in motor accidents receive their wounds from shattered or flying glass. This means that if all motor cars were completely equipped with safety glass the toll of injured would be reduced to 40 per cent of the present number."

Opening of the Welland canal for the season of 1931 revealed the fact that water-borne freight was much more in evidence at the start of this year than it was last year, and led to the comment that the outlook for business generally was gratifying. Examination of the freighters waiting for passage through the canal revealed the fact that many of them had cargoes which were connected in some way with the automobile industry. One of the first boats to clear Port Weller, eastbound, was the Enterprise, with a cargo of 300 tons of steel for General Motors of Canada at Oshawa. It was the first cargo of steel ever to be consigned to an Oshawa firm by water, Oshawa's harbor having been opened for large freighters only last year.

STUDENTS FROM 14 NATIONS AT ABITIBI CANYON COLLEGE

Classes Are Held in Remodelled Railway Coach Six Nights a Week.

ENGLISH IS TAUGHT.

By C. S. BURCHILL
Bunkhouse Instructor for Frontier College.

On November 24, 1930, the writer established a Frontier College branch at Fraserdale, on the T. & N. O. extension between Cochrane and James Bay—another of those outposts of learning which, during the past 30 years, have been scattered along the fringes of civilization throughout Canada.

The Dominion Construction Co., which is busy on a huge project for the Abitibi interests at this point, gave the college a suitable building—a remodelled passenger car equipped with sufficient benches to accommodate 50 students.

The staff consist of a single teacher, employed during the day as a carpenter's helper by the construction company. At this particular point courses are offered in two subjects—English and mathematics. Registration is open to all workers at the Fraserdale camp, and at the beginning of January 175 of these had enrolled as students of Frontier College. Classes are held six nights a week, for an hour each evening, but, since the entire group cannot be accommodated at one time, students in English and mathematics meet on alternate nights.

Universities are inclined to boast of the extent to which they can attract students from foreign countries. In this respect, at least, the Fraserdale branch of Frontier College refuses to take second place to any other institution on the continent. Among those studying English no less than 14 nationalities are represented.

In individual attainment and capacity these man differ widely. Highly trained mechanics, including some of the best foremen on the job, rub shoulders with men whose only tools are the pick and shovel. The graduate of a foreign college, already master of three or four language, studies English beside the man who, a month ago, could not even write his own name in any language. Yet in spite of such incongruities, in spite of overtime and sickness, in spite of the labor turnover, this class functions remarkably well, and attendance keeps up to the record set during the first weeks, when the venture, to the instructor at least had all the charm and novelty of a new educational undertaking and none of the terrors of hard work.

In the group taking mathematic, on the other hand, while most of the students can speak English, the individual differences among them present more difficulty. Youngsters just out of high school want one type of work; their classmates, whose schooling ended 30 years ago in the "second book," want something entirely different. The curriculum, accordingly, must be sufficiently broad to include all phases of the subject—from the multiplication table to elementary trigonometry; and from the mysteries of "carry one" to the relatively simple obscurities of corporation finance.

But even in this study group there is no need for undue sub-division. Since the collapse of the stock market, everybody is pathetically eager to learn the difference between common and preferred stocks. They are even content, now, to study the possibilities of compound interest, in the hope that they may again, in the not too distant future, be able to open a savings account. Moreover, the ordinary routine of a carpenter's work, or the work of any mechanic, raises problems of lines and surfaces and volumes that can only be solved by mathematical processes, and the men are eager to master such practical phases of these subjects as limited time permits after the day's work.

This branch of Frontier College is open to the men at all hours of the day or night. Large number of good magazines are provided, and a small but select library is available also for the use of the men.

In the evenings, after the regular classes are finished, most of the men stay to talk, and material for conversation is never lacking. Frontier College students come literally from all parts of the globe, and they are eager to give and to receive information about the geography, the history, or the politics of their homelands. These informal discussions frequently last for one, or even two hours after the regular closing time and they cover every imaginable subject. In view of the searching questions asked and the diversity of their inquiries, the laborer-teacher requires a breadth in general knowledge which is usually the result of a university degree.

I was interested in learning recently that Frontier College sends to the camps men from all colleges and of all sects—80 per cent. of whom are graduates, or in their final year. These laborer-teachers, like myself, I understand, are invariably employed at manual work in the camp during the day, thus sharing fully in the problems of the men with whom they have to deal. It is encouraging to know that about 60 instructors are located by the Frontier College annually.

But what is probably the most important part of the work of Frontier College lies altogether outside of its academic functions. The instructor is something more than teacher. He is a friend, a fellow-worker, to whom the men can appeal for aid. In writing and reading letters, in settling disputes, in finding lost articles, and in a thousand and one situations where campmen need advice or sympathy, he is at their disposal.

On these frontier works, where large bodies of migratory workers—permeated often with radical ideas—are gathered together, the aborer-teachers of the Frontier College are a constructive and wholesome factor at work among them.

It is upon the intimate, human contact that all work of the Frontier College is ultimately based.

Remembrance Ends Only With Death

LONDON, May 4 (By The Canadian Press).—No one except, perhaps, the police in Whitehall notices there are two posies the less per day on the Cenotaph. Granny Newman's daily remembrance of her two grandsons who fell in the war has ceased with her life. Ever since the Cenotaph was put up the little old flower seller with the sweet, wrinkled, parchment-like face under the old-fashioned black bonnet has selected her choicest flowers each morning and put a bunch on either side.

"I couldn't go and thrust flowers in people's faces," she said. And so, when there was a special happening in Whitehall the younger flower-girls reaped the harvest and the little old flower-woman of 83 years sat in her corner and waited for her regular customers, who were all too few. Her favorite expression was: "We mustn' grumble."

LEGS TREMBLED; HEART THROBBED

Is Now Well and Strong as Ever —Helped by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (Tonic)

A Great Spring Tonic

"I wish from my heart," writes Mrs. Louis Mitchell, of Oak Point, Manitoba, "I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. About a year ago I was suffering from a run-down system. Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever."

The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood stream. They form a tonic which tones up the nervous system.

RUM RADIOS NUMEROUS IN NEW ENGLAND

One Set Captured at Revere, But Officials Believe Seizure Will Not Hamper Trade.

STATIONS ALONG COAST

BOSTON, Mass., May 4 4.—The rum-running business in New England, coast guard and other officials believe, is not in the hands of one large syndicate but is made up of numerous large and small organizations which, while dependent of each financially, co-operate with their speedboats and radio facilities.

This belief esulted rom a recent raid by federal officers who captured an illegal short-wave sending and receiving station in a bungalow at Revere.

Such stations can be installed for as little as $200 and, according to an investigator whose name was withheld, the New England coast is dotted with them.

"A force of men could spend the rest of their days here tracking down these illegal short wave sets and they wouldn't even cripple the rum fleet," said the official.

Little Hi-jacking.

"These rum-running outfits along the New England coast are too wise to start fighting each other. You don't hear of any big hi-jackings now and any that do crop up are the work of tinhorn outsiders trying to get in the dough.

"The situation is entirely different here from what you read about in Chicago. Two or three of the gangs chip in and buy a boatload, and when it comes down off the coast here from the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, they send their own speed boats out for it or hire boats to run it ashore. They can do that for about $4 a case."

This informant believed the seizure of one or two radio stations would not seriously hamper the rum-runners, as they would request, and receive, the use of another syndicate's station.

While in one quarter it was said the "boys" were planning to ease off on running liquor for a few weeks, coast guard officials stated there was no indication the rum-runners were either preparing to lay off or start another big drive.

Two well-known Canadian rum-runners had been reported recently on rum row, 45 miles off the coast, said Lieutenant-Commander Earl G. Rose, commander of Coast Guard Base No. 5 at East Boston, but nothing lately had been heard from them. Each vessel has a capacity of 5,000 cases.

In one section of the East Boston water front, it is said, five speed boats are kept in first-class repair and make occasional trips to sea, disappearing for several days at a time. Despite constant watchfulness of the coast guard patrol boats and customs inspectors, these low-lying speedy craft are said to be successfully carrying on their occupation.

NUMBER 13 UNLUCKY IN WRECK

Thirteen was an unlucky number in the adventures of Hull, England, fishermen who were wrecked recently in Iceland, and it played a prominent part in the voyage. The men left port in the trawler Frobisher on January 13, and 13 days later commenced fishing operations. Thirteen hours after the homeward voyage was started the ship ran ashore, the crew reached the mainland. There were 13 steps inside and outside the hotel at which they were accomodated and the second engineer fell down one flight. The fishermen were picked up by the mail boat on Friday the 13th and were transferred to an Iceland steamer which already had 13 ship-wrecked German fishermen on board.

RUM-RUNNERS ARE GRUMBLING AS LIQUOR PRICES HIT BOTTOM

Runners Forced to Cruise Around for Weeks In Hopes of Improvement.

A GREAT DEMAND

(By Arthur A. Bossin)
(Special to Examiner, Copyright, 1931.)

HALIFAX, May 4.—Hard times have hit Rum Row according to the tales of woe unfolded by runners returning to this port from the Atlantic liquor supply base. The price-cutting war in New York City is held mainly responsible.

The latest song of the blues has come from the disgruntled crew of the "Royal Stranger" as she docked after one of the longest cruises in rum-running history. It took all of four months for her to dispose of her cargo and bitter complaints were heard from the crew against the long absences from home thus forced upon them.

Rum War Responsible.

"It is the rum war on in New York that is responsible," declared one of the crew as he disembarked, still clad in his heavy winter clothing and with his hair and beard showing sad want of attention. "The prices are dropping and the over-supply is driving them lower than they ever were. We hang around out there trying to get a decent price—and keep hanging around.

"There never has been such a demand for liquor and there never has been such a plentiful supply but with prices so low the supply boats are forced to cruise about for months before they can unload. Time and again we received orders to stick around for another week or so in the hope that prices would improve during the interval. They would go lower and we would be in a worse position than before.

"It's a tedious and exasperating and a monotonous life, now, and the money, isn't floating around the way it used to We earn what little we get. Me for a barber and a bath."

Canadian Students Scorn The Teaching Profession

WINNIPEG, May 4 (By The Canadian Press). — Very few Canadian young men and women are entering the teaching profession and Canada faces the danger of having her children taught by foreigners in the future, believes Professor J. F. MacDonald, M.A., of Toronto University. The small salaries paid teachers were responsible, he said.

During a visit in Winnipeg recently the noted professor stressed the fact that "only the smallest portion of the best brains in Canadian universities are going into the academic profession."

"It is because the money prizes are greater in other professions," he declared. He cited his own case, revealing that in 20 years of teaching "my average salary has not been $3,000 per year.

"The young men in our university," he continued, "scorn teaching, and so we are driven to older countries where the profession is in higher repute."

LOSE FAT THIS WAY

No matter how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles—

If you will take half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning for 30 days—

You will feel so good—so energetic, and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

Why will Kruschen Salts make this great change for the better in me—it is natural for you to ask.

Because Kruschen is a blend of the six vitalizing salts Nature says your body must have to keep every organ, gland and nerve in the body buoyantly healthy.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer, and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings. The old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat, and probably live years longer.

RECTOR AND WIFE AIR PILOTS

In celebration of their silver wedding anniversary, Rev. John Pyddoke, rector Pleasley, England, and his wife set up a new aviation record by qualifying for pilot's licenses on the same day. He is 61 and she is 52. They took their test at Tollerton aerodrome. One of the tests was to take the machine 2,000 feet up, shut off the engine, and land within 150 yards of a given spot. The rector went up first and landed on the exact spot. Mrs. Pyddoke passed her tests with similar ease. Mrs. Pyddoke had her first lesson in flying nearly two years ago. She was so thrilled that on returning home she persuaded her husband to take a flight. It happened to be a "bumpy" day in the air and the rector was not impressed, but further experience converted him.

TWO DIE IN AUTO CRASH

CAR COLLIDES WITH TELEPHONE POLE

Hurled through the top of their car when it crashed into a telephone pole and somersaulted into the ditch, one mile north of Freelton, Ont., Hugh J. G. McKenna, 43, a lawyer who resided at Hamilton, and Alex W. Johnston, 46, insurance adjuster, Hamilton, met instant death. They had been attending a supreme court trial at Guelph and were returning home at 10.45 p.m. when the fatality occurred. They were riding in Mr. Johnston's car, a heavy sedan. Dr. E. M. Sutherand of Freelton arrived at the scene a few minutes after the accident, but both men were dead. Coroner Dr. D. A. Hopper of Waterdown made an investigation and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. Inquiry by police failed to locate any person who witnessed the accident.—Photo shows wreckage of car.

Happy Workers Are Asset To Business

Extensive Facilities Under Good Direction Provided by Some Firms.

MONTREAL, May 4. — (By the Canadian Press)—It is good business to have well-developed, happy and efficient employees, and this is possible only when the daily work and the spare time bring satisfaction and self-development to the worker, declared Miss J. S. Herriott, physical director for women, McGill University, in a recent address given under the auspices of the National Chamber of Education.

Miss Herriott condemned exploitation of the woman worker through using her abilities as a means of advertising the firm that employs her. Business concerns, she declared, have often engaged a young woman with exceptional athletic ability, have paid her expenses in a club or public meet in order to reap advertisement from her victories. Some have been guilty, she said, of increasing the pay or granting special privileges to the young woman who covers herself with glory on the team of the firm or receives commendable newspaper notoriety for her part in a dramatic production. The firm guilty of such exploitation, she added, rarely considers the great mass of women workers who are not so gifted as to be good advertisers.

Handling of leisure time activities by various business and industrial firms ranges from the ideal situation of furnishing both facilities and leadership to ignoring the matter entirely, Miss Herriott said. Some firms have met their responsibility so completely as to furnish a recreation room, library and reading room, gymnasium and summer vacation camp; to employ a recreational director who organizes week-end excursions, motor trips, stunt nights, social dances, classes in physical education and dramatics, and also provide a capable instructor for all classes.

CONSIDER AUTO DEMERIT SYSTEM

Measure Reported to Massachusetts Legislature Would Replace Present Law.

BOSTON, Mass., May 4. —With seven members dissenting, the Legislative Committee on Insurance has reported a bill providing for a demerit rating system of automobile insurance to replace the present compulsory insurance law in Massachusetts. The new law would come into force on December 31, of this year.

Under the terms of the measure a board of inquiry consisting of the registrar of motor vehicles, the commissioner of insurance, and the attorney general, or their representatives, would be created

In the event that a motorist became involved in an accident from which a claim for personal injury was advances he would be required to prove to the board that he was financially able to meet judgment, in which case it would be necessary for him to take out insurance. He would still be subject, however, to the laws and regulations governing motor vehicles. If he could not prove financial responsibility, his registration would be suspended and the board would determine his fitness to operate with an insurance policy. If the accident were of a minor nature, the motorist would be classified and required to pay a slight increase in ordinary premium, the demerit premium being increased should the accident be more serious.

The premiums would be on a basis of 10, 25 and 50 per cent of the ordinary premium charged by the insurance companies. Incidentally, the premium would be fixed by the companies as in the case of fire, theft and similar p emiums instead of being set by the insurance commissioner under the provisions of the existing compulsory insurance law. Premiums fixed by the companies in accordance with the proposed statute would not be effective without the approval of the insurance commissioner.

First Norman Abbey Believed Unearthed

Recent Excavations in District of Unknown Warrior's Tomb Brings Interesting Fragments to Light.

LONDON, May 4.—(By the Canadian Press)—The church built at Westminster by Edward the Confessor, who died in 1066, was the first in the Norman style to be erected in England,, and recent excavations in the neighborhood of the Unknown Warriar's tomb have brought interesting fragments of it to light. These consist of the plinth courses of the south arcade of the Norman nave, which was pulled down about 1375 when the existing fabric was begun

The discoveries include the lower courses of the great north-east pier of the Norman south-west tower, and as the position of the old transept is already established, the old problem of the length of the earlier nave is solved; it was about 214 feet. So far the remains of one double bay have been found, and they comprise the tower pier, a smaller intermediate pillar, and a big composite pier, slightly less, of course, than that of the tower.

Two further excavations are intended, one to the east of the work already opened in the hope of discovering another bay, and the second near the present west wall on the chance of finding the north-east corner of the tower. Unsuccessful efforts have been made to find traces of the old north arcade, and it seems almost certain that this must have occupied the line of the existing arches.

When the explorations have been completed it is proposed clearly to mark on the present pavement the form and position of the Norman work, and a detailed plan is being drafted by the surveyor of the Abbey. Photographic revords are also being made. It is interesting to observe that the axis of the Norman church diverges slightly from that of the present building. Nothing is known of the small Saxon church which preceded the Confessor's building beyond that it was a sad state of dilapidation.

Edward the Confessor, King of the English, was so called on account of his reputation for sanctity.

Advent Of Spring Stirs Tong Thunder

WINNIPEG, Man., May 4 (By The Canadian Press). — Spring-time is in the West and the soft breezes and bright weather is spreading discontent among Winnipeg's Chinese population, according to Yick Wong, secretary of the Wong Wun Sun association. Repetition of last year's bloody struggle in Chinatown looms as rumbles of displeasure spread through the tongs.

The numerous funny little buildings, chop-suey houses, antique shops and secluded places where gambling prevails have opened after the bitter winter months.

Everything appears peaceful, but Yick Wong, who knows his Chinese brothers well, expresses fear that the truce cannot last and, with a shrug of his skinny shoulders, he states that it is for the Orientals to say.

Thunder of tong war is in the distance, he said, but it may break overhead with lightning flashes unless the residents of Chinatown prevent a recurrence of last year's incidents when frenzied tong members clashed with club and cudgel, the first real outbreak in Winnipeg.

Wong fears there is an attempt on foot to again stir up trouble among his brethren. Control of gambling is the sore spot in Winnipeg's Chinatown.

'MOUNTIE' DROWNED IN NORTH COUNTRY

Spring Break-up Claims Lives of Policeman and His Guide.

THE PAS, Man., May 4 (C.P.) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police Constable Donald R. Macdonnell, aged 22, and his Indian guide, M. Massau, were drowned on a little lake east of York Factory while on police patrol during April. News of their death was brought to Mile 356 on the Hudson Bay Railway, and wired down to police officials here.

The drowning took place on April 19, when the two men went through rotten ice while travelling during the break-up in the North country, 350 miles northwest of The Pas, near the mouth of the Nelson River.

This is the first tragedy reported in the North country as a result of the spring break-up. It is believed the officer was travelling from Port Nelson toward Mile 310 when the accident took place.

His companion had been a member of the force as a guide, sworn in as a special constable, for a number of years. The bodies were brought in to the Hudson Bay Railway station at Mile 356 early yesterday, and will be shipped to The Pas on Wednesday.

FAMOUS HEART FOUND

All Scotland apparently is anxious to help in the effort to identify what is claimed to be the embalmed heart of James Graham, Marquis of Montrose, who was executed in Edinburgh about 1650. The heart is in a silver casket, which has been entrusted for identification to Captain Henry Stuart Wheately-Crowe, president of the Royal Martyr Church Union and Governor General of the Royal Stuart Society. Documentary information furnished him states that after execution the heart was given into custody of the Campbell-Johnson family, taken to France and at one time during the French Revolution was hidden in haste down a well at Calais.

STAMP EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN WEST

Spirit of Canada Faith of Prairie to Sir Josiah Stamp.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4 (By Gillis Purcell, Canadian Press Staff Writer).—Staunch confidence of Canada's west country in its own destiny was the most impressive point noted by Sir Josiah Stamp in his recent trip to Canada. The world-famed economist crossed the prairies to the Rockies in the course of his royal commission survey of the grain futures problem.

Not in the luxurious beauty of Ottawa's terraced lawns nor in the canyoned architecture of Toronto's Yonge Street did the kindly Briton find inspiration — for he knows the gentle beauty of South England's downs and the terrifying might of New York's man-made mountains. To Sir Josiah the spirit of Canada is the faith of the prairies.

"I consider most remarkable the tremendous development which has taken place on the prairies in the last 30 years," said Sir Josiah. "The settlements on the vast flat wheatlands expressed no touch of temerity in their transition from shack-towns to budding cities, it is evident."

The towering granite home of Manitoba's Legislature seemed to personify to the affable director of the Bank of England a pioneering spirit looking ahead to the utmost bounds of its capabilities. He saw in the generously laid-out streets of Regina a foreseeing fortitude which appeared engendered in the spirits of Canadians.

"I was not impressed at the intelligence of the people of Canada, for I was often told of it before I visited the Dominion," Sir Josiah commented. He was awed at the might of the Rockies, seen in a week-end jaunt to Banff, Alta., but thought "somewhat more 'homey' than Switzerland's Alps." A Saskatchewan dust storm brought him an experience he had never before known.

"Tremendous hospitality" of Canada's folk made marked impression on Lady Stamp, who accompanied her husband across the prairies. Lady Stamp remarked on the manner in which a luncheon party of hundreds could be gathered on a few hours' notice, saying "It couldn't be done in London." She was amazed at the indomitable spirit of present-day folk living in the rugged rock country in far west Ontario.

Even Colin and Maxwell, sons of the Stamp family, who visited Canada with their parents, found their greatest "thrills" in the west. Man's fight with nature in the oil fields of Alberta's Turner Valley seemed marvelous to Colin, and a sudden flight of hundreds of north-bound geese across Manitoba skies sent little Max into ecstasy.

WEDDINGS

ROBINS—SANDERCOCK

ROSENEATH, May 4 (Examiner Correspondence) — Charming in all its appointments and attended by near relatives and a few intimate friends, the wedding took place on Wednesday high noon, of Elva May, older daughter of the late Thomas and Mrs. Eliza Sandercock of Alnwick township, to Mr. Orra James Robins, of Roseneath, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robins. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., pastor of the United Church. The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Clark Sandercock, was lovely in a very pretty creation of white flat crepe trimmed with white radium lace and crystals, and she carried a bouquet of carnations, sweet peas and fern. Her slippers were of white kid and white hose to match, and wore a white gold necklace set with natural crystals. She was attended by her sister, Miss Beatrice Sandercock, who was becomingly attired in a frock of lavender flat crepe and carrying a bouquet of snapdragons and fern.

Mr. Cephas Robins, brother of the groom, was best man.

The wedding march was played by Miss Beatrice Smith and during the signing of the register, she played, "I Love You Truly."

Immediately after signing the register a baptism took place, when the pastor christened the bride's little niece, Lois Eleanor Sandercock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sandercock after which the party adjourned to the dinning room where a sumptuous dinner was served with Misses Jessie and Beatrice Smith assisting at the table.

For travelling the bride donned a gown of printed crepe, her coat was navy charmelain with mole jabot collar and a chic hat to match and a black vagabond bag and accessories. After a short motor trip to Toronto and other points west Mr. and Mrs. Robins will reside in the village.

Heartiest congratulations are extended from their many friends, for their future happiness.

POST—BAILEY.

STIRLING, May 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — Charming in all its appointments, and attended by about thirty guests, the wedding took place of Florence Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bailey, Front Street, to R. Elmer Post, of West Huntingdon. The ceremony took place at the bride's home at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was a picture of girlish loveliness, her blonde beauty enhanced by her dress of powder blue lace, fashioned on long flaring lines, the sleeveless gown finished with a short bolero. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and lily of the valley. Rev. E. W. Rowland of St. Paul's United Church was the officiating minister. The bride's sister Miss Irene Bailey, was attired in figured chiffon in tones of cream and brown, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Bailey, the bride's mother, looked charming in a dress of cocoa georgette, wearing a corsage of sweet peas. The groom's mother was becomingly gowned in black silk crepe.

The wedding march was played by the bride's cousin, Miss Magdelene Lloyd of Belleville. The groomsman was Clarence Rollins, cousin of the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Lloyd sang "Because," being accompanied by Mrs. E. W. Rowland. The wedding supper was served on the sunporch and the table decorations were pink candles and roses on a white background, with favors of pink roses. The assistants were four cousins of the bride — Keitha Lloyd, Belleville, Evelyn Bailey, Harold, Helen Carleton, of Plainfield, and Bernice Belshaw, of Stirling, also her sister, Marion Bailey. The happy couple left by motor on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa and Montreal. The bride's travelling attire was a navy ensemble with shoes and gloves to match a silver hat and fox fur. The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of Community plate flat silver monogrammed, to the bridesmaid a white gold pendant, to the pianist a silver compact, and to the groomsman a set of Masonic cufflinks.

NO UNEMPLOYMENT FOUND IN MOROCCO

to porters, having boys obediently clean his shoes or carry his bags or serve him drinks. He takes these things for granted while his American cousin gets apologetic and wonders how much he should tip or if he is doing the right thing.

Almost Touched

So powerful did this staring sensation become that I looked up. Staring with all his might at me was a white man with burning black eyes and a pointed black beard. He was dressed in black from head to foot and even carried a black cane. His eyes seemed to bore straight through me. He gave me a card. Words were written on the card but I could not read them. The man never made a sound. Never took his eyes from me. He gave me another card. It was in English. It said this man had been in the war. A sudden shock had rendered him speechless and deaf. Since he got no pension couldn't I contribute a few francs for his support.

As I read this card I knew the man's eyes were fairly burning me. I went into my pocket for a coin when a south of England voice said, "Old Paris stunt mate. Bit of humbug. Pay no attention." The owner of the all black outfit winced in annoyance. If he was no more speechless than death he could probably have said plenty there and then. I waved him aside and he went away without speaking. It would have spoiled his racket to get angry.

Don't Need Doctors

"All sorts of frauds about here mate. Don't go giving away money." I thanked him and we strolled away together as he pointed out the sights and the meaning of the different outfits.

"See that lad," he said, pointing to a patriarchal figure in a flowing brown robe, "companion of the sick. He's like a medicine man. Cushiest job in all Morocco. Gets a doctor's pay and never does a thing. Has no office, never studies, has no responsibility nothing. But he gets big money."

And sure enough there are no doctors among the Arab population of Morocco. "There is but one God and he is Allah—what is written is written."

There is the complete philosophy of the fatalist. They scream in from the housetops every day. What is to be, will be. There is no escape from fate. "What is written is written." Therefore why a doctor if you get sick? What possible good can that do?

But the man or women in sickness wants something. He must be comforted. So up comes the "companion," the gay racketeers who comes and sits with the ill or dying patient and gives him the happy news that nothing can be done about it. Not a thing.

The muezzin says his little piece about fate once or twice a day. The "companion" says it as often as twice an hour. That's the only difference.

Takes 3 to Run Bus

As we strolled along the modern section, business places began to close up by pulling great steel shutters over their windows as their clerks hurried forth to the street cafes.

"What time do they re-open?" I asked; "To-morrow at nine."

"But these places were closed from 11.30 to 3.00, surely they aren't all cleaned up at 4.30?" "Sure they are. That's why business is good here. Short hours gives the employees a chance to spend money. There is no unemployment in Morocco. No dole, no breadline, no soup kitchen, no overproduction. The people are allowed to work so many hours a day. Machinery is not allowed to put men out of work over here."

"Machinery is ruining the world. Machinery will eventually kill America dead. Machinery takes the place of men. You see that bus?" he exclaimed, pointing to a big white machine, "how many men would run that in your country?" "One."

"That's right, one, now look at the staff of that bus." There were three.

People Are Happy

Two men sat in the driver's seat. One to drive and one to take tickets. On the roof was a gay Arab boy in a brilliant fez. It was his job to crank the car, for self-starters are absolutely illegal in Morocco. If there were self-starters on cars and buses this boy and hundreds like him would lose his job at 40 cents a day. I looked about and noticed that all the buses—and there seemed to be thousands of them—carried one of these fez boys on the roof. His only day time job is to crank her up. If a car stalls in traffic the driver honks his horn gloriously until the lad comes down from the roof and away they go again. After hours the lad has to clean the bus while two other men check up on the gas and oil.

"Here's something else again," the Englishman said as we rounded a corner. A caravan of 50 Arab men were walking from a truck to a ditch dumping off their heads baskets of loose earth. "You do that in a day or two with a couple of steam shovels. These 50 men will have work for a week hauling this loose dirt on their heads. Then they will do some other job."

"But the expense" I argues, "think of the costs." "Sure," he said, "think of them. Morocco booms. Business is excellent. People are happy. Values increase. Everyone works. There is actually a shortage of man power. The rest of the world has deficits, bread lines, doles, unemployment relief. Morocco controls machinery. Machinery controls the rest of the earth."

Monte Carlo has a campaign against pigeon shooting.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion and restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quickly ending even piles of long standing, that McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile agony or money back.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED BY MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM HILL

Former Residents of Peterborough Now Living in North Bay.

LIVED IN CITY 45 YEARS.

NORTH BAY, May 4.— Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, well-known residents of North Bay and formerly of Peterborough, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Monday, April 27 at the home of their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Runnels, 107 First avenue east, with whom they are residing. Mr. Hill, who is 75 years of age, and his wife, who is three years younger, are both enjoying good health—are still active—and looking forward to many more years of happy life.

Mr. Hill was born in December, 1856, in Hastings, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hill. On April 27, 1881, he was married to Miss Theresa Kingdon, Peterborough, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kingdon—the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents by the late Rev. Ephriam Parker, minister of the Methodist Church. The couple took up residence in Peterborough, where Mr. Hill was employed as pattern-maker by the Canadian General Electric Company, and remained there until five years ago when they moved to Orillia. After staying there for a short time, they came to North Bay and took up residence with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runnels, where they have remained since. Mr. Hill is a past-Master of the Peterborough Masonic Lodge and also a former member of the I.O.O.F. of that city. Mrs. Hill was an active worker in the interests of the church and the Childrens' Shelter. Both are regular attendants of Trinity United Church in this city. They have four children, two sons and two daughters. They are as follows: Mrs. F. W. Runnels, North Bay; Mrs. H. A. Pearson, Vancouver, B.C.; Henry Hill, Calgary, Alta.; and William Hill, Carseland, Alta.

A charmingly arranged reception was given in their honor by Mrs. Runnels on Monday afternoon, a host of friends calling between the hours of three and six to extend their congratulations and best wishes to the happy couple. The guests were received by Mrs. Runnels, Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Mrs. A. Spellman, Kitchener, sister of Mr. Hill. The rooms were decorated with a profusion of beautiful cut flowers which were received by the honored couple during the day. The lace-covered tea table, with its glittering silver appointments, was centred with a bowl of red roses and adorned with yellow tapers. Tea was poured by Mrs. Brodie Christie and the assistants were Mrs. David Hamilton and Mrs. P. W. MacLennan. A dinner for immediate friends and relatives was held in the evening. An out-of-town guest for the occasion was Joseph Hill, who acted as best man for his brother at the ceremony 50 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill, not only received a profusion of flowers in honor of the occasion, but also many lovely gifts, including pieces of gold. Beautiful bouquets were received from the Peterborough and North Bay Lodges, I.O.O.F., and besides the many beautiful bouquets sent by North Bay friends, flowers were also received from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lacheur and Mrs. Robert Stewart, Peterborough; Mrs. Wellington Edwards, Toronto; Miss Athol Beatty, Toronto; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hill, Calgary, Alta.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

SUN MAGIC

When I go out in sun and wind,
My troubles all are left behind,
I win to regions wholly kind.

Though I went weary and dismayed,
Always, when sunward I have strayed
A magic wand on me was laid.

A magic wand whose potent spell
Can prove anew that all is well
And hope's bright legions can compel.

The sun gives life to all the earth,
Where else would be but blight and dearth,
The sun gives strength and joy and mirth.

And even for a weary soul
Which has relinquished many a goal,
The sun still plays its magic role.

And so, when every bliss seems done,
I seek the golden realms of sun
Until faith's web anew is spun.

TOMATO JUICE.

Tomato juice cocktail makes an excellent appetizer for a meal. If you squeeze just a drop or two of onion juice into it it is improved.

Was In Bed All Summer

"I have to work in the store and do my own housework, too, and I got nervous and run-down and was in bed nearly all summer. The least noise would make me nervous. I was told to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken seven bottles. It has made me stronger and put more color into my face. I am looking after my store and housework and my four children and I am getting along nicely now." —Mrs. J. Malin, R. R. No. 5, Barton St. East, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:—

My conscience has been troubling me for not writing you, but I have been so busy. We were moving and it is like a double dose of Spring cleaning, and as I am not very strong yet, I found it extra hard.

Well Anne, although I didn't write, I read your articles and enjoy the versatility of them. But we do neglect you badly. On the other hand, I am like Quid Est, in that respect that I do not want to monopolize the page. Well, I find I am still "different." Like the Leopard, I cannot change my spots. On a recent visit to my doctor (who has done wonders for me) he said, "do not ever take certain medicines. You are 'different' and must have individual treatment." I gave a little shudder, then smiled, because you see I cut out all the letters the neighbors wrote, and every so often I read them, and get fresh courage.

I liked Quid Est's last letter best. Now I can understand her better. She has the autocrasy which goes with age and experience. Having just gone over the forty mark myself, I assumed she was about my own age Well, where is Water Lily, Highflyer, Sister, Elizabeth, Rowena, Lucinda, Meta and all the other friends of the page? Why, oh, why, don't they write?

No I have a problem and it is this. If you know that someone is trying to 'put one over' on you, is it more Christian to let them do it, and say nothing, or should one fight it out, knowing for certain one is in the right? Or let me put it differently. If one person charges a price for a small favor, should the other one charge a price for the same favor returned later? My contention is that if you let people do things to you or put one over on you, they treat you like a doormat. Now we all run up against this problem sooner or later, and I would like the neighbors' opinion for and against. Some are for peace at any price, but there is a sense of futility left with me in such circumstances.

But please understand that I try to follow the "Do unto others" idea. Oh Anne, my work is staring me in the face and I must be at it.

Please, neighbors, spare a few minutes to answer my problem, and if anyone had a problem, I would be willing to give my opinion too. Hoping for a great many letters,

Yours sincerely,
Ad Infinitum.

Many thanks, Ad Infinitum, for your letter and welcome back to the page! I do hope you are getting your health back and dont try to do too much work just at this time. In giving my opinion of your problem. I would say to overlook the fact that this person is trying to put it over on you and disregard that person. By and by he or she will repent and you will be happy in knowing that you, at any rate, followed the Golden Rule.

Anne Wilcox

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND HIS JOKE.

Uncle Wiggily hopped to his hollow stump bungalow one day with a toy, trick telephone in his pocket. It was the kind of a toy trick 'phone that, when you tried to talk over it, it would squirt water in your eyes. For in the bottom of the trick toy was a rubber ball filled with nice, clean wate .

"This is a jolly good trick and I am going to play it on my wife and on Nurse Jane," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he hopped along. "Mr. Twistytail played the water telephone joke on me and now I must play it on some one else."

I think you may remember, in the story before this, I told you how Uncle Wiggily went in a toy store with the fat pig gentleman and there the bunny uncle saw the toy telephone. Then his eyes were squirted full of water when he thought he was calling up his bungalow to ask his wife or Nurse Jane what sort of a toy they thought Baby Bunty might like.

"Yes, this surely will be a dandy joke to play on my wife!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "I didn't mind having telephone water squirted on me so she won't mind having some in her own eyes. Neither will Nurse Jane."

Uncle Wiggily hopped carefully into his bungalow with the toy trick telephone held behind his back. For he wanted neither his wife nor Nurse Jane to see it until he had put water in the rubber ball so, when either of the animal ladies went to talk, they would be sprayed in a most jolly and surprising fashion.

"Nobody home! That's good!" said Uncle Wiggily to himself smiling so that you could scarcely see the twinkle on his pink nose. He hid the regular telephone and in its place put the toy, trick water-squirting one.

The two telephones looked so much alike, as if they were twins, you would not have known one from the other.

"When my wife comes in I'll ask her to call up Aunt Lettie, the goat lady, and invite her to tea!" thought Mr. Longears. "She will pick up the toy, trick telephone and how surprised my wife will be when the water squirts in her eyes as it squirted into mine. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Laughing softly, Uncle Wiggily filled the rubber ball with nice, clean water, good enough to drink.

"If Nurse Jane comes in first," thought the rabbit uncle, "I'll ask her to telephone and I'll play the joke on her. It will be jolly fun!"

The rabbit gentleman, meaning no harm, sat in his easy chair, with the trick joking telephone all ready. He waited and waited and waited, but still neither Nurse Jane nor his wife came in.

"Maybe they have gone to the movies," thought Mr. Longears. "If they have, they won't be back until tea time and then they'll be too busy for me to ask them to use my joke telephone. I wish they'd hurry home.

"Here they come now, I think," he said, as he heard footsteps, but it was only Baby Bunty skipping home from school.

"Oh, heigho, Unkie Wig!" she greeted, using all the baby talk she was permitted. "May I speak over the telephone," she went on, as she saw what she thought was the real one on the table.

"No! No! Don't use the telephone!" cried Uncle Wiggily quickly. He didn't want Baby Bunty to spoil the joke he hoped to play on his wife or Nurse Jane. And he knew if the little orphan rabbit picked up the make believe telephone water would squirt in her eyes.

"Why can't I use the telephone, Unkie Wig?" asked Bunty. "I want to telephone Nannie Wagtail to come over and play with me."

"No, Bunty, I'm sorry," said Mr. Longears, "but you can't use the telephone now. You see—er—there's a reason!" and he twinkled his nose.

"Oh, all right," said Bunty and she went out to play. Uncle Wiggily waited and waited and waited for his wife or Nurse Jane to come home so he could play the telephone joke on one of them, but neither came. Then, it was so still and quiet in his bungalow that Uncle Wiggily fell asleep. All of a sudden he was awakened by the tinkle of a bell. Being thus aroused from his sleep and forgetting about the trick, Uncle Wiggily exclaimed:

"It's the telephone ringing! Something must have happened to my wife or Nurse Jane!" Before he knew what he was doing he picked up the trick, toy telephone and "Squish!" Oh, what an eyeful of water Uncle Wiggily got. Both eyes were squirted full from the toy phone.

"Wow!" cried Uncle Wiggily in jolly surprise. Then the tinkle sounded again but instead of a telephone it was the front door bell which Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane were ringing to have Mr. Longears let them in for they had no key coming home from the movies.

"How did you get all that water in your eyes, Wiggy?" asked his wife.

"Oh, Ha! Ha! it was a joke!" chuckled the bunny gentleman. "It was a toy trick telephone joke on me, Ha, Ha!"

West Indian Scheme For Teachers' Union

Movement Started to Establish Federation of All Teacers' Unions in Indies.

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, B.W.I., May 4 (By The Canadian Press).—In connection with the proposed West Indian Federation of Teachers' Unions the Trinidad Guardian editorially commends the proposal. The Guardian says: "Teaching as a profession, it is claimed, has not yet come fully into its own in Trinidad, and no doubt the same thing may be said of the rest of the West Indies. This is one reason why the movement to establish a West Indian Federation of Teachers' Unions deserves to be supported.

"Teachers' Unions exist already in Trinidad, Jamaica, British Guiana, Barbados and Grenada. There is apparently no reason why they should not be made to function throughout the Windward Islands and in the Leeward Group. Probably one outcome of the federation of the existing Unions, if it is accomplished, will be an impetus to establish teachers' organizations in places where they are not yet known.

"The Trinidad and Tobago Teacher's Union has done useful work since its inauguration. It has seen the partial fulfilment of its aims to advance the status of teachers and teaching and the standards of education generally.

"But perhaps the most outstanding fact in connection with the Union is that it has helped to make the Trinidad public conscious of teaching as a profession and not simply as an occupation. This had hitherto been a keenly desired but apparently unrealizable aim, in spite of the notable impress made on public opinion by the work and character of such men as Mr. de Suze, who became the first intermediate schoolmaster in Trinidad, and produced a useful text book which is still extant. After his retirement, Mr. de Suze was given a seat on the Education Board, a position which, it is said, had not previously been bestowed on an ex-teacher.

"Much remains to be done in strengthening the impression already made on public opinion by the Union. But a foundation has been laid which may easily support a worthy super-structure if each brick is carefully fitted into place."

Andree's Diary Fails To Tell Of Tragedy

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 4. — (AP)—Completion of the deciphering of Salomon Andree's second diary has terminated the possibility of further interpretation, in the opinion of Professor Ahlmann, one of the experts engaged in the task.

"We can never expect to learn anything from Andree's diaries about the finaal catastrophe" he said in relation to the documents which were found with the bodies of the members of the Andree Arctic balloon expedition in 1897.

The last section of the second diary dealt briefly with the weather and the daily life of the explorers who were nearing death as the words were written.

Truck Backs Into Car, Damage Slight

An Imperial Oil truck, driven by William Kirkland, Aylmer Street, backed into a car driven by Mrs R. P. Leeming, 202 Park Hill Road, on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Leeming was driving east on Park Hill Road, when the truck swung off Benson Avenue and continued east along Park Hill Road. The truck stopped in front of Mrs. Leeming's car, and she also stopped. Without warning, witnesses state, the truck backed into the Leeming car, doing damage estimated at close to $100.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The use of candles on dinner tables to supply the softest and most becoming light to those around the tables is a vogue.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps some of you readers doubt the fact that candles do shed a soft and becoming light and if you do, just try them out and see for yourself.

• • • • • • •

So without going further into the charm of such lighting, let us turn to the best disposition of the candle ends. No doubt you haven't even given them a thought, but when the candles become too short you just throw them away.

• • • • • • •

There are always candle ends, longer or shorter according to the way they are burned, and it is thrifty to make good use of them.

A type of fire-lighter can be made of these old candle-ends that is reminiscent of the Cape Cod firelighters that cost considerable to buy.

• • • • • • •

The candle-end lighters are equally effective if not exactly ornamental, unless the homemaker makes us of an attractive brass, iron or copper tankard, or container, to keep them in by an open fireplace.

• • • • • • •

The candle-lighters most nearly resembling a Cape Cod firelighter requires beside the holder a round rod of metal ten or twelve inches in length, tipper with a handle at one end. This may be of brass, copper or iron to suit the metal of the holder.

• • • • • • •

An old poker can be used, if it is shortened.

• • • • • • •

Fold newspaper into strips two and a half or three inches wide and as thick as a sheet of the newspaper makes it when so folded. Melt the candle-ends in a receptacle over a slow fire.

• • • • • • •

Wind a folded strip of the newpaper around the unfinished end of the metal rod and tie it tightly to the rod. Dip this paper-covered end of the metal rod into the melted candle-ends and leave it there until the paper has absorbed a good deal of the melted wax, tallow or paraffin.

• • • • • • •

Remove the rod, and let it drip into the container of wax. While the wax is still soft scrape off all but a thin coating on the outside of the paper.

• • • • • • •

Put the prepared rod into the copper or other container and it is ready to be used as a firelighter. The way it is used is as follows: When a fire is laid in the fireplace do not put any paper beneath the kindling, but light it by placing the candle-end lighter beneath the wood and setting fire to it with a match.

• • • • • • •

The waxed paper will slowly burn itself away as the flame from it ignites the wood. Then remove the rod and replace in the container until prepared as described, for another time.

• • • • • • •

A convenient way to have refills for these candle-end lighters is to prepare as many coils of paper as you can with the supply of candle-ends on hand

• • • • • • •

Remove each coil of paper when soaked in the wax, scraped and cold except the final one which is left on the rod. Put these coils away in a cold place until the rod needs replenishing and then slip another on its tip, tie in position, and replace in its tall and slim metal mug, pitcher or jar.

ST. BERNARD MONKS ISOLATED

During the heavy snow storms of the winter the most isolated community in Europe were the 12 monks of the Grand St. Bernard, who, for many days were entirely cut off from the outer world by terrific blizzards. Perched on the summit of the St. Bernard Pass, 8,000 feet above the Rhone Valley, the famous hospice was swept by storms from all quarters, and the building was almost buried beneath 30 feet of snow. If, at the risk of their lives, the monks wished to leave their snowy prison, they were obliged to climb out of the top-floor bedroom windows. For the moment the famous dogs were unable to fulfill their humane mission of searching for lost wayfarers, as they would sink beneath the surface of the soft snow. All attempts to cimmunicate with the hospice by telephone were unavailing, the lines having been swept away by avalanches.

FLIER IS NEARING LOST COURTAULD

Captain Ahrenberg Reaches Spot Within 190 Miles of Scientist's Camp.

DOG TEAM UNHEARD FROM.

ANGAMAGSALIK, Greenland, May 4.—(A.P.)—Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish aviator, was within flying distance to-day of the tiny hut on Greenland's icy cap where Augustine Courtauld, British explorer, has been marooned for many months.

After one false start, Captain Ahrenberg flew here yesterday from Reykjavik, Iceland, in five hours, completing a dangerous flight across the North Atlantic from Malmoe, Sweden, in four stages. Formation of ice on the wings of his plane prevented him from continuing his journey in search of the isolated Britisher.

Captain Ahrenberg's immediate destination is the main camp of the British Arctic air route expedition, about 40 miles inland, and thence to the meteorological station, about 150 miles inland, where Courtauld volunteered to spend the winter gathering data for a proposed air line to Canada. He plans to drop food for the explorer and possibly make a landing to bring him back.

Meanwhile, three dog team expeditions are presumed to be nearing their destination. One is led by H. G. Watkins, head of the expedition, and the other two by friends of Courtauld. Nothing has been heard from them for some time but they are believed to be well fortified against the rigors of the north.

The Danish steamer Hvidbjorn lays at the Greenland ice barrier, waiting to be of assistance to the searching parties.

PAYS FORTUNE TO KIDNAPPERS

Former Gambler, Road House Operator Tells Police Freedom Cost $150.000.

MORTGAGED HIS HOME.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4. — A story that his entire fortune of $150,000 had been paid to kidnappers for his release, was told to-day by James Hackett, former gambler and wealthy road-house operator of suburban Blue Island.

The 57-year-old Hackett, who weighs 240 pounds and is regarded by police as the "Dictator" of the slot machine business in the southern part of Cook County, was kidnapped by a gang of men last Friday, he advised police last night. They had seized him on the grounds of the Idaho Country Club.

He was released yesterday, on payment of the money, which was turned over to his abductors by his wife, and James E. Blouin, a business associate.

Hackett said that his wife worked from Friday to Sunday to raise the $150,000 converting jewelery and securities into cash, even going so far as to mortgage their home. This was done on assurance that he would sign the mortgage as soon as he was freed.

A full investigation was promised by Patrick Roche, Chief Investigator for the State's Attorney's Office, who said that while he believed Hacket was kidnapped, he doubted if the ransom price was as high as $150,000.

LADY BADEN-POWELL

TARANAKI, New Zealand, May 4 —(By the Canadian Press)—Accompanying Sir Robert Baden-Powell, chief Scout, on his visit to New Zealand is Lady Baden-Powell, Chief Guide. During the past 21 years she has controlled the destinies of the wide-flung Girl Guide movement, and to-day watches over the welfare of nearly one million girls in every quarter of the globe. She is one of the busiest women in the world, and shares with her famous husband the hero worship and devotion of thousands of young New Zealanders.

In an interview here Lady Baden-Powell referred enthusiastically to the romantic growth of the Girl Guide Movement, which from small beginnings in 1910 had grown into the widest of all organizations for girls, embracing to-day 800,000 young people in nearly every country in the world.

"Our membership leaps up by an average of 50,000 every year," she said. "The movement has been extended recently to Norway, Sweden and Denmark It has gone to Palestineand we are now very strong in Egypt. In India the movement has taken on wonderfully and we have the highest expectations of the good it will do in that huge country whose women are now waking up from the backward state in which they have lagged so long." The Girl Guide movement in India was applying much the same methods as those used in European countries, for, as Lady Baden-Powell remarked, "a girl is a girl the world over."

"As an English woman I am naturally most interested in the girls of the over-sea Dominions," added the Chief Guide. "They are doing great work in Canada, and the movement is particularly strong in South Africa. That is very significant, because we hope it will exert an influence in bringing the women of the two races, British and Dutch closer together."

PRAIRIES GET RAIN.

REGINA, Sask., May 4 (C.P.). — Saskatchewan's capital city and the southern Prairies, parching and scorching for weeks from lack of moisture, received slight relief on Sunday in scattered showers, only sufficient to settle the dust at widely separated points.

Regina and points as far north as Govan and Yorkton and as far east as the Saskatchewan-Manitoba boundary, were included in the rainfalll which brought some relief from the heat, dust, and wind of the past weeks.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHY BURNS MAY BE DANGEROUS

It is certainly gratifying to see how the treatment of burns by tannic acid is now becoming general in factories and industrial plants. The older methods of carron oil, borated vaseline, baking soda and so forth are gradually giving way to th s more effective treatment.

Although a solution may be made up that will keep good for a week, most first aid cabinet contain the tannic acid in powder form. About three or four level teaspoonfuls in a pint of water, makes about the right strength, 3 per cent., although a 2 per cent. and 5 per cent are sometimes used.

Now I'm not suggesting that you try to treat a severe burn yourself because death may result from a burn that is not treated properly, even a burn that does not destroy much tissue. But tannic acid is your first treatment until a doctor is in attendance, as it helps to ease the pain, prevent infection, and promote healing.

When death occurs it has been thought that it was due to shock and absorption of poisons, but Dr. F. P. Underhill, of Yale, tells us that the heat from a burn may penetrate the interior of the body and raise the temperature there. This heat takes liquids out of the body, leaving the blood thickened, thus interfering with its circulation. "This leads to the formation of ulcers, hemorrhages and similar disturbances."

In the liquids found in the blisters and swelling of a burn have been found substances that normally never pass through a blood vessel into the tissues. This shows how a burn interferes with the body processes, and why shock and death may result.

Dr. Underhill points out that blood which has lost some of its liquid means a failing circulation, blood that has an insufficient amount of oxygen, a fall in temperature, and finally death.

What is to be done?

The water lost to the blood must be immediately replaced, and so water by mouth, by rectum, by hypodermic, is the first thought.

Although the reason why water should be given has been just recently discovered by Dr. Underhill and his associates at Yale, Dr. Edward Martin of University of Pennsylvania suggested many years ago that "Liquid nourishment in small doses frequently repeated" should be a part of the treatment.

Remember then that the water in the "blister" of a burn has been withdrawn from your blood and should be replaced.

WINTER WEATHER EASILY FORECAST

All U. S. Residents Have To Do is Calculate Distance of Gulf of Mexico.

METEOROLOGISTS GATHER.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 4 (C.P.). — Weather experts learned to-day that any United States resident can tell roughly how cold it will average in his home town next winter by calculating the distance from there to the Gulf of Mexico.

Winters, in general, average one degree colder every 25 miles north from the Gulf to Minnesota, Oliver L. Fassig of the United States Weather Bureau told the American Meteorological Society at its annual spring meeting. Mean winter temperature along the southern limits of the United States and up the Pacific Coast to Northern California is 55 degrees, while in Northern Minnesota it is five degrees, he said.

The weather grows rapidly warmer instead of colder during an Antarctic blizzard, W. C. Haines of the Weather Bureau reported. He was meteorologist on Admiral Richard E. Byrd's expedition to the South Pole.

During one blizzard the temperature rose in less than 20 hours from 49 degrees below zero to 16 above, a climb of 65 degrees.

The coldest day encountered by the expedition was 72.4 degrees below zero fahrenheit on July 28. The weather was 35 degrees above on December 28. July was the coldest month, with an average temperature of 44.7 degrees below zero, Haines said, while even in December and January, the Antarctic midsummer, the thermometer often fell below zero.

Couple Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary in Usual Custom—Alone.

TAPLOW, Buckinghamshire, Eng., May 4. (CP)—Lord and Lady Astor celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their country home, Cliveden, yesterday.

The celebration was confined to two persons—Lord and Lady Astor themselves.

"We are spending the day as we always like to do—alone", Lady Astor said. "It has been a very happy and a very full 25 years. We have brought up five children and done a great deal of work.

"The secret of married happiness is work and shared interests. The guiding principles of our lives have been social service and the teachings of Christ. Striving together to follow those principles has made our marriage a happy one."

Asked if she knew when she married Lord Aster that his interests were the same as hers, Lady Astor answered:

"They weren't when I married him, but they became so soon afterward."

Rangers To Back Intermediate Baseball Team

WILL OPERATE CRESCENT CLUB IN THE E. P. L.

Unable to Obtain Best Players in City for Senior C.O.B.L. Team.

LOOP TO OPEN MAY 16TH.

Schedule Will Be Divided Into Two Halfs, Winners to Meet For Title.

There will be no senior team representing Peterborough in the Central Ontario Baseball League this year, so far as Joseph and Harry Ranger, prospective backers, are concerned. This was disclosed at the E.P.L. meeting Saturday night, when Harry Ranger sought entry into that league. He informed those present that he could not obtain the best players in the city for a senior team, because many of them could not get off work for the out-of-town games.

Ranger, with Bill Prindible and Charlie Curtis will operate last year's Crescent team in the East Peterborough League this summer, thus making it a four-team loop, with Cogs, Rays and C.G.E. previously entered. It was agreed that only one player could be drawn from a team by another outfit, that is, if the player and the managers agreed on the transfer.

Opens May 16th.

The E.P.L. will open its schedule on Saturday, May 16th with the Crescents playing the C.G.E. at the Exhibition Grounds. The games will mostly be played on Tuesdays and Fridays, postponed games being run off on Saturdays. The schedule which will be drawn up shortly, will be divided into two halves, with the winning teams of each half playing off in a five-game series, the same as last year. The price of admission will remain the same, also.

The question of finances came in for a great deal of discussion, especially how the playoff money would be divided. It was decided to split even with the first and second team going 50-50 on the receipts after the league had received 15 per cent for operating expenses.

Other business, concerning players and finances, were threshed out to the satisfaction of the representatives. A report was made that the dugouts were fixed up and painted, all ready. The new screen will soon be installed and finishing touches put on the diamond. A few other matters were put over till the next meeting which will be in the same place next Saturday night at eight o'clock.

A letter of condolence will be sent to Jack Pilling, of the C.G.E., on the death of his mother recently.

Practise dates for this week were arranged, and with nothing more to be done for the present, the meeting was adjourned.

Battle Of Champions In To-Night's Show

TORONTO, Ont., May 5.—(By the Canadian Press.)—It will be a battle of champions at to-nights amateur boxing show here, sponsored by the Lions clubs of Canada and United States.

The ninth International fistic program arranged by the Lions fairly sparkles with the names of the amateur greats in Eastern Canada. Four provincial champions from the Province of Quebec and four Ontario title-holders will endeavour to lead the Canadian Lions to victory over a contingent of leather bushers from Philadelphia. The representatives of Pennsylvania were selected at an elimination tournament staged there and are ranged on a par with the Canucks in ring cleverness.

There are 12 bouts on the card, ranging from the flyweight to middleweight classes. Two Hamilton boxers and eight from this city comprise the Ontario team.

The Quebec representatives arrived last night and this morning, while the Philadelphians are expected this afternoon.

LOCAL CRICKETERS WIN OPENING GAME

Defeat Grove School By 105 Runs to 51 in Lakefield on Saturday Afternoon.

The Peterborough Cricket Club opened the 1931 season on Saturday afternoon by journeying to Lakefield, where they were the guests of The Grove School and Masters, and returned victors by 105 runs against Lakefield's 51 runs. Although the weather was not what one would term ideal, yet Jupiter Pluvius held off right until the last Lakefield wicket fell.

This game, like all Grove School games, was thoroughly enjoyed. Several promising players were noticed on both teams. Peterborough's best bowlers were F. Dyer and F. Jefferson, while Elmsley and Wood were the best for Grove School. F. McKenzie was top scorer for Grove School, with a score of 16. Batting honors for Peterborough also fell to Dyer and Jefferson, the former scoring 14 and the latter 26.

A return game with Grove School has been arranged for next Saturday, and the team to represent Peterborough will be picked at next Wednesday night's practice at the Oval, when all players are asked to attend.

Edmonton Basketeers Beat Chicago 80-33

EDMONTON, Alta., May 4 (C.P.)—Making their first appearance since the decision of the Canadian Basketball Association that deprived them of the Dominion title, Percy Page's Commercial Grads gave a convincing display at the Arena here Saturday night when they overwhelmed the Chicago Cardinals, champions of the Central A.A.U., by the score of 80 to 33.

The Edmonton team flashed a brand of basketball that at times bewildered the visitors and were never at any time in danger of being defeated.

As a preliminary to the Grads-Chicago game, St. Catharines Grads, Eastern Canada men's champions, played and defeated the Albetra University squad by a score of 48 to 32.

The second game of the girls' series will be played Monday night.

KEYS CAPTURE SERIES 3 TO 2

O'Neill Uses Six Moundsmen in Attempt to Stop Reading Batsmen.

DOUBLE SCORES, 12-10; 7-2.

READING, Pa., May 4.—Reading's surprising ball team defeated Toronto twice here yesterday afternoon to take the series from the Maple Leafs by a three to one edge, the Keys having won the last three games. Reading pounded out 15 hits in the first game, in which six Toronto pitchers were used, winning by 12 to 10. Reading employed three hurlers, with Johnny Welch, the final toller, receiving credit for the victory. In the second game, "Chick" Howard, a right-hander, purchased from Atlanta, held the Leafs to three hits, while the Keys were blasting Art Smith for 13. The Keys won by 7 to 2.

Reading scored in every inning but the sixth. In the fifth, Adair cleaned the loaded bases, with a triple. Toronto scored its two runs when a base on balls and two hits were grouped in the fourth.

WHEN JOHN L. UPSET THE SHIP

John L. Sullivan may have been minus the present day knowledge of ring generalship and science, but he had something that they can't get to-day. That's color. No other boxer has ever been quite so colorful as the great John L. One of the yarns told about him was of the time he fought Tom Sharkey, who by the way was also a gob. On Sharkey's chest a ship was tatooed. When the two met in the ring for their bout, Sharkey (probably the name had something to do with it) began to try and get Sullivan's wind up. No sooner had they met than Tom drawled across the canvas floor: "This is the time I send you down, Sullivan." But the John L. was ready with a comeback. With the words: "This is the time that I sink your ship, Sharkey," he took a vicious swing at his opponent and hitting the ship on Sharkey's chest, he knocked him out.

GREAT SHIRES SUFFERS INJURY

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 4.—(CP)—The "back to the majors of 1932" campaign of Charles Arthur (the Great) Shires is being held up by an injury.

The Great One, Milwaukee's regular first baseman, slid into the plate Saturday so earnestly that he suffered a severe bruise and probably will not be able to play before the end of the week.

Defeat Costly For McGrawmen as Cardinals Win From Chicago 5-4.

ERRORS AID YANKEES.

New Yorkers Celebrate Ruth's Return to Line-up By Downing Chicago Sox 8-3.

(By Gayle Talbot Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

When the Brooklyn Robins lose a ball game by ragged base running, thats' not news. But when Uncle Robbie's nephews snatch one out of the fire by spirited work on the paths, it is something to chronicle.

They did just that yesterday. They beat their old friends, the Giants, 4 to 3, with as pretty a piece of base running as you would want to see. Brooklyn fans, in fact, never had expected to see anything like it. Some 37,000 of them still were more or less agog to-day.

Fresco Thompson, a recent importation from Philadelphia, was the one who endeared himself to the Flatbush folk. He beat a perfect throw to the plate by an eyelash and in the seventh, winning for the Robins their third straight victory and settling a tight duel between Dazzy Vance and Carl Hubbell.

The defeat was costly to the Giants, who lost ground in their fight for the National League top as St. Louis made it three straight over Chicago, 5 to 4. The Cardinals went a game and a half ahead when Charlie Gelbert's squeeze bunt scored the winning run in the eleventh inning.

The Boston Braves missed an opportunity to move into third place when they dropped their fourth straight to the Phillies, 4 to 1. Ray Benge held the Braves to six hits. Whitney nicked Seibold for a homer with one on.

Cincinnati finally registered victory No. 2, defeating Pittsburg, 10 to 5, in the second game of a double-header after the Pirates had won the first, 6 to 3. Joe Stripp, Red infielder, hit three doubles and a single in the second tilt.

Al Simmons went on one of his well-known hitting sprees to give the Athletics a 3 to 1 victory over Washington in their opener. His triple drove a run across in the first inning and he added a home run for good measure in the ninth. Cronin's homer in the ninth deprived Walberg of a shutout.

Errors Aid Yankees

The Yankees hailed Babe Ruth's return to the line-up with an 8 to 3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Ruth played six innings and hit a pair of singles, getting around nicely on his injured leg. Six Red Sox errors proved a big help to the Yankees.

A big sixth inning, in which they scored seven runs and drove Thomas from the hill, enabled the St. Louis Browns to down Chicago, 9 to 5, and break a nine-game losing streak. Gray went the distance to get credit for his second victory out of four the Browns have won.

Wes Ferrell, the no-hit, no-run hero of a few days back, had a stormy first inning against Detroit but stuck it out to register his fifth win, 7 to 4. The Tigers jumped on the Cleveland ace for three runs in the first, but found him tough thereafter. Vosmik's home run tied it up for the Indians in the fourth.

UNITED STATES DEFEATS MEXICO

Youthful Opponent, Ricardo Tapia is Most Brilliant Player on Losing Team.

DAVIS CUP HONORS.

MEXICO CITY, May 4. —(AP)—The fine trio of tennis players representing the United States were a step nearer the Davis Cup finals today as a result of a sweeping victory over Mexico, but they had to share some of the honor with their young opponent, Ricardo Tapia.

Tapia, only 20 years old and lacking the tournament experience which made his rivals almost unbeatable, played with a fire and brilliance that threatened to cause trouble for the United States players as they swept through into the North American zone final by winning three straight matches. In singles and doubles, Tapia could not even win a set, but he succeeded in making most of them hard for his rival. Tennis followers agreed that the frail little Mexican showed great promise for future Davis Cup battles although he failed this year.

The United States clinched the victory yesterday by winning the doubles match in straight sets for the third victory. Two singles matches are left to be played Tuesday, but they will merely be exhibitions. Two players who are not much older than the youthful Tapia, Frank X. Shields of New York and Sidney B. Wood, a University of Arizona student, won the final triumph for the United States. They defeated Tapia and Manuel Llana, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. The Mexicans put up a good fight through the first two sets but lost some of their spirit after shields bested Tapia in a net duel in the second set to win the deciding game.

The United States team, after completing its matches here will face Canada in the zone final at Montreal May 21,22 and 23. The winner of that tie will play Argentina, South American zone winner, for the right to play in the final inter-zone match against which ever team comes through the European competition.

"KID" BERG WILL START COMEBACK

Two Champions to Enter Ring in This Week's Fistic Program.

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 4 (C.P.)—After a week or so with nothing much to do but stay at home and remember past battles, the boxing fans find something that makes it worth their while to go out and see a scrap or two on this week's program.

Two champions are scheduled to show their wares in non-title bouts; one battler who held a title until a short time ago, Jack "Kid" Berg of England, starts a campaign to return to the top and a good many first-class fighters who cannot tack "champion" after their names swing into action at various points through the country.

The title-holders are Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, and "Young" Jack Thompson, San Francisco negro, who regained the welterweight crown from Tommy Freeman a short time ago. Rosenbloom takes on the hard hitting Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., in a ten-rounder at Portland, Ore., Tuesday, while Thompson faces Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N.Y., over the same route at the Chicago Stadium Friday. Thompson's bout is half of a double-windup.

King Levinsky, young Chicago heavyweight, tackles Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, Pa., in the other ten-rounder.

Berg, who lost his junior welterweight championship instead of winning the lightweight title, when he fought Tony Canzoneri a short time ago, re-opens Madison Square Garden to boxing after a considerable lapse. He meets Tony Herrera of El Paso, Tex., in the main ten-round scrap Friday.

BEARS KEEP WINNING.

BALTIMORE, May 4.—The Orioles wound up their first home stay of the season in brilliant fashion by defeating the Rochester Red Wings in both ends of a doubleheader, 5 to 4 and 5 to 1, here yesterday afternoon.

The feature of the Oriole onslaught was the batting of Charley Tolson, secured from Minneapolis. The new Bird first-sacker mauled the ball for a total of six hits in six official times at bat, two of his blows being home runs.

Jim Stroner's bat really decided both games. His homer in the ninth of the opening game was the deciding tally, while his four-base slam in the first inning of the nightcap sent three runs over the plate.

NEWARK, N.J., May 4.—The new Bears thumped out 17 hits of assorted sizes here yesterday off a trio of Buffalo hurlers as Leo Mangum limited the Bisons to eight scattered blows, and the Bruins won, 10-0, for their fourth straight victory. Eight thousand attended the contest, the last before the Bears take to the road.

Harry Layne, Billy Zitzmann and Willis Windle featured the barrage of the Bears. Layne shelled out a pair of triples and a double, drove in three runs and scored as many himself. Zitzmann laced out three singles and Windle belted a single and a homer, which came in the eighth with two on base.

PACKERS BEAT ELECTRIC TEAM THREE TO NILL

Evans Scores in Early Stages C.G.E. Plays Poor Game Inside Goal Territory.

WINNERS ARE SUPERIOR.

Bolton of C.G.E. and Frick of C.P.C. Play Spectacular Game in Goal.

Last year's soccer champions, Canadian Packing, started off the soccer season with a win on Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the well-known Canadian General team by three goals to nil, in a league game, on King Edward Park, before a good attendance of fans.

Many new faces were in evidence on the line-ups. Nicholls and Fletcher, late of Oshawa city, turned out for the C.P.C. In the C.G.E. eleven, Stan Clark, the son of the popular referee of a few years ago, has all the stamp of a youth that will make good with experience.

The electric boys played the second half with only ten men, owing to Jack McMaster retiring through an eye injury. Once they get established and the regular half-back line out, they will make themselves contenders for the championship. Looking smart in the new equipment of white sweaters with a triangle from the shoulder, and white pants, black hose with white tops.

The pitch was in fine trim, and as the ball was light, the players took time to become acquainted with the tactics displayed. The Packers were the only ones to settle down to their new places. Raid after raid instituted by them kept Bolton, the C.G.E. custodian, on the jump to prevent a tally. At last, he had to concede defeat when Dick Evans met a perfect cross with a first timer from close range. The C.G.E. custodian had no chance to stop the drive. The next few minutes were anxious times for Frick, C.P.C. goalie, who was master of the desperate attacks launched by the C.G.E. forwards. They broke fast inside the goal area to finish with shots that was all the way marked for the net, but Downer at full-back blocked them in the nick of time.

Frick very Safe.

While Darling, on the left wing, and Quinn, on the right, for the C.G.E., peppered shot after shot into the goal mouth, the McMaster brothers did everything but score. Buchan relieved the pressure and carried the ball up field, permitting Evans to dribble his way into the goal and compel Bolton to save at the corner post. The unsteady half-back line of the C.G.E. fell away as the game progressed. At this point the players indulged in hard charging to make the play more interesting. A round of applause greeted Bolton when he smothered the shot marked for the goal, when Foster run right into the goal mouth. To his own surprise the goal-keeper measured his anticipation nicely to gather the ball away from him and put it pass for an unsuccessful flag-kick. Canadian Packing 1. Canadian General 0.

Half Time.

The customary respite brought forth many changes in the positions of the Electric boys which didn't prove a success. Darling took up the centre position to become dangerous in every attack. From a flag-kick, he missed the upright by inches with a timely header. The C.P.C. full backs reverted to long kicks that aided their forwards to make inroads on the opposing defense that had been weakened through them playing the one back. Ben McMaster having a good time in that position. Taken unaware by Bromley, who had dribbled into the C.G.E. territory with the ball at his toe, Bolton was astonished when he noticed that it had rolled inside the upright from the foot of Art. Quinn and company led the C.P.C. defense a merry dance for a while. Frick nullifying their efforts with smart clearances when hard pressed. A break-away by Fletcher carried the attack to the other end where he landed a hot drive at Bolton who picked it up quickly. He threw the ball out into play but Buchan placed accurately to Newt Downer, who was all set for a rocket drive that found the rigging for number three. The play was mostly confined to the C.G.E. area thereafter, with the Packers finding the defensive methods a stumbling block to add to their score. Till the end, a clever display of goal tending was given by Joe Bolton in the Canadian General goal. The harder he is pressed, the more spectacular he is. On one occasion the ball hit the inside of the cross bar to go back into the field of play. Foster sent a rising shot back in again. Bolton jumped up in the sticks to divert the ball out of danger. Both teams showed the lack of practice in the closing minutes. Canadian Packing, 3. Canadian General, 0.

Yachtsman Refuses To Sell Shamrock V.

LONDON, May 4 (A.P.)—Sir Thomas Lipton refused to part with the Shamrock V., his latest challenger for the America Cup.

The famed sportsman told The Daily Mail to-day in answer to a cable report from the United States that he intends to race the Shamrock here this summer and has spent a considerable sum for alterations. A new hollow steel mast was fitted on her Saturday.

"No. She is not for sale," he was quoted. "I don't mean to part with her."

LINDSAY ARENA PROPOSAL TAKES DEFINITE FORM

Plans For Erecting New $23,000 Rink Are Rapidly Going Ahead.

PLAN TICKET CAMPAIGN.

Four Prominent Lindsay Citizens Volunteer to Raise $5,000 Necessary.

Plans for erecting the new $23,000 rink in Lindsay are going rapidly ahead, and it is expected that construction work will commence shortly. Four prominent Lindsay citizens have volunteered to go out and raise the $5,000 necessary, Frank Carew supplying the rest. This $5,000 will be collected within the next week, it is hoped, through the sale of 200 tickets at $25 each. Those buying the tickets are entitled to attend any function held in the rink in the next two years.

The proposed arena will be a large up-to-date affair, and will be used for all kinds of exhibitions, as a training quarters for athletic purposes, and almost as a Y.M.C.A. The rink will be an asset to the town in general, and a great boost for winter sports. It will be completed before next winter, and it is thought that few arenas in Eastern Ontario will compare favorably with it.

The volunteer collectors are James Mackey, Richard Butler, Bill Bryson and W. J. Ferguson. They are all well-known and busy men, but are doing this work without remuneration. The town will be divided into four districts and each man will have his own territory. Donations under $25 will be gladly accepted, though such donations will not call for a free admission ticket. Of course, greater amounts will also be welcomed.

Mr Carew hopes to have the necessary money available to begin the work within a few weeks.

WESTERN CITIES WIN RING TITLES

Winnipeg, Regina and Montreal Annex 12 of 15 Available Crowns.

THREE COME TO ONTARIO.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 4 (C.P.)—Most of the Dominion's newly-won amateur boxing and wrestling championships to-day were concentrated in three widely-separated cities. Mittmen of Winnipeg and matmen from Montreal combined with Regina athletes at the closing of the session of the two-day ring meet here Saturday night to anex 12 of the available 15 titles.

All Winnipeg's winnings were in boxing classes and all Montreal's in wrestling, while Regina won a boxing crown and two wrestling champions. Competitors from Toronto, Port Arthur and Hamilton each won a title. The meet, sponsored by the Winnipeg Police Athletic Association, ended a few minutes before midnight Saturday.

Howie Thomas, lightweight wrestling champion of the Dominion and Empire, was the only defender who competed in the ring tournament.

The fiery little Montreal matman easily swept through the opposition in his class, taking two quick falls in the final from Bjorn Johnson, Winnipeg veteran. Rolly Thomas, his brother, captured the bantam title, and two other Montreal lads, Don Stockton, middleweight, and Harry Madison, light heavyweight, were class champions.

The former lightweight boxing champion, Ross Galloway of St. Thomas, Ont., failed to make the grade in the bantam class. He was beaten in the final by Tommy Neilson, long-armed Winnipegger. Another former champion, Dan Matheson, heavyweight wrestler from Regina, captured the throne he vacated in 1925. The giant Saskatchewan police sergeant has never been beaten in either Provincial or Dominion competition.

Y.M.H.A. Favored To Capture Title

MONTREAL, Que., May 4 (C.P.)—With a twenty-four point lead Young Men's Hebrew Association of Montreal enter the second and final game against McAdam High School of McAdam, N.B., here to-night as potential Canadian Juvenile basketball champions.

They piled up the commanding advantage by trouncing McAdam here on Saturday 35 to 11. Y.M.H.A. played smart basketball against the inexperienced Maritime team and the score clearly indicated their superiority.

Baseball Gossip.

All players wanting a tryout with the Rays are advised to be at the Exhibition Grounds to-morrow night at six o'clock. With the opening E.P.L. game called for the 16th, players hoping to catch on with this team should attend every practise.

The Rotary Juveniles will hold a practise to-morrow night at six o'clock in the James Stevenson Park, and all players under age are asked to attend.

The Cogs are working out to-morrow night at six at the King Edward School grounds, and players are urged to be on time.

At the Theatres

AT THE REGENT

"KIKI."

Starting Tuesday and continuing for four days, one of the latest pictures by Mary Pickford, "Kiki," will be shown at the Regent Theatre under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League. This is acclaimed as one of the best productions of the famous star, whose name has always been associated with popular successes. It is rumored that Mary Pickford is soon to appear on the legitimate stage, which she forsook many years ago to make her fortune in the movies, first on the silent screen and now before the talking camera.

The picture is said to be a very interesting one and to show the little star at her best, in one of those madcap delineations which suit her so well.

The League will use the proceeds received from their share of the ticket sales, to continue their relief work, which has so many demands made upon it this year. Over $800 has been spent by the League this season in helping the needy that come under their attention, and more money is needed all the time. The League works quietly and carefully among the people entrusted to its care and tries to give them proper attention in sickness and in health. The usual demands for clothing, food and medicine make inroads upon its funds, as is the case with every other charitable organization, and this year's needs appear to be greater than ever before, without much visible chance of a let up.

Tickets for the picture are on sale at Kent's, Bond's and McDermid's drug stores.

NO-CLOTHES WIFE IN COURT

To restrain his wife from taking part in events where clothing is barred, a man recently appealed to a Berlin, Germany, court. He said that she had become an enthusiastic member of the Anti-Clothes Society, which has an estate near Berlin, where the wearing of clothes is strictly forbidden. She also went to the wave-bath at Luna Park on the nights when it is reserved for the society. When he had protested she had simply told him that he ought to keep abreast of modern progress. The puzzled judge pointed out that even a belief in the kultur value of the naked life did not entitle the wife to disreagrd her husband's wishes on the subject. "But how am I to stop her?" asked the husband, who was obviously dissatisfied.

LANGE CLAIMS DISCUSSED

Scientists and inventors in all parts of Europe are discussing the result of experiments carried out by Dr. Lange, of the Institute of Science at Dahlem, Germany. His plan is to obtain electricity directly from sunlight, and he has succeeded in running a small electric motor by current produced in this way. Many scientists believe that this is possible, but are dubious as to its ultimate practical value for many years, at least. Dr. Lange claims that by means of special design he has produced a photo-electric cell far more efficient than any that has yet been brought out. Under the influence of sunlight it generates an appreciable amount of electric current.

CASUAL COMMENT

The Mens City Softball League meets to-night at 7.30 in the Duffus Bowling Alleys. Six teams are figured to be in this summer, and it will be known definitely to-night. A lot of business is on the books, and should be cleaned up soon, as the schedule will be starting before long.

* * * * * * *

The matter of where the games will be played should be cleared up at this time, as the girl softballers are hanging back to see where the men will be this summer. If the latter play on the Central School diamond, the girls will get the Bowl in East City.

* * * * * * *

And speaking of the Girls League, several of the merchants and others who want to see the slightly weaker sex get going again, have offered the girls certain equipment, such as balls, bats and catcher's gloves. These are greatly appreciated, all right.

* * * * * * *

With the entry of the Crescents into the East Peterborough Baseball League, everything looks like plain sailing for that four-team loop. They start playing Saturday, May 16th, with Crescents meeting C.G.E.

* * * * * * *

That's the way they finished last year, Crescents and C.G.E. playing off for the championship in a five-game series. The latter outfit won out, but it was a great series.

* * * * * * *

The four teams in this league will each have individual colored tickets for their home games. For instance, perhaps the Rays will have green tickets, the Cogs red tickets, and so on. The home team will use their own tickets exclusively at the gate. It's a good idea.

* * * * * * *

The new entry, Crescents, will be run by Bill Prindible, Harry Ranger and Charlie Curtis. There ought to be a lot of baseball brains between the three of them. But we haven't heard yet whether the Prindible-Ranger-Curtis combine will call their: The Crescent Ltd., or not.

* * * * * * *

With the entry of the Crescents, things don't look so good for that senior ball team. Harry Ranger said that he would not back an entry in the Central League because the best players were not available. Several of those on whom he was counting found that they couldn't get off work for the out-of-town games this summer, so they signed up in the intermediate league.

* * * * * * *

That's certainly too bad. Now, unless somebody unexpectedly steps in and takes hold, there'll be no senior team here this year. Nor will there likely be any for several years, as Peterborough's withdrawal will more than probably result in the disbanding of the C.O.B.L.

* * * * * * *

If there were more co-operation between some of the manufacturers and those in charge of sports here, things might have been different. The few hours time lost by the players on their trips away from home should easily be outweighed by the advertising given this city, to say nothing of sportsmanship and the making of satisfied employees.

* * * * * * *

Well, the question seems to be: Is a good baseball town the size of Peterborough ready to drop back into the intermediate class for the next five years or so? If so, then it is indeed time that lacrosse was revived, and made into our big game again.

* * * * * * *

What will the O.B.A.A. think of us, after all the big talk handed around at the convention here early in April? And what will Bob Elliott, president of the C.O.B.L. think after he's been busy for a month now urging Oshawa and Kingston to come in with Peterborough, whose entry was the first one in?

* * * * * * *

Oh, well, times will change. And, while most of the local fans wants senior ball here, nothing can be done about it under existing circumstances. It looks very much like this in the swan song for senior baseball in Peterborough. The S.O.S. call is out now, for someone who can come through in a pinch. But, we are not very hopeful.

Belleville Bowlers Lose To Local Girls

The Examiner, Y.W.C.A. and Brinton Carpet Winners in Saturday Games.

The largest contingent of bowlers that ever left Belleville at one time, was at the Duffus Bowling Alleys Saturday night. There were eighteen ladies and eighteen men here. The ladies were here in the return games of the inter-city tournament which started in Belleville a week ago. Three teams from the Quinte city Y.M.C.A. played against three local girls' teams—The Examiner, Y.M.C.A. Ladies, and Brinton Ladies. While the fair visitors put up some great battles on the alleys, they were defeated in all three matches.

The Brinton ladies took two out of three games to beat their opponents 2661 to 2662. Mrs. Beggs, of the local sextette, had the highest single score, 256 and the highest total, 555.

The Y.M.C.A. ladies won the first two and lost the third to win out 2655 to 2385 from the Belleville girls in the second match. Miss C. Long of Peterborough had high single with a 253, as well as high for three, 559.

The Examiner girls showed some nice bowling in winning all three games for a total of 2833 to 2635. In their third game they rolled up 1034 points, although the Belleville girls didn't do so bad either with a 953. High single went to M. Killingbeck with a nice 282 to her credit, while E. Roseborough with a 593, had the high total.

The Peterborough girls afterwards entertained their visitors at a banquet held in Austin's Dining Room, followed by dancing and a song-fest, enjoyed a great deal by everyone. Mrs. W. Firth, Miss T. Pearson and Miss M. Crosby, captains of the local teams and who were mainly instrumental in having the Belleville girls here, moved a vote of thanks to J. J. and Bert Duffus, which was seconded by Mavis McMillan.

The chairman, J. J. Duffus, thanked the visitors for coming and hoped more inter-city tournaments might be arranged in the future.

Mr. Meagher, of Belleville, made a suitable reply, and thanked the local girls for the fine entertainment.

Twenty Turn Out At Lacrosse Practice

Despite the unsettled weather Saturday afternoon, about twenty lacrosse players were out practising at the Exhibition Grounds. They worked out hard for nearly two hours, and many of them are in good condition already. Their next practise is called for at the same place to-morrow night at six o'clock, and coach Creighton hopes to see another good turnout. The lacrosse meeting for the election of officers and other business will be held in the Board Room of the Duffus Bowling Alleys at eight o'clock Wednesday night. Everyone interested is invited.

Among the players who have been out during the past week are: D. Fraser, F. Goodfellow, A. Hatton, D. Miller, B. Fisher, G. Palmer, D. Hatton, F. Meagher, "Red" Creighton, Ira Dundas, J. Meyette, H. Tudhope J. Killoran, P. King, J. Ward, Art White, W. Firth, T. Hewitt, S. Mahood, P. Calladine, J. Reynolds, T. Boon and others. The coach hopes to see all these out again and B. Ashmore, O. Price, Eddie Foley, C. Raney, J. Anderson, Eddie Williams and others.

25 Permits Issued To Erect Buildings

April made considerable improvement in the city's building record for the current year. Figures available at the City Engineer's Office disclose that 25 building permits for a total value of $37,872 were issued in the month just closed.

In April last year there were 42 permits issued to a value of $36,945.

However, for the first four months this year is more than $30,000 lower than for the same period in 1930; $54,542 this year as compared with $87,135 for last year.

Two factories, the new creamery in East City and the addition to the Peterborough Paper and Card factory, accounted for $23,000 of last month's total. Four dwellings added $10,800, and ten miscellaneous permits $3,662. Showing that local citizens have not yet caught up with the number of cars they possess, there were four permits for garages at a cost of $410.

Letters, telegrams or cablegrams are sent from any part of the world by a new Paris organization, enabling a client to write a series of messages and have them sent for prearranged places to suggest he was on tour.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

THE GREAT MAN-BIRD RETURNS

(By Thornton W. Burgess.)

Amongst all classes it is clear
That ignorance gives birth to fear.
—Old Mother Nature.

This is just as true with human folk as with the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. The unknown seems always to be regarded with suspicion, which springs from fear. Perhaps this is just as well. It is better to be afraid of something harmless than not to fear something dangerous.

One beautiful morning when all the little people were busy with family cares there appeared far off in the sky what looked like a broad-winged bird sailing on motionless wings after the manner of Ol Mistah Buzzard and some members of the Hawk family. It was sailing in circles high in the sky. From the moment it first appeared the sharp eyes of all the little people in the Old Orchard and on the Green Meadows saw it and watched it. Once they would no have known what it was, but they did now.

for often one would pass over. They knew it for a man-bird. That is what they called it. You would have called it an airplane.

So long as the man-bird remained high in the air the little people were not really afraid, although the noise it made gave them a feeling of uneasiness. Never had they known one of these man-birds to harm any of them. Never had one ever tried to catch one of them. Still, when this one came gliding down lower and lower towards the Green Meadows, and the noise ceased so that it was more than ever like a great bird, fear took possession of all the little people in feathers and fur. Even Scrapper the Kingbird, who boldly started out to mee and torment this great bird, as he always did any Hawk that came that way, suddenly turned tail and dived for the safety of the protective branches of an apple tree. They didn't and couldn't understand this great machine, and so they were afraid.

Down sailed the big man-bird, down, down down, and at last came to rest on the Green Meadows. Out of it climbed a man, and all the little people breathed easier, for until they saw the man it was hard for them to believe that, after all, this might not be some kind of a real bird. From Farmer Brown's house appeared Farmer Brown's Boy and began running down the Lone Lane toward the Green Meadows. Flip the Terrier raced ahead of him, barking in great excitement and Bowser the Hound, more sedate as became an older dog, ran beside his master.

So they came to the man and the machine, and there was a great shaking of hands, for the aviator was Farmer Brown's Boy's cousin. Bowser knew him and wagged his tail and licked the hand that patted him, but for a time Flip would not come near. He kept at a distance, barking as if he were trying to bark his head off. You see, he had something of the feeling of fear that possessed the little people of the Green Meadows and the Old Orchard. This great machine was something new to him, something he didn't understand at all, and so he was afraid.

It was some time before Flip could be induced to come and shake hands with cousin Tom, as Farmer Brown's Boy called the aviator. In the first place Flip didn't like the way Cousin Tom was dressed. He never before had seen anyone dressed for flying, and the strangeness of Cousin Tom's appearance made him suspicious. But when he saw Bowser so friendly he made up his mind that there could be nothing wrong and presently was trying to push Bowser aside that he might be patted.

Cousin Tom took his bag from the machine and with Farmer Brown's Boy started for the house, leaving the great man-bird on the Green Meadows. Little by little the Green Meadow folk and the Old Orchard people got over their fear and resumed their family duties. their excitement over. But if their excitement was over Farmer Brown's Boy was making up for it. You see, Cousin Tom had invited him to make a long journey to the Far West in that great man-bird.

PRICE TO APPEAL TWO ACQUITTALS

Case of Belyea and Weinraub to Come Up Again in Week or Two.

HEARD AT OSGOODE HALL.

TORONTO, Ont., May 4. — (C.P.) —Notice of appeal against the acquittal of Roy E. Belyea and Harry Weinraub on charges in connection with the Amalgamated Council cases at Windsor, Ont., was fyled by the Attorney-General of Ontario on April 2. It is expected that the appeal will be heard at Osgoode Hall in a week or two.

The notice gives as one of the grounds of the appeal the fact that the acts of the accused "admitted in evidence, constituted the violation of the statutes as charged in the indictment."

The notice adds "that having worked out the plan of the combination and conspiracy charge and engaged Louis M. Singer to put it into operation, you were in law a party to the offences charged in the indictment against you."

Belyea and Weinraub were acquitted by Mr. Justice Oright recently after a lengthy trial.

QUESTION PASHA FOLLOWING RIOTS IN BENI SUEF CITY

Wafdish Reports Claim Eight Were Killed and 46 Injured.

GOVERNOR MALTREATED.

Governor of Cairo Taking Measures to Prevent National Congress Session.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 4 (C.P.). — Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist Party, and a group of his followers were being questioned to-day by the Attorney-General concerning a riot at Beni Suef in which a disputed number of persons were killed and wounded yesterday.

The Ministry of Interior reported that six rioters lost their lives and three were wounded, as well as seven policemen, when police opened fire on a mob which had attacked them. A Wafdist spokesman said eight were killed and 46 hurt, in addition to the police casualties.

The visit of Nahas Pasha and six members of his executive committee to the home of a compatriot in Beni Suef was the occasion for the uprising. A crowd quickly gathered in front of the house and were said to have repelled police when they appeared, drawing heavy rifle fire.

Governor Ill-Treated.

The Governor of Beni Suef was reported to have been maltreated by the rioters and his automobile wrecked when he returned from an absence. Slashing of the electric light wires plunged the city into darkness, following the disorders.

Premier Sidky Pasha later said he had learned the authorities had fired only in self-defence. On his orders, Cairo police seized Nahas Pasha and his followers as they were returning here by motor and detained them for questioning.

Concluding his interrogation, the Attorney-General allowed the Wafdist leaders to go to their homes but continued his inquiry into the outbreak.

The Governor of Cairo has refused permission for the holding of the Wafdist National Congress, scheduled for to-morrow, and the Government is taking every measure to prevent its convocation. Former Ministers, former members of the Senate and former members of Provincial Councils were to be summoned to the Congress.

Training Detectives To Use Machine Guns

TORONTO, Ont., May 4. — Detectives of the Toronto Police Department are being trained to handle machine guns if the occasion ever arises to use these deadly weapons. Three guns that fire 1,000 rounds a minute and bullets that travel 930 feet a second are being experimented with by Inspector Robert Alexander, aide to Chief Draper, and officer in charge of training.

Officers of the motorcycle squad are also taking part in the training which will be extended to other ranks after all detectives are thoroughly schooled.

The guns have been in the store department of the police for several years, and were recently resurrected by Inspector Alexander.

It is felt that training of officers in handling machine guns is necessary to keep the police afmilliar with the latest equipment to combat any possible outbreak, in the city, of criminals armed with these weapons.

Decorated sleeves are chic. A travelling coat of soft brown kasha has a two-inch band of fur that spirals its way from the wrist almost to shoulder line.

ARMSTRONG IS CHARGED WITH RECKLESS DRIVING

S. P. Armstrong, 218 King street pleaded not guilty before Police Magistrate Langley this morning to a charge of reckless driving. The charge arose from a motor accident at the corner of Reid and Charlotte streets at 10.15 Sunday morning in which a young lady received a cut over her right eye.

She was driving south on Reid street. Having stopped at the stop sign she was proceeding across the Charlotte street intersection when the Armstrong car, proceeding west on Charlotte, collided with her car. Both cars were extensively damaged.

The Armstrong car is said to have been purchased on Saturday, and police state that the brakes were in bad condition.

The case in court was adjourned until Wednesday for hearing.

THE SON OF TARZAN No 55 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Korak, again his old self, and impatient at the weeks he had been forced to lose, set out to find Meriem. Eagerly he took to the high-flung upper terraces of the geat forest. How exhilarating it was to swing once more from tree to tree; to test the prowess of his mighty muscles! Yet life would lack its sweetness until he found his Meriem. That evening, he was attracted by a band of baboons, barking and jabbering.

Curiosity tempted Korak from his path. A few miles off, he came upon the scene of the uproar. In a steel cage a huge baboon fought to free himself, beating in futile rage against the rigid bars. Upon the outside, several hundred infuriated fellows were tearing and tugging, helplessly trying to aid him. Korak was amazed. This trap meant the presence of white men. He had believed no whites were within a thousand miles of him.

Presently an idea flashed through Korak's brain. He knew he was a match for many warriors; but he could not, unaided, overcome an entire tribe, not even for his beloved Meriem. Perhaps these baboons would help him against Kovudoo's men! He could speak the language of the baboon. It was identical with that of the great apes. Raising his voice he called to them: "I am Korak the Killer! I will help you free your king!"

The baboons heard him in silence while he bargained with them, offering freedom for their king in exchange for their help. The imprisoned baboon was ready to promise anything. He and his tribe would go with Korak. The fastenings of the trap-door that had eluded the mental powers of the baboons, yielded their secret immediately to the human intelligence of Korak, and a moment later the king baboon stepped forth to liberty.

YOUNGSTERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Two youngsters narrowly escaped injury while playing about an empty lot on the south-east corner of McDonnel and Aylmer Streets. The ground suddenly caved in under them, falling about three feet, and the hole opened up below 14 feet in depth. It seems that in former years there was a well or cistern there, and the supports gave way, causing the cave-in.

C. LAWRENCE DIES IN OTTAWA

Commissioner on Railway Board Played Active Part in Service Many Years.

WAS 75 YEARS OLD.

OTTAWA Ont., May 4. (CP)—Commissioner Calvin Lawrence of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada died here to-day in his 75th year. He has not occupied his seat on the bench since December and, because of indifferent health spent the winter in the south. He returned to Ottawa a short time ago.

Mr. Lawrence was associated with railroading most of his life. Born near Woodstock, Ont., he moved to St. Thomas, Ont., early in life and became an employee of the Michigan Central Railway. For years he was actively engaged as a locomotive engineer on that road, later becoming an officer of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Giving up active railroading, Mr. Lawrence for a number of years was parlimentary representative of the brotherhood in Ottawa and in November, 1921, was appointed to the Railway Commission by the Meighen Government. During the war he was a member of the Draft Appeal Board.

Commissioner Lawrence represented labor on the Railway Board. His death creates the third vacancy, Chief Commissioner H. A. McKeown, K.C., and Deputy Commissioner Thomas Vien having resigned a short time ago. Mr. Justice C. P. Fullerton of the Manitoba Supreme Court is mentioned as the probable successor to the Chief Commissioner.

Commissioner Lawrence is survived by his widow, one son, A. C. Lawrence of Sacramento, Calif., one brother in Woodstock, Ont., and one sister, Mrs. William Bean of Brantford, Ont.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

FARMER CHARGED WITH CRUELTY

Howard Wood Will Appear in Police Court in Havelock.

CRUELTY TO HORSE.

Howard Wood, a farmer at Oak Lake, north of Havelock, will appear before Magistrate Langley in County Court at Havelock on Friday afternoon charged with cruelly and unnecessarily ill-treating a horse.

Officers who investigated the case yesterday, state that they found Wood driving a horse which had sore shoulders. The blood from the sores was running down the horse's legs, they state.

BANKER'S DEATH

Baker held the larger part of his fortune. Take the fair market value on the day of death in levying taxes on securities.

At the height of the bull market Mr. Baker's 22,000 shares in First National Bank reached a paper valuation of $190,000,000. They are now quoted around $75,000,000. That shrinkage alone means a loss to New York state of something over $16,000,000. In this state the larger the estate the larger the tax rate. New York takes 6 per cent. of the amount by which the estate exceeds $10,000,000.

Federal Government Gets Share.

The Federal Government gets its share of the estate after the states have taken theirs, allowing certain credits for taxes paid to the states. It is therefore impossible, tax experts said to-day, to estimate the amount the United States will collect.

Like the First National stock, Mr. Baker's 87,000 shares of U.S. Steel common, his 63,000 shares of A. T. and T., and the $48,000,000 in railroad stocks credited last winter to him and his son, George F. Baker Jr., have fluctuated. Steel, for instance, sold around 261 at one time in 1929. Last Saturday it closed at 115¼.

SNOWDEN STARTS INITIAL SKIRMISH OVER LAND TAX

Resolution Expected to Start One of Bitterest Political Campaigns in Years.

LAND FOR THE PEOPLE.

Conservatives Take View Proposal is Piece of Class Legislation.

LONDON, May 4 (C.P.)—The opening skirmish in what is expected to be one of the bitterest political campaigns Great Britain has seen in many years began to-day when Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, moved his land tax resolution in the House of Commons.

It authorizes, for the financial year of 1933-34 and for subsequent years, a tax at the rate of one penny a year for each pound sterling of ascertained value of every unit of land in Great Britain.

"This resolution," Mr. Snowden said, "asserts the right of the community to ownership of land, and declared that private persons must not enjoy that privilege to the detriment of the common welfare."

Proposal Quite Simple.

Mr. Snowden said his proposal was quite simple. The tax will not apply to agricultural land so long as the value of such land is no higher than its value for agricultural purposes. When agricultural land has a higher value the tax will be levied upon the excess above the agricultural value.

The unit of valuation will be every piece of land in separate occupation at the time the valuation is made. The cost of initial valuation probably will run as high as $5,000,000 or more, he said, and revaluations will be made every five years.

Mr. Snowden explained that the individual taxpayer, under his proposal, would be relieved of taxes in any year for which he proves that the total amount payable by him does not exceed ten shillings the amount of the land tax on property with a capital value of £120.

Conservative View

"Votes, bribery" the Conservatives shouted, obviously taking the view that this proposal was a piece of class legislation designed to benefit the poor at the expense of the well to do.

The frail Chancellor was sounding the old call, "the land for the people," which has rung out a score of times before in British history.

"The land was given by the creator not for use of Dukes but for the equal use of all his children," the Chancellor said, "a restriction in the freedom to use the land is a restriction of human liberty and freedom."

JAPANESE PRINCE VISITS CAPITAL

Royal Guests Taken on Tour of Parliament Buildings By Premier Bennett.

SPEAKERS GIVE RECEPTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 4 (C.P.)—The Parliament Buildings to-day were honored by Royalty, when Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan visited the Centre Block and spent about half an hour inspecting the various features of the place. At 11 o'clock Their Imperial Highnesses and suite were received by the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, and conducted on their tour of the buildings. Meanwhile the carillon tinkled forth a program of music.

Proceeding to the Senate Chamber, the Royal visitors were met by Mr. Speaker Biondin, and Major Drew Thompson, Gentlman Usher of the Black Rod. They spent several minutes in the Red Chamber, the Prince manifesting great interest in the war memorial pictures which adorn the wall.

Under the guidance of Mr. Speaker Black and Col. H. J. Coghill, Sergeant-at-Arms, the party then traversed the hall to the House of Commons where the various features of the Lower House were explained to Their Imperial Highnesses. From there, the party proceeded to the Library and to the Memorial Chamber.

The Japanese Minister, Hon. I. Tokugawa, and various members of the Japanese Legation were included in the party.

This afternoon the Prince and Princess will visit the Dominion Archives, and at five o'clock will be the guests of honor at a reception to be given jointly by the Speakers of both the Senate and the House of Commons. To-night the Government of Canada will give a dinner in their honor.

TWO ACCIDENTS TAKE TWO LIVES

Aged Man Dies As Car Upsets —Lad Killed When Hurled From Buggy.

INQUESTS ORDERED.

SARNIA, Ont., May 4 (CP)—Highway accidents took two lives in Lambton County over the week-end. A. C. Wallen, 60, of Oil Springs, an oil producer, was killed early today when his car overturned on highway 21 about a mile south of his home. Two companions Stanley Penfound and Gilbert Newal, also of Oil Springs escaped injury. Cause of the accident has not been determined but provincial police are making an enquiry.

Russell Wilson, 13 year old Thedford boy was fatally injured when a buggy in which he and two other boys were riding was struck by a car driven by Fraser Robinson of Thedford. His companions were uninjured. The mishap occurred last night, a short distance outside of the village. Wilson was thrown out of the buggy by the impact and he suffered a fractured skull when his head struck the pavement. Robinson's car went into the ditch but the driver escaped injury. The buggy, it was said, was without a light.

Inquests have been ordered in both cases.

home and in a number of the rooms in the dwelling small spots of blood were found on the floor. After the clothing dug up from the yard had been tried on this morning by Lucia under orders by the police, the girl was taken into custody.

When she appeared this afternoon before Magistrate W. T. Erskine, a remand for one week was taken on the request of the Crown Attorney.

Alone With Mother

Lucia is one of six children of the Goulet family. She alone remained in the house with her mother when Mr. Goulet left for work on the morning his wife met death.

It was only last week that Lucia was returned to her home in East Rockland after working for some time at Ottawa as a domestic servant. She had been requested by her father that time to come to her home but instead, her sister, Mrs. Charbonneau said to-day, left the Capital for Aylmer, Que., to visit a girl friend. At the rquest of Mrs. Charbonneau the police of Aylmer took the girl into custody and held her until her father arrived from Rockland and returned Lucia to her home.

A criminologist has been sent here under orders of the Ontario Attorney General and following investigation of the case will give evidence when the inquest into Mrs. Goulet's death is re-opened Tuesday night.

ARMAMENT LIMITATION

acter namely "Relative over-capitalization, arbitrary halting, intervention on the part of the Government, and economic nationalism."

Touching on finance, M. Theunis noted most countries faced budget difficulties. The gold solution was far from satisfactory." The fundamental cause of the unequal distribution of gold," he said, "lies in the uncertain political situation and in the Protectionist policies which prevent goods from taking the place of gold."

Another Cause.

In the over-production of silver lay a deep seated cause of depression, he said.

Discussing the agricultural depression M. Theunis mentioned Russian dumping of cereals but asserted "it would be erroneous to state that Russia has brought about the existing world over-production of wheat, the accumulation of wheat in the United States and Canada existed before Russia's appearance on the market."

Discussing at length the economic causes for over-production and under consumption, the speaker brought in the political angle again when he said "I would call your attention to another undeniable cause of over-production, namely, economic nationalism. Since all conutries, regardless of their position in world economy, the natural wealth at their disposal, and the character of their labor supplies, appear more or less anxious to possess the groundwork of a complete industrial system, this fact can only give rise to embarrassing situations."

M. Theunis urged that over-production should be attacked only after careful analysis. "We must not attempt to deal with it by any particular panacea," he said.

Discussing tariff policies he said "in a general way national tariff policies have followed a course far from satisfactory. On all sides we see tariffs increasing and trade barriers being raised between States. I personally am convinced the commercial policy and the customs tariff in force in most of the countries of the world constitute one of the fundamental causes of our actual economic depression. A liberal customs policy might be expected to lead to better business conditions."

School Forecast For Chila Cripples

SERVICE CLUBS ARE ADDRESSED BY HON. MARTIN

Minister Tells Two Local Service Clubs School For Cripples Needed.

8,000 CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

Activities of Department of Public Welfare Are Reviewed.

"I will not be satisfied until Ontario has a school for crippled children just as she now has schools for the blind, the deaf, and the mentally deficient," declared Hon. (Rev.) W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare in addressing a joint dinner of the local Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs at the Empress Hotel last night, on the work of his department.

A large attendance of the members of the two organizations applauded the Minister as he pointed out that there was a need of doing something in this line for the 8,000 crippled Ontario people under the age of eighteen. Under the present economic conditions, Mr. Martin explained, it was necessary to go slowly and it was not possible to accomplish all that was desired, but he was sure that the time would come when Ontario would have such a school.

The Minister's mention of this subject, one in which both Rotary and Kiwanis are deeply interested, was only one feature of a fifty-minute address that held the undivided attention of the gathering, not only because of the eloquence of the speaker, but also because of his manifest interest in and enthusiasm for the task to which he had put his hand.

President Bob Abbott, of the Rotary Club, was in the chair for the first part of the program and presented a resolution passed at the recent Buffalo conference in regard to the entrance fees of delegates, which was unanimously endorsed by the local Rotarians.

J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., in introducing Hon. Mr. Martin, declared that when the Government had arrived at a decision to establish a Department of Public Welfare it was fortunate to have a man at hand

INJURED PILOT HOLDING HIS OWN

Capt. Maxwell in Report States Plane Struck Pole While Landing.

INQUIRY COURT ORGANIZED.

SAULT STS. MARIE, Ont., May 5.—(CP)—Following the fatal aeroplane crash at Schreiber, Ont., yesterday, which resulted in the death of Air Engineer J. L. Newburn and caused serious injury to the pilot of the plane, Capt. V. R. Maxwell, Director of the Ontario Air Service, today issued a statement concerning the tragedy.

The plane, according to the air service official, left the Soo yesterday at 1.10 o'clock bound for Pays Platte where it was to be stationed until the operating base at Orient Bay was clear of ice. Word received from Pays Platte is to the affect that the pilot of the plane crashed into a telephone post while attempting to land in the water at Pays Platte. Mr. Maxwell says he has learned through the officer in charge of the Provincial Air Force at oPrt Arthur, that the pilot, Earl Hodgson, was not seriously injured. On learning of the accident late last night Capt. Maxwell said he got in touch with the Controller of Civic Flying at Ottawa and informed him of the circumstances. A court of inquiry was immediately organized, he said.

Although Hodgson is reported as doing nicely in the Port Arthur Hospital, he is taking the accident badly, the air official said. All arrangements whereby Newburn's body will be taken to Toronto have been completed the Captain said.

Captain Maxwell said Newburn had been with the force three years while Hodgson had a five year record with the force.

LONDON, May 5 (A.P.)—A verdict of accidental death was recorded to-day by the coroner at the resumption of an inquest into the death of 48 persons in the wreck of the dirigible R-101.

The coroner said the victims died of injuries received in France while traveling in the airship. "I adopt the conclusion set forth in the report," the verdict said, "That the disaster was caused by substantial loss of gas in very bumpy weather, and accordingly I record the verdict of accidental death."

CHIEF'S ABSENCE FROM THE CITY BASIS OF QUERY

Alderman Stocker Asks Who Gave Chief Gimblett Permission to Leave City.

BY-LAWS PASSED.

Extra $200 Grant to Male Voice Choir Scored by the Aldermen.

Fire Chief Gimblett's absence from the city for a few days brought him under Alderman Stocker's hammer at the City Council meeting last night.

Quite casually, but with increasing warmth, Alderman Tuggey joined in the criticism and took some jabs at Alderman Cotton, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, for not informing his committee of the Chief's goings and comings.

Alderman Stocker said it had come to his notice that Chief Gimblett had been away. "A member of this Council phoned the Fire Hall and the Chief was away. We should know when he is away," declared Alderman Stocker.

Alderman Cotton replied that the Chief had asked his permission to be away Friday and Saturday, and the permission was granted."

Alderman Tuggey: "Well, these things should be reported; not left to one man. When's he's away its not right; you never know when we're going to have a big fire. It should be reported to the committee."

Mayor Denne threw oil on the troubled waters by stating that the Chief was going to take the two days' absence off his holidays. "So it's all right," concluded the Mayor.

Alderman Stocker came in for his share, when the eagle eye of Alderman Macdonald dropped on the fact that in the grants to musical organizations the Male Voice Choir was to receive another $200 grant.

"Why," he exclaimed," we have already this year given the Male Voice Choir a special grant of $200. Now we are going to give them another

PAVING PROGRAM IS THROWN OUT BY CITY COUNCIL

Lively Debate is Heard at Council Meeting When Proposal Made to Pave.

STREETS ARE NOT READY.

However, Decision is Made to Pave Strip on Hunter Street to Lift-Locks.

After another turbulent debate on the paving question, in the heat of which the Warren Bituminous Paving Company came in for another verbal cannonading, the City Council last night decided not to let any contracts for paving.

To pave, or not to pave? That was the question which swept all the aldermen into as hot a debate as has eddied across the Council floor in many moons. Early in the combat, Alderman Tuggey threw down the gauntlet to the Warren Paving Company and their alleged "agents" when he shouted: "The Warren Paving Company! Huh! I wouldn't believe their agents if they swore on a pile of Bibles 15 feet high and held a Bible in each hand."

Alderman Phlan opened the subject at the tail end of the regular business when he moved that the Warren Company be given the contract to finish the paving in East City at last year's price rate, using only hand labor and city workmen. After the tempest had spent itself and every voice had had its say, it was found that the majority, on a vote, were opposed to launching upon any paving scheme. City Engineer Parsons would give no assurance that he considered the storm drains settled enough to do any paving within the next month or two, and that decided the question for most.

Pave to Lift Locks

However, a motion passed the Council almost unanimously to lay a 20-foot strip of pavement on Hunter street from the Westclox plant to the Lift Locks. Mayor Denne offered this suggestion and it was eagerly welcomed by the Council.

It is estimated that the job will cost about $3,000, of which the Provincial Government will pay fifty per cent under the Unemployment Relief Scheme. The work will be done under the direction of the City Engineer, with pick-and-shovel and only local men will be employed.

To give some of the highlights of the debate it is necessary to start with Alderman Phelan's motion, since before the argument lulled there was an amendment and an amendment to the amendment, and certain other trimmings.

Alderman Phelan, in making his motion to give the Warren Paving Company the contract to complete the paving on Armour road, Douro and Rogers streets at last year's price with the guarantee that only local

DEPUTY KILLED AS FIGHT RAGES AT COAL FIELD

Two Officers, One Wounded, Rush to Harlan Seeking Reinforcements.

LABOR SITUATION CAUSE.

At Least Five Sheriffs and Three of Attackers Lie Dead or Wounded at Scene.

HARLAN, Ky., May 5 (C.P.). — A deputy sheriff is known to have been slain and several other officers and members of a crowd of unidentified men are believed to have been killed in a clash at Evarts, about ten miles from here, to-day. Authorities here said it was a renewal of disorders resulting from the labor situation in the Harlan coal fields.

Deputies George Dawn and Estes Cox, the only two of the force of twelve deputies who returned here, said Deputy Jim Daniels, 37, was killed. Sheriff J. H. Blair sent a force of about twenty-five deputies armed with machine guns, tear bombs and rifles to Evarts and ordered them to use whatever means necessary to restore order.

Cox had bullet wounds in the arm, side and face. He said he and Dawn hurried to Harlan for reinforcements and that when they left at least five deputies and three or four of the attacking band were lying dead or wounded on the road. Cox said Deputy Ott Lee was one of the first to fall and was believed to be dead.

Kiwanians Told International Good-Will Is Our Birthright Upon This Continent

MIAMI, Fla., May 5.—James G. Gardiner, Regina, Sask., former Premier of Saskatchewan, told Kiwanians here today that international good will "is our birthright upon this continent."

His address was a feature of "International Day" at the fifteenth annual Kiwanis Convention.

"We live side by side," he said. "We are the inhabitants of a common continent. Trade, industry and the necessities of the complex existence of today throw us into constant intercourse.

"International good will is our birthright and it is further safeguarded by the spirit of good fellowship exhibited here today.

"Your flag stands as the symbol of the equity, freedom and justice of a great republic. The equity, freedom and justice experienced within the British Commonwealth is symbolized in the person of the King.

"Our connecting links of friendship extend back through the years. Our causes, hopes, ambitions and ideals are common ones. The realization of our several hopes will be assisted by the work of Kiwanis International."

LT. H. R. WAGHORN HURT IN CRASH

Speed Flier and Companion Leap as Craft Goes Into Sudden Dive.

FOUND HALF MILE AWAY.

FANBOROUGH, Eng., May 5. — (AP)—Flight Lieutenant H. R. D. Waghorn, who retained the Schneider Cup for Great Britain in 1929, crashed in his plane near here today and was seriously injured.

In the Schneider Cup race Lieutenant Waghorn attained a speed of 328.63 miles an hour. For that achievement he was decorated with the Air Force Cross.

When the crash came he was flying low in the vicinity of the airdrome while a 60-mile wind was blowing.

Persons on the ground saw the plane go into a sudden dive and strike with terrific force.

Waghorn and another occupant of the machine jumped out as the plane fell and the wind snatched them away in their parachutes. They were found half a mile from the place where the plane crashed.

The second man in the plane was E. R. Alexander, an assistant civil test pilot. His leg was injured.

Waghorn received a fracture of the thigh and the ankle and injuries to the head.

Both were taken to the Cambridge Military Hospital where surgeons said Waghorn's injuries made an immediate operation imperative.

HINKLER LEAVES ON MYSTERY TRIP

Airport Workers Claim Flier's Goal is Across Atlantic to Africa.

LONG ISLAND FIRST STOP.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5. CP) — Several weeks' secrecy enveloping plans for a flight to some unannounced destination, was unravelled to-day when Bert Hinkler, noted Australian aviator, took off from the De Havland airport shortly after noon to-day on a flight across the Atlantic ocean to Africa.

Mystery still shrouded the Anzac's plans, however, and the only available details were secured from airport workers, Hinkler, it was said, intended to attempt his first hop to North Beach, L.I., N.Y. From there he was believed to be heading for Mexico and on to Buenos Aires and then to Africa. What particular destination on the dark continent Hinkler had in mind could not be readily learned. Airport workers said he intended, if successful in his flying venture to Africa, to perhaps attempt another flight to his home in Australia.

Victims Stricken By Creeping Death Found By Neighbor

Bodies of Insurance Agent, His Wife and Four Children Are Strewn About Flat in Various Attitudes, Overcome As They Arose for the Day.

APPARENTLY SOME MEMBER OF FAMILY AROSE EARLY AND LIT THE HOT WATER HEATER READY FOR WASHING

Resuscitation is Tried in Vain By Police and Firemen Who Break in—Deadly Fumes Had No Outlet—Flue Found Covered With Metal Cap.

MONTREAL, Que., May 5 (C.P.). — Deadly gas generated by a kitchen hot water heater which was not provided with facilities for carrying off the fumes, brought death to an entire family of six people in Verdun, a suburb, this morning. Hector Hayeur, an insurance agent, his wife and four children, were caught by the death dealing gas as they arose this morning, their bodies being found in various attitudes and positions by which police were able to reconstruct the tragedy.

The dead: Hector Hayeur, 39, Mrs. Delia Hayeur, 39, Gilberta 15, Lucille 14, Lionel 9, and a three-year-old girl whose name was not learned.

It was apparent that some member of the family had arisen early and lighted the heater in preparation for washing. The gas fumes had evidently overcome some of the family while they were about their ordinary routine. Mr and Mrs. Hayeur were lying on the kitchen floor, while the three-year-old daughter was lying on the kitchen table where it was evidently being bathed. The two older girls and the nine-year-old boy were dead in their beds in an adjacent room.

Neghbor Discovers Tragedy.

A neighbor, D. H. Leclerc, noticed an air of unusual quiet about the Hayeur flat this morning and knocked on the door. Receiving no reply he looked through a window and saw the bodies on the floor. He at once called both police and firemen and the bodies were quickly removed. At first it was thought that some of the victims could be resuscitated but all efforts failed.

Firemen reported that there was no outlet for the gas fumes, the opening in the flue being covered by a metal cap.

BRITISH ACE IS KILLED IN SOUTH AFRICA

Companion, T. A. Gladstone, Also in Craft, is Second Victim.

Storekeeper Sees Tragedy.

Aviator Recently Completed Six-day Record England to Cape Town.

CAPE TOWN, Union of S. Africa, May 5.—(AP)—Lieutenant Commander Glenn Kidston, crack British flier, was reported today to have been killed in an airplane crash near Van Reenen, Natal.

T. A. Gladstone, who was in the plane, also was reported to have been killed.

Word of the accident came in a message from Van Reenen which said a railway storekeeper had reported the accident.

Recently Made Record

Recently the British flier completed a record six-day flight from England to Cape Town in a United States made plane to prove his contention that the British airmail could be covered in half the time by using equipment similar to that used in the United States.

Lieutenant-Commander Glen Kidston, wealthy British sportsman, held several of Europe's airplane speed records. One of them is for the Croydon-Le Bourget flight which he covered in one hour and thirteen minutes. The United States flyer Captain Frank Hawks, made the trip in one minute over that time yesterday.

Aerial Game Hunt

In 1928 he and a group of friends flew to Africa for an aerial game hunt during which they found the kind of adventure they were looking for. The next year he was in a Croydon-Berlin plane which crashed up killing six passengers, but he escaped without serious injury.

The African flight was made in the same plane from which Alfred Lowenstein, the Belgian financier, fell to his spectacular death in the English channel on July 4, 1928.

His Cape Town flight began on March 31 after he had asserted publicly that the British mail plane, with a speed of 93 miles an hour made British aviation "the laughing stock of the world."

Radio Control Case In Courts Wednesday

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5 (CP) — Hearing of one of the most important and complicated cases affecting the relations between the Dominion of Canada and the Provinces begins before the Supreme Court of Canada to-morrow. It is the reference as to the jurisdiction of Parliament to regulate and control communication by radio.

Like all Canadian constitutional cases it hinges on the provisions of the British North America Act which set out the respective jurisdictions of the dominion and the provinces. But it will also embrace a consideration of highly involved technical matters such as th nature of radio waves and the uses to which radio put now or may be directed in the future.

TRENT CANAL IS OPEN FOR SEASON

Lift-Locks Have Been Given a Fresh Coat of Paint.

SERVICING DREDGE.

Without any flare of trumpets or any other show of celebration, navigation opened on the Trent Waterway System to-day.

Officially it was learned that the big key to the canal, the Peterborough Lift Lock, was ready to-day to lock boats through. With the opening of the big locks the whole system springs into activity

The lift locks are sparkling under a fresh coat of paint and any minor repairs and adjustments needed have been made recently, so that the locks are ready for the big season which tourists bureaus are prophesying for this district this season.

Take Out Supplies

Steam will be up on the J. P. McColl, the canal's tender ship, to-night and early to-morrow she will push down the canal to Trenton. The little tug will carry the seasons' supplies to lock masters and bridge tenders including oils, grease and other sundries required to keep the cogs in the system serviced.

The dredge Auburn is tied up at Lock 6 and is being serviced for her season's work.

DELICATE ART OF CHARMING SNAKE IS CLOSELY WATCHED BY SINCLAIR

Snake Charmers Even Chew Heads of the Deadly Reptiles.

PLAY WITH SCORPIONS

By GORDON A. SINCLAIR

CASABLANCA, Morocco, April 7.—(Copyright, 1931)—The delicate art of charming snakes, vicious, poisonous, fang-loaded snakes, is one of the most dangerous in all Africa, and the snake charmer is dying out in consequence.

This seems to upset the theory that the snakes used in street exhibitions have had their poison sack removed. I haven't been able to find out about this. Some say the show is all fake, some say it's genuine. Perhaps neither is right. Certainly the snakes are not the kind I'd like to find under a log.

In Rabat, Morocco's capital, I could find no snake charmers. Here there are several types. Those who do their job for the sheer fun of doing it; those who only go to the fetes and those who can be hired for special occasions. Among the last group are perfect fiends of men who let their snakes bite them all over. Even hold them up so the snake can grab them by the face in

Says Tariff Revision Will Improve Trade

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 5. — (AP)—Julius Barnes, who last week urged revisions in the Hawley-Smoot tariff rates, told the International Chamber of Commerce to-day it would be "most unfortunate" to reopen the tariff question in the next session of Congress.

Amplifying his discussion of the tariff before the United States Chamber of Commerce in Atlantic City, Barnes, who is Chairman of the Board of the United States chamber, said United States business hoped revision of the tariff rates by the tariff commission under the flexible clause of the Hawley-Smoot Act would take the question out of politics.

LITTLE GIRL HAS LEG FRACTURED

Jean Breadman Was Struck By Car Near Prince of Wales School.

DRIVING SLOWLY.

Struck by a car as she was crossing the road near the Prince of Wales School late yesterday afternoon, Jean Breadman, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Breadman, 589 Patterson street, suffered a fracture to her right leg.

The child in company with older children was about to leave the sidewalk to cross Monaghan road, when Arthur Richmond, 33 Brown street, approached from the south.

Richmond, according to Alex McKenzie, 560 Albert street, an eyewitness, was driving slowly and honked the horn as he observed the children. The group of children hesitated on the sidewalk, then little Jean Breadman, the smallest, started across the road alone, states McKenzie. She stopped a few feet from the curb and then continued.

The motorist swung to the left sharply to avoid the child, but the right bumper struck her, knocking her to the roadway. Richmond stopped his car in five feet.

The child was taken to the Medical Clinic, where it was found that her right leg was broken and that she had severe cuts about the face.

Nova Scotians Plan To Get Ontario Trade

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., May 5. — (CP)—Favoring the adoption of some plan whereby the Province of Ontario would reciprocate sympathetic trade relations with Nova Scotia, particularly in reference to the purchase of Nova Scotia in Central Canada, but registering disapproval of boycott methods, the council of the New Glasgow Board of Trade met in a special session yesterday afternoon. The board passed a resolution asking the co-operation of all the boards of trade, merchants and manufacturers in Nova Scotia doing business with Ontario, to solicit the co-operation of the people and manufacturers in Ontario by taking a sympathetic view of any action the Federal Government may take in extending the markets of Nova Scotia coal in Central Canada.

BENNETT LEARY IN DISCUSSING BEAUHARNOIS

Premier Doubtful if Report on Work Done Should Be Tabled.

CONFIDENTIAL NATURE.

Gov't Under Fire as Brown Moves Want of Confidence Motion.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5 (C.P.)—The Bennett Government came under fire in the House of Commons to-day when the want-of-confidence motion of J. L. Brown, Liberal Member for Lisgar, Man., was debated. It was introduced last week and, after being debated a full day, was adjourned. Failure to lift the agricultural industry from distress conditions was charged against the Government.

Because of a state reception and dinner to Prince and Princess Takamatsu, the former a brother of the Emperor of Japan, the House was in session only two hours yesterday afternoon and no sitting was held during the evening. Alfred Speakman, U.F.A., Member for Red Deer, had the floor most of the time in support of a resolution of his to create a national council of social and economic research. He was supported by James S. Woodsworth (Lab., Winnipeg North-Centre), but the debate was not concluded.

Queries on C.N.R.

A series of questions relating to the Canadian National Railways and the Beauharnois Light, Heat and Power Company were answered before the orders of the day were called. The capital debt of the nationally-owned lines on Dec. 31, 1930, was $1,150,782,545, Dr. Peter McGibbon, Conservative Member for Muskoka, was informed. The corresponding figure for Dec. 31, 1920, was $1,379,186,574. The sum of $21,537,475 is invested in the nine hotels operated by the railway in different parts of Canada, Dr. McGibbon further was informed. During the 1930 calendar year four hotels returned operating profits and five produced losses. When interest on investment was taken into calculation all the chain hotels showed losses.

Premier R. B. Bennett was guarded in answering questions advanced by Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. leader, concerning the Beauharnois project. He was unable to say whether the Commons would debate the question of further water diversion by the corporation because, at the moment, no application had been received. The Quebec Government, the Premier was informed, had passed the company's application for a further diversion of 30,000 feet per second, but so far it had not reached Ottawa.

May Not Table Report.

Another question put by Mr. Gardiner dealt with the report of a departmental investigation of the work being done by the power company on the St. Lawrence River. Had it been received by the Prime Minister, and, if so, would it be tabled in the House, the U.F.A. leader asked. The report had been received, the Premier admitted, but, because of its confidential nature, he was doubtful if it should be tabled, having regard to the public interest.

In supporting his resolution for a national economic and social research council, Mr. Speakman said a similar council, dealing with industrial problems, had done efficient work in this country. If material problems could be settled, why not social problems, he asked. He advocated the employment of experts in the realm of economics to assist in solving the serious problems confronting society to-day.

New Mechanical Eye To Pierce Dense Fog

DAYTON Ohio, May 6.—(CP)—A new mechanical eye which sees two miles through average fog was described to the Dayton Engineer's Club today by W. F. Westerndorp of the General Electric research laboratory.

The apparatus is designed to sit on the tail of an airplane, sight an airway light through the fog and reproduce on the aviator's dash a synthetic beacon. It has not been up yet but it has done its stuff successfully through two miles of ground fog.

The artificial dash beacon is in two parts, one shows the aviators whether the airway light is to left, right or directly ahead. The other signal shows him whether he is approaching or going away. The two readings, with his altitude instruments, furnish a landing guide.

BURNING GUSHER DEFIES CONTROL

Expert Oil Fighters Lay Final Plans to Blow Out Flames.

SMOKE VISIBLE MILES.

GLADEWATER, Tex., May 5.—An eight-day wonder of East Texas oil fields, a burning gusher which for a week has defied efforts to tame it, was near a contest of strength today.

Slowly, carefully, expert oil fire fighters had put everything in readiness for the explosion of a huge charge of nitroglycerine, which, if all goes well, will blow out the flame which caused the death of nine oil field workers as a result of an explosion last Tuesday night.

Hour by hour, 1,500 barrels of oil have been consumed, sending up smoke visible for miles. Harry Kinley, Tulsa, Okla., fire fighter, was in charge of arrangements to extinguish the flame.

An airplane motor was to blow a path and streams of water were to be played upon Kinley as he placed the explosives at the mouth of the well.

FRANCE RECEIVES NOTE FROM ITALY

Counter Proposals Are Stated to be Similar to Britain's Naval Views.

EXPERTS AT WORK.

PARIS, May 5.—(AP)—The newspaper Matin published to-day what it understands to be an analysis of the Italian reply to French proposals for the tri-partite naval accord. The Italian note was transmitted to the Foreign Office yesterday.

The first section of the reply, said the Matin, reviews the history of the negotiations among France, Italy and Great Britain, notably the last phase ending in the agreement of March 1.

The second part was described as a critical analysis of the final French suggestions and the third a statement of the Italian counter proposals which are said to be analogous to those in the recent British note.

Already translated, the document is being studied closely by experts of the Quai D'Orsay and the Ministry of Marine.

WESTERN DEATH IS NOW LINKED WITH DIAMOND

Attorney General Department Officials Examining Papers of Gangster Chief.

KLEIN STILL HELD.

State Troopers Continue Search For Diamond's Girl Friend and Aide.

CATSKILL, N. Y., May 5.—Investigation into the mysterious disappearance of Harry Western, Kingston roadhouse proprietor, last August, as a separate angle of the inquiry into the affairs of Jack (Legs) Diamond, was started today by members of the state attorney general department.

Shortly after Western disappeared, his blood-stained automobile was found in a Brooklyn garage and Harry Klein, one of Diamonds henchmen, was held in connection with the theft of it. He still is in jail here.

Meanwhile, assistants of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., were examining the papers and cancelled checks seized from Diamond's box in the Cairo National Bank, near here. Other records, taken from the safe of the Aratoga Inn, near Cairo, also were being examined.

Marion Roberts, the gangster's showgirl friend, and Jerry Saccio, who was with Diamond when he was shot down at the Aratoga Inn last week, were the object of a search by state troopers and Albany detectives at the new Kenmore Hotel in Albany, late yesterday. They were not found.

NATIVES GATHER FOR EXPOSITION

Event For Which France Has Been Preparing 10 Years Opens on Wednesday.

CANADA TO TAKE PART.

PARIS, May 5 (A.P.)—Dark skins and colorful costumes from far-off lands quickened the page of Parisian boulevard life to-day.

Natives, awkward and curious, were arriving from Frances' African, Chinese and Oceanic possessions for the opening tomorrow of the Intercolonial Exposition at Vincennes Park.

Three thousand primitive folk have been brought here to give colonial atmosphere to an undertaking which France has been preparing for ten years.

In addition to the United States, there are five Colonial nations officially taking part: Belgium, Holland, Portugal, Italy and Denmark. Canada and Brazil have also erected a building for exhibits.

President Gaston Doumergue will open the show. He will be accompanied by Marshal Hubert Lyautey, Director of the Exposition; Governor General Jules Carde of Algeria, Resident General Lucien Saint of Morocco; Governor General Pierre Pasquier of Indo-China, and representatives of foreign governments.

France has spared nothing in this attempt to attract attention to its colonies. A permanent museum to house colonial things has been built in the park and a zoological garden has been established on the banks of Lake Daumesnil in the heart of Vicennes Park. Elephants, gazelles, birds, baboons, ants, zebras and other exhibits from colonies have been given homes therein.

Man Who Bound Them Flees When Sister Appears and Screams.

MOTHER MAKES RESCUE.

Lads Claim They Were Seized Without Warning While Picking Clover.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., May 5.—(C.P.).—Two boys, trussed with wire, were rescued from a railroad track near here last night, and deputy sheriffs started a search for a man they said tied them and then stood by to watch them die. A sister's screams, officers were told, forced the man to flee.

The boys, Charles Spoutz, 14, and his brother Edward, 13, gave a description of the man, which was made the basis of an extensive search by sheriff's deputies.

They said that the man came upon them as they were picking clover for their pet rabbits, threatened them with a revolver, and tied them hand and foot. He then carried them to the nearby Grand Trunk Railway track, the boys said.

The mother of the boys, alarmed by their long absence, sent their sister, Dorothy, 12, to search for them. She said she saw them on the track and the man standing nearby. She screamed, and the man fled. She summoned the mother, who took the boys from the track.

RUSSIA HELD UP AS FINE EXAMPLE

President Chiang Reviews Govt's Attainments as People's Congress Opens.

FACES MANY PROBLEMS.

NANKING, May 5. (AP)—Problems of domestic strife and extra-territoriality rights of foreign nations cast a shadow over the National Peoples Congress to-day as President Chiang Kai-Shek inaugurated the session with a review of the Government's attainments.

President Chiang, whose position at the head of the Government and Nationalist Party recently has been threatened by independents in Kwangtung Province, emphasized the progress of Soviet Russia. He pointed to Russia as an excellent example for the Republic of China to follow.

China would do well to emulate the Soviet's achievements, he declared, developing industries and communications.

Domestically the problem of a revolt of Kwangtung independents presented a grave issue. A considerable portion of Conservative elements of the Kuomintang (Peoples' Party) which controls the Government, have charged president Chiang with abuse of his power, inefficiency in handling the Government's problems and demanded his resignation.

The president was absolved however by the Government control committee which handles charges against Government officials. The committee described the charges as not worth considering.

Unveiling Plaque To Walt Whitman

NEW YORK, N. Y., May 5.—(CP)—A plaque will be unveiled in Brooklyn May 31 to a first edition.

It will be placed at the corner of Cranberry and Fulton street and will mark the spot where stood Walt Whitman's little printshop—the shop where the poet stood at a compositor's case painstakingly setting the type of his first volume of verse, "Leaves of Grass."

There was no market for that first edition in the 1850's. Today on rare occasions when a copy of it is up at auction it sells for $3,000 or more.

CHINESE COURTS TO TAKE CONTROL

Nationalist Gov't Abrogates Extra-territorial Privileges of Foreigners.

EFFECTIVE JAN. 1, 1932.

NANKING, China, May 5.—(A.P.)—The extra-territorial privileges of foreigners in this country, provided in treaties with the great powers, have been abrogated by the Nationalist Government as of Jan. 1, 1932.

Foreign Minister C. T. Wang issued a statement yesterday to the effect that citizens of other countries would be subject to the jurisdiction of Chinese Courts, instead of consular courts, after that date. Special courts will be established for such cases, he said, in Shanghai, Tientsin, Mukden and Canton.

Calling attention to the mandate of Dec. 28, 1929, the statement said it was China's duty to abolish all unequal treaties and all extra-territorial rights. Negotiations with nations having such treaties had reached an unfortunate impasse, it was said.

Appreciation of the sympathetic attitude of some countries was expressed, together with the regret that they were not prepared to meet completely China's wishes.

No Expense To Halt Probe In North Bay

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 5 (CP).—The City Council has refused to accept a recommendation of the Public Works Committee that a proposed investigation into municipal affairs be abandoned on account of the expense involved.

At a meeting here last night the proposal was heatedly defended by members of the committee. No expense is too great if there is any suggestion of misconduct, said Alderman W. Cherry. Similar expressions were voiced by other aldermen.

CITY RUN BY TWO WOMEN

While Lord Mayor Alfred Pickles of Bradford, England, is in a local hospital as the result of an operation, the busy city of 300,000 people is being governed by two women. His official duties have been taken over by the Deputy Lord Mayor, Alderman Kathleen Chambers. Mrs. Pickles, as the wife of the Lord Mayor, is the leading woman citizen. Alderman Chambers and Mrs. Pickles between them therefore have to carry out the official and social activities which ordinarily would fall upon the chief magistrate. Alderman Chambers has attended at the town hall, and for the first time in the history of Bradford documents normally signed by the Lord Mayor were signed by a woman. "I suppose that I shall have to carry out the work for the next few weeks," said Alderman Chambers. "This will include presiding at the meetings of the city council."

FLIER RESCUED AFTER 13 DAYS LOST IN WOODS

Mechanic Suicides When He Can Endure Starvation No Longer.

IN BRAZILIAN JUNGLE.

Count Robiland Reaches Civilizatinon But Brings Aid For Friend Too Late.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, May 5 (A.P.)—The story of a 13-day journey through the wilderness on foot, ending in the rescue of Count Edmondo di Robiliant, Italian flier, and the suicide of his mechanic, Mauranta Quaranta, stirred public interest to-day.

The Italian Consul said Di Robiliant told him that Quaranta hanged himself to the limb of a tree with his own belt rather than endure longer the suffering of starvation and fever. The fliers left Sao Paulo April 12 and were forced down the next day near Pirajury.

Earlier reports said the mechanic died in a hospital at San Jose as a result of his experience.

As told to the Consul, the fliers encountered a storm four hours out of Sao Paulo and were forced down in the jungles due to a leakage of fuel. Leaving the plane undamaged, they started back towards civilization with marmalade and hardtack as their only provisions.

Ants Eat Food

Mosquitoes harassed them every foot of the way. Ants devoured their food. Constant wading of streams sapped their energy. Loss of their matches in the water left them without means to build a fire. They subsisted for days on what fish they could catch with their hands and the fruit they could find.

On the eleventh day, Quaranta pleaded that he could go no farther and insisted that Di Robiliant push on without him. The latter reached the Rarana River two days later and an Indian took him to San Jose by canoe.

In spite of his conditon, Di Robiliant returned the next day to where he left the mechanic and found his body hanging from a tree.

LIBERALS PREPARE TO DRIVE HOME FREE TRADE PLANKS OF PLATFORM

Will Be Principal Topic at Conference of Women's National Liberal Federation.

LLOYD GEORGE INTO FRAY.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 5.—Liberals are preparing to drive home the free trade planks of their platform. Free Trade will be a principal topic at the annual conference of the Women's National Liberal Federation and of the National Liberal Federation to be held at Buxton in the final week of May. Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George Liberal Parliamentary leader, addressing the delegates, is to emphasize the vital importance of free trade in Liberal policy. Important declarations are expected.

An offficial free trade resolution for consideration by the Liberal women has been prepared, it declares that any tampering with the system of free trade must inevitably:

(1) Cause friction in international relationships and provoke retaliation.

(2) Foster corruption in public life.

(3) Weaken the spirit of self-reliance among manufacturers and business men.

(4) Cause a great increase in unemployment by injuring export trade.

(5) Increase the cost of living to the whole community and add to the burdens of industry.

(6) Do great damages to industry, commerce and shipping of the country.

Resolution's Contents.

The official resolution of the National Liberal Federation states: "That this Council of the National Liberal Federation, believing that the maintenance and improvement of our export trade is vital to our very existence, reasserts its conviction that free trade is an indispensable condition of the prosperity of this country in that it enables our industries to purchase all their requirements at the lowest possible world prices. Moreover, the advantages to be gained by the absence of commercial jealousy due to our fiscal system, which offers equal opportunities for trade to all the world, are not sufficiently appreciated but are a real contribution to the maintenance of peaceful relations with other countries. Free trade has enabled this country to establish and maintain a higher standard of life than that of any other European country, and has preserved the purity of political life."

And Mr. Lloyd-George started the ball rolling in his new free trade campaign last night—a week after Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative Leader, made a strong protection speech at Liverpool.

"We have adapted our industries," said Mr. Lloyd-George, "to the free trade system. If we impose tariffs we shall inflict irremediable injury upon those industries which have been fostered by free trade."

Largest Free Trade Area.

The argument that the United States with high tariffs enjoyed the highest wages standard was met with the assertion that in itself the United States constituted the largest free trade area in the world. "It will be contended that the British Empire might be organized into an even larger free trade area," said the Liberal Leader. "It will be time enough to consider that when India and the Dominions show the slightest sign of letting our goods in free of duty in return for our purchase of their products free of impost."

CHIEF'S ABSENCE FROM THE CITY

$200. There's $1,000 set aside for musical organizations and I notice the Rangers' Band is only getting $600.

Alderman Stocker explained that the Male Voice Choir were a group of hard-working men who were having an uphill fight to pay off a debt.

Alderman Macdonald: "That is all right; but we have given them theirs."

Alderman Stocker: "We promised to do it."

Alderman Macdonald: "No we didn't. You may have, but this Council didn't."

Alderman McNabb: "I moved that a special grant of $200 be made to the Male Voice Choir and that $1,000 be set aside for the bands. I never meant that the Male Voice Choir should share in the $1,000, too. I move that this report be changed, giving the Rangers $800.

Alderman Stocker: "Last year we only gave the Rangers $600. You're going to give the Choir something, aren't you?"

Alderman Macdonald: "If we give them this, we'll be giving them $400 this year, and last year we gave them $200. That's $600.

It was finally passed that the Male Voice Choir get $100, the Rangers' Band $700, and the Salvation Army Band $200.

Most of the Council's time was taken up in passing routine bylaws, dealing with debentures for improvement work completed last year.

The Daylight Saving bylaw passed without comment, but on motion of Alderman Cotton, Peterborough's clocks will be shoved on an hour at midnight June 13, and not June 14 as originally stated in the by-law. The tickers will go back on September 7 at midnight.

SERVICE CLUBS

who was capable of stepping into the portfolio.

Stressing the fact that social service work did not begin in Ontario with the formation of a Public Welfare Department, but that a vast amount of such work had been successfully carried out before the advent of that department. Mr. Martin referred to the appointment of a Royal Commission and its recommendation that a separate department should be formed.

Many Activities.

He then proceeded to review the different activities that had been grouped under his direction. The Mothers' Allowance Act was first mentioned by the Minister, who declared that over 6,000 widows in whose families there were 18,000 children were being given the opportunity of bringing up their children properly and of giving them the education they required. The Old-age Pensions Act administration also came under the control of the Department of Public Welfare, and Mr Martin declared that under it and the Mothers' Allowance Act the Province was paying out $30,000 a day.

While the pensioners were passing away in Ontario at the rate of 300 a month the number of applications up to the end of last year, the Minister stated, had averaged 1,100 each month.

The work of educating children of sub-normal mentality was next dealt with by Mr. Martin, who paid an eloquent tribute to the efforts of Dr. Sinoclair. The great success of the auxiliary schools and classes throughout Ontario in making useful and independent citizens capable of earning their own livelihood from children who otherwise would have had to go through life handicapped, was described by the speaker as an outstanding example of what could be done in this connection.

Soldiers' Aid Commission.

The work of the Soldiers 'Aid Commission, organized to take care of the children of men who gave their lives in the World War, was another interesting activity coming under the Department of Public Welfare. Although the war was over twelve years ago, the Commission still had 458 wards under its management, and the responsibility of acting as foster parents to such a number was one of the most interesting of all the duties of the Minister.

What was being done by the Children's Aid Society in the great task of caring for the thousands of neglected and dependent children throughout the Province was eloquently related by Mr. Martin, who also has this service to administer.

Hon. Mr. Martin dealt with the importance of the reformatory schools, the necessity of providing the proper environment and the best training for the boys who were sent there, and the desirability of sending them out as useful citizens ready to take a legitimate place in society. The Boys' School at Bowmanville a school to which no magistrate could commit a boy and which every boy entered without the slightest stigma was referred to by the Minister as a most successful experiment, listed among the best institutions of its kind on the continent. It was an honor school in which in everything they did the boys learned to play the game and live up to the golden rule. So successful, indeed, had been the Bowmanville School that the Government were this year establishing a similar institution where girls whose conduct required control of the same nature could be taken care of.

The speaker then referred to the desirability of doing something to assist Ontario's crippled children and to supplement the great work that was being done by service clubs in that respect. The time would come, he said, when there would be a school in Ontario to take care of those unfortunates, and he would like to see an institution established on the lines of the Hermitage Craft School in England, whose operations he described.

Voluntary Aid Sought.

"The establishment of a Public Welfare Department does not mean that the Government is bowing out of court the voluntary organizations that are doing so much," declared Hon. Mr. Martin emphatically. "If the time ever comes when any Government will try to discard the enthusiasm and zeal of the thousands of men and women who are giving freely of their time and substance and energy to help others less fortunate, it will be a decidedly retrograde policy."

The speaker closed with an eloquent appeal to the service organizations to carry on their work with renewed enthusiasm and determination, assuring that the full support of the Ontario Government was behind them.

Kiwanian J. J. Turner, in a graceful speech, expressed the pleasure of every member of the audience in the inspiring address of the Minister, who, was, the speaker said, evidently the right man for the important task to which he had been assigned.

The meeting was then turned over to Vice-President Harry Boyle, who acting as booster, explained that he intended to "boost" the Peterborough Rotary Club for the fine work it was doing, and then presented the prize to Rotarian Jim Matthews for the courage he was showing in proceeding in the face of present economic conditions to build a new industry in Peterborough.

The President's Message.

Vice-President Boyle, referring to the fact that officers of the local club were attending the International Convention of Kiwanis at Miami, Florida, called upon Kiwanian L. J. Pettit to read the following Fellowship Hour message from the International President of Kiwanis:

We come again for the eighth consecutive year to an observance of a distinctive Kiwanis occasion—an occasion dedicated to the heart of Kiwanis plans, the soul of Kiwanis purpose—"The Fellowship Hour." This great company assembled in Miami, present with us now, is but a small part of that vastly greater number of Kiwanians who at this hour, in hundreds of communities, join reverently with us in the spirit of common and universal Kiwanis fellowship. Mortal barriers are for the moment suspended, as distance is eliminated, boundary lines between our states and our nations are obliterated, time as measured by the meridians is set aside; communication becomes instantaneous, and a profound sense of fellowship enfolding Kiwanians everywhere, permeates these moments.

In the words of David Garrick, the English poet—

"A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind."

I hope that I may express a thought which will strike a ready response in the heart of every Kiwanian. It is a note of thankfulness, adapted to this occasion from an inspiring old hymn:

"Safely through another year,
God has brought us on our way,
Let us now a blessing seek,
Waiting in His Courts today."

In times that have been difficult, under circumstances that have been trying, Kiwanis has faced its testing fires, and tonight we rejoice to see it emerge with a rugged, virile strength, prepared to project itself with even greater vigor into the brighter times and the better conditions that are immediately before us.

In this material world mechanical power has attained to seemingly supreme heights. As Kiwanians however, we recognize and give allegiance to a greater motive than that which drives the wheels of industry. Amid the modern complexities of life, more than ever before must human emotions be guided and controlled, selfish ambitions restrained and that which is laudable, peaceful, and charitable, ever extended. It is the fineness of character, of persons or purpose, that produces a wealth of spiritual security which permits no fear and bears no criticism. It is to these all important elements that Kiwanis continues to make its constant contribution.

The Kiwanis year of 1930-31 has brought no diminution in dividends from our individual and community service. Boys and girls innumerable have been redeemed and restored to physical health and moral strength. Young men and young women have received the advantage and inspiration of guidance toward useful and gainful occupations. Ideals in business and in the professions have not faded or waned, but on the contrary, their importance and their actual value has received new recognition and new emphasis. There has been erected a bulwark of mutual faith, and hope that is fostered and inspired by fine and friendly relations beween the man of the farm and the man of the city. There are decided evidences, apparent to every one within this hearing, that citizenship is taking on a new meaning, and is awakened and aroused to be more aggressive, intelligent, and serviceable. In the genuine spirit of these accomplishments Kiwanis has lived and served. Our fellowship has been a vital factor in the success of our undertakings.

This bond of fellowship in common interests is as inseparable as it is intangible. Men of a thousand different vocations, from every province of Canada and from every commonwealth in the States, acknowledge the tie that binds us together in Kiwanis. It is that we worship at a common altar of sacrifice and service. It is a unity that has been nearly two decades in the making. We shall guard it with zealous care.

Life rewards us generously with many delightful compensations; home family, material bounty and the companionship of friends. Not the least of all these is the personal interest, the privileges of association, and the sustaining strength of Kiwanis friendships. This is what we mean when we say that Kiwanis makes "enduring friendships."

In this solemn moment, among the legion of Kiwanians assembled all over this continent, let us again subscribe to the fundamental objects of Kiwanis, and re-appoint ourselves to greater attainment in the year that is before us.

Fellowship, as we see it and feel it here and now, has brought us thus far upon our way. It holds for us an even greater and more glorious future. It provides the motive for the ascent of the faith that leads to still higher and nobler endeavor. We may truly call it "Friendship's Road":

"Friendship is a chain of gold,
Shaped in God's all-perfect mold;
Each link a smile, a laugh, a tear,
A grip of the hand, a word of cheer,
As steadfast as the ages roll,
Binding closer soul to soul.
No matter how far or heavy the load,
Sweet is the journey on friendship's road."

A brief but most appreciated musical program preceded the address of the Minister.

Harold Coulson delighted the gathering with two most enjoyable solos and a quartette composed of Mrs. Munro, Miss Jessie Pattison, Wm. Grieves and George Coleman gave a spirited rendition of "The Spinning Wheel" a number that was enthusiastically applauded. Kiwanian M. B. Chenhall was at the piano for the numbers, while Rotarian John Crane was accompanist for the community singing.

In the Canadian census this year every domestic living creature down to the house cat and bees will be enumerated, and city people will answer only 40 questions while farmers must reply to 600.

PAVING PROGRAM

men be employed, based his argument on the fact that if the work were done this month the city would get a grant of $7,000 from the Government under the Unemployed Relief Scheme. He estimated the job would cost $23,600 of which 40 per cent would be labor, of $10,400 of which the city would get two-thirds from the Government.

"If we are going to do it within the next two months, we might as well do it now and get the benefit of that $7,000," he argued.

Alderman Tugger: "Who said anything about doing it in two months?"

Alderman Phelan: "Well, it's understood we will."

Meeting the argument that the drains were not settled enough to permit paving, it would pay the city to make any necessary repairs later.

Alderman Macdonald: "If the drains are not fit to go ahead, why go ahead?"

Alderman Phelan: "If we don't, it's like throwing $7,000 away."

Alderman Stocker: "We should go carefully over the specifications. All the time I've been in this Council I've never seen any paving specifications, and I'll bet these were made by the paving interests.

Alderman Turner: "I'd want to get the City Engineer's statement that the drains were ready for paving first."

Alderman Tuggey: "The City Engineer has already stated that the streets weren't fit for paving because of the drains. If he's not a man of his word, he shouldn't be here. The Warren Company have agents here and they mean to get in by hook or by crook."

Alderman Phelan: "Oshawa did a mile of paving and they did it under this scheme, with the Government sharing the cost."

Alderman Tuggey: "I tell you, the Warren Paving Company have agents here. I'm glad I'm not one. I would not believe them if they swore on a pile of Bibles 15 feet high and held a Bible in each hand."

Alderman Holland seconded Phelan's motion, which had not yet been really formulated and at this stage did not state that the Warren Company was to be given the contract. In doing so, Alderman Holland maintained that the road should be paved since it was a bus route and was always needing costly repairs in its present state. With the grant from the Government he thought "It was an economy which the members of the Council should take advantage of." The city was pledged to do the work, he said, and if it held off, the work would have to be done at full cost to the city.

Alderman Stocker—"What do you intend to do, ask for tenders? What guarantee have we that there will be only local men on the job?

Mayor Denne—"Have it in the contract. Have it down in black and white."

Alderman MacNabb—"I don't believe in promises. The Examiner referred to me as an arch enemy of the Warren Paving Company, and I am, because they do not keep their promises. How do we know that once they get in here to do this $26,000 job they won't get a lot more. I'd like to see the work done, but under the supervision of our city engineer and then we will be sure our own men will get the work and the wages."

Alderman Turner said he had some questions for the City Engineer.

He asked, "Would you recommend that this paving in East City be done now?"

Mr. Parsons—"No."

Alderman Turner—"Any part be done?"

Mr. Parsons said that a few hundred feet might be done.

Alderman Turner asked if by rolling or wetting the drains if they could be made to settle in a week sufficiently to make paving safe.

Mr. Parsons said that it had been tried near the C.G.E. in the past and hadn't been successful. He thought it was more difficult to get the East City drains to settle than that in the south end. "I'll take no part in it as matters stand" stated Mr. Parsons in washing his hands of any responsibility if the Council decided to pave East City.

At this stage Alderman Phelan had his complete motion ready and read it.

Alderman Stocker: "What the same prices as last year? Prices are away down."

Alderman Tuggey moved an amendment that if any paving were to be done this year it be concrete and done under the supervision of the City Engineer. Alderman Stocker seconded it.

Alderman Phelan: "This looks like a stall to me. There's no time to get it done that way and you know We'd have to advertise it. We have no steam shovel. I can't see any difference if the Warren Company do it to anyone else does it, as long as it is done and the city gets the benefit of the $7,000 from the Government. To lay the cement base and ask a company to come and lay the asphalt would never work.

Alderman Stocker: "In 48 hours I can organize a gang of 100 men. Without anyone's help I can have a gang of men at work by Wednesday morning."

Alderman Macdonald: "Its a question of doing it now or wasting a couple of months. The City Engineer won't approve the work now I move an amendment to the amendment that we lay it over until he approves." Alderman Hamilton seconded the motion.

In reply to questions, City Clerk Armstrong stated that for the city to do the work it would be necessary to cancel the construction bylaw, get consent of the Municipal and Railway Board and advertise the work for 21 days.

Mayor Denne: "We have a motion to do the work now or not."

Alderman Holland withdrew his seconding of Alderman Phelan's motion because he said that when he seconded it there was not mention of the Warren Paving Company However, Alderman Cotton came to Alderman Phelan's rescue by giving it his endorsation.

The Macdonald motion postponing any paving carried.

Then Mayor Denne offered his suggestion on paving Hunter Street to the Lift Locks. "There are good citizens out of work, and we must supply them with a job. This work would be done under the relief plan and we'd start right away. If you're sincere about wanting to help give citizens a job, here's your chance."

Alderman Macdonald voiced his approval and at once made a motion to pave the hill under the direction of the City Engineer, and Alderman Turner seconded it.

Alderman Tuggey stated that the hill was one of the worst places to put pavement, since it would crack the first winter. However, no place else could be suggested for paving.

City Engineer: "The whole city is knocked out from paving because of the storm drains."

Alderman McNabb neatly commended the Mayor for his suggestion.

Alderman Tuggey: "I want to ask Mr. Parsons what he thinks of the idea."

Mr. Parsons: "It's a good idea."

The motion carried unanimously and the Mayor ended the meeting with his comment: "Now we can go to work."

Farmers' Club Plans Aggressive Program

KEENE, May 5.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The United Farmers' Club of Keene, who re-organized on the fifteenth of last month, are planning an aggressive program for the coming year.

They hope to hold monthly meetings, the first of which will be on Wednesday, May 6. J. B. Nelson, the district agricultural representative, will be present to arrange for a Field Crop Competition for this year. Since the Keene Fall Fair discontinued some years ago, this competition has been allowed to lapse. Some of the former members feel that this is one of the best methods of improving the quality of the seed produced in the community and hopes in this way to bring Otonabee to the high standard it is unquestionably able to reach in grain production.

SCOTCH SOCIETY HITS RUSSIA

Remarkable allegations against the Soviet for its attitude towards the Christian religion in Russia are made in a report of the National Bible Society of Scotland at the annual meeting in Edinburgh recently. According to the report no fewer than 70,000 churches, synagogues, and mosques have been closed, and have mostly been transformed into movie theatres or clubs. In some churches priests are compelled to hang up pictures of Lenin, Stalin and Rykoff. All religious literature is forbidden. Since May, 1929, anyone possessing a copy of a Bible is deemed guilty of a crime against the State, which will be severely punished. All Bibles must be pulped to make paper for newspapers owing to the crisis in the State paper industry, according to the report.

"In the early days of the A. B. C. we belonged to a small but influential group whose members saw the necessity of hanging together that they might not hang separately. It was a merry battle for the establishment of dependability in advertising values.

"The battle was won, but if the benefits are to be maintained it is incumbent upon present day advertisers to give to the Audit Bureau the support—moral and financial—that it so fully deserves."

B B Jones

"From a standpoint of buying known circulation values, the A. B. C. has become absolutely indispensable. Without it we could never be certain of the quantity or distribution of circulation we buy in any given publication and we would lack also a great deal of valuable evidence about its qualitative value—evidence which can be gleaned from a study of A. B. C. figures on sources and methods of circulation."

● It took downright hard work to establish a reliable measuring stick for media values. Thanks to such leaders as these, that struggle has been won.

Accurately, now, the audience reached by any periodical or newspeper member of the A. B. C. may be assayed. You can lay your fingers on the solid facts of its numerical strength and distribution. You can get at the data that largely determines circulation quality.

And this data is no longer made up of unverified claims. It consists today of the audited, standardized reports of an institution controlled by advertisers themselves, the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

A. B. C. reports now cover almost every important publication in America. They are available to every director of an advertising budget, by the simple act of the advertiser retaining membership in the Bureau.

The Bureau invites advertisers to write for full facts about membership and its privileges.

MR. ANDERSON'S SUGGESTION.

The suggestion offered by W. A. Anderson, ex-M.P.P., that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission should pay an annual rental for all its power towers erected on private land, instead of continuing the present lump sum arrangement, is a new proposal that deserves consideration.

There is not the slightest doubt that the terms offered by the commission in the past have failed to do justice to the farmers affected—in many instances the compensation falling far short of repaying the land owner for the damage done his property.

While the system now in force is more satisfactory, there is a strong feeling that it is not adequate to meet the situation, and Mr. Anderson's proposal of a yearly rental, to be retroactive, will probably meet with approval in the districts over which the Hydro power lines are strung.

The local Right-of-way Association is already justifying its existence, and if the districts further east are linked up with the movement there will be a complete organization available to fight for justice for the farmers of Central and Eastern Ontario, and to give impetus to the suggestion that those affected by the Hydro activities should be recompensed on the basis of a yearly rental.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS.

"The sooner the authorities suppress the movies depicting criminal heroes the better, or we'll have more of these cases," declared Magistrate Burbidge of Hamilton in sentencing three youths convicted on several charges of robbery.

The boys, in age ranging from 17 to 19 years and all coming from good homes, have been carrying on as bandits for some time, apparently for the thrill involved than because of the necessity of securing money.

The Hamilton magistrate evidently believes that the movies were responsible for the downfall of these young criminals.

It is true that in spite of the censorship which shuts off from Ontario some of the most vicious of the American-made films, there is still too much crook fare served up on our screens, and its influence on the adolescent patrons of picture houses cannot be wholesome.

The Examiner is inclined to believe that a more sinister factor in educating our youth in banditry is the new type of detective and gangster magazines that have sprung into alarming popularity within the last year or two.

These ghastly publications, purporting to give all the gruesome details of modern crimes, tell all there is to know about gang methods, racketeering and law-breaking in general.

It would be interesting to know just how much such magazines contribute to the crime wave among young men of the type sentenced yesterday at Hamilton.

GIVE A MAN A JOB.

This is Clean-Up Week in Peterborough—and a great chance to relieve the unemploymtnt situation.

The Examiner, realizing that there are large numbers of men who would welcome an opportunity of earning a little money, has decided to offer unemployed citizens the facilities of its advertising columns.

This week any local citizen who is out of work is invited to advertise, free of charge, in The Examiner the fact that he is prepared to accept a job, temporary or otherwise.

It is hoped in this way to link up the householder who wants some work done and the unemployed who want something to do.

As was pointed out in these columns a few days ago, there is a great deal of work to be carried out at this season of the year, and those citizens who are in a position to pay for having repairs done, gardens prepared and other clean-up operations executed are advised to read The Examiner want ad. columns this week for names of men who are anxious for unemployment at just that sort of work.

All unemployed citizens should send in their advertisements at once so that the list of those in need of jobs may be as complete as possible.

General co-operation in this campaign would help to relieve the situation materially.

MR. JUSTICE RANEY AND NATIVE WINE.

Mr. Justice Raney remarked the other day in the course of a murder trial in which drunkenness figured, "The people of Ontario have said that the sale of wine should be encouraged."

As a matter of fact, the people of Ontario have said nothing of the sort; they have, on the contrary, said that the sale of wine should be controlled.

They have not forgotten that under the prohibition law endorsed by Justice Raney not only was the sale of native wine permitted but it was permitted under circumstances that made control impossible.

They remember that in the days when Justice Raney was Attorney-General of Ontario and charged with the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act that while the sale of other intoxicating beverages was banned, any person who possessed sufficient money to pay for it could buy large quantities of native wine with a very high alcoholic content.

As a matter of fact, it was not until last year when this wine was placed on the same footing as other intoxicants and its sale regulated by bringing it under the permit system that anything was done to put the sale of Ontario wine under control.

Mr. Justice Raney must have forgotten these facts or he would not have used words apt to create the impression that the sale of native wine is something that has developed since the people of Ontario voted in favor of abandoning prohibition.

THE SPIRIT OF WESTERN FARMERS.

The Members of the Brantford Rotary Club, who heard the magnificent address delivered by the Hon. Duncan Marshall on agricultural conditions in Canada and who were so greatly encouraged by his utterances to believe in the future prosperity of the Prairie Provinces, will be glad to note that he is as optimistic as ever. In comparison with the doleful wailings of some of the western members in the House of Commons at Ottawa, regarding the discouraging conditions in the Canadian West, Mr. Marshall's hopeful outlook comes as an inspiration. Speaking recently, he said:

"Taken as a whole, I can say to you that the farmers in the Canadian West are not looking for any miracle to happen, or anybody to turn the country's economics upside down. They are going to win through to better days as they have fought through earlier depressions. The western farmer is nothing if not 'a sticker.' He will work from 15 to 18 hours a day this summer. It is merely another chapter in the age-old story, indicating that no country was ever conquered by the plow for which men and women did not have to fight and suffer."

There is every reason to believe that Mr. Marshall thoroughly understands the condition of western farmers, and that his optimistic views can be accepted with the assurance that they are reasonably correct. Undoubtedly many of them have had painful experiences, but even these disappointments are teaching them wisdom in the management of their farms, and there is every reason to believe that, by a more extensive adoption of mixed farming, they will enjoy greater prosperity in the future than in the past.—Brantford Expositor.

HOMES WITHOUT DISCIPLINE BRING US THE GANGSTER.

(From Liberty)

Undisciplined homes are a serious menace to the future of this nation. There you will find the modern gangster in the making.

Parents often love their children not wisely but too well, and they neglect to properly control them. They grow up like weeds in a garden, without the direction so essential in character building.

When children are properly trained they usually acquire understanding at maturity. They automatically give due consideration to other people, and they are keenly imbued with a proper respect for their parents. They do not refer to them as the "old man" or the "old woman." They do not automatically class them as out-of-date—back numbers.

Parental love is a dominating force, but it should be intelligently directed. Too much coddling by doting parents is an evil influence of great import. Neither body nor mind can properly develop under such circumstances.

Loving parents naturally desire to protect their children from hardship. They want them to taste to the full the happiness they may have missed. And they often make the serious blunder of protecting them from unpleasant experiences so important in character building.

The school of hard knocks is said to furnish a superior education. And when a child is shielded from difficulties of all kinds he cannot acquire complete development, either mentally or physically. He will lack the strength of character and vigor of body so badly needed in the struggle for life's great prizes.

When the home has failed to furnish proper direction we find tempers that cannot be controlled, dominating characteristics lacking intelligent guidance, determination to have one's way regardless of the cost.

And such unbalanced characters are heavily penalized for their mistakes. Premature destruction is their fate in most cases.

Faults of this nature should be curbed and controlled in the home.

Mother love is often the source of divine inspiration; but when it is so extreme as to find excuses for outbursts of temper, thoughtless selfishness, and even cruelty, it becomes a devastating force.

There are occasions in training children when one has to be cruel to be kind, when you have to correct faults with a firm hand or suffer from the sins of renegade offspring.

The modern American home has, to a large extent, cast aside the old-time discipline. Much of it should come back. It is sorely needed.

A strong character, intelligently guided, fervently imbued with human sympathies, will find life wonderfully alluring.

But recklessness, selfishness, at times even thoughtless cruelty of some undisciplined characters ultimately bring severe punishment.

It is mental defectives of this kind—greedy, sordid, mean—that are crowding the underworld. They are making us the most lawless nation on the earth.

And it is the crumbling of the discipline of the old-fashioned American home that is to blame for this chaotic situation.

This is a problem that begins in the cradle. It is a problem, therefore, for young mothers and young fathers. Those whose children are just entering upon life must give these things thought—and give them thought now.

TANAR OF PELLUCIDAR

BY

EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

David, Ja, and Tanar were quartered in barracks inside the palace wall and immediately set to work to carry out a plan that David had suggested and which included an inspection, not only of the Korsar's powder factory and the arsenals in which they firearms were manufac-, tured but also visits to the niter beds sulphur deposits, charcoal pits and iron mines.

These various excursions for the purpose of inspecting the sources of supply and the methods of obtaining it aroused no suspicion in the mind of the Korsar, though their true purpose was anything other than it appeared to be.

In the first place David had not the slightest intention of teaching the Korsars how to improve their powder, thereby transforming them into a far greater menace to the peace of his empire than they could ever become while handicapped by an inferior grade of gun-powder that failed to explode quite as often as it exploded. These tours of inspection, however, which often took them considerable distances from the city of Korsar, afforded an excuse for delaying the lesson in powder making, while David and his companions sought to concoct some plan of escape that might contain at least the seed of success. Also they gave the three men a better knowledge of the surrounding country, familiarized them with the various trails and acquainted them with the manners and customs of the primitive tribes that carried on the agriculture of Korsar and all of the labor of the mines, niter beds and charcoal burning.

It was not long before they had learned that all the Korsars lived in the city of Korsar and that they numbered about five hundred thousand souls, and, as all labot was performed by slaves, every male Korsar above the age of fifteen was free for military service, while those between ten and fifteen were virtually so since this included the period of their training, during which time they learned all that could be taught them of seamanship and the art of piracy and raiding.

David soon came to realize that the ferocity of the Korsars, rather than their number, rendered them a menace to the peace of Pellucidar, but he was positive that with an equal number of ships and men he could overcome them and he was glad that he had taken upon himself this dangerous mission, for the longer the three reconnoitered the environs of Korsar the more convinced they became that escape was possible.

The primitive savages from whom the Korsars had wrested their country and whom they had forced into virtual slavery were of such a low order of intelligence that David felt confident that they could never be successfully utilized as soldiers or fighting men by the Korsars, whom they outnumbered ten to one; their villages, according to his Korsar informant, stretching away into the vast hinterland, to the farthest extremities of which no man had ever penetrated.

The natives themselves spoke of a cold country to the north, in the barren and desolate wastes of which no man could live, and of mountains and forests and plains stretching away into the east and southeast to, as they put it, "the very shores of Molop Az"—the flaming sea of Pellucidarian legend upon which the land of Pellucidar floats.

This belief of the natives of the uninterrupted extent of the land mass to the south and southeast corroborated Davids belief that Korsar lay upon the same continent as Sari, and this belief was further carried out by the distinct sense of perfect orientation which the three men experienced the moment they set foot upon the shores of Korsar; or rather which the born Pellucidarians, Ja and Tanar, experienced, since David did not possess this inborn homing instinct. Had there been an ocean of any considerable extent separating them from the land of their birth, the two Pellucidarian felt confident that they could not have been so certain as to the direction of Sari as they now were.

As their excursions to various points outside the city of Korsar increased in number the watchfulness of Fitt relaxed, so that the three men occasionally found themselves alone together in some remote part of the back country.

Tanar, wounded by the repeated rebuffs of Stellara, sought to convince himself that he did not love her. He tried to make himself believe that she was cruel and hard and unfaithful, but all that he succeeded in accomplishing was to make himself more unhappy, though he hid this from his companions and devoted himself as assiduously as they to planning their escape. It filled his heart with agony to think of going away forever rom the vicinity of the woman he loved, even though there was little or no hope that he might see her should he remain, for gossip of the approaching nuptials of Stellara and Bulf was current in the barracks where he was quartered.

The window of the room to which he had been assigned overlooked a portion of the garden of The Cid. Tanar was seldom in his apartment and when he was he ordinarily gave no more than casual attention to the garden beyond the wall, but upon one occasion, after returning from an inspection of an iron mine, he had been left alone with his own sad thoughts, and, seating himself upon the sill of the window, he was gazing down upon the lovely scene below when his attention was attracted by the figure of a girl as she came into view almost directly before him along one of the gravelled paths. She was looking up toward his window and their eyes me simultaneously. It was Gura.

Placing her finger to her lips, cautioning him to silence, she came quickly forward until she reached a point as close to his window as it was possible for her to come.

"There is a gate in the garden wall at the far end of your barracks," she said in a low whisper attuned to reach his ears. "Come to it at once."

Tanar stopped to ask no questions. The girl's tone had been peremptory. Her whole manner bespoke urgency. Descending the stairway to the ground floor Tanar left the building and walked slowly to its far end. Korsars were all about him, but they had been accustomed to seeing him and now he held himself to a slow and careless pace that aroused no suspicion. Just beyond the end of the barracks he came to a small, heavily planked door set in the garden wall and as he arrived opposite this, it swung open and he stepped quickly within the garden, Gura instantly closing the gate behind him.

"At last I have succeeded," cried the girl, "but I thought that I never should. I have tried so hard to see you ever since Fitt took you from The Cid's palace. I learned from one of the slaves where your quarters were in the barracks and whenever I have been free I have been always beneath your window. Twice before I saw you, but I could not attract your attrention and now that I have succeeded, perhaps it is too late."

"Too late! What do you mean?"

"Too late to save Stellara," said the girl.

"She is in danger?" asked Tanar.

"The preparations for her marriage to Bulf are complete. She cannot delay it much longer."

"Why should she wish to delay it?" demanded the Sarian. "Is she not content with the man she has chosen?"

"Like all men, you are a fool in matters pertaining to a woman's heart," cried Gura.

"I know what she told ne," said Tanar.

"After all that you had been through together; after all that she had been to you, how could you have believed that she loved another?" demanded Gura.

"You mean that she does not love Bulf?"

"Of course she does not love him. He is a horrid beast."

"And she still loves me?"

"She has never loved anyone else," replied the girl.

"Then why did she treat me as she did?"

"She was jealous."

"Jealous! Jealous of whom?"

"Of me," said Gura, dropping her eyes.

The Sarian stood looking dumbly at the dark-haired Himean girl standing before him. He noted her slim body, her drooping shoulders, her attitude of dejection.

"Gura,' he asked, "did I ever speak words of love to you? Did I ever give Stellara or another the right to believe that I loved you?"

She shook her head. "No," she said, "and I told Stellara that when I found out what she thought. I to'd her that you did not love me and finally she was convinced and asked me to find you and tell you that she still loves you. But I have another message for you from myself. I know you, Sarian. I know that you are not planning to remain here contentedly a prisoner of the Korsars. I know that you will try to escape and I have come to beg you to take Stellara with you, for she will kill herself before she will become the mate of Bulf."

"Escape," mused Tanar. "How may it be accomplished from the heart of The Cid's palace?"

"That is man's work," said Gura. "It is for you to plan the way."

"And you?" asked Tanar. "You wish to come away with us?"

"Do not think of me," said Gura. "If you and Stellara can escape, I do not matter."

"But you do matter," said the man, "and I am sure that you do not wish to stay in Korsar."

"No, I do not wish to remain in Korsar," replied the girl.

"You wish to return to Hime?' asked Tanar.

"After the brief taste of happiness I have had," replied the girl, "I could not return to the quarrels, the hatred and the constant unhappiness that constitute life within the cave of Scurv and which would be but continued in some other cave were I to take a mate in Hime."

"Then come with us," said the Sarian.

"Oh, if I only might!" exclaimed Gura.

"Then that is settled," exclaimed Tanar, "you shall come with us and if we reach Sari I know that you can find peace and happiness."

"It sounds like a dream," said the girl, wistfully, "from which I shall awaken in the cave of Scurv."

"We shall make the dream come true," said the Sarian, "and now let us plan on how best we can get you and Stellara out of the palace of The Cid."

"That will not be so easy," said Gura. "No, it is the most difficult part of our escape," agreed the Sarian; "but it must be done."

"And it must be done at once," said Gura, "for the wedding arrangements are completed and Bulf is impatient for his mate."

For a moment Tanar stood in thought, seeking to formulate some plan that might contain at least a semblance of feasibility.

"Can you bring Stellara to this gate at once?" he asked Gura.

"If she is alone, yes," replied the girl.

"Then go and fetch her and wait here with her until I return. My signal will be a low whistle. When you hear it, unlatch the gate."

"I shall return as quickly as possible," said Gura, and, as Tanar stepped through the doorway into the barrack yards, he closed and latched the gate behind him.

The Sarian looked about him and was delighted to note that apparently no one had seen him emerge from the garden. Instead of returning along the front of the barracks the way he had come, he turned in the opposite direction and made his way directly to one of the main gates of the palace. And this strategy was prompted also by another motive—he wished to ascertain if he could pass the guard at the main gate without being challenged.

Tanar had not adopted the garments of his captors and was still conspicuous by the scant attire and simple ornaments of a savage warrior and already his comings and goings had made him a familiar figure around the palace yard and in the Korsar streets beyond. But he had never passed through a palace gate alone before; nor without the ever-present Fitt.

As he neared the gate he neither hastened nor loitered, but maintained a steady pace and an unconcerned demeanor. Others were passing in and out and as the former naturally received much closer scrutiny by the guards than the latter, Tanar soon found himself in a Korsar street outside the palace of The Cid.

Before him were the usaul sights now grown familizr—the narrow, dusty street, the small open shops or bazaars lining the opposite side, the swaggering Korsars in their brilliant kerchiefs and sashes, and the slaves bearing great burdens to and fro—garden truck and the fruits of the chase coming in from the back country, while bales of tanned hides, salt and other commodities, craved by the simple tastes of the aborigines, were being borne out of the city toward the interior. Some of the bales were of considerable size and weight, requiring the services of four carriers, and were supported on two long poles, the ends of which rested on the shoulders of the men.

SINCE LAST DECEMBER

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—Your readers will remember that the half-yearly dividend of mining industrials and stocks paid last December were the greatest in our history. Stocks have now shrunk by hundreds of millions of dollars. Many great pulp mills are closing down altogether.

The United States with its Smoot-Hawley high tariff and Canada with the Bennett high tariff are the worst sufferers.

British trade is increasing. Ours is shrinking. Australia copied us and is on the broad of her back. Mr. Bennett's idea of closing out the world and trading at home is a failure. But don't blame Bennett.

J. H. Burnham.

PRESCRIBING A DIET FOR EVERYBODY

"What is the matter with our dental profession? We don't want to be considered as a branch of the medical profession and yet we take unto ourselves the privelege of telling our patients what and what not to eat.

"Why do we do this? Where do we get the right to prescribe a diet for a patient? How do we know what they should or should not eat? Have we made the proper examinations and blood tests? And if we have, how do we know what to prescribe?"

These are the words of a Chicago dentist, John H. Hospers, D.D.S.

Now what about this?

As a matter of fact unless an examination of the individual is made as to his digestive apparatus, blood pressure, richness of his blood, presence of diabetes, or anaemia and so forth it is hardly fair for anybody—dentist, physician or others—to prescribe and diet for him.

A dentist knows that certain foods will help to strengthen the teeth by depositing mineral salts in them, and he quite naturally suggests these foods to the patient. What he doesn't know is that this patient has some skin condition entirely due to these same foods.

Similarly, there may be a kidney condition in which meat should be eaten sparingly. On the other hand the blood may be thin and need meat (beefsteak and liver) to enrich it. The dentist may prescribe some raw fruits and vegetables, which are good for nine out of ten people, and yet this particular patient may have a stomach ulcer just forming, or perhaps just healing, or an inflammation of the large intestine, any of which conditions would be aggravated by raw fruits or vegetables.

A diabetic has to have his starches cut down, and his fats increased.

What is my point?

A dentist has really more right than many others to prescribe a diet, because his first three years of training are very similar to that of the physician. And as a matter of fact, our regular diet of meat and potatoes to which is added leafy vegetables, fruits and bread, is suitable for practically everyone, but where the individual is "run down," tires easily, has "stomach" trouble and so forth, no one should lay our a diet for him until he has made a thorough examination of his physical condition.

I believe the lesson that any special diet will not suit everybody, should be learned by all of us.

Judgment For $120 Is Given Miss Eason

Judgment for $120 and costs was given Mary Eason against A. E. Thompson, this city, by His Honor Judge Huycke in Division Court this morning.

The case arose out of a motor accident which took place on December 21 last on the Chemong road. Miss Eason was turning her car on the road when Thompson, driving toward Peterborough, collided into her. Miss Eason's car was badly damaged and from shock she was unable to attend her usual employment for two weeks.

A counter-claim for $120 had been entered by Thompson, but Judge Huycke found Thompson wholly to blame, dismissing the counter-claim and fixing full damages of Miss Eason's suit upon him.

J. A. O'Brien appeared for Miss Eason and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., for Thompson.

WASHINGTON CONGRESS WOULD STOP MARGINAL TRANSACTIONS FOR ANY LESS THAN $10,000

Several Suggestions For Better Trade Discussed By International Delegates.

NEED NEW LEADERSHIP.

Definite Planning Will Facilitate Recovery and Reduce Unemployment.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5 (AP).—Abolition of floor trading, prohibition of marginal transactions for less than $10,000 and elimination of the "daily statement," with its attendant caily call money rates were suggested by the International Chamber of Commerce congress today by Melvin A. Traylor, of Chicago.

The convention also heard its first discussion of the effects of war debts in the economic crisis. This question was brought up by Sir Alan O. Anderson, a director of the Bank of England and Alberto Pirelli, Italian industrialist.

Traylor, who is president of the First National Bank of Chicago, demanded a new business leadership which will take into account the element of human conduct in economic affairs.

He said the human element influenced by ambition, cupidity, and creed, ahd failed utterly in the present crisis and responsibility must rest with leaders.

Government co-operation isimperative but leadership must come from business he said, in warning against government ownership, operation and price regulation.

Cancel Obligations.

Sir Alan Anderson, discussing a warning against placing the burden of international settlements on gold, asked it if would not be better to cancel such obligations.

To cancel these international debts would not of itself cure the world's complaint, he said, though the settlement of war debts seriously aggravates the world's troubles in these hard times.

He said Great Britain, the largest war creditor, cancelled a great surplus of debts owing here and the debtor nations would vote for an extension of this policy but the creditor finds it hard to accept as impartial the advice of the debtor to orgive him when he owes.

Alberto Prielli, Italian industrialist, also touched upon war debts, saying that under present circumstances psychological factors may have a prependerating influence in determining the course of events. It is certain that in Europe inter-allied debts have a depressing effect which goes far beyond the amounts involved, entailing economic as well as psychological reactions.

J. S. Edstrom, a vice-president of the international organization, and head of the Swedish delegation, told the congress that a widening co-operation and increasing insight in the inter-dependence of economic cycles and economic progress will, we trust, provide better means of preventing repetition of a crisis of similar nature to the one we are now suffering.

During a depression, when bank reserves soon accumulate, and conditions thus become favorable for new investments, he said, definite planning will facilitate recovery and reduce unemployment.

GENERAL MINE LIST IS FIRM

CHEMICAL RESEARCH UP.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5.—(CP)—Prices were decidedly irregular on the mining market in the forenoon session to-day, with action confined to acomparatively few issues and bulk of issues practically unchanged in dull turnover.

International Nickel and Hudson Bay managed to register 10-cent advances prior to midday, but Noranda was under heavy selling pressure, price dropping over two points from last night, Sherritt Gordon and Abana firmed a cent or so apiece.

Chemical Research featured the oils, advancing 35 to $3.80. Home Oil was down 7 to 61 and other cheaper members of the group practically unchanged.

Individual Initiative Depression Solution

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 5.—Andrew Bellon, United States Secretary of the Treasury, said to-day that the solution to the present economic distress would be found in individual initiative and not by "surrendering the management of business and industry to the Government or to any board or group of men."

Breaking a two-year silence during which he has not discussed publicly the world-wide depression, the veteran Treasury Secretary emphasized that purchasing power was an all-important factor and that power "insofar as America is concerned, is dependent to a great extent upon the standard of living which obtains in this country."

Mr. Mellon addressed a luncheon given foreign bankers attending the International Chamber of Commerce by the American Bankers' Association. He told them that each nation must be allowed to work out in its own way its solution to the economic problem.

CANADA TO PLAN BIG CONFERENCE

Conservative Questions Concerning Conference Deluge Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas.

UP TO CANADA.

LONDON, Eng., May 5. (CP).—The Conservatives, who had been deluging Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, with questions concerning the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa next autumn, returned to the attack to-day.

Sir Kingsley Wood, Conservative, asked the minister if he was yet able to say whether all the dominions would be represented at the conference, and whether or not he could make further announcement concerning the conference arrangements.

Mr. Thomas replied he was not yet in a position to say whether all the dominions would be represented. He was also unable to say when he could give further information. The conference arrangements were a matter for the Canadian government he pointed out, adding it was obviously not for him to press the Canadian government merely because a question had been asked in the British House of Commons.

The minister promised however that the whole question would be considered when the definite date for the conference had been fixed.

Mr. Thomas recently stated in the house that the conference would probably convene at a date towards the end of August.

WHEAT SITUATION DELICATE PROBLEM

J. Pollard, Formerly of This City, Says in Interview Aboard Ocean Liner.

Quebec, May 5 (Special to The Examiner).—"The wheat situation has reached such a stage in Canada and the rest of the world, that it is quite beyond me," said J. Pollard, of the Quaker Oats Company, formerly of Peterborough, when he arrived at Quebec this afternoon on board the Cunard liner "Ascania." "There is really very little use trying to hazard any guesses at the present moment as to when the situation will right itself as it is all so complicated. When I left Montreal the position was extremely delicate and there seems to have been very little change from what I can see. While sales in the Quaker Oats Company are being maintained at a high level the margin of profit is still very low. I had very little opportunity of studying conditions while I was on the other side as I was on a holiday pure and simple, but I will be glad to get back to Montreal," said Mr. Pollard.

Other distinguished passengers on board the Cunarder were Lady Poole; R. W. Reford, Resident director of the Cunard Line in Canada and president of the Robert Reford Company, Limited, with Mrs. R. W. Reford; E. Rutherford; D. G. Rees, all of Montreal; Senator G. Parent; C. E. Taschereau, brother of the Premier of Quebec city.

The "Ascania" which came from Southampton, Havre and Cobh, proceeded this afternoon to Montreal, her final destination. She is scheduled to sail for Cherbourg and Havre on the 8th instant.

ELECTRIC ROADS TERMED DREAM

Railway Union Leaders Scoff at Johnston's Plan of Electrification.

WANT NATION IN CONTROL.

LONDON, May 5.—(CP)—Cable)—Relations between the Government and the railways figured over the week-end in declarations from two prominent leaders of the Railway Trades Unions.

John Bromley, secretary of the Locomotive Engineers Union, writes caustically on the references of Rt. Hon. Tom Johnston, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Employment, to the possibility of electrification of many railways and consequent provision of work for many of those now unemployed.

"The new Lord Privy Seal talked the veriest political tripe," asserted Mr. Bromley, "about electrification of the main lines. Every sane railwayman knows that Mr. Johnston and his cabinet colleagues will most likely have passed to kingdom come before the main lines are electrified, although I realize that some electrification of suburban traffic is quite likely."

In a speech at Nottingham C. T. Cramp, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said the joint committee of the Railway Trades Unions would probably decide next Thursday to approach the Government with a view to having the nation take over railway and main road transport services. Nationalisation would be urged, he said, because it would allow a national transport policy, benefitting industry and maintaining decent conditions for the workers.

NORANDA HOLDS AT $24 LEVEL

Issue is Outstanding Stock in To-day's Trading on Toronto Exchange.

STEELS ARE STRONGER.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange market went through the firs two hours of to-day's session without displaying a marked trend in either direction. Stocks were slow to put in an appearance and for the first hour only the pivotal stocks recorded any sales. The list broadened somewhat in the second hour, but very gradually and without occasioning any rearrangement of values.

Noranda was one of the outstanding issues, opening firm above 26 and selling off sharply towards the end of the first hour, steadying again around $24, where it was off more than two points from last night. International Nickel held at 14¾ or just under that price while Brazilian and C.P.R. were down a fraction each, the former at 17 and the latter just under 34. Ford of Canada was firm and unchanged at 20.

Steels were stronger with page up to 80 and Steel of Canada up 1 at 31.

There was no improvement in the trading into oil shares. B.A. oil was somewhat easier at 10¼; Imperial and International Petroleum were firm at or just above last night's closing.

JOBLESS KICK IN STRATFORD

Deputation Ask Council to Endorse System of Unemployment Insurance.

WANT 8 HOUR DAY.

STRATFORD, Ont., May 5. (CP)—Approximately 150 men, most of them either unemployed or employed on part time under the unemployment relief programme, crowded the council chamber here last night when the city council met for its regular meeting. The unemployed had previously given notice that they would attend the meeting, and had selected spokesmen. One of the requests was that the council endorse a system of unemployment insurance. The eight hour day and forty hour week were other measures which were requested for men on relief work.

One of the most frequent complaints in letters read was that single men were refused work and that they were being ejected from their boarding houses because they were behind in their board. Others alleged that the writers had spent 48 hours on the city woodpile for six to ten dollars.

After the delegates had been heard Mayor Moore assured them that the council wanted to be fair. He reminded them that they had brothers working on short hours, who found it difficult to pay their taxes. The council had to consider them in setting the tax rate. He suggested that a committee of the unemployed meet the council and investigate complaints.

AHRENBERG FITS PLANE WITH SKIIS

Swedish Birdman Plans to Land at Dugout of Lost Scientist.

Will Watch For Dog Teams.

ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, May 5.—(A.P.)—Given favorable weather, Captain Albin Ahrenberg hoped to take off to-day to rescue Augustine Courtauld, British scientist, who is marooned on Greenland's icy plateau.

Having equipped with skis the plane with which he flew the North Atlantic, the Swedish flier intends to land if possible near the isolated dugout in which the Britisher spent the winter. If this is unfeasible he will drop foodstuffs and return with directions for a land party.

En route to the temporary camp, 150 miles inland he will keep watch for three dogs teams, parties which set out some time ago on the same mission. One is led by H. G. Watkins, 23 year old leader of the Venture, who sailed from London with a party of 15 scientists a year ago to gather data for a proposed air route between England and Canada.

EARLY "BREAK" IN COPPERS SENDS NEW YORK LIST DOWN

Early Gains of Point or More Replaced By Losses—Bears Active.

OPERATORS CLOSE SHOP

(By Claude A. Jagger Associated Press Financial Editors.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 5.—The stock market indicated to-day that it is still too feeble for prolonged exposure to sunshine.

The upward trend which appeared late Saturday was carried over through the first hour of to-day's session, but the market then went into a slow decline. Selling broke out in some of the copper shares, and soon spread through the more important sections of the list. Early gains of a point or two were replaced by losses of similar extent.

U.S. Steel declined more than 2 points, getting down close to the year's low, and issues recording losses of like extent included American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, Baltimore and Ohio, Eastman, Air Production, Noranda Mining and Caterpillar Tractor. Losses of a point or so were numerous, embracing North American, General Motors, Pennsylvania Railroad and New York Central. Radio sold up more than a point in response to its quarterly earnings statement, but later lost much of its gain.

Finding little or nothing in the business or industrial news upon which a further rally might be eased, bears again applied pressure in sports, but they were not aggressive. It was said in brokerage circles that at least two large operators recently identified with the short side had closed out their contracts had retired for a vacation.

WHEN GEESE WORE BOOTS,

IN EUROPEAN countries, when large flocks of geese were driven to market, they wore boots. These boots were made by driving the geese first through tar and then sand, thus protecting their feet from the rough highway.

Modern travellers on our highways (far from bearing any resemblance to geese) are fully alive to the need for protection.

Motorists insure their cars, but frequently fail to protect themselves.

Have you valued your car above your personal safety?

Will you receive compensation if injured in an accident?

Are you protected against sickness?

CLIMBING ROSES.

STIRLING, May 5 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Wednesday evening a packed house greeted the cast from St. Andrew's choir who staged the play "Climbing Roses," in Stirling Theatre. This is a royalty play and well deserved the name.

Not a dull moment was endured—things began to happen and kept right on.

The plot centred about the Rose family, who by a stroke of good luck, inherited a home in town on the most exclusive street among the aristocrats.

Mrs. Rose (Mrs. B. Williams) decided to become a social climber. James Rose (Will Anderson) was hard to transplant but in time took his place among the swells.

Peggy Rose (Mrs. A. Murduff) became much interested in the hired man, who was also teaching them social etiquette.

Her friend Hazel Summers (Mrs. Joe Whitehead) a modern Miss, decided to marry Ferdie Wimbledon (Lex Nathan) in spite of his remonstrances.

Ryden Proonis, the self-confident car salesman, made a hit with the audience with his pep, personality and performance.

Mrs. Wanen (Mrs. B. W. Meiklejohn) tried in vain to eject the uncultured roses from her street.

Joyce Belmont (Mae Nolan) got herself in readiness to captivate Jack Archer, the famous novelist.

Jack Archer (Charlie Allen) who disguised himself as a hired man for the Roses, got into one scrape after another.

Pricilla Prentiss (Mrs. Harper Rollins) put the audience in convulsions with her ever-ready pill box, as the doctor ordered those in times of excitement. She swallowed dozens.

Winnie Clark (Mrs. Roy Eggleton) was very saucy with her boy friend, who was studying "how to be dominant," from a book.

Percy Southworth (Donald Ward) a meek, apologetic youth at first, became a very dominant man and strikes terror to the heart of Dryden Proonis and assumed a caveman attitude with Winnie.

The cast did extremely well. Mrs. Rollins was a scream as she decided to avenge her sister's wrongs.

Alex Nathan, the Englishman, in his efforts to keep Jack Archer from making a "bally idiot" of himself brought many a laugh.

The three princes were acted by Roy Eggleton, Rob Williams and Allen Meiklejohn.

The stage was most beautifully furnished, silver baskets of roses and carnations being in evidence.

The director, Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn was presented with a beautiful bouquet at the close of the program.

Between acts Miss Emma Meiklejohn, of Campbellford sang a pleasing solo.

Maurice Bell gave a banjo selection. Lorne Anderson played a number of instrumental solos and Charlie Allen also gave a number.

EXTENSIVE ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE TO INTERIOR OF ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Interior Will Be Completely Remodelled and Redecorated.

TO INSTALL NEW ORGAN.

Fiftieth Anniversary of Foundation of Diocese Celebrated Next Year.

After a lapse of nearly half a century, St. Peter's Cathedral is about to have its interior remodelled in such a fashion as to conform to the Gothic lines of its exterior. Its flat ceiling was installed about fifty years ago.

On a recent visit to the city, the Papal Delegate complimented the people on the possession of such a beautiful church, viewed from the exterior. The interior, he said, gave him a shock. The reason, possibly, lay in the difference between the lines of the outer structure and the many differing types of architecture encountered within. The word Palladian is used as an architectural term to describe a building in which lines and values are all mixed up, so to speak, after Andrea Palladio, an Italian architect who went to England in the early Victorian era and superimposed foreign ideas on English modes of building. The interior of the Cathedral might be spoken of as Palladian.

First Mass Celebrated in 1826.

In 1926, the Cathedral and other Catholic parishes of the city celebrated the hundredth anniversary here of the offering of the first Mass. So far as records show, the first Masses were celebrated in a little log building on the market place, just about where the Police Station now stands, but it is quite probable, as Archbishop O'Brien always maintained, that Mass was offered earlier than that, owing to the large number of Catholics who came out from Ireland in the Peter Robinson immigration.

Later, a wooden chapel built on the ground now occupied by the Royal Bank, was used for the celebration of Mass. This was burnt in 1836, when the Cathedral was begun and was finished in its present form, with the exception of the vestry and the side transepts, which were added in 1884. It was at that time also that the present flat ceiling, which is an anomaly in church buildings, and gives more of the appearance of a lecture hall to the interior, was erected, as the former pointed ceiling, which still remains above it, was in danger of collapsing, owing, it is said, to insufficient bracing from beneath.

Religious Motifs.

The flat ceiling was ornamented with paintings which have been the cause of much scrutiny from the generations which have worshipped beneath them, since that time. They include many paintings of saints, with St. Patricks as the central figure, also religious emblems.

About eight years ago, a program of remodelling and re-decoration of the interior was carried out, with the erection of three new altars and the enlargement of the sanctuary by an apse which abuts into the vestry.

Now is it the intention of Bishop O'Connor and the rector, the Rev. P. Costello, to do away with the side galleries in the transepts, place two of the smaller altars against the north wall, along with flanking altars to St. Joseph and the Little Flower, furnish the sanctuary properly with chairs and dark oak stalls that will conform to ecclesiastical ideas in such furnishings, install a Baptismal font at the rear of the church, install a new organ and change the ceiling, besides placing rest rooms for men and women at either side of the front entrance.

This week, the sanctuary furniture, conforming to the type of the Bishop's throne, will be installed by the Globe Manufacturing Company of Waterloo, the Baptismal font will be put in place and the altar to St. Joseph, which has been donated by a parishioner.

The order for the organ, will be placed this week and the erection will be simplified by the change in the ceiling, as the new organ pipes require a much greater height than is now possible. One of the foremost church architects, A. W. Holmes, of Toronto, was down during the past week and recommended the change in the ceiling as quite feasible and very practical. It will require the erection of four steel pillars on either side of the interior and will also heighten the arch of the apse above the High altar, by fourteen feet, thus giving a noble series of lines to the interior.

Special contracts for the various portions of the work will be allotted shortly, and the entire endeavor will be under the supervision of James J. MacPherson, as inspector. It is anticipated that the changes will be effected by September 1st.

The Cathedral is now in its ninety-fifth year of existence and will also on July 11th, 1932, celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the diocese of Peterborough, which was originally a portion of the diocese of Kingston, under Archbishop McDonell. A fitting celebration of the half century mark in the diocese' history is planned and the changes to the Cathedral will be in keeping with the anniversary as a whole.

From a civic standpoint, as well as a parochial and diocesan standpoint, the changes to the Cathedral have a significance at the present time when unemployment is so general and when men are eager to get work. They will be effected at a time when materials are comparatively cheap and when they will afford an opportunity for assistance to many men out of work.

REFORM PARTY WILL BACK GOV'T

Opposition Would Ensure Passage of Legislation on Economic Troubles.

LABORITES GROWING.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 5.—(C. P. Cable via Reuters)—The Government of Prime Minister C. W. Forbes, in a minority in the New Zealand House of Representatives, will nevertheless receive all the aid necessary from the opposition to ensure passage of legislation designed to deal with the Dominion's economic difficulties.

The Opposition Leader, former Prime Minister J. G. Coates, gave the Prime Minister this assurance today, while declining to accept the Prime Minister's suggestion that the Reform Party (Opposition) should combine with the United Party (Government) in the formation of one great national party to deal with the economic emergency.

Mr. Coates instead proposed that a committee of the entire opposition bodies should be formed to confer with the cabinet regarding the proposed legislation necessary for financial readjustment.

The government faces the opposition of not only the Reform Party but of a growing Labor party within the House, making it necessary to secure the support of the Reform Party for safe passage of national emergency measures.

KIWANIANS URGE ACTIVE CITIZENS

Delegate Conferences Discuss Membership and Expansion.

1,876 KIWANIS CLUBS.

MIAMI, May 5.—The active participation of all citizens in community, state and national affairs was urged here to-day at the sessions of the 15th annual convention of Kiwanis International, which outlined ways to deal with major social problems of the present day.

Upholding constituted authority, health measures, citizenship and character training, promotion of traffic safety, the discharge of jury duty and education for international good-will, were submitted in reports as vital work in the service program for all Kiwanis clubs in the U.S. and Canada, Guy Guernsey, of Chicago, and Dr. William F. Roberts, of St. John, New Brunswick, chairman of committees on public affairs for the two countries, will direct the work of the 1,876 clubs in these service activities.

"What are we doing to preyent injury to those who now enjoy full use of mind and limb?" asked Mr. Guernsey, "Every fifteen minutes one person in the United States is killed by a motor vehicle. No organization save one like Kiwanis can start safety work in a nation-wide fashion and help eliminate death hazards."

"The chief asset of the Canadian nation is the health and lives of its citizens," said Dr. William F. Roberts. "Two per cent of our population are constantly ill, and that means that there are 200 thousand people continually needing attention. On an average, 50 per cent of the incapacitation is preventable and would save Canada approximately 135 million dollars. The annual cost to the nation for illness amounts to approximately 270 million dollars," he said.

HEROIC SAILOR GIVES LIFE TO SAVE STORM-TOSSED SHIP

Volunteers to Climb Boom and is Swept Into the Sea.

PRAYED FOR FAMILY

(Special to The Examiner—Copyright, 1931)

HALIFAX, N.S., May 5—To be heroic at sea, is a tradition along the coasts of the maritime provinces. In many instances, the bravery of a sailor is so recognized as a matter of course, that the modern hero fund commissions and humane societies, hear nothing whatever, of the daring deed, the record of which is written only in the memories of the few men who, actually saw the act.

In such category is the adventure which cost the life of Seth H. Smith, of Clyde River, N.S.

Smith, a mariner from early boyhood, returned to Halifax, N.S. after serving before the mast on a sailing vessel which made the round trip from Halifax to the West Indies. He lost no little time in locating the ship, General Williams, bound from Halifax. He arranged with Capt. Ben Doane, of the Williams, to work his passage to his home port.

Within three hours after sailing from Halifax, the Williams was caught in the maw of a terrible storm. She was blown about 60 miles out to set, during the two full days, the gale raged. It looked to be all over when the flying jib was entangled, and the ship heaved over on her beam ends. There was the menace of the vessel foundering at any minute, unless the sails were cut away.

Kneels on Deck

Everybody was on deck when Capt. Doane, whose home was in Barrington, N.S., asked for a volunteer, who would go out on the jib boom, and do the cutting. There was a quick response from Seth Smith. With a quiet request, he was handed a rope, then he knelt down on the wind and wave swept deck, and asked God for protection for his wife and two young children at their home in Clyde River. Lastly, he asked for his own protection. In the darkness, he went out on the jib. In about a minute, the Williams righted, slowly. But, Seth Smith did not come back to the deck. It was presumed he was caught in the tie-up of rope and sail, and thrown into the churning sea.

DEAN'S PROPOSAL STIRS OPPOSITION

Would Erect Road Screen Surmounted By a Calvary in Westminster Abbey.

NOTHING DECIDED FINALLY.

LONDON, May 5 (By Thos. T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Reports have got abroad that the Dean and Chapter of Westminster Abbey propose to erect a rood screen surmounted by a Calvary. This is a wooden or stone screen separating the nave and chancel.

The report has aroused resentment among extreme evangelical organizations, but the Very Reverend Foxley Morris, Dean of Westminster, while admitting that several schemes for further beautifying the Abbey are under consideration, says that nothing has yet been finally decided.

A lively but friendly controversy arose some time ago over the Dean's suggestion of adding a sacristy to the Abbey, the expense of which would be borne by an anonymous donor. The necessity of such an addition was not questioned, but there was much difference of opinion over the location of the sacristy and the proposal consequently remains in abeyance.

SNOWDEN'S BILL TO BE EXPLAINED

Many Claim Tory Calmness Indicates There May Be Little Oppostion.

UP AGAIN WEDNESDAY.

LONDON, May 5.—(A.P.)—Debate on the tax resolution of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will be resumed in the House of Commons to-morow. Further explantion of his scheme is looked for at that time although in full import may not be known until the bill is published. An annual levy of a penny per pound on land valuation is proposed.

The calmness with which Conservative members received Mr. Snowden's formal motion yesterday is regarded by some Labor Ministers as indicating that opposition to its passage will not be so strenuous as at first supposed, but it remains to be seen whether this represents the policy of the party.

The professed "mystification" of Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conervative leader, over the meaning of the measure appears to represent the general attitude of his followers. They take the position they must have much fuller information before pronouncing their stand.

There is also a feeling in Conservative ranks that notwithstanding Mr. Snowden's attempt to insure levying of the tax in 1934, whatever happens in the meantime, it is doubtful whether the bill ever will come into actual operation and likely that the Government of the day will have the final word as to its application when the time comes.

Laborites and Liberals express themselves as generally pleased with the proposal although some criticise the delay in mkaing it effective as a decided weakness.

Fitting Reference Is Made To Late Member

A feeling reference to the loss sustained by Rotary in the death of S. Dickson Hall was voiced by Rotarian John Crane at last night's joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. Mr. Hall, the speaker said, was a charter member of the Peterborough Rotary Club, was associated with the organization until he retired from business and returned to the club as soon as a change in the rules made that action possible. "Mr. Hall had the kindest of hearts," declared Mr. Crane, "and I never knew him to say an unkind word about any one. The club and this city has sustained a great loss in his passing."

A letter of condolence will be sent to the relatives.

Reference was also made at last night's meeting by President Abbott to the departure from the city of Tom Dutton, one of the directors of the Peterborough Rotary Club.

SOCCER CRITIC REVIEWS TEAM

British Team Expected to Keep English Association Reputation in Canada.

NEVER BEEN DEFEATED

TORONTO, May 5.—Ivan Sharpe, Editor of the Athletic News, has written the following special article on the English players selected to tour Canada this summer. Mr. Sharpe knows the game thoroughly, having represented England twelve times as an amateur, also touring South Africa as a playing member of the English party in 1910. Speaking of the players, Mr. Sharpe says:

The eighteen players of the Football Association who are to tour Canada will, I feel sure, give an intelligent and attractive exhibition of English football, although, from all I am told, the hard grounds in your country and the lively bouncing ball prevent a player accustomed to English conditions from revealing his best.

Among the eighteen players who will make the trip are ten who have been in the honors list and three who have been considered good enough to play for England in her greatest match this season, namely in the game against Scotland at Glasgow. All told, I count it a thoroughly good side.

They will also make the trip knowing that in these empire tours the F. A teams have not lost or drawn a single match. It is a wonderful thing, after all, to send teams to Canada, and win every match; for you must remember that these men are playing after a hard season at home and on hard grounds and in hot weather.

Hibbs Better Goalie.

There are two goalkeepers. The better of the pair is Hibbs of Birmingham. He is the greatest goalkeeper of the day. He is remarkably safe in catching and clearing the ball, and can spring like a cat. I should say he is one of the safest goalkeepers who have ever played for England. He will show young Canadian goalkeepers how to be safe without being spectacular. Hibbs was at Tamworth, and proof of his position in English football is provided by the fact that he has kept goal for England in all her great matches this season, and was due to play both against Scotland at Glasgow on March 28 and for Birmingham in the English Cup final on April 26 at Wembley.

The other goalkeeper, K. C. Tewkesbury of Birmingham University, is the only amateur in the party, and appropriately enough he is England's goalkeeper in her amateur international games. Tewkesbury is quite a personality, and a very good goalkeeper.

The full backs include a striking pair in Shaw of West Bromwich Albion and Roughton of Huddersfield Torn.

G. E. Shaw of West Bromwich Albion, winners of the English Cups, takes the place of Shaw of Sunderland.

Roughton is one of the coming backs of English football. When Shaw fell out of the English trial, Roughton took his place. Young Roughton is going to make a name. He was found by Huddersfield Town in a Droylsden team at Manchester. At Huddersfield they have a knack of polishing full backs. They have certainly polished Roughton, who has splendid physique, courage and skill.

Jennings of Middlesbro', the other back in the party, was selected as reserve for the trial match. He was born at Platt Bridge, and is a nicely built back and an accomplished player.

A Real Half-Back Line.

Now come to the half-backs:

Magee of West Bromwich Albion is an international with a very interesting record. He reached this year's "A" Cup final with his club, and is a man of much experience and really the Albion's inspiration. He has played against Scotland, is a versatile little chap in style and unruffled in temper.

O'Dowd of Burnley is a player with a future. Born at Halifax, he came into prominence with Blackburn Rovers, who must always have regretted the fact that they transferred him to Burnley. He is a versatile half-back, strong in defence and attack, and can play in the centre or in the wing positions if necessary.

Carr of Middlesboro replaces Roberts of Arsenal, who was originally selected as the centre half.

Campbell of Huddersfield Town has been England's left half-back in all her principal internationals of late years and was also selected to play against Scotland at Glasgow which, of course, is the biggest honor a player can have. Campbell is another half-back whom Blackburn Rovers allowed to pass on to another club. How they must have regretted it. Here is a stylist. All Canada will like Campbell. He dribbles the ball like a forward, can beat man after man and then finish up with a perfect pass.

Oliver, of Fulham, the other half-back in the party, was also honored by the electors this season and played for the Rest in the international trial match. He is regarded as an international of the future. He is a product of amateur football in London where the unsaid game is exceptionally strong. When it was known that he was willing to turn professional practically all the clubs in London were after him and Fullham were fortunate to get his signature. He is a shrewd, calculating half-back. He was born at Fulham and is of ideal build for the position of wing half.

Now we come to the forwards:

Alexander of Hull City has taken the place of Eden of Sunderland at outside right.

A Versatile International.

Urwin of Sunderland (inside right) is a versatile and very accomplished forward who has been capped by England. He was first an outside forward but can really play in any position in the line as when Sunderland struck a bad patch about a year ago he took up the inside right position and made a great success of it.

Bowden, the Plymouth centre forward, takes the place of Weddell of Portsmouth.

Jack Smith of Portsmouth, is the most finished player on the Portsmouth at tack and much of Weddell's success this season is due to the openings made for him by Smith at inside right.

Hine of Leicester has already represented his country with distinction and is a very popular figure on the field not only at Leicester but on the grounds of his opponents as he plays football the whole ninety minutes.

Barry of Leicester City (outside left) is, on his day, one of the most attractive players in English football. Lithe and fast he is an elusive wing man who can beat his opponent in more ways than one and is also accurate and attractive in running off his approach play. Barry, at his best is a delightful player.

In Houghton of Exeter City is an outside left who has come to right the front this season. You will remember that little Exeter City (a third division club) reached the last eight teams in the "A" Cup competition after knocking out Derby County and Leeds United. Then they were beaten by Sunderland. Houghton has been one of the main spring's in this surprising team's triumph It is freely stated that Tottenham Hotspur have been prepared to pay a big fee for his transfer. Certainly Exeter City would not part with him for less than £5,000 although he is only a youngster. He was born in Liverpool.

Cookson (centre forward), of West Bromwich Albion completes the team. Here is a most interesting player. Cookson is a brother of the Bradford and former Manchester City full back. He himself was a full back with the Manchester City club who allowed him to pass along to Chesterfield. In third division games emergencies often arise. A full back, for instance, may have to turn out at centre forward. This happened to Cookson. At once he made a name. He took to the new position like a duck to water and whereas he hd been only a moderate back he became the talk of the country so that in 1925-6 by scoring 44 goals in 38 games in the Northern Section of the Third Division he broke the existing record. Others, of course, have now gone higher.

It will seem, therefore, that Canada is to entertain a highly accomplished set of players containing some famous stars.

MONTREAL Y.M.H.A. WIN JUVENILE TITLE

All Major Canadian Athletic Champions Decided With Basketball Final.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5 (C.P.)—In addition to winning the Dominion Juvenile championship last night by their defeat of the high school quintette from McAdam, N.B., Young Men's Hebrew Association squad of Montreal assisted the Maritime champions in winding up one of the most successful basketball seasons the game has enjoyed.

All the major Canadian championships have now been decided. Ontario garnered the major portion of them when quintettes from the province captured the intercholastic, men's junior, and women's senior crowns.

The juvenile title won by Y.M.H.A. last night gave Quebec its lone Canadian championship.

British Columbia produced the best quintette in the men's senior ranks when University of B.C., swept through stubborn opposition to win this coveted title.

While the senior honors stayed in the far west, the intermediate championship travelled to the far east when Halifax Wanderers survived a gruelling playdown series to win the championship in this class.

WELL KNOWN WAR CORRESPONDENT ELLIS ASHMEAD-BARTLETT IS DEAD

Had Lived as Soldier and Reporter in Almost Every War During Last 35 Years.

TAKEN PRISONER ONCE.

LISBON, May 5 (A.P.)—Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, author and war correspondent, died yesterday of peritonitis. He had been in a sanitorium for some time. He was fifty years old.

Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett had lived through the thick of shell fire both as soldier and reporter in almost every war in the last thirty-five years, with the exception of the Spanish-American war. He had had as frequent contact with battle, perhaps, as any man in the last generation.

Beginning with the Graeco-Turkish War in 1898, he accompanied the Turkish army and was taken prisoner by the Greeks. In the next war he went to South Africa, not as a disinterested observer, but as a lieutenant in the 2nd Bedfordshire Regiment of the British Army in the Boer War.

Represented English Press

Then came the Russo-Japanese War, and he turned reported again, representing English newspapers with the Japanese armies. He was with the French campaign in Morocco in 1907, and the Spanish drive against the Riffs in Morocco in 1909. He was with the Italian Army in Tripoli in 1911.

The theatre of war then shifted from North Africa to Europe, and Ashmead-Bartlett went to Turkey to cover the first Balkan War in 1912. After the Balkan allies had made peace with the Turks only to fight among themselves, he went to the Serbian headquarters for the Second Balkan War in 1913.

When the Sarajevo incident precipitated the Great War, Ashmead-Bartlett received the biggest assignment of all. He was elected by the Newspaper Publishers' Association to represent the London Press in the Dardanelles expedition.

In 1916 he represented the London press at Marshal Joffre's headquarters.

HOLY SHROUD, CHRIST'S COVERING ON REMOVAL FROM CROSS, ON VIEW

Over Million Catholics Expected to Make Pilgrimage to Worship Near Garment.

TAKEN FROM MARBLE CASE.

TURIN, Italy, May 5.—(AP)—The holy shroud, described by Catholic tradition as the "clean linen cloth" which covered the body of Christ after he was removed from the cross, was on view here to-day for the first time in 33 years.

More than a million Catholics from many parts of the world are expected to make the pilgrimage here to worship near the garment in which Joseph Armiathea is said to have wrapped the savior 1900 years ago. It will be exposed for three weeks.

The shroud was reverently removed yesterday from its jewel-studded marble case in the chapel of the Cathedral of Turin and carried into the main section of the church. The ceremony was witnessed only be members of the reigning house of Savoy, owners of the garment, high churchmen and a few guests.

Princes Attend Rite.

Crown Prince Humbert, representing King Emanuel, and his wife, Princess of Piedmont, led two lines of Princes and Princesses from the Royal Palace to the Cathedral. There they were received by Archbishop Fossati and assisting prelates who performed the rite.

The cloth is about 13½ feet long and 4¼ feet wide. Though blackened by age and accidental flames, it bears the faint image of a human form both back and front. This is believed to have been caused by the perspiration and blood of the master.

Proponents of its authenticity argue that it is recognized in several pronouncements of the Holy See as being the identic garment of the crucifixion. Others insist it was the work of a French artist in the 14th century and that there are many other examples.

DROP AT LONDON

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, May 5. — With the opening of trading operations on the local butter market yesterday, a slightly steadier tone was apparent, and before the day's activities came to a close brokers were receiving fractionally higher levels for top-scoring creamery solids. Ordinary lots, however, were commanding steady prices at 21c for No. 1 and 20c for No. 2, but choice lots were bringing 21½c for No. 1 and 20½c for No. 2. Brokers reported buyers willing to make deals at both the steady and higher levels, which indicated a considerably better trend to local market.

Cream

Cream prices were unchanged at the low levels reported last week-end. Toronto buyers quoted 24c for special, 23c for No. 1, and 20c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

Prices on new cheese were steady with those of last week, brokers asking 10½c for large, 10¾c for twins, and 11c for triplets and wholesalers asking 11½c for large, 11¾c for twins and 12c for triplets.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 5—Despite Canadian reports of showers and some snow, wheat scored price advances yesterday largely owing to indications that drought perils were little, if any, abated. Crop authorities asserted that only frequent heavy rains would ensure an average crop of domestic spring wheat, that in many sections the surface moisture was almost exhausted, with no subsoil supply, and that in Canada the conditions were even worse. Late Canadian advices told of high winds and soil drifting.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼c-¾c higher, corn ½c-1¾ advanced, ½c-⅞c up, and provisions unchanged to 10c off.

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE.

BETHANY, May 5.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The play, "Abie's Irish Rose" was presented in the Community Hall recently by the Sunderland Dramatic Club.

Many have been anticipating its repetition on the evening of May 24 but a prior engagement will prevent the cast from coming to Bethany on that date.

The audience was kept keenly alert, not missing a phrase as every moment something was being said that even the gravest had to laugh. Between acts music was supplied by Professor Ragner Steen, of Lindsay, assisted by the Misses Kay at the piano. Professor Steen played violin obligato and also furnished dance music for the Misses and Ethel Doble who delighted the audience with their graceful steps.

The cast was: Isaac Cohen, Clarence Drader; Mrs. Cohen, Ira Fallowdown; Dr. Samuels (Rabbi), L. M. Pinkham; Solomn Levy, Col. J. Perrin (Mr. Perrin keeps everyone expecting something very funny); Abraham Levy, Arthur G. Welsh; Rose Mary Murphy, Mrs. A. Welsh; Father John Whalen, Elgin Bagshaw; Patrick Murphy, E. P. McGowan; flower girls, Aileen Doble, Marion Kennedy; maid of honor, Mrs W. Doble; bridesmaids, Marion Doble, Margaret Doble and Marjorie Fallowdown.

Miss Marjorie Fallowdown and Mr. Perrin fully entertained the audience with their step dancing, music being supplied for the dance by Mr. Steen at the piano.

The play was given in three acts: Act I—Solomon Levy's home, New York City; Act II—Same, one week later; Act III—Abie's and Rose Mary's home, Christmas, one year later.

The evening was sponsored by St. Paul's Anglican Church and was greatly enoyed.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOSEPH ROBINS

ROSENEATH, May 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mary Jane Webb, wife of Joseph Robins of this village, passed away on Monday morning, April 27 after a short illness of only three days.

Deceased had been in declining health for some time yet able to be up around to do her duties, and although at the last the call came suddenly, yet the passing was peaceful. Death had no terror for her, for He Who is the resurrection and the life was by her side.

All who knew Mrs. Robins testify to her gentle spirit and Christian character. Her sympathy and kindness were known and felt throughout the entire community. Her Christ-like qualities was supreme in the quality of simplicity. She had no desire for grandeur or popularity, always so humble and so careful of what she was, the real things claimed her always. She had a genuine and robust faith in Jesus Christ and was anxious to know the essential things by which we live and become strong spiritually. She would not waste time on non-essentials.

The deceased and her husband lived a quiet unassuming life of those who follow in obedience and command of the injunction, "Do not let your right hand know what your left hand doeth." Last summer they enjoyed their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day.

Under the smile of a kind Providence and industry, prosperity attended their efforts. An evidence of this is shown in their comfortable home, which was ever open to their friends, and especially to the Women's Institute. When any special meetings were called it was officially known they would be held at Mrs. Robins, and also many articles were left with her for safe keeping. She can truly be called a virtuous woman.

The service at the house and at the church on Thursday afternoon was very largely attended and was conducted by her minister, Rev. Francis Battersby of St. James' Anglican Church, assisted by Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A., of the United Church.

Those who will deeply mourn her loss is her sorrowing husband and four daughters, Mrs. James Brown, Clarkson; Mrs. Thomas Hall, Campbellford; Mrs. Herbert McCraken and Mrs. Rupert Nichol of Alnwick township. One sister, Mrs. D. Robins, Toronto and two brothers, William Webb, Toronto and John Webb Alnwick.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. H. McCracken, J. Brown, R. B. Nichol, T. Hall, J. Webb and George Smith.

Friends from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. Dianna Robins, Mr. and Mrs. Upland, Mr. and Mrs. G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paterson, Oshawa; Mrs. and Miss Rummings, Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. J. McCracken, Peterborough; Mr. W. Smith and son, Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pomeroy, Castleton; Mrs. Earl Shearer, Harwood and Mr. Sidney Pomeroy, Gore's Landing; Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown, Mr. Shook and Mr. Lloyd Shook of Clarkson.

Cold Weather Delays The Spring Seeding

BAILIEBORO, May 5 (Examiner Correspondence)—The cool weather during the past week has greatly delayed the spring seeding. The major portion of the seeding was done before the weather became cold, but very little work has been done on the land for the past week.

There has been very little growth up to date, but the weather in this district has not been cold enough to injure the crops to any extent and the wheat is continuing to look splendid.

Mr. Harold Barnard of Peterborough spent Sunday the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Barnard.

Miss B. Larmer of Oshawa is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. H. Dawson.

Mr. James Falls and family have moved from their home on the farm to Centreville where they will reside.

Mr. Herb Syer of Cavan has moved to his farm which he purchased from the estate of the late R. Waddell.

Mrs. R. O. Sinclair of Allanburg who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard for the past two weeks has returned to Allanburg.

Miss Annie Tabscott of Port Hope is the guest of her sister, Mrs. N. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson of Plainville were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Perrin on Sunday.

Mr. A. Dawson was a visitor to Toronto last week.

Miss Ethel Falls of North Monaghan spent the week-end the guest of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Falls were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples on Sunday.

Mr. George Dean of Oshawa is visiting his mother, Mrs. J. Dean.

Mr. Herbert Dean of Cobourg spent Sunday the guest of his mother.

Miss Ruth Dawson of Peterborough spent the week-end the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dawson.

Miss Helen Fry is seriously ill suffering from typhoid fever.

The local citizens have been spending considerable time during the past week levelling and altering the local baseball diamond. The field is now in excellent condition and the boys have had some splendid workouts.

An exhibition game will be played during the coming week with some of the local teams.

WARSAW YOUTH IS SLIGHTLY INJURED

Harold Payne Falls From Load of Lumber—Wheel Passes Over Arm.

WARSAW, May 5. — (Examiner Correspondence).—Harold Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Payne, narrowly escaped being crushed to death on Thursday afternoon while drawing seven hundred feet of elm from the mill, when in some way he slipped and fell from the truck.

In falling he struck his head, he cried "whoa" to the horses who stopped almost instantly, and while the rear wheel passed over his right arm, it stopped without going over the lad's chest. Had that happened, he would inevitably have been crushed to death.

It is thought that Harold's arm must have been protected by a stone, for though the wheel passed over it and there were more than 4,000 pounds of lumber in the load no bones were broken. The doctor dressed the bruised arm and Harold was able to drive the car on Sunday.

Scotland Yard, London, soon will have 100 policewomen.

Re-surface old walls and ceilings with Gyproc

HERE is a wallboard that does not burn, made from gypsum rock into sheets 4 to 10 feet long, 4 feet wide and ⅜ of an inch thick. It is used for interior walls, ceilings and partitions.

As well as being fire-resistant, it has structural strength, insulation value and is draught and vermin-proof. Use Gyproc Joint Filler for sealing the joints between the tall, broad sheets of wallboard.

When you are "doing over" any room in the house or adding new ones in the attic or basement, use Gyproc for walls and ceilings because you can nail it directly over the old surface. Gyproc is also an excellent base for Alabastine, Gyptex or wallpaper.

Gyproc is Canada's pioneer non-burning gypsum wallboard. Ask your nearest dealer for full details and a Gyproc direction sheet. Or write us for the FREE booklet, "Building and Remodelling with Gyproc". 274

BOARD OF TRADE WANTS MEMBERS

Port Hope Will Continue Policy of Direct Mail Advertising.

FUMIGATING SCHOOL.

PORT HOPE, May 5.—Starting yesterday, the membership committee of the board of trade, headed by G. V. Strong, is staging a six-day drive for new members to induce added interest in the board and to raise funds. The board is continuing the policy of direct-mail advertising started last year and an illustrated folder accompanied by an explanatory letter is being sent to a large number of industrial executives, pointing out the many advantages Port Hope has to offer industries.

Five Have Narrow Escape

Running into the ditch as the result of a blow-out in a front tire, a car driven by Stanley Crossett and owned by Frank Lowe had a rear fender demolished and the five occupants had a narrow escape. The accident took place Saturday afternoon a short distance west of Wicklow. It was necessary to use a block and tackel to extricate the vehicle.

Johns—Robinson.

With Rev. G. A. Sisco, minister at the United church, officiating, Goldie Martha Robinson became the bride of Cecil Wellington Johns, both of Port Hope. The young couple will reside here.

Fumigating School.

The schoolhouse at Welcome has been closed for the past week in order that it may be fumigated, following quarantining of a pupil with scarlet fever.

Mrs. J. Pilling Buried

Mrs. James Pilling, who passed away in Peterborough on Saturday, was buried this afternoon in St. Johns cemetery. She was in her 77th year and well known to older residents of Port Hope. Her maiden name was Margaret Jane Liddell.

DELICATE ART OF SNAKE CHARMING

that savage hammer-like pounce. Then they seize the snake in their teeth, shake him as a terrier shakes a rat, pull his head clean off and so far as I could see, chew the thing and swallow it.

In case you want to find out if your stomach's in good shape or not, just watch one of these shows. If you can go the next meal everything is okay. If you can't you're like me.

Mesmerizing Eyes.

On a smooth plateau overlooking the old pirate harbor of Casablanca, the first charmer I noticed has his serpents spread on a dull red carpet. He sat among them cross-legged and played his haunting ghostly music. The snakes stood up as if dancing. They came close to the man and around him. They seemed to know him but he played feverishly on. Cobras these, with great swelling heads and deep sunk eyes. The kind of eyes that are said to hypnotize people. People were standing around in a big circle, a discreetly distant circle and I, if you must know, was right in the back ready to run.

The music stopped. The man sat still. His assistant arrived. He carried a stick with a leather ball almost as big as a football at the end. Hanging to the leather ball were little brass gadgets which looked like wheels taken from an old clock.

Strikes Like Lightning.

The man's hands and wrists were bare. The idea seemed to be like bull fighting; you tantalize the snake until he pounces. The trick is to make him pounce at the leather ball instead of the human hand. Well, these cobras pounced. They pounced with a speed and fury no writer in the world could properly describe. They struck so hard and so fast that you could scarcely see them move. Just a lurching zoom and their fangs were deep into that leather. Then the music would start again and the snakes would be soothed into a drowsy stupor. The man with the whistle could make them stand up or lie down. While the music played they would not look at the ball even when it was moved across their very eyes. When the music stopped they went gunning for trouble with those cold mesmerizing eyes.

We had to go to a beer garden which separates the Arab from the European quarter to see the man get bitten and torn. His snakes were smaller, scarcely bigger than a good sized garter snake. Some kind of adders, I believe.

Chews Heads Off

The fakir would tie them into knots, toss them in the air, wrap them around his neck, step on them, do almost anything while the savage music played. When it stopped they struck out in all directions and he made no effort to avoid them. A viper would seize him by the hand and the blood would spurt. Down he would go among them letting them pounce on his face. They might have torn his very eyes out for all I could see. He worked himself into a frenzy in his battle with these vipers. Tossed them around, put them in his mouth, glowered at them, squeezed them, broke their backs with his hands and finally, as I mentioned, put one right in his mouth, pulled off the head and ate the fool thing. That seems to be one Arab's idea of earning a living. I'd sooner be a royalist proclaiming the virtues of the czar on the streets of Moscow. It would be so much safer.

The puzzle crops up at this point as to why these fellows don't die from the bites and poisons they endure. I don't know the answer at all but there are said to be fakirs here who can even handle a scorpion. I haven't seen that show and I'm not going to because a scorpion is one of those little orutes that might get away and if he does it's all over for somebody. I saw a girl in Mexico once who thought a scorpion a nice little bug. She lived a few hours. The reptile's bite is scarcely bigger than a pin prick.

A scorpion you know is that tropical dweller who looks like a land-living crawfish and kills with his tail which contains some of the deadliest poison ever known.

So much for snake charmers and scorpion fondlers. The real fakirs of this fair land are the hotel men. Charming fellows, delightful manners and all that. But when they offer a room at a price they never mention that this will be extra and that will be something else again, while, unfortunately this must be taxed while the other thing is assessed. Just a gay little circle with you and I roped in the middle.

How to End RHEUMATISM

New Medicine Drives Rheumatic Poisons from Joints—Muscles.

EASES PAIN FIRST DAY.

Poisons settling in the joints and muscles cause rheumatism. You cannot get rid of rheumatic agony till these dangerous poisons are driven out of your system. External remedies and pain deadening drugs only give temporary relief.

What you need is RU-MA, the new medicine now sold by all druggists that acts directly on the liver, kidneys and blood, and helps expel through the natural channels of elimination the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop. RU-MA eases pain the first day and is the one rheumatic remedy guaranteed by McDermid & Jury Bonds Drug Store to free muscles and joints from all painful stiffness and swelling and completely end your rheumatism, or nothing to pay.

Norham Ladies' Aid Holds Quilting Bee

NORHAM, May 5—(Examiner Correspondence).—The monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid of Norham church took the form of a quilting at the home of Mrs. Norman Gummer on Friday afternoon.

A large number of ladies were present and two quilts were completed.

Sunday School

An interesting service was held in the Norham Sunday school on Monday morning. At the close of the lesson, Mrs. Lorne Evans, missionary superintendent, took charge. She showed the mission fields of the United church on a large map. Then called on the junior classes to give a missionary alphabet in which each letter stood for something missionary.

At the close, Mrs. W. Campbell sang very sweetly, The Light of the World is Jesus. There were 68 in attendance.

TOWN GARBAGE BY-LAW PASSED BY COUNCILLORS

Tenders Received at Campbellford Meeting for Once a Week Collection.

POLICE AGREEMENT.

Several Matters Discussed—Request Removal of Garbage Dump on Grand Street.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A public sevice that has been felt was needed for a long time in Campbellford has been granted to the citizens of that town when at the regular session of the Town Council last night the city fathers passed a by-law authorizing the establishment of a system of ga bage collection, and received tenders for the same.

This service calls for the collection once a week of garbage, ashes and refuse from all houses in the town with the exception only of the manufacturing concerns. The collection covers twelve months of the year and calls for the placing of the garbage in suitable containers on the properties near the sidewalk. Tenders for this contract were received from C. White, James Parcels, S E Pickering, H. Bowen, J. W. Salter, and Dan Scott, and ranged from $450 to $1,140.

This by-law was presented by Councillor H. N. Carr and was passed unanimously by the Council. The same committee that handled the drafting of it with the town solicitor, Reeve N. Stone, and Councillors Carr and Battisby, were appointed on motion to deal with the tenders and to draft rules governing the collection.

Police Agreement.

The new agreement with Chief Constable Bromley was presented to the Council, with the governing by-law and passed. This differs with the old agreement in one section, which calls for all court and mileage fees received by Chief Bromley be paid into the town treasury, and a monthly report rendered by him to the Council to be read at the regular meetings of that body. This by-law which was presented by Reeve Stone, was read three times and pawed and will become effective on May 15. Following this action Councillor Battisby moved that the night constable should be put under a similar agreement regarding fees, and that a by-law be drafted to this effect. This motion was seconded by Councillor Thompson and passed by the Council.

James Y. Mitchell sought information from the Council regarding the building by-law in connection with a small structure that the Power Oil Company had erected on Front Street near a gas station.

This building, in his estimate, did not come up to the requirements of the said by-law, which calls for a brick, stone, cement, or iron structure within the fire zone, the building in question being frame.

Mayor Bygott suggested that this matter be left with the chairman of the Fire Committee to handle, but Mr. Mitchell thought that the Council should take action because said company had gone over his head by not seeking permission from him before the erection of the building. It was eventually agreed upon that the Power Oil Company be approached by Mr. Mitchell and Chairman McKeel to investigate the matter and rectify it.

Garbage Dump.

Before leaving the floor, Mr. Mitchell asked the Council if anything was going to be done about the garbage dump on Grand Road, declaring that it was a disgrace to the town. Questioned by Mayor Bygott as to why this was considered so, he stated that it was used for the disposal of all kinds of refuse, and when the hot weather came would give off an odor. Mayor Bygott pointed out that he knew that he, Mitchell, had written Dr. Neal of Peterborough about this matter.

Furthermore, Mayor Bygott pointed out that he and Dr. Neal had inspected this dump and that so far as the doctor was concerned he could find nothing wrong with it. This dump in question is a piece of property belonging to the C.N.R. which people have used for the disposal of rubbish. Some effort however has been made to fill it in by the company.

Requests Open Road

Chas. Bedford waited on the council with the request that the road known as King street should be opened although used only by him, he said that it would become a much used thoroughfare if opened. He thought that it needed very little work on it and was willing to come himself with a team for two days and assist. Mayor Bygott pointed out that as this land was railway property permission would have to be obtained from the Railway Board. J. D. Cummings also asked that there be some loads of gravel placed at the Catholic Cemetery, where there were some large holes which should be filled in. He stated that St. Mary's parish had done a lot of work on their cemetery including the building of a road through it and he thought that these bad spots should be looked after. Both these requests were referred to the Road and Bridge committee to obtain estimated costs and report back.

A request was made by Irvin Hutcheon for the report on the sewer question on Front street. No action had been taken except the viewing of this propery by the council, and a suggestion was put forward that the cost be ascertained, all being agreed that Mr. Hutcheon should be accommodated. A motion was presented by Deputy Reeve MacColl that the engineer be instructed to estimate the cost of this work from Mrs. Smiths' to he railway and from Mrs. Smith's to the railway and street. This motion carried.

A request was read from Robert Gresnly asking that he be granted the right-of-way on Victoria street as heretofore. Mr. Mitchell questioned the ownership of this property as he stated it was on his block although 40 feet of it was reserved for a road, which was not opened. The town solicitor, D. J. Lynch, pointed out that when a plan was laid out and registered the road allowance became the property of the town. On motion this matter was referred to the solicitor to determine the ownership of the property before action could be taken.

A letter, which on motion was laid on the table, was read by the clerk, coming from the Sudbury town council as asking that Campbellford town council endorse a resolution that had been forwarded to the Prime Minister of the Dominion and the Provinces, asking that the government deport all Communists and undesirable citizens.

Water Petition

The clerk reported that the petition regarding the water main on Nassby street lacked the sufficient number of signatures and was also insufficient in regard to the ownership of land. This brought a protest from J. Wattering, who stated that this street was without fire protection. He stated that he had to carry all the water for household use a long distance and with a large family he thought that this was not right. To save this petition it was, on motion, referred to the Fire Committee for investigation, to be reported upon.

Reeve Stone reported that the matter of the no-parking space in front of the C. N. Express office had been taken up with Mr. Ryder and a price had been obtained for a moveable sign to be used during office hours. This matter will come before the council later.

Councillor Carr brought up the matter of marking the bridge on Grand road so that it would become safe for traffic. He suggested that it either be painted white or have lights attached. On motion, the clerk was instructed to write the C.N.R. asking them to protect the travelling public in some manner in regard to the bridge.

Councillor Long presented an amendment to the amusement by-law which calls for the closing of all public places of amusement at 11 p.m. instead of 11.30 p.m. This amendment carried.

Mayor Bygott suggested that the old bandstand on the corner of Front and Mill street be pulled down and the corner cleaned up. He said that the structure was not safe for use, as it is, nor could it be repaired.

Councillor Battisby, for the Relief Committee, was authorized to buy 50 cords of wood for next winter's relief work. He stated that he could get this for $8.50 the cord.

Fire Question

The question of the fire truck going out of the corporation limits was brought forward by Councill McKeel. He stated that he felt that the town was left unprotected when the brigade was in the township. Furthermore, he thought that the town could be held responsible for any damage by fire if the fire truck was not in the town at the time. It was moved that on no account was the fire truck to go out of the corporation limits. This motion being carried.

This year's estimated expenditure for the Road and Bridge Committee was set at $4,000.

A full council was present, with Mayor J. M. Bygott in the chair and a large number of citizens in the gallery.

REV. PATON SPEAKS HASTINGS MEETING

Golden Rule Lodge of Campbellford Exemplifies Degree at Masonic Gathering.

HASTINGS, May 5 (Examiner Correspondence)—There was a large turnout Friday night at Masonic Hall for the regular meeting of Hastings A.F. and A.M. No. 633. Members from Golden Rule Lodge, Campbellford, were present and exemplified a degree for the local brethren. The visitors proved themselves well skilled in the work which was much enjoyed by the local brethren.

After the business of the evening was finished Rt. Wor. Bro. W. R. Learmonth acted as director of ceremonies and a delightful program of speeches was enjoyed by all. The speaker of the evening was Bro. Rev. Paton of Roseneath, who gave a very interesting address on "Glimpses of Scotland." Though the speaker was a Canadian by birth his parents were both natives of Scotland, and his opening remarks were on the beauty of this country. In camparing it with the Rockies and Niagara Falls he stressed his remarks that though these were of great beauty Scotland was bonnie. The first noticeable thing when approaching Scotland was the greenness of the soil which was caused by an excessive amount of rainfall. As to which were the most beautiful spots the speaker stated it was Lochs Katrine and Lomond. He then gave a brief sketch of the Covenanters, and then of Robert Burns, who is still held in love and great respect by the people of the present generation. He then spoke on Glasgow and Edinburgh and gave a comparison of the two cities, the former being the city of the glad hand, and the latter the city of silence. Glasgow had made the Clyde and the Clyde had made Glasgow. Although its area was no more than the city of Toronto its population was 1,125,000.

At one time the Clyde was no more than a very shallow stream but excavation work had been done in order to facilitate the building of ocean steamers and now it is used by the largest boats afloat. The speaker then gave a very interesting discription of Edinburgh Castle and the history attached to it. It is near this city that the greatest war memorial in the world is situated which cannot be surpassed for beauty. In it is an altar and embedded in this is a casket, the interior of which contains a plate engraved with 100,000 names of her sons who served in the Great War.

The director of ceremonies thanked Bro. Paton for his address and then called on the following gentlemen who responded with short speeches, Rt. Wor. Bro. Bonnycastle of Campbellford; Wor. Bro. W Humphries; Rt. Wor. Bro. Squires, of Norwood; Bro. McColl and Bro. Rev. Tait of Campbellford and Bro. Rev. Battersby, of Hastings. The evening was brought to a close with the National Anthem.

Thousands of men and women say that this medicine has brought them new health, happiness and earning power.

Dr. French's NU-ERB is a strengthening medicine that tones the body organs to proper functioning, relieving sluggish conditions that cause indigestion, gas, sourness, backache, frequent urination, dizziness, headaches, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, nervousness and rheumatic aches and pains.

If you suffer from such troubles do not become discouraged, but take the advice of thousands of people in the Dominion of Canada who have found that Dr. French's NU-ERB relieves their unhealthy condition after other remedies have failed. That Dr. French's NU-ERB marks a great advance in present-day medicines is evidenced in the recent voluntary statement made by Mr. Trevor Wertheim, a prominent young business man and resident of this city at Mt. St. Joseph. Mr. Wertheim says:

"For years I have suffered from chronic constipation and indigestion. My food soured after every meal and I would have unpleasant and disagreeable acid rising from which I could get no relief. I would get staggering dizzy spells, bilious attacks and sick headaches that kept me in constant distress. My nerves became affected and I couldn't sleep soundly at night. My whole system became run-down and I was at my wits end to know what I should do. Many times I had had my hopes built up for finding some kind of medicine that would relieve my condition, but every treatment ended in dismal failure until I found out about Dr. French's NU-ERB medicine. Ah! how different this medicine is from all the rest. I only needed to take this preparation for a short time to notice a decided change in my condition. Altogether I used two bottles and it has been enough to entirely overcome my difficulty. My stomach now digests my food without indigestion or fermentation. My nerves are stronger; the headaches do not trouble me any more and I am also free from those awful dizzy spells and bilious attacks. I am so thankful for this."

The NU-ERB Specialist.

A special representative from the laboratories in Ontario where Dr. French's NU-ERB is made is located at Bond's Drug Store, in this city, where he is daily explaining to scores of local men and women the merits of this remarkable medicine. Go see this man to-day and learn about hundreds of cases where this medicine has quickly restored new health and vigor to run-down, sickly men and women who had come to think that there was no relief possible for their condition.

'MY IRISH ROSE' DRAWS BIG CROWD

Zion Ladies Pie Social One of High Lights of the Spring Season.

ABLY DIRECTED.

PETHERICKS CORNERS, May 5. (Examiner Correspondence.)—Hard times and a busy season failed to put a damper on the success of Zion Ladies Aid annual pie social which was held in Sentinel Hall on Friday evening. A capacity crowd was on hand to enjoy the play "My Irish Rose" and enjoy the plentiful supply of sandwiches and pie.

Rev. F. T. MacTavish acted as chairman and exceptionally fine piano numbers were rendered by Mr. Charles Allen, of Stirling, previous to the play and during the intermissions.

"My Irish Rose" is a three-act comedy-drama, the scenes being laid in the county Kildare in "Dear Owld Ireland" and the Irish speech and mannerisms are prevalent throughout. The story hinges around the romance of Rose Creigan, the niece of Colum McCormach, a prosperous Irish farmer, and Maurice Fitzgerald, a Dublin artist and a nobleman of the realm.

The cast was as follows:

Colum MacCormack, Lindsay Anderson; Maurice Fitzgerald, Roy Fry; Terrence Creogan, Donald Watson; Mr. Pepperdine, George Brunton; Archibald Pennywitt, Clarence Barnum; Shawn McGilly, Fred Fry; Ann Marry McCormack, Jennie Anderson; Withow Hannigan, Ethel Barnum; Pegeen Burke, Gladys Simpson; Rose Creogan, Mary Peake; Lady Agnes Barricklaw, Laura Watson; Eileen Fitzgerald, Freda Petherick.

Well Directed.

Mrs. Fred Barnum directed the play in her usual happy and efficient manner. Harry Owens made a very capable curtain man.

An interesting feature to the players, was the presence in the hall of many former members of the group. These plays have been an annual affair for several years and have been confined to a small group which has gradually enlarged as some dropped out because of removal from the district or pressure of business.

Among those present of the former groups were Mrs. Percy Morgan, Campbellford, Miss Nellie Bennett, Wellman's Corners; Everett Fairman, Belleville; Earl Fairman, Hastings; Mrs. Lorne Barnum, Misses Cora Irwin and Gladys Petherick, Fred Barnum, Gerald Barnum, Alfred Simpson, Albert Gifford, Aylmer Petherick, Harry Barnum, Allan Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Nelson, of Campbellford, were also members of the group at one time, also Miss Hazel Brown, Rochester, Morley Petherick, Hamilton and Ray Fry, Bowmanville.

Of the cast which presented the first play "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick" only two members were on the stage Friday evening, Jimmie Anderson and Ethel Barnum. Mrs. Fred Barnum has had close association with the group, both as a member of the cast and as directoress.

Keen Interest Taken.

The play program was started and very efficiently directed by Rev. C. D. Daniel, during his term as pastor at Zion and Rev. T. G. MacTavish has taken a keen interest in the work since his coming to the community three years ago.

While the work of preparing a play is somewhat tiresome and comes at a busy season of the year, the members of the cast feel that they have an enviable record of eight years standing and the splendid support of the play-going public has encouraged them to carry on in spite of adverse conditions.

Arrangements are being made to present "My Irish Rose" in Campbellford and Mount Pleasant.

Some of the well-known plays presented by the Zion Club have been: "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick," "Valley Farm", "Red Acre Farm," "Dust of the Earth," "Eyes of Love," "Deacon Dubbs," "Cranberry Corners."

NEIGHBORS TALK

"I am employed in a theatre and it is a problem to make ends meet, as I help support my mother and sisters. I like to dress well but haven't very much to spend on clothes. To give the appearance of variety to my slender wardrobe I change the color of a dress or stockings as soon as the things become faded. I always use Diamond Dyes for the work—using them as dyes for dresses and as tints for stockings. I have always gotten such perfect results that our neighbors talk about the great number of new things I have.

"I learned about Diamond Dyes from our wardrobe mistress. She says she has tried all the dyes on the market but none do such splendid work and are so easy to use as Diamond Dyes. I understand they are the world's most popular dyes—and they deserve to be."

THE OPTIMIST

By Alice Michaelis

TIME: THE PERFUMER

Who knows how many roses went to make
This tiny vial of perfume that I hold?
How many petals, for this attar's sake,
Lay, spilled of life, their scarlet and their gold?
Yet such a fragrance will can justify
This wanton waste of beauty, lightly spent;
Better that thousand blossoms, crushed, should die,
Than that we should not have this lovely scent.

Time, the perfumer, too, takes countless hours,
In budding lives through patient days and weeks,
Distilling from them, as men do from flowers,
The essence that his desire seeks.
Ah, who can say how many years must go
To make the fragrant moments which we know.

The woman who knows comparative weights and measures finds herself well equipped to do cooking whatever the utensils at her command.

• • • • • • •

If one is to adapt old time recipes to present day requirements this knowledge is of inestimable value. It is amazing how methods of measuring foods has changed.

• • • • • • •

Today we weigh all sorts of foods that were once sold by dry measure, while in culinary matters we measure when our grandmothers used to weigh ingredients.

• • • • • • •

Today we shall note weights and measures of spoonfuls. It will be seen that teaspoons vary in size, so today we have measuring spoons. The following tables for comparative measurements are well-tested:

• • • • • • •

Salt, tea and tablespoons—1 teaspoon distilled water equals 45 drops (temperature, 60 degrees); one saltspoon is equal to three-quarters of a teaspoon; three teaspoons, equal one tablespoon. The old-time measurement was four teaspoons equalled one tablespoon.

• • • • • • •

Four level tablespoons are equal to one quarters of a cupful; eight rounded tablespoons or 17 level tablespoons are equal to one cupful; sixteen tablespoons liquid are equal to one cupful.

• • • • • • •

One heaping or two level tablespoons are equal, approximately, to one ounce of butter or fat of like texture and consistency; one heaping or two level tablespoons of ground coffee or brown sugar are equal, approximately, to one ounce. Three tablespoons of grated chocolate, cheese, etc. equal approximately one ounce.

• • • • • • •

Four heaping tablespoons of soft (but not melted) butter, equal one teacupful; five heaping tablespoons of sifted flour or meal equal one teacupful as do seven heaping tablespoons of granulated sugar.

• • • • • • •

For leavening purposes, one teaspoon of soda and two teaspoons of cream of tart equal one teaspoon of baking powder.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, was in the chair and the reports of various presentations of "The Secret Society of Cabbageville" were read. The play had always been well received, and caste had enjoyed giving it.

Mesdames Allan Payne, R. McCauley, R. Matthews and Uriah Payne were appointed decorating committee for Mother's Day.

A social evening is to be given to the ladies of the play and their husband's by other members of the aid, on Friday evening, May 8. Mrs. Digweed, president of the cast accepted the invitation.

Mrs. Weller thanked Miss Charlotte Dewart, on behalf of the cast for providing so many of the gownsworn by the ladies. Mrs. McCauley was tendered thanks for her work as coach.

Mrs. McIlvena thanked the ladies for fruit and vegetables sent during her illness.

Mrs. Matthews read the scriptural lesson from Luke 15, verses 1:10. Mrs. McIlvena sang "The hymns my mother used to sing" and Mrs. Henry Batten gave a very interesting paper on the "Earl of Bessborough." Mrs Wilkinson read an interesting article on "The New Women of Russia."

A very happy social half-hour was spent at the close of the meeting.

Refreshments were served when Mesdames Roland Payne, George Weller, R. McCauley and Allan Payne assisted.

MILLBROOK, May 5.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—A special musical number at morning worship in Saint Andrew's United Church on Sunday, was a quartette, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," sung by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. M. McDowell, the selection preceding the sermon and being particularly inspiring and appropriate to the pastor's theme, "The God Who Reveals Himself."

Rev. Mr. Jones chose his text from Acts 7:55. "But he, being fullof the Holy Ghost, looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God and among the points dealt with in detail by which God reveals His power were the conversion of Saul, the chief enemy of the church until his vision of the Saviour: the angel who delivered Peter from Prison and the malice of Herod; the divine opposition to race prejudice shown in the conversion of Cornelius, and of the Ethipian eunuch; the calling out, and establishment of a ministry, divinely set apart for the Christian church's edification and service. "The fact of sins forgiven is the most convincing and crowning argument of the fact that God is, and of His power and love and beams light a flashlight of hope in our hearts."

The annual financial reports of Saint Andrew's church were given out on Sunday, the Session having endorsed the decision to have these presented as soon as possible after the congregational meeting. The total receipts for 1930 were $4,096.38, and total expenditures $3,800.53; with a balance carried forward of $295.85. Dr. A. Jemison is the Clerk of the Session; W. G. Hetherington secretary of the Board of Stewards and of the Official Board; and G. E. Burnham treasurer for the Board of Stewards and for the Missions and Maintenance Fund of the church.

A BEDTIME STORY

Rewritten for The Examiner

UNCLE WIGGILY AND TINKER'S TAIL

Once upon a time there was a little dog named Tinker. He was a very jolly little dog, colored brown, with white spots, and instead of being a boy's pet, as most dogs are, Tinker was a little girl's dog. The little girl was named Clair.

This story, however, isn't to be about the little girl named Clair, but about her dog, Tinker, for I am not allowed to write stories about little girls. Or big girls either, for that matter. I don't know why I can't, but so it happens. We shall have to make the best of it.

Now there was one jolly, queer thing about Tinker, and this was he had no tail to wag as most dogs have. I don't mean to say that Tinker didn't really have any tail, for he did. But it was such a wee, tiny one that it was no larger than a baby's thumb.

"Dear me, I wish I had a big tail to wag!" said Tinker one day when he saw another dog, much larger than himself, waving a fine, large tail like a brown dusting brush. This dog was named Major. "Yes, I wish I had a big tail!" barked Tinker.

Jackie Bow Wow, a puppy dog boy who lived near Uncle Wiggily, heard what Tinker said. Jackie had a good tail of his own, not as large as Major's, but a very good tail for all that.

"Perhaps, Tinker, when you grow bigger your tail will also grow," barked

Clair loved him and Tinker was happy.

Jackie. "That's the way it was with me.

"Oh, I hope so!" whined Tinker, and then he saw Clair, and he ran to meet her and he was so glad and happy that he tried to stand on his head. But as dog's heads aren't meant for standing on, Tinker fell over in a heap like a pile of peanuts. But Clair loved him and patted him and Tinker was happy except for one thing.

"I wish I had a bigger tail!" he barked.

"Wait until you grow up and your tail will grow," said Jackie.

Tinker waited and waited and waited, but though he grew bigger his tail remained the same size—about as big as a baby's thumb. Tinker was the kind of a dog that never would have a long, big tail, but poor Tinker didn't know this. He thought he ought to have a tail like Major's or at least like Jackie's.

"Take a look at my tail, Jackie," whined Tinker one day. "See if you think it is growing any bigger, please."

Jackie looked. He even measured Tinker's tail with a piece of paper. He quinted his eyes and looked a itt.

"Well?" asked Tinker, anxious like and hopeful. "Is it?"

"No," barked Jackie, "I am sorry to say it isn't."

"Oh dear!" whined Tinker. "Then I'm going to see Uncle Wiggily."

"What for?" asked Jackie. "Why do you want to see Uncle Wiggily?"

"I am going to ask him," said Tinker, "how to make my tail bigger."

The little puppy dog ran to the hollow stump bungalow in the woods where Uncle Wiggily lived. The rabbit gentleman was just hopping out to look for an adventure.

"Hello, Tinker!" greeted Mr. Longears. "Where are you going?"

"I am coming to see you," barked Tinker, "to ask you how to make my tail grow bigger. Please, I want a big tail!"

Uncle Wiggily looked at the little puppy dog chap. The old rabbit gentleman knew Tinker's tail would never grow bigger.

"I must think of a way to tell him he can never have a big tail," said Mr. Longears to himself, "but I must tell him in such a way that he will not be too unhappy. I will take Tinker for an adventure walk in the woods with me and while we are there perhaps I can think of a way to make him satisfied with his own, little tail."

Reaching the woods, Uncle Wiggily still had thought of no way of kindly telling Tinker. The rabbit gentleman saw a hollow log lying on the ground and, just for fun, he said:

"Tinker, you crawl in that hollow log, but leave your little tail sticking out. I will look at your tail and then I can tell you better about it. Crawl in the hollow log!"

"Oh, goodie!" barked Tinker, "now maybe my tail will grow big!"

With Tinker in the hollow log, all but his tail, Uncle Wiggily sat down on the other end of the log to think. And while he was thinking he fell asleep. And then along came the Bob Cat who had a silly little tail, just like Tinker's.

"Ha!" whispered the Bob Cat. "Here is Uncle Wiggily asleep. I can catch him now. But hello! What's this?" he softly mewed as he saw Tinker's little tail sticking out. "Here is another Bob Cat ahead of me! This must never be! I'll drive this other Bob Cat away and then I'll have Uncle Wiggily all to myself." The Bob Cat pulled on Tinker's tail to haul him from the log. Tinker, thinking Uncle Wiggily was stretching his tail, whined with ahppiness.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE 18 DAY DIET TEACHES US A LESSON

You did not hear as much about the 18 day diet now as you did some time ago. You may remember that it was published in practically every newspaper and magazine.

Just how much good it did for its followers or how much harm will never be known. Physicians will tell you that they have known of cases where the results appeared to be satisfactory and no damage done to the system, and on the other hand there were many cases where temporary and even permanent harm was done.

What was the basis of this diet?

Bulky foods such as lettuce, grapefruit, oranges, celery, cucumbers, water cress, tomato, olives, with eggs, lamb chops and steaks to supply the meat protein requirements, dry toast for the starch, and tea and coffee to keep the bosy stimulated till the next meal.

The whole idea was to supply a diet that was bulky enough in appearance to satisfy the eye and yet be quite low in heat units. The total number of heat units was not much more than half of that of the ordinary diet of most people.

Naturally with this low intake of food there was bound to be a reduction in weight.

However, there was another point that was not taken into consideration and that is that much of the raw foods eaten were only partly digested and used by the system. It has been definitely shown that the waste from the intestine was two to three times the weight of the waste from the ordinary diet. As much as 25 to 40 per cent. of the food value of the food eaten still remained in the waste from the intestine.

You can thus see that by eating bulky food, which "filled" the patient although there were not many heat units, and then remembering that a large percentage of these foods were not digested and absorbed into the system, the body did not get sufficient food for its needs, hence the illness and collapse of many persons trying to live on the 18 day diet.

However, we can get a lesson from the 18 day diet that is worth learning. That is, that the foods on the list are all good foods and if eaten in large quantities over a more lengthy period, say five or six months, some good results might be obtained with no injury to the body.

FIRE RAZES BOGOTA BLOCK.

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 5.— (A. P.)—Fire destroyed an entire block of the business section last night. For a time the flames threatened to consume a much wider area, but a low brick wall surrounding an open square, checked their progress. The blaze started in a building occupied by an office equipment company.

YE OLDE TYME VILLAGE QUARTETTE DELIGHTS CROWD AT ST. ANDREW'S

Concert Bring to an End Ninety-eighth Anniversary Services.

TALENTED QUARTETTE.

(By Jeanette)

Ye Olde Tyme Village Quartette—the women in their crinoline and Dolly Varden hats, the men in their swallow-tails of lavender and grey—entertained several hundred people in St. Andrew's Church last night, when they came from Toronto to wind up with a concert the ninety-eighth anniversary services of the church that has stood on the brow of Brock street hill for nigh onto a century.

They were a merry and clever group and they sang with a degree of histrionic ability that made their pleasant music live and have a distinct being of its own for the listeners. The lonesome gentleman who went to the fair without a damsel was there last night, when the baritone sang the famous "Cornish Floral Dance." Angus Macdonald, who came home to the highlands with the pibroch sounding over the hill, was there when Miss Marjorie Waters, the soprano, told about his exploits, and so was "Billy Boy" of the well-known sea chantey, although Billy Boy lacked his cherry pie last night. The lady didn't say anything about that. They sang with so much histrionic ability and verve and power that they made the characters live. This attribute, along with a splendid volume of tone in their ensemble singing and some beautiful solo work, makes the Old Tyme Quartette very attractive concert material.

The group includes Marjorie Waters, soprano; Betty Thompson MacKenzie, contralto; A. C. Chapman, tenor and director, and James F. Carter, baritone, with their accompanist, Carol Rooke. This is their second appearance in the city, the quartette having sung here within the last few seasons.

They came last night under the auspices of the Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary of the church and were introduced, in the absence of the pastor, by G. A. Gillespie. In their old-fashioned costumes, which they exchanged later for up-to-date evening wear, they formed a pleasant picture on a hastily-contrived stage that was decorated with ferns and palms, rose hydrangeas and azaleas.

"Golden Slippers"

They sang songs of the old-time, favorite type that always appeal. As a quartette, their voices blended with beautiful precision and their pianissimo work, in particular, was exceptionally good. They sang "In the Evening by the Moonlight"; "Billy Boy", that jaunty sea chantey; Victor Herbert's lovely "Gypsy Love Song," with soprano solo; that swinging selection, "Golden Slippers", that has a charm all its own, with an encore in a medley of old pieces that included "Long, Long Ago", "The Mocking Bird", "The Swanee River" and many other well-known bits; and, as a request number, "Put on Your Old Grey Bonnet." They sang Lauder's "The Bonnie, Blooming Heather" and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise", with Mr. Chapman's tenor in the solo, and they all had solo bits in an ensemble effect that included four old Irish favorites; "Believe Me, if all Those Endearing Young Charms", "The Wearing of the Green", "The Last Rose of Summer", and "I'm off to Philadelphia in the Morning." Two bright, breezy, full-voiced numbers in quartette were from Gilbert and Sullivan's operas, the "Yum, Yum" chorus from the "Mikado", and the rousing piece, "A Regular Royal Queen", from "The Gondoliers."

In solos, Mrs. Mackenzie sang very beautifully in her rich, deep contralto, the well-known "Lullaby" and James Carter, the baritone, made a real hit with his resonant, powerful baritone ringing out in the famous lines of the "Cornish Floral Dance," which, we were told by a visiting authority recently, is one of the dancing songs of the folk type and is always sung in Cornwall on May 8th. Mr. Carter's encore was "If I Were", that rollicking reflective bit of the gay old married man who thinks about the girls he might have married at different stages of his life.

Miss Waters, in Scotch costume, complete from kilts and sporran to feathered bonnet, sang "Angus Macdonald", in her clear, high, sweet soprano that was capable of such soaring volume.

Mr. Chapman's solo was "The Holy City", sung with much sweetness and charm.

There were several duetts, among them the well-known "Vocal Combat" of tenor and baritone, by Mr. Chapman and Mr. Carter, with a gay encore in a 'talking' bit, entitled "Really? Great Scott!"; Miss Waters and Mr. Chapman, by request, sang with great vivacity and charm, "When ye Gang Awa, Jamie"; and Miss Waters and Mr. Carter had a bright and unusual duett entitled "A, B, C, or the Singing Lesson", in which both displayed a great degree of dramatic ability. In a brief intermission in the singing program, Mr. Chapman related some of the humorous incidents of their work as singers over the radio, ending with a pathetic story of a woman bed-ridden and deaf for twenty years who was enabled to hear them by use of the radio.

A fine program had an attractive finish in the old English "Laughing Song" and a sacred number that opened with "Abide With Me." Every number was encored enthusiastically by an audience that was delighted with the splendid music.

Canadian Boxers Capture Fistic Laurels

ONTARIO MITT ARTISTS WINNERS IN 10 BOUTS

Philadelphia Leather Pushers No Match for Canadians in Lions' Clubs Shows.

LIVELY TUSSLES.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5 (C.P.).—With Montreal sending a strong delegation to line up with the Ontario leather pushers, Canadian boxers swept the boards last night in the ninth annual international tournament of the Toronto Lions Club.

Ontario representation, coming from Hamilton, Kitchener, and this city, won 10 of the 12 bouts on the program. Montrealers won the other two tussles to complete the route of the invaders from Philadelphia, who were selected after an elimination tournament in that city.

Besides capturing all the laurels, Canucks also provided the two nip spots of a lively evening. The torrid four rounds of milling between Ray Cook, two-fisted local featherweight, and Frankie Fiore, Montreal, won enthusiastic applause from the large crowd.

At the end of the regulation three frames the judges were unable to decide between the two and the extra round was ordered. The Montreal boy tired in the last three minutes and Cook earned the decision.

Outpointed Rollings.

Harvey Fleet, Kitchener, one of the several Ontario champions who elected to stay here and compete in the Lions Club tourney rather than journey west after a Canadian crown in the Dominion boxing championships at Winnipeg last week, gave an impressive display of hard punching and defensive cleverness to outpoint Tommy Rollings, Montreal, Quebec titlist. The latter was floored four times by terrific rights, but refused to stay down, and his gameness won him the Willie Frankel Memorial Trophy as the gamest loser on the card.

The only knockout occurred in the flyweight bout between Horace Lefty Gwynne, Toronto, and Eddie Heathfield, Montreal. The Ontario champion proved too experienced for the Quebec titleholders, and a flurry of blows to the head in the second round flattened Heathfield for the count.

Tommy Sullivan, holder of the Quebec welterweight title, and Larry Phillipes, champion 118-pounder of that Province, secured the two victories for Montreal. The former outpointed Frankie Steffan, Toronto while Phillipes outpunched Hal Kutzer of Philadelphia.

TORONTO LEAFS' HOME SCHEDULE OPENS TO-DAY

Frank Barnes Elected To Do Mound Duty Against John Allan of Jersey City.

FANS ARE CONFIDENT.

TORONTO, Ont., May 5.—(By the Canadian Press.)—A typical May Day, brilliant sunshine penetrating to the coldest parts of the park and raising the springtime baseball fever to a high pitch in the breast of many a young office boy and his boss, greeted players of the Maple Leaf baseball team when they arrived at the Stadium to-day for an early workout prior to the local opening of the International Baseball League season.

Greeted by more than 50 fans on their arrival home yesterday, Manager Steve O'Neill and his hopefuls will clash with Jersey City this afternoon in the first game of the series.

The Leafs are now in fourth place in the standing, but the fans, placing great confidence in the smashing blows of Ken Strong, colorful right fielder, and in the managerial ability of the popular O'Neill, give indications of showing much more interest in the team's welfare than they have in the last few years.

Frank Barnes, rangy southpaw, has been selected to oppose John Allan, Jersey City right hander in the season's opener and a pitching battle is expected.

At the Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

GRETA GARBO IN 'INSPIRATION'

Movie titles have gone haywire lately. We had Buster Keaton in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" in a picture that wasn't at all like you might expect from such a moniker. Then we had Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, those heavenly twins, in "Reducing," and there was only one small bit of beauty parlor scene in the thing! And now we have Greta Garbo in "Inspiration." Try and find it—the inspiration, we mean.

The picture shows the Swedish charmer in the role that Alphonse Daudet created for his "Sappho." It follows out that story quite in detail. There is the little scene, after the girl, a demi-mondaine of Paris, meets the student, and he carries her up three flights of stairs, her weight growing heavier with every step, just as it is to prove a weight on his life later on. And there is the finale, as in that famous story, where the older lover, the convict, comes back, and the lady, tortured by a real love at last in a life that has been almost wholly bad, turns to him so that the youth may be freed from her charm to marry the young, good girl. Although there is a thought for the moralists in this ending, at that. The convict offers the lady marriage, whereas nothing of that sort is mentioned in the romantic conversations of the youth.

Daudet's "Sappho" used to be considered dangerous reading for the "Juene fille." But we have progressed far since those antediluvian days. Greta Garbo makes a very interesting lady with a decided past, but her voice is just a bit too husky, at times. It is rumored in those veracious magazines that chronicle all the doings of the moving picture stars through a flashing searchlight that gets every little bit of their private lives into the picture, that Greta is having something done to her voice to remove that huskiness also that she is slipping just a little. But she is still apparently quite able to give a good picture of a sad woman. Robert Montgomery is again the weak hero of the tale.

"IT RUNS IN THE FAMILY"

When we find a case in which two members of one family grab off a considerable portion of the athelite lime-light, we are somewhat interested. It may or may not have occurred to you that Lee Wykoff, the wrestler, who has been so very much in prominence lately is the brother of Frank Wykoff who during the past couple of years has won considerable favor for his ability on the cinder track. Both boys began as college athletes, Lee being a graduate of St. Louis, where he made his letters, sixteen of them being at high school and thirteen at college, and he won places on the all-state and all-conference teams in all four major sports. Another interesting fact is that prior to Lees present occupation he started at baseball to the extent that he received a work-out with the St. Louis Browns as a pitcher.

ATHLETIC MEET WILL BE HELD IN MOTOR CITY

Number of Local Students Will Likely Take Part in Interscholastic Competitions.

FOSTERED BY GOVERNMENT

Circular letters have been sent out to all schools in the province by the Ontario Athletic Commission acquainting them with the places where the 1931 Track Meets will be held, and the rules for entry. Oshawa is the nearest centre to Peterborough where the meet will be held early this summer.

For the purpose of conducting these competitions, the province is divided into nine districts, with the Track Meet being held in the most central point of each district. All schoolboys may enter without cost, the only stipulation made is that a competitor must have made 50 per cent in his school work during the year. Medals are presented by the commission to the winners and those coming second in the events.

Later in the summer, the winners of the district meets who have made the standards in their various events, as given in the circular will be brought to Toronto to compete for the Provincial Schoolboy Championships. All their expenses will be paid by the Ontario Athletic Commission, and those placing first, second and third will receive gold, silver and bronze medals respectively.

This is the sixth year of the commission's work along this line, and some splendid results have been achieved. At the British Empire Games held in Hamilton last summer, seven schoolboys, still in attendance at school, were on the Canadian Men's Track team.

The Meet being held in Oshawa this year will likely find a number of Peterborough schoolboys competing. The events include, 100-yard dashes and up, distance races, hurdles, shot-put, jumps, pole-vaults, javelin and discus, etc. The date is May 25th, and entries must be sent in to Harold Hainer, 86 Albert street, Oshawa.

HEID DOON LADDIE

(By Ivan Kirkhouse.)
Copyright 1931.

A splendid little essay on golf was written some years ago by Mr. D. R. Forgan, the famous cleek and club maker of St. Andrew's, Scotland, which seems to size up our game beautifully, irrespective of the angle we view it from exercise, recreation or a malady.

"Gold is a science, the study of a lifetime, in which you may exhaust yourself but never your subject. It is a contest, a duel, or a melee, calling for courage, skill, strategy and self-control. It is a test of temper, a trial of honor, a revealer of character. It affords a chance to play the man and act the gentleman. It meant going into God's out-of-doors, getting close to nature, fresh air, exercise, a sweeping away of mental cobwebs, genuine recreation of tired tissues. It is a cure for care, an antidote for worry. It includes companionship with friends, social intercourse, opportunities for courtesy, kindliness and generosity to an opponent. It promotes not only physical health but moral force."

The writer of these articles has been particularly interested in a number of beginners' efforts this year and has found their principal difficulty a very human desire to rap the ball a mile. The idea that golf is a science, calling for skill and strategy, as Mr. Forgan says, seems a bit hard to impress upon them firmly. However, where the writer has only partially succeeded, a few minutes' reflection later on in the season on the number of strokes kicked away needlessly and the cost of lost and chewed-up balls will bring it very graphically home to those with the walloping complex, that the golf score consists of the number of strokes taken from the tee to the cup.

---

That great little golfer from New York, Tony Manero, certainly had the foregoing very forcibly shown him last year. While leading in the fourth round of the Canadian open at Ancaster and seemingly on his way to his first major title, he messed up his putting a bit on the third green and took three of the little fellows. It upset him and on the way to the fourth tee remarked to the writer that he would get back the lost stroke on this next hole, a long one. The ground was pavement hard and Tony had been hitting his drives beautifully so that no extra effort was needed to get him comfortably home with a solid number three iron second, for a birdie four almost certainly or a possible eagle. Instead of playing well in hand he pressed the tee shot, turned the clubhead slightly over with a too early right hand and hooked into the gallery. A desperate effort from an impossible lie in the long grass landed him in some shoulder-high bushes farther up the rough, from where he played out on to the fairway to be on with his fourth. This upset the lad completely and blew his chances then and there.

---

George Cumming of the Toronto Golf Club brought back a news item of real interest to golfers from his winter club, Constant Springs, at Kingston, Jamaica. H. R. H. the Prince of Wales and Prince George stopped off there on their recent visit to South America and not only opened the club but played several rounds over it. George had the honor of playing with the Empire ambassador and was most agreeably surprised at the excellence of his game. He told George his handicap was 10 at Walton Heath, and that he has played frequently in the late seventies. The dean of our professionals certainly knows his golf and golfers and says H. R. H. is a first-class player and shoots to his handicap. He gets right after every shot and hits a really long ball. He certainly puts his heart into everything he does.

JOHNSON'S SWATMEN DEFEAT YANKEES FOR 7 TO 3 COUNT AND MOVE INTO 2ND PLACE

Browns Reduce Cleveland's Average With 3-1 Victory—Second Straight.

RED SOX DOWN MACKS.

Chicago Clubs Overcome Reds in 13-1 Slugfest—Giants Stop Robins 6-3.

(By Gayle Talbot, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer)

Ability of the Washington Senators to trim their "cousins" the Yankees, just about as they please promises to be a great help to Walt Johnson' veteran team in its quest of the American League flag.

The Yankees were the greatest friends the Senators had last season, when they finished second, and everything so far points to a continuation of the strange alliance. Of five games played between the two clubs, Washington has won four and one was tied. The Senators have been victorious in 21 of their last 26 engagements with the Yanks.

Although they were outhit yesterday, the Capital city crew opened their series in New York with a 7 to 3 win and moved into second place, a game and a half behind the Cleveland Indians. They collected only nine hits off three Yank pitchers, while Sam Jones gave up 11, but they bunched five of them for as many runs in the sixth inning.

The St. Louis Browns reduced Cleveland's lofty average with a 3-1 victory, their second straight. Walt Stewart who has turned in three of the Brown's five triumphs, kept nine Indians hits well distributed while his mates made the most of their five off Willis Hudlin. Goose Goslin contributed a home run.

Some concentrated stick work by Pickering and Rothrock featured the Red Sox 7 to 5 victory over the Athletics. Pickering drove in three runs with a home run and two singles, and Rothrock had a homer and double.

Detroit mixed eight hits off McKain with four White Sox errors to win, 9 to 3. H. Walker drove in three runs with a triple and single.

Brandt Holds Phillies

Ed. Brandt, crack southpaw of the Boston Braves, scored the day's outstanding triumph in the National League when he limited the Phillies to three hits and posted his fourth straight victory. Pinky Whitney's second home run in as many days accounted for one of the scores off Brandt.

Another hurler to hang up win No. 4 was Clarence Mitchell, the Giants' 42-year-old lefthander. He bested a pair of ancients, Adolfo Luque and Jack Quinn, to stop the Robins, 6 to 3. Terry and Ott each blasted a triple and double for the winners.

Rogers Hornsby's Chicago Cubs evidenced their relief at getting rid of St. Louis by slugging the Cincinnati Reds into complete submission, 13 to 1 after having been held in check for three days by the Card mound staff, the Cubs dealt misery to a quartet of Red pitchers. Hack Wilson and Bell hit homers, while Hornsby and Cuyler cracked three blows apiece.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh enjoyed an off day.

Yesterday's Stars.

Urbane Pickering, Red Sox—His three hits, including a home run, drove in three scores and helped beat the Athletics 7 to 5.

Ed Brandt, Braves— Held the Phillies to three hits and scored his fourth straight victory 4 to 3.

Clarence Mitchell, Giants—Registered his fourth victory in four starts this year as he held the Robins to six hits.

Bill Terry and Mel Ott, Giants—Each hit a triple and double to help beat Brooklyn 6 to 3.

Walter Stewart, Browns—Beat the leading Cleveland Indians 3 to 1, and has pitched three of his team's five victories.

ELECTRIC GIRLS HOLDING WORKOUTS

Exhibition Game Between Two Picked Teams Will Be Played on Wednesday Night.

A spirited practise was held at the King Edward Park last night by a large crowd of prospective players for the C.G.E. Girls' City League Softball team. The players were put through their paces by Reg. Dyer, Roy Parnell and Harold Darling, who are of the opinion that they can pick a formidable team from among the employees of the electric plant. There are, however, several girls in the factory who are clever softballers but have not as yet put in an appearance at any of the practises. These girls in particular should be on hand Wednesday night if they are anxious to play this season, and those in charge of the team wish to see every girl at practise, so that the strongest representative team may be chosen.

FOSTER BROTHERS MAY ENTER TEAM

Two Local Clubs Together With Havelock Entry Will Make Strong Junior League.

Foster Brothers are thinking of entering a junior team in the City Baseball League, and are calling a workout for tomorrow night at six o'clock in the James Stevenson Park. At present, the only junior entry in is Jack Deannard's Kiwanis team. Havelock may also put a team in this division, and if Foster's come in, the junior section of the City League will be back where it belongs. Even if Havelock fails to enter, the two junior outfits could play an interesting schedule and send a strong contender after provincial honors.

The Foster Juniors will organize and operate if a satisfactory number of junior ball tossers come out for a trial tomorrow night. All positions are open, and with the abundance of young players looking for places, little difficulty should be experienced in rounding out a nice team. Players who want to get in on this workout should be on time.

WINNIPEG PLANS ON STRONG RUGBY SQUAD THIS SEASON

Making Effort to Shake Underdog Shackles in Western Sr. Gridiron Struggles.

ALL-SAT AGGREGATION

WINNIPEG, Man., May 5 (By The Canadian Press).—Under-dog in western senior rugby for more years than it cares to remember, Winnipeg is going quietly about the job of building a contender for this fall. Rankling defeats of the past, several of them in succession by Regina's rugged Roughriders, have brought authorities to a point where they have practically decided to fall back on the old "consolidation scheme."

Mighty in their own limited domain, St. John's have met with no success in the last three years in the sterner play-down warfare. They were champions in Manitoba last year, rated stiff opposition for Saskatchewan's champions — and turned out to be just one more push-over for the title-bound Riders of Al Ritchie. Considering that the Saints were easily Manitoba's and Winnipeg's best, provincial rugby heads have concluded something better must be produced if Regina's perennial grip on the prairie title is to be loosened by a squad from this end of the wheat lands.

This fall, Winnipeg may turn out an all-star city team for inter-provincial combat. Players from Manitoba's three sterling representatives — St. John's, Winnipegs and University of Manitoba — would be picked according to a plan propounded by Bob Priestly, former Manitoba Varsity coach and secretary of the Manitoba Rugby Football Union, at the annual meeting of the organization. Priestly, with three others, was named to form a committee to bring in a report on the idea.

The city would continue to have its senior league with three teams operating, but the winning squad would not represent the province in the Western Canada playdowns.

Early reports indicate that the titled St. John's may lose their backfield mainspring before another campaign opens. Eddie James, who came to the Saint from Regina just a year ago, after leading Roughriders into the Dominion finals, again may line up with the Ritchiemen at the Saskatchewan capital. James, one of the best plungers in the country, would leave the Saints with only one consistent ground-gainer.

Little Tommy Mobberley, veteran mite, who with James formed a menacing threat to opposing defence bulwarks a year ago, is likely to coach St. John's and hobble along in his own slippery way, alone. The slim broken-field expert will be supported by Alf McLoughlin, Leon Tessler and probably a couple of youngsters from Native Sons, junior team that went to the Canadian junior finals last year.

The Varsity squad is expected to be stronger, and burly Dan Kennedy, hefty lineman and forward-passer, again may line up with Winnipegs.

But Winnipeg probably will look to all three teams for play-down material.

Lipton Likely Member Royal Yacht Squadron

LONDON, May 5 (A.P.) — Sir Thomas Lipton, merchant and sportsman, is expected to be elected Thursday to membership in the Royal Yacht Squadron, the most exclusive yacht club in the world. He will be 81 years old on May 10.

Sir Thomas might have been elected long ago, The London Express says, but his name could not be submitted until he expressed the wish. Membership confers the right to fly the Royal Naval ensign, a privilege restricted to the squadron.

Sir Thomas is the owner of Shamrock V., latest of a long succession of challengers for the America Cup.

CLARK ALTHOUGH HAVING 12 STRIKEOUTS IS HIT FREELY

Losers Hold King George Score Down By Clever Fielding Display.

WILLIAMSON EFFECTIVE.

With the weather just right, and before a fair-sized crowd, King Edward School walloped the Queen Alex team 17-0 in a public School League fixture at the Oval last night. The losers had very little chance of doing anything after the third innings, though they threatened two or three times. Clark, pitching for Queen Alex, had twelve strikeouts to his credit, five of them in the first two frames, but he was also hit freely, and lacked the best of support.

King Edward got two in the first, but were blanked in the second. They came right back in the third and crossed the platter five times. Two more in the fourth, one in the fifth, a brace in the sixth and another five in the last gave them their lopsided win. Several innings, the losers had runners on and in a position to score, but lacked the punch. They collected seven hits off Fife, a left-hander. Eight errors came mostly through the last four innings.

The winners played errorless ball and helped themselves to 13 hits, despite the number struck out by Clark. Boyler, on the southend team, had the fielding feature of the day, with a circus catch in the fifth.

The teams:

King Edward: Heal, ss; Mowry, c; Hall, lf; Patterson, lf; Dunkley, 3b; Jobe, cf; Boyler, cf; Todd, 1b; Field, rf; Fife, p; Watson, 2b.

Queen Alex—Clark, p; Ross, c; Ash, 1b; Morrow, 2b; Heard, ss; Elliott, 3b; Dorrington, rf; Bradley, lf; Dainton, cf.

CENTRAL BEATEN BY 12-4 COUNT

Losers Fail to Take Advantage of Opportunities to Score With Runners on Paths.

KING EDWARD VICTORS.

In a Public School League fixture played on the Central grounds last evening, a hard hitting King George team handed the small but game Central squad a 12—4 setback and kept their unbeaten record intact for the season.

The East City boys had quite a size advantage over their rivals and hit the ball with a vengeance, but the Central outfit made up for this with a clever fielding display and many seemingly sure base clouts did not register due to nice work in the field by the homsters.

Fair, at shortstop for the home squad, beside accounting for two of his team's tallies, picked up everything that came his way and together with Wright on first, showed smart defensive form.

For the visitors, Burton was the heavy slugger of the day with four hits in as many attempts and crossed the plate three times. The entire squad hit the ball hard, but in only one inning did they tally more than twice. This occurred in the fourth when they went on a batting spree to tally five markers on six hits.

It was this frame that spelled defeat for the gallant little Central nine, but they pulled themselves together, allowed the opposition only two runs for the remainder of the game and their hurler fanned the entire side in the final frame, pitching to only three batters.

There was little to choose between the moundsmen, but Williamson of King George was more effective in the early stages, getting his team off to a good start. However, he was found for hits later on, but with fair support he kept the opposition from endangering his lead.

Wiley pitched a nice game for Central, despite the fact that his rivals chalked up five tallies in the fourth, striking out eight to Williamson's ten and walking only two. He was hit hard in the early innings, but after the disastrous fourth he steadied down and six of his eight strike-outs were registered in the last three frames.

King George got off to a nice start when they tallied twice in the first frame and kept their opposition off the score sheet, but till the fateful fourth it was a nip and tuck battle and when the visitors started on their rampage, they were leading 5—2 but by no means were outclassing their opponents.

The seventh frame produced some of the nicest ball of the day, when Babe Wiley started breezing them in and fanned Ellis, Howland and Hill in succession. In their final stand, the some team caused a lot of excitment when Wiley opened with a double but was called out when he tried for an extra base. Fair continued the assault with another solid smash but Ascott fell a victim to Williamson's slants. Wardie Wright, batting in the clean-up position, poled a beautiful three-bagger out to centre field, scoring Fair and with a fine chance for another tally, Marshall grounded to Worboy and was thrown out at first.

The teams:—

King George.—Hill, c; Lipsett, 1b; Williamson, p; Burton, lf; Worboy, 2b; Anderson, ss; Loesher, rf; Ellis, 3b; Howland, cf.

Central.—Wiley, p; Fair, ss; Ascott, 3b; Wright, 1b; Marshall, c; Copperthwaite, lf; McGinnis, rf; Doherty, cf; MacLelland, 2b.

Score by innings:—

| | | R. |
|---|---|---|
| King George | .....2126110 | 12 |
| Central | .....0110011 | 4 |

Strick Out—By Williamson, 10; by Wiley, 8. Walked—By Williamson, 2; by Wiley, 2.

Edmonton Overwhelms Chicago 189 To 57

EDMONTON, Alta., May 5. (CP)—Giving the greatest display of shooting ever seen on an Edmonton floor, Commercial Grads girls' basketball team overwhelmed Chicago Cardinals by the score of 109 to 24 in the second of a two game series last night.

Grads, recently deprived of the Dominion title by an edict of president Samuel Rogers of the Canadian Basketball Association, ran wild through the bewildered ranks of the Chicagoans and scored practically at will.

The Edmonton girls won the first game of the series last Saturday night by 80 to 33 and took the round by 189 to 57.

CASUAL COMMENTS

The lacrosse fiends are at it again tonight down at the Exhibition Grounds. Starts at six and finishes tonight. Another big turnout is looked for, regardless of the weather. What care they for a little thing like rain who play that ancient game?

• • • • • • •

Several oldtime players, including Bill Meagher, were down watching the boys Saturday afternoon, and they all thought Peterborough had the material for a darned good lacrosse team this year

• • • • • • •

Jack Creighton, who is coaching them along, thinks there are a number of lacrosse sticks hanging idle in attics that might be put to use. If the owners are not going to be using them, perhaps they might lend them to Jack, as he is short several.

• • • • • • •

If any of those fellows want to help revive the game here by giving him their sticks for the summer, it will be greatly appreciated. They can get in touch with him directly or through The Examiner.

• • • • • • •

The big lacrosse meeting is being held at Duffus' at eight bells tomorrow night, and everyone is invited. Considerable business will have to be gone through at this time, including the election of officers.

• • • • • • •

A few words from men like R. Glover, C. Graham, W. Meagher, E. Dillon, L. McCoy, J. McKone, and others would be appreciated by the fellows. These are some of the men who made Peterborough well known as a lacrosse town in other years. And now it looks like a come-back.

• • • • • • •

The C. G. E. Girls' Softball team worked out last night at King Edward Park, and they look like a classy outfit. The new jerseys they have ordered will be a royal blue and grey in color with a fancy C. G. E. monogram on the front.

• • • • • • •

Everything is set for the big opening of the Men's City Softball League next Monday evening. Sugar Bowl and Westclox will pry off the lid at 6:15 at the Central School grounds, and there'll be the usual opening day ceremonies.

• • • • • • •

Despite some pretty fair pitching by Clark, Queen Alex school didn't have a chance against the heavy-hitting King Edward bunch. They were shut out, although they nearly broke into the run column on several occasions. The game was run off in a hurry, and fans and players were home in time for the first table.

• • • • • • •

The Examiner Men's No. 2 bowling team looked pretty good about eight o'clock last night when they piled up 3670 score to move into top place in the Annual 5-Pin Handicap Tournament at Duffus'.

• • • • • • •

With the dropping out of the senior entry in the C.O.B.L., fans all over town are expressing regret that faster ball is a thing of the past in Peterborough.

• • • • • • •

That there are still a number of hopeful ball players around is proven by the fact that half of the prospective seniors are refusing to sign with any intermediate outfit until they are absolutely certain that the bigger league team is all washed up.

• • • • • • •

When Bob Elliott arrives here, as he likely will, to try to right the situation, something may be accomplished. There may be some one willing enough and strong enough to organize a real senior team. It's just possible, even if it isn't very probable.

MEN'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE WILL USE CENTRAL SCHOOL GROUNDS

Westclox to Meet Sugar Bowl in Opening Fixture Next Monday Night.

IMPROVE FIELDING FIELD.

Five teams will play four nights a week on the improved diamond at the Central School grounds this summer, with the schedule commencing next Monday evening, when Westclox meets the Sugar Bowl team. This was decided at last nights' meeting of the Men's City Softball League, held in Duffus'.

The teams entered in this league are: Westclox, The Examiner, Dominion Woollens, Sugar Bowl and All Saints' Club. The two teams opening the schedule are the only ones remaining from last year's league, the other three being newcomers this summer.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, and the first question decided upon was the adoption of Central School grounds for all league games. The East City bowl, which had been under consideration, was passed over as being too small for men's softball, while just right for the Girls' Softball League. It was also decided to have some man, one who has been out of work, spend a couple of days fixing the diamond up before the games started. A new screen will be put up, and probably benches installed for the players.

The schedule will be drawn up by the executive within a week, and a double-header will be arranged for Monday, May 25th, in the afternoon. One team may be sent to the softball tournament in Lindsay on this date, though that has not been definitely decided.

The teams which have dropped out this year are the Imperial Oil Company and the Brintons.

Opening day ceremonies are left to the secretary. It is likely that three prominent men connected with softball in Peterborough, will be invited to open the schedule on the 11th.

All games will start at 6.15 in the evenings until daylight saving goes into effect, when games will begin at 6.30. The four days in the week which will be used are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Postponed games may be played on Friday night.

A number of minor matters came in for discussion, and when these were settled, President Fred Scates adjourned the meeting.

SOCCER SCHEDULE TO BE SUBMITTED

No Open Date Permitted—New Players Sign—Other Notes of Interest.

Many technical points were raised at the meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association, last evening, when the schedule committee submitted a proposed scheme to include league and cup tie games for the whole season.

Some of the clubs asked permission to have certain dates fixed so that they would correspond with the programs of the clubs. Finally, after many heated debates, a motion as follows was carried unanimously: "That no open dates be permitted any club and that the committee appointed by the Board go ahead and draw up the schedule for the coming season." Of course, let it be understood that any club representative can ask the board's permission to arrange another date to suit the two clubs taking part.

At present the submitted schedule has a match for every Tuesday night, Thursday night and Saturday afternoon, commencing on an early date in the month of May. The cup competitions will be mixed throughout the league games. Holloway trophy comes first which is for injured players.

The committee will submit the draft of the games for approval at the next meeting.

Game Saturday

The match for Saturday will be a league tussle between the Brinton Athletic and the Canadian General on the Brinton ground. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Linesmen to be chosen by the clubs. Referee Jack C. Russell. A line must be placed across the goal-mouth and the Brinton have permission to use the nets.

Referees Meet Next Monday

Arrangements were made to have referees present at the meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, next Monday evening, for the purpose of getting acquainted with the full knowledge of all the practical points that should harmonize in all encounters.

Canadian Packing will practice on Tuesday nights; Caledonians on Wednesday nights; Canadian General on Thursday evenings on King Edward Park. Clubs please note arrangements.

Players Registered

Official notification of registration of players were given as follows: Canadian General, Ben McMaster, J. McMaster and R. Cordery. Canadian Packing—Asa Downer, A. Robers, A. Frick and Newt Downer. Caledonians, Alexander Burgess, William Robb, Joe E. Campbell and George Clark.

The Scots committee desire that no player request them to sign them on because they have all the players they require. "We have not asked a player to sign for us. They all have approached our committee themselves," remarked the club representative.

British Ryder Cup Team Is Selected

LONDON, May 5 (C.P.)—Seven of the ten golfers who will defend the Ryder Cup in the matches against the United States at Columbus, in June, to-day were selected by the British Professional Golfers' Association.

The list is headed by Captain Charles Whitcombe, selected some time ago; Archie Compton, H. C. Jolly, Abe Mitchell, Fred Robson, Ernest Whitcombe, brother of Charles; and W. H. Davies of Wallasey.

SOCCER NOTES

Albert Frick, who played in goal for the C.P.C. on Saturday, participated in the soccer code a few years ago as G.W.V.A. custodian. Previous to that he was in the DeLaval championship team of the local junior league. He gave a brilliant display in goal.

The credit for being the greatest optimist in the city goes to Tommy Craig of the Caleys. He was very emphatic in his tone that his teammates would win the league championship. "Of course," replied his companion, "that's provided the other team lets you. What and see."

There were two Canadian boys in the goal scoring list on Saturday, Dick Evans, the son of the well-known Dick Evans who played goal for many seasons, scored the first counter. The second being snapped by Newt. Downer. Art Bromley registering his first goal in local soccer.

THE GREAT TRAGEDY
(By Thornton W. Burgess.)

In many minds there is no good
In things that are not understood.
—Old Mother Nature.

Something dreadful had happened to Farmer Brown's Boy and to Flip the Terrier. Yes, sir, something dreadful had happened to them. Johnny Chuck, peeping from his doorway not far off, had seen it. Peter Rabbit, looking out from the dear old Briar-patch, had seen it. Sammy Jay, looking down from the top of a tall pine tree on the edge of the Green Forest, had seen it. Winsome Bluebird, perched on a fence post on the Green Meadows, had seen it. Scrapper the Kingbird, sitting on the topmost twig of an apple tree on the edge of the Old Orchard so as to overlook the Green Meadows, had seen it. So had several others. They had seen Farmer Brown's Boy and Flip the Terrier carried away by the great man-bird. Yes, sir, they had seen just that. And when the great man-bird had disappeared beyond the Purple Hills they had seen Mother Brown wiping her eyes and Farmer Brown looking very serious, and Bowser the Hound, with his head and tail hanging, go slowly up the Long Lane to the house. Of course, something dreadful had happened to Farmer Brown's Boy and Flip the Terrier.

It didn't take long for the news to go all through the Green Forest and the Old Orchard and all over the Green Meadows and the Old Pasture. It was known at the Smiling Pool, up and down the Laughing Brook, and even along the Big River. It was considered a great tragedy, which is, as you know, something awful that has happened.

"I knew that man-bird was after some one when I first saw it," declared Johnny Chuck, "and I took care to keep out of sight while it was about. I don't mind its taking that dog, for he was a noisy nuisance, but all of us are going to miss Farmer Brown's Boy. He was our best friend."

"That is true," said Peter Rabbit with a sigh. "Do you suppose that man-bird has eaten him?"

"What would it carry him away for if not to eat?" demanded Johnny Chuck.

Peter had no answer for that. He knew of no member of the Hawk family that carried folks away for any purpose excepting to eat, and certainly this great man-bird had carried Farmer Brown's Boy away. There wasn't a bit of doubt about it.

"I dont' suppose we'll ever see him again," said Peter mournfully.

"Why not?" demanded a squeaky voice. It was the voice of Danny Meadow Mouse. "Didn't that man-bird take me away once and bring me back again?"

Peter looked at Johnny Chuck and Johnny looked at Peter. Both suddenly remembered that once Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse had been carried away by the man-bird, yet both were back living on the Green Meadows now. That was the time the airplane had been left on the Green Meadows for several days and Danny and Nanny had climbed up in it and made a nest in a little cupboard and then been carried away.

"So you don't think that man-bird will eat him?" ventured Peter.

"Certainly not," squeaked Danny. "It doesn't eat anybody."

Johnny Chuck looked unconvinced. Farmer Brown's Boy and Flip the Terrier had been carried away by that great man-bird and no one could make Johnny believe that it was for any good purpose or that no harm would come to them. A lot of the other people in the Old Orchard and the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows felt the same way. It was something they couldn't understand and so they thought the worst possible of it. Most people are that way.

In the mean time Farmer Brown's Boy was having his first ride in the air, and a most excited boy he was. You see, Cousin Tom was going way to the Pacific Coast before they returned, making many stops on the way, and Farmer Brown's Boy was thinking of the wonderful new scenes ahead of him. As for Flip, he was very quiet. He was afraid. The noise frightened him, and the strangeness of it. So Flip was very quiet.

ROTARIANS HEAR DISTRICT REPORT

President Carr and Secretary Dolman Report on District Convention.

FELLOWSHIP STRESSED.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The weekly luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club held on Monday in the St. Lawrence Hotel was featured by the presentation of reports of the District Convention held last week at Niagara Falls, U.S.A., by the two delegates attending from the local club, H. N. Carr and E. C. Dolman. President Carr occupied the chair for the meeting.

Mr. Dolman in speaking of the general impression received from the convention as a whole stressed the spirit of genuine friendship and the good feeling of fellowship that was evidenced. He was impressed, he said by the fact that all the speakers and leaders in Rotary were not backward in using Nazareen when giving examples of every day life.

Fellowship Stressed

He also spoke of the special sessions held on the Monday afternoon, each of these dealing with specific phases of Rotary. Fellowship was stressed as the prime motive inducing men to join Rotary. Of classification, it was stated that there were 60 major classifications in Rotary as a whole and 1,900 sub-divisions. Attendance was emphasized as being the keynote of fellowship, while one speaker declared that in fellowship, the shaking of hands was not necessarily an indication of this, but the spirit that lay behind the action.

Rotary education was also a point that was enlarged upon, this applying to new members. One way of doing this was through the weekly letter, which was termed as one of the finest sources of information to the club as a whole.

President Carr's report dealt with some of the business angles of Rotary. It had been hard hit during the past year he stated, yet as a whole, taking in all countries, growth was shown. Five new countries had been added to the organization, making a total of 65 in all. Throughout the movement, 84 new clubs had been added, 14 of which were in North America.

The speaker pointed out that six clubs had handed in their charters, but stated that three of these charters had been laid on the table for the past three years before action was taken. The income of Rotary International during the past year, Mr. Carr said was $700,000. The growth of the movement had been steady since 1913, but the past year had felt the world-wide depression. On this continent membership had not advanced as it should, but abroad increases were registered.

Quoting from an address on boys work given by Clint Anderson, Mr. Carr stated that the speaker had applied the journalists questions to the work, who, where, when and how. Who, you and every member of Rotary; when, between the ages of 14 and 16 boys work was most effective; where, among all classes and not only under privileged children; why, to save good material and how, by getting the interest of children and diverting it along channels that would keep them employed. He also emphasized the fact that interest gained should be retained, as it was a great factor in training the youth of the community.

SYNOD DESIRES PROBE OF CRIME

Church of England in Diocese of Niagara Will Send Resolution to Governor General.

REMEDIES NEEDED BADLY.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 5.—An increase in the number of serious crimes being committed in Canada is viewed with alarm by the authorities of the Church of England in the Diocese of Niagara, and the Synod at its meeting next week will be asked to consider a resolution calling upon the Governor-General to appoint a Royal Commission to go into the whole question of crime in Canada.

The resolution to be submitted is as follows: "Be it resolved that the Synod of the Diocese of Niagara does hereby memorialize His Excellency the Governor-in-Council to make such investigation by Royal Commission or otherwise, into the matter of crime, its causes and remedies, present and possible methods of dealing with persons accused of crime and of persons convicted thereof, for the purpose of creating legislation, institutions and organizations necessary for dealing with crime and criminals in an efficient and scientific manner."

Reasons for the resolution being placed upon the agenda are given as an increasing number of convictions in the Dominion, the imposing of severe and long prison sentences; flogging; that no scientific system of segregating prisoners according to age and nature of the crime committed is in force; that no modern method of reclamation exists except in a few of the penal institutions. It is pointed out that a similar inquiry in Great Britain brought satisfactory results and urged that an investigation of like nature would be beneficial in Canada.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 56 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Once enlisted in the adventure, the baboons became quite enthusiastic about it. They set off with Korak immediately. They traveled swiftly, but the ape-man found no difficulty in keeping up with them. They made a tremendous racket as they passed through the jungle, to let their enemies think a great herd was approaching. For when the baboons go in large numbers there is no jungle creature who cares to molest them.

For two days the party raced through the savage country. Korak and the king baboon were in lead. Mid-afternoon they reached Kovudoo's village, sunk in the quiet of the great equatorial sunheat. Utter silence reigned. Korak, creeping stealthily, entered a tree that overhung the palisade. The pack were close upon his heels. The time had come! Raising his face toward the sky, he gave voice to a single cry. It was the signal.

In response, a thousand hairy bulls leaped screaming and barking into the village of the terrified blacks. Warriors came out from every hut. Mother and children fled before the horrid horde pouring into the village street. Kovudoo marshalled his men about him. He leaped and yelled to arouse their courage, but sight of this white-skinned youth leading the vanguard of baboons.

For an instant they held their ground, hurling their spears at the advancing multitude; but before they could fit arrows to their bows they wavered, gave, and turned in terrified rout. Into their ranks, upon their backs, sinking strong fangs into the muscles of their necks, sprang the baboons and first among them, most ferocious and most terrible, was Korak, the Killer, son of Tarzan, his blind fury protecting him by its very ferocity.

CHARLES BOWKER IS HEARD

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the Moose Hall last night on the occasion of the regular monthly open night of Lodge 813 of the Loyal Order of Moose. The program consisted of motion pictures of Mooseheart and Moosehaven, followed by entertainment from Charles Bowker, English comedian, who is very good in that capacity. An address was given by Bro. Dr. H. J. Long, who was recently given the Fellowship Degree of the Order. The remainder of the evening was spent in bingo, games, and dancing, with refreshments put on by the entertainment committee.

A further call was answered at 6.30 p.m. for a chimney fire at 76 Monaghan road south. Chemicals were used to extinguish the fire.

A telegram was received by Gerald McFadden to-day of the death of his brother-in-law, Ray Kennedy, in Pinckney, Michigan, this morning. Mr. Kennedy was a brother of the late Mrs. Gerald McFadden, who passed away three years ago last December. The funeral will be held on Thursday.

BANQUET WINNERS OF HOBBY SHOW

Hobby Show Winners Guests at Banquet in Y.M.C.A. Last Night.

The winners of the various departments of the Boys' Hobby Show were banqueted last evening in the Y.M.C.A. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Hobby Show directors, with the president, Warren N. Turner, acting as chairman.

The shields were presented to the boys by J. C. McClenaghan who congratulated each on his industry and workmanship. He also thanked the directors of the Show for their untiring efforts in the promotion of such a praiseworthy enterprise. He spoke of the splendid display which was exhibited by Albert Hope, Manual Training instructor, through the courtesy of the Board of Education. Thanks were also extended to Bertha and Ann Edmondson, Muriel Wilson Katherine Hodgens and Joyce Harris, who assisted at the refreshment booth during the Show.

A motion was made that a letter of thanks should be sent to all the judges who assisted in the judging of the various exhibits. The secretary-treasurer, George A. Barnes, reported that although the number of entries did not exceed that of last year it was generally thought that quality of the exhibits far surpassed that of any previous year. The treasurer reported a surplus of $42.32 in his department.

Each of the departmental directors gave a report recommending to next year's executive some suggestions which were prompted by this years' show.

The winners of the various departments were as follows: Games, M. Swartz; Art, S. McKinley; Model Airplanes, G. Moffatt; Soap Sculpture, E. Edmondson; Manual Training, W. McPherson; Penmanship, A. Di Noble; Mechanical Drawing, W. Herd; Scoutcraft S. Hayes; Mechanical Models, W. Shoshenberg; Photography, Wib. Ward; Stamps, W. Turner; Coins, T. Craig; Miscellaneous Collections, G. McIntyre; Dog Show, M. Lucano; Grand Champion, S. Hayes.

PARLIAMENT COSTS CLIMB

Taxpayers in England are discussing the higher cost of Parliament this year. It costs $5,000 a day. Sunday and weekday, all the year round to pay members of Parliament their salaries of $2,000 a year, and to care for their first-class railway fares. Travelling expenses have gone up $33,000 this year, with a Socialist Government in office. The reason is that more Socialist M. P.'s live in or near their constituencies than members of other parties, and more week-end journeys are made. The total cost of salaries and travelling expenses of members of Parliament for the year is $1,829,810. Of this $210,500 is for traveling. Owing to the Imperial and India Conferences the cost of Government hospitality has risen from the original estimate of $180,000 to $235,000.

CHARMING MUSIC HEARD IN MARTHA

Opera is Best Known For Romantic and Melodic Character of Music.

PRESENTED FRIDAY.

"Martha," the opera which will be presented on Friday evening, May 8th, at the Grand Opera House, by the choir and Men's Association of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, is best known, perhaps, for the romantic and melodic character of its music, which is of that charming sort that is ever old and ever new. "'Tis the Last Rome of Summer" is probably the best known of its melodies, but the opera abounds in similar songs, duets and trios of a like attractive nature.

The story of the opera centres about the romance of Lady Harriet Durah, maid-of-honor to Queen Anne, and her suitors, her cousin, Sir Tristian Mickleford, and Lionel, the mysterious cavalier whose birth and ancestry are a secret.

Lady Harriet and her friend, Nancy, with Sir Tristan, go in disguise to the Fair at Richmond, and there, in a spirit of foolery, the girls bind themselves, in the usual English fair way, to farmers, to work as domestic servants. Finding that the bargain cannot be annulled, they go to the house of Plunkett, the wealthy farmer, who befriends Lionel, and there the two girls become attracted by the two men, who know nothing of the damsels' high estate.

Later, Harriet and Nancy, with Sir Tristan's help, escape, and Plunkett and Lionel pursue them, to find them with a hunting party of courtiers in a wood. Lionel tries to take Harriet away with him and she pretends that she does not know him and calls for help, declaring him insane. He is dragged off. But later, after presenting to the queen a ring that had been left with him, in childhood, he is recognized as the son of a noble who had withdrawn from court life. He is restored to his father's estates but cannot reconcile himself to the loss of Harriet, who once more appears in the dress of the servant which she wore at the Fair. However, in the final scene, everything ends happily and the tuneful opera draws to a close.

OBITUARY

MRS. B. R. HALL

HAVELOCK, May 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of Jeanette E. Wright Hall, wife of Bruce R. Hall, of Smith Falls, and second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, of Havelock, was held on Friday afternoon at three o'clock, with services at Knox Church, and interment in Maple Grove cemetery, and was attended by friends from far and near.

The deceased young woman, who was in her twenty-fifth year, was a nurse-in-training at Smith Falls General Hospital until one year ago, when she was married to Bruce R. Born in Havelock and educated at the local school, she was until her departure for the hospital at Smith Falls, one of the most popular of the young people, a member of Knox Presbyterian Church, and active in all church work.

The service at the church was conducted by Rev. Dr. Lennox, assisted by Rev. Hugh Brown, an old family friend. The text was taken from the first chapter of Ruth. Dr. Lennox in his oration, spoke words of consolation and hope to the bereaved husband, family and friends. ## Prisoner Enters Plea Of Guilty To Forgery Of a Marriage Certificate

Charged with forging a marriage certificate, John McDougall, of Lindsay, appeared before Police Magistrate Langley this morning and pleaded guilty. He was remanded until May 12 for sentence.

McDougall was arrested here on Monday afternoon by local police, who were on the look-out for him. He was living with Isabella Edwards in Lindsay, and on January 30 this year secured a regular marriage certificate. However, the wedding never took place, but McDougall forged a minister's name and names of witnesses, with other details.

First, police here believed that a bogus marriage had taken place, and, besides McDougall, were seeking the man who was supposed to have performed the ceremony. This assumption was based on the girl's repeated statement that a ceremony had been performed. When McDougall was arrested, the girl confessed that there never had been a ceremony and that she had known that the marriage certificate was a complete forgery.

DAY IS SPENT VERY QUIETLY AS KING RESTS

Reign Began With the Death of Edward VII on May 6, 1910.

CHURCH BELLS RING.

Occasion Observed Over Empire With Customary Gun Salutes.

WINDSOR, England, May 6 (C.P.). — The ringing of bells in the Royal Chapel and Windsor Church reminded the people that to-day was the 21st anniversary of the accession of the King.

The King, recuperating from a recent attack of bronchitis' spent the day quietly within Windsor Castle. With him was the Queen who has been his constant companion through an eventful reign, which began with the death of Edward VII. on May 6, 1910.

The Kings solicitude for his subjects has been recognized by high and low. They have demonstrated their affection on many occasions, notably when the Armistice was signed and after his recovery from a serious illness in 1928.

In London and in naval and military centres throughout the British Empire the occasion is being observed with the customary gun salutes to the Monarch.

Twits Premier Over Boosting of Tariff Against British Import.

MAIN PLEA IS FOR FARMERS.

Notices of Motion and Gov't Orders Before House To-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 6. —(CP)— Government notices of motion and Government orders were considered by the House of Commons today. A number of bills stand were called for second reading, while one to amend the Naturalization Act is in the committee stage, probabilities are that the House will take up this one, which is designed to remove certain anomalies. Its pricipal provision is that which would permit a woman who marries an alien to retain her Canadian nationality until such time as she renounces it. At present such a woman, in the eyes of the Canadian law, abandons her Canadian nationality on marrying an alien, but, as in the case of the United States, her husband's country does not always adopt her as a national.

Agriculture Amendment

Yesterday saw the House again debating the agriculture amendment which was moved last week by John Brown (Lib.-Lisgar). It stands as an amendment to the motion of the Prime Minister to resolve the House into Committee of supply. Primarily it is a motion of no confidence in the Government.

The House automatically goes into supply on Thursday, but, on other days utilized for Government business, the House informally asked to approve, and the asking presents opportunities for members to bring forward grievances before voting supply to His Majesty. Mr. Brown's grievance was that the administration had been remiss in its duties towards the farmers. His amendment has precipitated a debate in which have been ventilated all the ills from which the agricultural industry is suffering, together with much recrimination as to the fixing of responsibility.

Conservative speakers have blamed the former Liberal administration, to a certain extent, charging that the absence of protection has had a great deal to do with it. The Liberal Opposition point to the tariff

The wife, Mrs. Nora Mattox Carter, 38; two children, Martha, 9, and Mary, 6, and Miss Anne Jeffries, 65, were beaten to death with a hammer. Carter's death was due to a shotgun wound.

Mrs. Carter's skull was crushed and her body badly beaten. The children apparently were killed with one blow of the hammer. Miss Jeffries' face was crushed.

Last Tributes Paid To Calvin Lawrence

ST. THOMAS, Ont., May 6.—Hon. T. C. Norris, Commissioner, and George Spencer, Chief Operating Officer, are representing the Board of Railway Commissioners at the funeral this afternoon of Calvin Lawrence, member of the board, who died in Ottawa Monday.

The funeral was attended by many officials of Canadian and United States lines and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, while the honorary and acting pall bearers were local men with whom he had been associated in railway and civic capacity. Mr. Lawrence was Mayor of St. Thomas in 1905-1906.

RAISE IN SALARY GIVEN A. M. MOON

Board of Education Holds Regular Monthly Meeting in Collegiate Library.

TENDERS FOR FUEL.

With only one dissenting voice an immediate increase of $300 a year was made in the salary of A. M. Moon, shop director of the Peterborough Vocational School, and the maximum salary he can attain was jumped up to $4,600, including $600 for night classes, by the Board of Education at its regular monthly meeting last night.

Frank H. Dawson was the one member to oppose the increase. He maintained that the teachers' salaries were high enough and that he didn't think "the ratepayers would stand for any further increases."

Dr. R. G. Scott also spoke against the increase, but when it came to a vote he was for it.

The increase to Mr. Moon was included in a recommendation of the Advisory Vocational Committee and was sponsored by James Dutton, a member of that committee.

"That the salary of Mr. A. M. Moon, shop director, be increased to $3,500 per annum dating for May 1, and an annual increase of $100 dating from September 1 next, until a maximum of $4,000 is reached, and that he be paid the sum of $600 for his services in connection with the Night Classes conducted during he Spring and Fall terms" was the recommendation by the Advisory Vocational Committee as endorsed by the Board.

It is understood that the increase to Mr. Moon was caused by a bid for his services at a larger salary made recently by the St. Thomas Vocational School.

The Advisory Vocation Committee also recommended that R. G. Cornell,

Ministers Indicted for Flogging Man; Refused to Stay Sober—Family in Need

MENA, Ark., May 5.—(AP)—Two ministers were under indictment here today for flogging a man they accused of disregarding their warning to stay sober while the Red Cross fed his family last Winter.

Sheriff John E. Joplin says if they are convicted and fined he will raise the money to pay the fines.

"I think it was a Christian act,' he said.

The ministers, the Rev. Sid Wise and the Rev. P. R. Larimore, of the Apostolic faith, have not been arrested. Mr. Wise is in New Mexico holding a revival meeting, but said he would return to face the charge. Mr. Larimore is at liberty on his own recognizance. The ministers admitted the flogging, Sheriff Joplin said.

One Friday in April Mr. Wise accompanied Rails to Menia to get supplies for his family. The following Sunday Ralls went home intoxicated and abused his family, Sheriff Joplin said he was told, whereupon the clergymen went to the Ralls home and administered the whipping.

"Mr. Wise did the whipping with a big switch while Mr. Larimore looked on and saw it was well done," the sheriff said.

Large Eagle Attacks Five-Year-Old Child

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 6. —(CP)—Swooping down from the clouds a large eagle yesterday attempted to attack a five-year-old girl playing in a field at Manoa near here, and was shot and killed by the child's father, John Trout.

Dorothy, his daughter, was running about the field when the eagle appeared, circled about her and then darted toward her.

She ran screaming toward her mother and both called to Trout who ran from his home with a shotgun. The eagle was then closed to the child and poised for another plunge. Trout blazed away with both barrels and the bird was killed. It had a wing spread of seven feet.

ENGINEER DIES FROM INJURIES

Stratford Man Caught Between Couplings as Locomotive Backs Up.

INQUEST ORDERED.

STRATFORD, Ont., May 6. (CP)—Crushed between the couplings of two locomotives near the C.N.R. roundhouse here last night, Lewis Garbutt, engineer on the Stratford to Goderich run, sustained serious injuries from which he died in the General Hospital early to-day. Garbutt, who was 56 years of age, leaves a wife and four children. He was widely known and popular among his fellow railway men. R. Maxwell Fraser has ordered an inquest.

The fatality occurred while Garbutt was oiling his engine on what is known as the "out track" from the roundhouse, preparatory to starting out on his run to Goderich.

As Garbutt was passing behind his locomotive, the freight engine is believed to have backed up, locking him between the couplings.

His death marks the third railway fatality in the family circles in the last three years.

Mr. Garbutt was an uncle of Royal Todd, who was killed by a train at Atwood almost three years ago.

The second fatality was the death of Hugh Murphy, a brother-in-law, who died as a result of injuries received at the roundhouse eleven months ago.

Davis Hill And Wife Are Bailed For Trial

Davis Hill and his wife, Permila, were bailed for trial on a charge of setting fire to the barn of Russell Hill in Dummer Township last Tuesday.

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., counsel for Hill and his wife, consented to bailing for trial.

Only one witness, Russell Hill, Davis' brother, was heard in the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Langley. He told nothing of the fire except that he had rented the place, the old Hill homstead, to Davis, and on April 28 the barn was totally destroyed by fire.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., is conducting the prosecution.

COMPANY MUST AWAIT RESULTS OF RAILWAYS YEARLY EARNINGS BEFORE DIVIDEND RATE CAN BE SET

Claims Natural Shrinkage in Company's Earnings is Greatest in History.

COOPERATING WITH C.N.R.

Savings to be Made by Cut in Officials' Wages and Employee's Hours.

MONTREAL, Que., May 6. — The following statement was issued by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway following the meeting of the directors here this afternoon:

'In view of the fact that the prospective earnings of the company cannot be estimated with any degree of accuracy owing to the unusual conditions prevailing, the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company decided at their meeting to-day that instead of declaring the usual quarterly dividend at the rate of 2½ per cent., they will declare an interim dividend at this time of 1¾ per cent, and await the results of subsequent months' operations before finally deciding on the rate that will be paid for the full year.

Mr. Beatty after reviewing the economic conditions of Canada at large said that the natural shrinkage in the company's gross earnings had been greater than in any other period of its history. He said through careful surveys of operating methods and the ready and willing co-operation of officers and employees important economies had resulted in the maintenance of the company's position without impairment in all its activities. The company, Mr. Beatty remarked, was thus placed in a position to early profit by the return of general prosperity which he felt sure would not be overly long delayed. It was the intention of the company's directors to proceed with its steady, but, not spectacular, development as the progress of the country warranted.

The meeting re-elected the old Board of Directors who re-elected Mr. Beatty chairman and president and Grant Hall vice-president.

Dividends Met in 1930.

Mr. Beatty in his annual report referred to the fact the dividend last year had been met after economies had been effected and with the assistance of special income. He also dealt with the drop in revenues, those of 1930 being $28,830,150 less than in 1929. Working expenses in 1930 had been reduced by $23,884,206. The average number of employees, Mr. Beatty pointed out, had been decreased by only 5.95 per cent. as compared with 1929, and 8.01 per cent. compared with 1928, a year of prosperity.

Mr. Beatty said the results of operations for the first three months of this year again reflect the prevailing trade conditions, the decrease in gross earnings being $5,919,869, and in net earnings $943,308 under those of 1930. The decrease in freight earnings in the same period was 11 per cent. and in passenger earnings 30 per cent. Expense had been lessened by $11,658,853 per month.

Further reductions as from May 1 would be effected by the shortening of the hours worked by employees which would effect a saving of from 10 to 11 per cent. A similar reduction was being made in directors' remuneration and the salaries of president, vice-presidents and all general district divisional and departmental officers.

Mr. Beatty emphasized the growing influence upon railway earnings of bus and truck competition, the former having already made substantial inroads on the company's receipts and the latter increasingly encroaching on freight earnings. Methods to offset the competition, which Mr. Beatty described as "unfair," were being studied in the hope that measures may be evolved which will permit of a fairer allocation of traffic and prevent further reduction in the company's gross revenues.

Two Roads Co-operating

The President said that the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National were co-operating to eliminate wasteful forms of competition. Substantial economies had been effected through reduction in passenger train service without seriously affecting the legitimate requirements of the people in the communities served.

Mr. Beatty announced that while a site for a hotel in London had been secured work of construction would have to be deferred until conditions were more favorable.

The shareholders in adopting the annual report ratified the issue of $50,000,000 new capital when conditions for such an issue were suitable.

Six United States citizens, active in service to scouting, also received the award.

ROBES ARE GIVEN TO THREE JUDGES

Toronto Bar Association Makes Presentation to Cuyahoga Officials.

HISTORY TRACED.

CLEVELAND, O., May 6.—For the first time in history here, the three Judges of Cuyahoga County Court of Appeals to-day possessed black silk robes to wear on the bench as a gift of the Toronto Bar Association.

The robes were presented by Justice John Foxbury Orde of the Ontario Appellate Court last night as symbols of the majesty of the law and tokens of International friendship. The presentation closed a banquet in celebration of "Toronto-Cleveland Lawyers' Day" and was made in the presence of Cleveland Bar Association members and 60 leading Canadian lawyers.

After Justice Orde traced the history of robes in British courts, Appellate Judge Willis Vicery, senior member of the court, accepted the gift. "I have always been in favor of the wearing of gowns because it separates the man from the office," Judge Vickery said. "Men may come and men may go, but the institution which the gown typifies will remain as long as the English law and the customs of "our English-speaking civilization endure."

PARKERS FINED IN POLICE COURT

Five Dollars Without Costs Handed Out for Illegal Parking.

ON CITY STREETS.

Two "parkers" were fined $5 apiece in police court this morning.

In placing the fines at $5 without costs Magistrate Langley said that it was merely because the campaign to keep the city's streets clear had just started. "If illegal parking continues the fines will go higher and costs will be added," he said.

The two convicted were Robert Knox and Lou Mendelson.

Both entered guilty pleas.

Chief Newhall said that both had been warned frequently and had proved nuisances. Mendelson, he said, had made a regular stand for his car on the east of George street, while Knox had parked for more than an hour on the west side where no parking is allowed.

Toronto Sends Mayor On Bond Selling Trip

TORONTO, Ont., May 6 (C.P.). — Mayor William J. Stewart and Finance Commissioner Wilson will leave this city early in June on a trip to England where they will venture to interest British capital in the city of Toronto debentures.

POWER NEEDED REPLIES HYDRO TO HER CRITICS

Ottawa and St. Lawrence Sources Not Available to Time.

PRINCIPLE OF BECK.

Demand Was So Great Outside Power Had to be Purchased.

TORONTO, May 6.—Vigorous defense of its whole administrative policy including its purchase of power from private sources, its attitude on the proposed St. Lawrence development, and its practice of withholding, even under pressure, certain information respecting contracts and agreement affecting the interests of others, is laid down by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission in an official statement which it issued last night with a view to "removing the possibility of any misapprehension" which recent criticism of Hydro policy might have created in the public mind.

The Commission claims that purchase of power is no departure from the principles of Sir Adam Beck; states that Beauharnois and Maclaren power were purchased only after careful investigation, and of necessity; declares that it is not responsible for representations made by others in prospectuses or in the public press; maintains that at no time has it had sufficient authority to enable it to proceed with the development of Ontario's share of the St. Lawrence; and expresses the belief that, were its annual and other reports reviewed and studied, the "misleading statements" made by certain critics with regard to the Hydro policy would never be uttered.

Demand for Power

"In a word" says the Commission by way of "conclusion" to its lengthy argument, "what the Hydro-Electric Power Commission desires the citizens of Ontario to understand it that the demand for power based upon statistics of growth is from 75,000 to 100,000 horsepower per year. The only adequate sources of Hydro-Electric supply in the Province to meet the needs of the Great Niagara system are the St. Lawrence, the Niagara and the Ottawa Rivers. As we have seen, the St. Lawrence and Niagara possibilities have not yet become available, and the Ottawa at Chats Falls only recently became available for Ontario to proceed to develop, co-operatively, its power supply.

"Consequently, in view of the governing circumstances, it was absolutely necessary to ensure power supply for the municipalities from some other source.

"Faced, therefore, with the necessity of providing large amounts of power either from steam or by purchase outside the Province, the Commission decided to purchase Canadian hydro-electric power from the sister Province of Quebec. An appreciation of all the considerations involved, and the provisions that have been made for future power supply, will show that the Commission believes that it is not in the interests of the citizens of Ontario to try, as some have done, to implant in the public mind that the Commission's operations have been secret; that it has been remiss in its dealings with circumstances; that it has failed properly to provide for the power supplies of the future or that it has paid an unreasonable price for power.

"As in the case of earlier criticisms levelled against the Nipigon, Queenston- Chippawa and other operations of the Commission, it is believed that the future will amply demonstrate that the various actions which have more recently been taken will be found to have been in the best interests of the citizens of the Province."

WOULD REGULATE ALL SPECULATION

Claims System of Trading Has Little Effect on Price Farmer Receives.

GIVE VIEWS AT INQUIRY.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 6 (C.P.)—Regulation, rather than elimination, of grain futures speculation is favored by Dr. J. W. R. Duvel, chief of the Grain Futures Administration.

The whole system of speculative trading, often attacked as not in the best interests of the farmer and the consuming public, Dr. Duvel said to-day, appears to have little effect on the average price the farmer receives and the public pays.

He believes the farmer "breaks even," getting the advantage of high prices and suffering losses at low levels.

The question of futures trading was brought to the International Chamber of Commerce Congress yesterday through a resolution by traders defending their practice.

Dr. Duvel, who presented his views at the recent Royal Grain Commission's inquiry in Canada, said to-day he would support any efforts at the next session of Congress to place a limitation on this type of speculation. He favored the Casper-Dickinson Bill at the last Assembly which would have restrained futures sales by any one trader to 2,000 bushels daily.

DEBT QUESTION AND U.S. TARIFF ARE DISCUSSED

Would Curb Stock Gambling By Persons of Small Means.

'PLAIN CRAP-SHOOTING.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 6 (C.P.)—The controverted United States tariff and war debt questions came to the fore at the third plenary sessions yesterday of the International Chamber of Commerce, along with a demand for abolition of floor trading on United States exchanges and restriction of marginal dealings to curb stock gambling by persons of small means.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the Board of Chamber of Commerce of the United States who last week called for tariff revisions with a view to improving United States foreign trade, told the congress that business looked to the tariff commission for helpful readjustments in piece-meal fashion and that it would be "most unfortunate to repoen the tariff in the next session of congress."

Inter-Allied Debt

The 1,000 delegates from two score nations heard inter-allied debts mentioned for the first time, though very cautiously, in speeches by Sir Alan G. Anderson, a director of the Bank of England and Alberto Pirelli, Italian industrialist.

Sir Alan alluded to a warning against placing all international settlements on a cold basis and inquired whether it would not be better to cancel the war debts.

Pirelli said it was "certain that in Europe interallied debts had a depressing effect."

"Plain Crap-Shooting"

Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, said floor trading on exchanges was nothing more than "plain crap-shooting" and the sooner it was abolished the better.

Barnes, whose tariff remarks at Atlantic City last week were challenged by Republican leaders in congress and nailed by Democrats as bolstering their opposition to the Hawley-Smoot Act, amplified those remarks yesterday.

"American business," he said, "hopes that the administration of our tariff laws by the tariff commission will go a long way toward permanently taking the tariff out of politics. Business through the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for years has urged that the tariff be treated as an economic and not as a political issue.

'Gradual adjustments, either up or down, as may be necessary, through the agency of the tariff commission, do not have the unsettling effects that accompanies a general overhauling by congress.

Second Murder Laid To Francis Crowley

NEW YORK, N.Y., May 6. (CP)—Francis Crowley, sought for the murder of Brannen in Yonkers, N.Y., two weeks ago, was identified by police as the man who fatal; shot Patrolman Frederick Hirsch in Merrick, Long Island early to-day.

Hirsch, detectives said, was shot by a man, who instead of displaying his automobile license as requested, pulled out a gun and fired at the policeman. Fifteen minutes after the shooting police found Mary McCahill walking along the state highway. Police say she was Crowley's companion in the automobile.

The body of Virginia Brannen, dance hotel hostess formerly of Bangor, Me., was found in a hedge.

Major Cotton Joins Hunt For Courtauld

HULL, Eng., May 6 (A.P.)—Planning to aid in the rescue of Augustine Courtaul, marooned British explorer, Major Sidney Cotton was riding the waves to Reykjavik, Iceland, to-day in the steamer Dettifoss.

Major Cotton sailed last night and hopes to reach his destination by Sunday. He will take off in a plane equipped with long-distance wireless to scan the Greenland ice gap on which the young Britisher has spent many months gathering data for a projected England-Canada air route.

Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier, is expected to leave Angmagsalik, Greenland, as soon as the weather is favorable. He will use the plane in which he flew from Malmoe, Sweden, in four stages.

Taken as Warning Against Sale of Property to Negro Folk.

FIREMEN CALLED OUT.

Friends of Widow Who Owns Land Rush to Her Aid, Fearing Trouble.

ANCASTER, Ont., May 6 (C.P.)—A fiery cross blazing near this mountain hamlet last night has the village and surrounding country residents aroused to-day. The cross, Ku Klux Klan symbol of warning, was found blazing on property which is destined to have erected on it a home for aged colored people, it is said.

Constructed of saplings, 10 feet by 5 feet, wrapped in cloth and soaked in oil, the burning cross was seen for miles by startled residents. Firemen of the village were called to extinguish the flames.

Friends of Mrs. Michael Mackay, who is owner of the property on which the cross was found burning, hastened to her house, fearing further trouble.

For some months Mrs. Mackay has been trying to sell the property. She denies the property has been sold. Rumor, however, has it that a group of well-dressed, colored people seen in the village recently, not only purchased the property but also drew tentative plans for the home.

Police Commissioners of Ancaster have stated they are in possession of letters from Chicago, asserting the African Brotherhood of America is considering the erection of a home for colored children and aged colored folk.

Col. G. W. Clifford, one of the Commissioners, said the authorities were doing their best to stop the proposal and planned sending a delegation to Toronto to wait on the Provincial Secretary, Hon. Leopold Macaulay to see what can be done about the matter.

No theory can be offered as to who set the cross ablaze.

Crime Stories Blamed By Youthful Burglar

BELLEVILLE, May 6. — William McCartney, Scottish immigrant, who was arrested by Trenton police a week ago, appeared before Magistrate O'Rourke of Trenton yesterday, pleading guilty to breaking into the store of H. J. Madill, Frankford, also to carrying a concealed weapon, a sawed-off shotgun. He was sentenced to three months on each count to run concurrently, in the Ontario Reformatory. Crime stories were given as the reason for his criminal course.

JURORS RETURN MURDER VERDICT IN GOULET CASE

HEARING OPENS MONDAY.

Handwriting Expert Says Note Ostensibly Left by Mother Was Written By Lucia.

ROCKLAND, Ont., May 6. —(CP)—More than a score of witnesses gave testimony last night tending to prove Mrs. Josephine Goulet was murdered in her home here Friday. And through the whole coroner's inquest her daughter Lucia, charged with the crime sat unmoved. When the jury early this morning returned a murder verdict but failed to name her, the girl, seventeen and pretty, received the decision calmly.

Later she broke down when her father kissed her. "It's all right, they did not name me," she cried.

Rushed Out Back Door

Rushed from the courtroom through a back door to avoid a waiting crowd, she was hustled to the country jail at L'Original, from where she will be returned here next Monday for preliminary hearing. Should the case go beyond the police court stage she will be tried at the November assizes.

The young French-Canadian maid in an Ottawa home until a few days ago, rushed from her home Friday to tell neighbors she had found her mother dead on the kitchen floor. First considered suicide, the case later was put in the hands of provincial police and the girl's arrest followed Monday.

Opinion of a handwriting expert that a suicide note ostensibly left by the 54-year-old mother, was really written by the girl; production of blood-stained clothing belonging to Lucia and which witnesses said, she attempted to conceal; and testimony of an autopsist that more than 50 wounds marked the woman's body and that she could not have caused her own death, featured the hearing.

Evidence was also given that the girl, after her arrest, had stated she "did not know what she was doing for three days."

Not Mrs. Goulet's Writing.

F. D. Jacobs, Ottawa, Government handwriting expert, declared the suicide note was not in Mrs. Goulet's handwriting. In his opinion it was written by the girl. An attempt had been made to disguise the script.

"I am quite positive Mrs. Goulet did not commit suicide," Dr. E. R. Frankish, of Toronto, autopsist, told the jury. He based his statement on the fact the woman was stabbed in the back of the neck.

Identification of blood - stained clothing, found in an outhouse, as Lucia's, was made by her father and her sister, Mrs. F. Charbonneau. The latter also identified a blood-stained knife found in the Goulet home.

The accused girl showed no sign of nervousness at any time during the hearing. The evidence of her father in regard to her clothing attracted her interest, and she sat upright in her chair. She smiled at times during the testimony and chewed gum. Repeatedly she asked her counsel why her name was being mentioned so often. Remarking she was innocent of the crime, she told him she could not understanding "why all these people are connecting me with mother's death.

Radio Control Case In Courts Wednesday

OTTAWA, Ont., May 5. (CP) — Hearing of one of the most important and complicated cases affecting the relations between the Dominion of Canada and the Provinces begins before the Supreme Court of Canada to-morrow. It is the reference as to the jurisdiction of Parliament to regulate and control communication by radio.

Like all Canadian constitutional cases it hinges on the provisions of the British North America Act which set out the respective jurisdictions of the dominion and the provinces. But it will also embrace a consideration of highly involved technical matters such as the nature of radio waves and the uses to which radio put now or may be directed in the future.

The Soviets Begin To Take Partners

The Swedes and the Finns have shown a long-suffering patience in face of disastrous lumber competition from Russia. Prices have been slashed, markets cut.

Relief may be "just around the corner." The rumor is out in Helsingfors that Soviet authorities have thrown out feelers with the object of ascertaining whether Finland and Sweden would be willing to enter into an agreement regulating the timber trade. The proposal, if accepted, would include the fixing of prices.

This may mark a distinct turn in Soviet policy. Russia, up till now, has been selling such raw materials as timber at whatever price was necessary to underbid competition; has, for the moment, pushed lumber from Sweden and Finland into the background on the all-important British market.

American talking picture equipment is being installed in theatres in China.

MILITARY FORCES HOLDING TETUAN

Trouble Looms as Dissatisfied Moors Continue Crowding Into Town.

ONE RIOT QUELLED.

MADRID, May 6 (A.P.)—As a result of riots in which two persons were reported killed and a score wounded, military forces were believed to-day to be in control of Tetuan, Capital of Spanish Morocco.

Declaring a strike in protest against working conditions and wages, Moorish laborers engaged in a battle with Spanish soldiers on Monday. They assembled in the Tetuan Mosque yesterday and demanded the right to elect their own municipal officials, now appointed by the Government.

Great numbers of Moors are reported to be moving into the city from outlying districts and there is considerable dissension. Officials of the Moroccan Colonial Department here minimize the danger of the situation but their confidence is not shared in unofficial quarters.

ROYAL LOVERS TOURING EUROPE

Princess Ileana and Archduke Anton Inspect Graf Zeppelin.

TO WED IN JUNE.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 6.—(A.P.)—Princess Ileana and Archduke Anton of Austria, principals of a romance of the air, are visiting various place in Germany by airplane.

After the betrothal ceremony at Umkirch castle Monday night, they took off in the Archduke's plane from Friedrichshafen to view the Graf zeppelin. They plan other short trips in the next few days before Anton returns to Spain and Ileana goes to Venice with her mother, Queen Marie.

A mutual fascination for aviation is said to have been cupid's weapon in the case of Ileana and Anton. They met at Umkirch Castle at Easter time and improved their acquaintance by daily flights about the countryside.

A similar delight on both their parts for motor-cycling and skiing cemented the attachment.

The details of their scheduled marriage for June have not yet been worked out but it is expected the ceremony will bring a notable gathering of royalty and nobility here. Former King George of Greece and King Alexander of Jugoslavia, members of the Hapsburg family from all over Europe, and representatives of British royalty probably will attend.

Flaming Oil Gusher Sets Woods On Fire

GLADEWATER, Tex., May 6 (C.P.). — An incipient forest fire drew workmen to-day from the task of mastering a burning gusher which has killed nine men and destroyed oil statisticians estimated in value up to $200,000.

The flames spread to pine woods surrounding the scene as experts prepared to place nitro-glycerine to blow them out.

M. H. and Harry Kinley, of Tulsa, Okla., said they were ready to shoot the well as soon as the woods fire could be stopped. Tanks of fire smothering chemical foam were on hand and bronze tools were assigned to the workmen to prevent another disastrous spark in curbing the gusher. A spark set off the flow eight days ago, trapping the crew

HELPING THE UNEMPLOYED.

The Mayor's suggestion that Hunter Street should be paved from the Westclox plant to the Lift Lock as a means of providing work for the unemployed, was a happy solution of the problem of how the city could continue to give work to jobless citizens.

The city's drainage requirements were taken care of during the past winter.

Incidentally, the carrying out of that program made any extensive paving operations impossible for some months because the condition of the streets on which storm drains were laid is such as to make the laying of pavements unwise, in the opinion of the city engineer.

There was no other city work in sight, and yet the situation exists that there are still many men who have been unable to find employment.

Paving the strip suggested by Mayor Denne will provide a permanent road to the Lift Lock, the mecca of every visitor to Peterborough, and at the same time will make work for a good many of the unemployed under the relief plan by which the city will receive assistance from the Provincial Government.

It is good business all round, for it serves two most desirable ends.

MANY SEEK JOBS.

There was a long list in The Examiner's want ad. page last night of unemployed citizens who are at present out of work

The line-up will probably be longer in to-night's issue, but at all events enough have taken advantage of The Examiner's offer to publish these notices, free of charge, to show that there are many people in Peterborough without employment who are decidedly anxious to find something to do.

If citizens who have work to be carried out around their homes or places of business will scan over the list they will be able to find just the men they require, and The Examiner urges them to assist in bringing about more prosperous conditions by putting as many of these unemployed people at work as is possible.

There is a great deal of cleaning up and repair work needed, and if the desirability of enabling citizens who want jobs to find an opportunity to bring some money into the family purse impresses itself upon those who are financially able to provide work, the list of job-seekers now appearing in The Examiner should disappear before Saturday night as temporary employment is located.

These victims of the present economic conditions are asking for work, not for relief, and the more jobs that can be provided the better it will be for the morale of the workless themselves and the welfare of the community generally.

Look round your home; isn't there work there that could be turned over to a man who is without employment?

NOT WELL RECEIVED.

A few days ago F. L. Snell, a Sydney, N. S., bread manufacturer, caused a mild sensation by bringing forth a suggestion that in order to secure fair treatment for Nova Scotia the people of that Province should cease buying goods from Ontario.

Beyond securing a good deal of publicity for the proposer, nothing has been accomplished by the introduction of this boycott idea.

Certainly the people of Nova Scotia have shown no signs of being enthusiastically in favor of seeking to wage commercial warfare on Ontario.

For example, the Truro Daily News, after interviewing some of the prominent business men of that community, announces that "the consensus of opinion seemed to be that under present conditions it was economically unfeasable."

The replies of some of those called on by the Nova Scotia paper are interesting.

A jeweller declared that half his goods came from Ontario, and he could not very well manage without these goods.

"A boycott of Ontario goods," said the proprietor of a ladies' ready-to-wear store, "would mean that we would have to build up a demand for goods coming from other places. The Ontario goods are already established here."

A furniture dealer remarked, if he boycotted Ontario goods he might as well close his doors. "Why," he asked, "should one bite off his nose to spite his face?"

There was no need of a boycott, in the opinion of a boot and shoe merchant.

Others interviewed gave similar opinions, and Mr. Snell's policy, it is evident, has not sold itself to the people of Truro.

TRAINING CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

Hon. W. G. Martin's intimation to the two local service clubs that the time will come when there will be a school in Ontario for the training of crippled children, was gratifying to the members of Rotary and Kiwanis, who realize the boon such an institution would provide.

Already the Province provides schools for the education of the blind, the deaf and the mentally defective.
